Tree Lighting, Singing Spark Season's Start

Christmas comes to Winchester at 7 p.m tonight.

More than 3,000 white and colored lights strung throughout 22 trees on the common will sparkle into life to officially welcome the season.

Last year's ceremonies drew some 1,000 people. This year marks the third annual lighting ceremony, sponsored by the Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

The newly formed 30-member Winchester High School chorus also will perform, accompanied by a brass ensemble.

The musical groups will be under the direction of Mark Jacobs, Paul Davis and Herman Green of the Winchester music department.

Master of ceremonies Alan Macdonald will throw the switch to light the lights, coinciding with the arrival of Santa Claus on a fire truck, says chamber executive director Cathy Alexander.

The ceremonies and singing will be followed by refreshments and additional entertainment and special events at businesses in the downtown area. Stores will remain open until 9 p.m.

The town common will sparkle with 1,800 clear and 1,321 colored lights strung by town employees Tom Joslin and Kim Zerwekh.

The chamber pays for the lights, and coordinates decorating of the light poles, and inside the rotary. The town also decorates the tree in front of Town Hall.

The chamber also coordinates decoration of the light poles throughout the downtown area.

More than 130 light poles were decorated this year, said Alexander. Decorations were needed for 71 new light poles added in downtown renovations.

Additional donations for the new decorations are still being solicited, and may be sent to the Chamber office at 25 Waterfield rd.

Contributing to the lighting fund were Diann Lewis Ltd., Richard J. Donovan Inc., Cradock Apothecary, Nelson's Bakery, Stuart G. Pesin MD, Fresh Paint and Wallcovering, EnKa Society,

Town Is Ready For Annual Critter Chase

It's not shirts versus skins, or the Sachems versus the Tanners. It's feathers versus uniforms.

And Dick Tofuri, grounds supervisor foreman of the parks division for the Town's department of public works, jokes that he could sell bleacher seats for the annual gathering of the town's three dozen domestic ducks and geese.

A holding pen went up Tuesday near the duck feeder, and sometime this week, "We'll try to lure them in there and trap them," says Tofuri.

"The ones we can't catch, we chase in a boat," he says. "They get pretty leery of the cage after we catch them once."

The town will put food in the pen for a few days, "then we'll close the lid on them," says Tofuri. "We have a spot in the garage for them. We also have a fellow who will keep them for the winter for us."

The domestic fowl — white china geese, brown and white toulouse geese, and white peking ducks — are unable to fly south for the winter. Although they would survive the cold weather if they received food, Tofuri says ice is the real threat to their survival.

"When the ice freezes, they sit on the ice and get get stuck to the ice and they can't move," he says. And efforts to save the stuck birds might endanger anyone walking on ice too thin to hold a person's weight.

The town for years has wintered over its domestic birds. This year, the town will host 10 or 11 geese and two dozen ducks.

Wild ducks and geese wandering into the pen in search of food will be able to fly away, says Tofuri. The wild birds choose their own wintering spot, "here, Miami Beach, or wherever," says Tofuri.

The present fowl population does not include swans, although black and white swans have dotted the ponds in previous years, says Tofuri.

"We used to have white swans — we called them Aber and Jona — but they'd go after you. Then we used to have black swans. The Rotary donated a pair.

"They were nice, but very possessive. They would think the pond is theirs and spend the day chasing the geese around the pond."

The big chase on this week's agenda, however, is the one to round up stragglers.

"If we don't catch them in the first run, they end up in the Mystic Lakes. That's an adventure," Tofuri says. "We'd have to get Marlin Perkins."

Learning Language: Local Students Buck Nationwide Trend

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Students at Winchester High and McCall Junior High are bucking a nationwide trend and learning foreign languages.

Susan Austin, Winchester public schools language coordinator, told School Committee members recently that more than half the high school students — a whopping 87 percent — are enrolled in a foreign language.

Several students even take more than one language, she said.

At McCall Junior High, 67 percent are enrolled in either French or Spanish.

Nationwide, Austin said, only 19 percent of high school and junior students are enrolled in foreign language.

Although clearly pleased at Winchester's showing, Austin said, "I would like to see a broadening at the Junior High."

She added that parents are constantly asking for a wider variety of languages.

Cable TV Rates Climb 8 Percent In January

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Selectmen are disturbed about a hike Continental Cablevision says it will impose on Winchester residents next month.

The cable company claims an 8 percent overall increase, but basic service will go up nearly 15 percent.

Selectmen are complaining about their lack of control over the cable company as well as about the price increases.

At Monday night's meeting, Selectman Michael Saraco said, "I feel like a big dud." He said residents have called him recently to complain about their cable service.

"Don't call me — we don't have the authority," he said.

The Board of Selectmen agreed they would prefer to have more authority over operations of Continental Cablevision.

In September of 1981, the Board of Selectmen issued a 10-year license to Continental Cablevision.

Glenn Oakley, systems manager for Continental Cablevision, said only one other price increase has gone into effect since that time.

"I don't see the price increase as extremely unreasonable," he said.

According to Oakley, as of Jan. 1, three services will be affected.

The expanded basic service, now $10.50 a month will go up to $11.95.

The current charge for an additional outlet in a residence is $3.50 and will increase to $4.25. The Cinemax channel is now $7.25 a month and will be $7.95.

Oakley cited several reasons for the rate increase, including cost of increasing premium service channels and fees charged by program suppliers.

Many of the satellite services, originally free to the cable company, now charge fees, said Oakley.

According to Oakley, the average increase per subscriber will be 8 percent. A resident now paying $21.25 for all three services will pay $24.15.

Separate mailings will be sent out to all subscribers to inform them about January rate increases, Oakley said.

In compliance with the license, Oakley said it was mandatory to inform the Board of Selectmen 30 days before price changes occur, and Cablevision has, he said.

Chairman Alan Macdonald said, "we are the watchers of what goes on — the keepers of the record.

"We don't have the authority to set rates — we can only express our interest," Macdonald said, in response to Saraco's concern.

The Board's authority only lies in the decision whether to renew

Pastore Urges New Thinking In Talk To Honor Students

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Winchester's own Dr. John Pastore, recipient of the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize, Tuesday told 46 Winchester High School students that mankind's survival depends on a new manner of thinking.

Addressing students at a National Honors Society ceremony in the auditorium the High School, Pastore quoted from Albert Einstein: "We shall require a substantially new manner of thinking if mankind is to survive."

Pastore emphasized, "This is not a congratulations for what you've done so far, it's a responsibility, an encouragement to do more in the future."

He praised the students for bucking the trend of young people to conform.

After Pastore's speech, the four officers of the National Honor Society, president David Dellagrotte, vice president Scott Hughes, treasurer Pathik Shah, and secretary Diane Yamane participated in the traditional honors society candlelight ceremony.

Each officer spoke about scholarship, leadership, character and service, and lit four candles from the one

POLICE LOG

Monday, Dec. 2

At 11:28 a.m., a Burlington resident told police someone flattened four tires on his car and stole the license plate on Washington st., sometime between Nov. 28 and Dec. 2, police said.

At 11:36 a.m., the manager of the Sons of Italy, Swanton st., told police a bartender found a man in the downstairs of the building, at 11:30 p.m., Dec. 1. The man pushed the bartender and ran out the exit, police said. Due to the dark room, he could not give a description of the man. Nothing was stolen, according to the report.

Sunday, Dec. 1

At 5:01 p.m., police responded to a four- car accident on Cambridge st. at Star Market, that injured two people. A Boston man was traveling in his Chevrolet Cavalier, north on Cambridge st., was struck on the right side by a Medford man driving out of the entrance of the Star Market parking lot. Passengers in the Chevrolet complained of rib, neck and head pain and were taken to Choate Memorial Hospital. The other two cars involved received minor damage.

At 4:11 p.m., a Woodside rd. resident told police someone broke into his home between noon and 4 p.m. Entrance was gained by breaking a panel of glass in the kitchen door. Nothing was reported stolen, police said.

At 6:05 p.m., a Church st. resident told police someone stole a bicycle from the basement of her home, police said.

At 12:38 a.m., police charged an Arlington man with operating a Buick Century under the influence of intoxicating liquor and speeding.

Kenneth W. Hand, 18, was booked and taken to the Woburn Police Department. He was later bailed. Hand is scheduled to appear in court, Dec. 16.

At 2:20 a.m., on Lake ave. in Woburn, police issued a citation to a Woburn resident for driving an unregistered, uninsured blue Subaru.

At 2:35 a.m., a Malden man was charged with operating under the influence on Main st. at Richardson st.

Police said David A. Costa, 45, was driving sporadically. Police found an empty pint of Southern Comfort on the front seat, according to the report. He was later bailed. Costa's car was towed from the scene. Costa is scheduled to appear in court, Dec. 23.

Saturday, Nov. 30

At 12:06 a.m., police responded to a call from a resident complaining about a loud party on LLoyd st. Police dispersed a group of 50 youths.

Friday, Nov. 29

At 1:30 p.m., a Lockeland rd. resident reported her car stolen. Police issued her son a citation for operating the car in violation of the restrictions on his learner's permit.

At 11:30 a.m., police officer William Maggio was injured while on duty. Maggio slipped and fell in the area of Shore rd. and Winchester Place. Maggio damaged a nerve in his left hand.

Thursday, Nov. 28

At 2 p.m., police responded to a car accident on the corner of Mystic Valley Parkway and Washington st. Police issued a citation to a Winchester resident for failure to stop for red flashing lights, according to the report. The woman charged, suffered a cut on her head and was taken to Winchester Hospital by the Fire Department ambulance. Her car was towed from the scene, with damage done to the left side. The other car, driven by a Stoneham resident, had damage to the right front, and was also towed, police said.

Postal Service Urges Early Mailing

The Postal Service is cooperating with the business community of Winchester in urging customers to shop early and mail early for the holidays.

Officer-In-Charge Dennis M. Griffin asks holiday shoppers to mail early this year to make certain that mail is addressed correctly (including zip codes), and that packages are wrapped properly so that cards and parcels reach their destination in plenty of time for the holidays.

The following abbreviated rate list may be of some assistance: First Class mail- .22 cents for the first ounce, .17 cents for additional ounces. Domestic Post Cards- .14 cents. Foreign Air mail- .44 cents per ½ ounce up to 2 ounces, for Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. Foreign Post Cards- .33 cents. Caribbean & Central America- .39 cents per ½ ounce up to 2 ounces.

The key to successful mailing is to mail early and correctly. OIC Griffin says that includes planning now for gifts that must travel long distances by Christmas.

"Many overseas mailing dates, including the armed forces stationed overseas, occur this month. Mailers can get specific information by calling us here at 729-0389."

For those who do wait until the last minute to mail an important gift, we offer our premium product, Express Mail. For $10.75 a customer can mail a package weighing up to two pounds and have it arrive the next day."

"Customers should also take care to write legible zip coded addresses for both the sending and return address. The use of zip codes following the name or the particular city and state aids us tremendously in the processing of mail."

"Last year, our customers helped us a great deal. They mailed early in the season and early in the day. We hope they will choose to cooperate with us again this year, so we will both have an enjoyable holiday mailing season. Many thanks and happy holidays to all of the residents of Winchester from the Winchester Post Office."

Scouts Seek Support For Campaign

Girl Scout volunteers in Winchester are seeking community support to raise funds for Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council's Community Division goal of $5,000. Community Division volunteers are contacting Girl Scout families, friends and neighborhood businesspeople to organize Campaign support at the local level.

Mary Lou Eugley is the chairman of community division in Winchester. She is enthusiastic about the support already generated by Winchester residents.

"These are the people that know the quality of the Girl Scout program first hand," Eugley said. "Their support to our Community Division goal shows a commitment to our Winchester Girl Scout and to Girl Scouts of the future." In Winchester, more than 350 girls and adult volunteers are served by the Girl Scouts.

The $2.5 million Capital Campaign was launched in March, 1984 to raise money for camp restorations and renovations. Funds will be used to construct new tent units and program shelters, improve roads and trails and renovate camp buildings and Scout Houses at the Council's Massachusetts and New Hampshire properties.

Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council has surpassed the $2.3 million mark in their $2.5 million Capital Campaign. Funds have been raised from corporations, foundations, small businesses and Girl Scout families and friends in the greater Boston area. Dollars raised will be used to renovate and restore Council-operated camps and community centers in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

John Bacon, president of Boston Gas Co. and Judy George, founder president of Caio, Italia, are serving as general co-chairs of the $2.5 million drive. They anticipate strong support in upcoming months from both the business community and individual Girl Scout families.

"We're now at the home stretch of the campaign and our goal is well in sight," Bacon said. "We're relying on the generosity of every campaign supporter to help bring us over our campaign goal."

Judy George credits the success of the campaign to the hard work and dedication of campaign volunteers as well. "Our volunteers understand the importance of the Campaign for today's girls as well as for the girls of the future," she said. "Our volunteers are the foundation of the campaign, and should be applauded for their incredible support and enthusiasm."

Construction and renovation work is currently underway at several Council properties. Cedar Hill Outdoor Center in Waltham -- a primary recipient of Campaign funding -- is undergoing major renovation work at camp sites and program buildings. Additionally, renovation and repair work has begun at several local community centers on the South Shore.

The capital campaign is the first major fund-raising effort of its kind in the 70-year history of Girl Scouting in Massachusetts. Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council is the largest council in New England and serves more than 37,000 girls and adult volunteers in 65 cities and towns in the greater Boston area.

Sons Of Italy state president Charles Perenick attended a meeting with Archbishop Bernard Cardinal Law and ex-governor John Volpe. Law visited as part of his campaign to celebrate mass with various ethnic groups in the Boston area.

Friends Hear Talk On Glaucoma

Catherine Morris of Winchester, with 1,000 hours of volunteer service, and Jeanne Bernard of Reading with 1,500 hours, poured coffee for the large group of Friends who enjoyed the hospitality of Hannah Powell and her committee.

Followiong the coffee, Elaine Chipman, program chairman and vice president of the Friends, introduced the speaker, Dr. Paul A. Vernaglia, Winchester Hospital ophthalmologist, whose topic was "Cataracts and Glaucome--Surgical and Laser Treatment at Winchester Hospital."

Dr. Vernaglia received his undergraduate degree from Harvard College and his medical degree from New York Medical College, Valhalla, N.Y. He is a member of the staffs of both Boston University and Tufts University Medical Schools, and is a clinical instructor in ophthalmology at Tufts University.

All across the United States 50,000 people are newly and permanently blinded each year. Much of this new blindness was preventable or treatable. Glaucoma is the common cause of preventable blindness in the United States. Cataracts are the most common cause of treatable blindness.

Winchester Hospital offers the most current treatment modalities available for both glaucoma and cataract treatment. There are four ophthalmologists actively involved in patient care, each certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology and between them, they hold five positions at Boston teaching hospitals.

SHOULD YOU RENT YOUR HOME?

Some homeowners faced with the need to move may consider renting out their homes instead of selling. What you would be doing, in tax parlance, is converting your primary residence into a rental property. But a decision to convert your own residence to a rental property requires weighing some unique considerations.

For one thing, you'll be giving up the opportunity to defer taxes on the home when you sell it because the rollover feature on real estate profit applies only to a primary residence that is replaced with another primary residence. In contrast, when rental property is sold, you'll owe tax that year on any profit you make on the sale.

If you bought your present home prior to 1981, the depreciation effect would be less favorable. That's when a much faster writeoff schedule (ACRS) took effect. Taxwise, it makes more sense to sell your present home and use any excess cash for investment purposes.

Dr. Vernaglia continued his discussion with a definition of a cataract as an opacification of the lens within the eye, most commonly caused by advancing years. As there is no medical way to clean the lens, the cloud must be removed. The bulk of the cloudy lens (cataract) can be washed out of the eye with a sophisticated and expensive device.

Winchester Hospital has a foot-controlled microscope with two-man stereoscopic magnification, excellent opthalmic surgical instruments, and well trained hospital personnel

After the cataract is removed, a new artificial plastic lens is implanted into the space from which the cloudy lens was removed. Cataract surgery and lens implantation are now routinely performed as day surgery If laser treatment is later needed, this too is provided at Winchester Hospital through the use of the YAG laser, which comes to the hospital on a monthly rotation

Dr. Vernaglia went on to define glaucoma as many diseases, all of which have in common a pressure within the eye which is too high for the eye to withstand. This elevated pressure prevents small capillaries from adequately nourishing the optic nerve.

Vision is permanently and irretrievably lost, first in the periphery of the visual field and eventually all the way to the center. The ophthalmologist's goal is to find patients with glaucoma early in the course of their disease and stop further loss of vision.

Once glaucoma is diagnosed the patient is treated, usually with drops, but sometimes with surgery. The Argon laser is available on a monthly basis at Winchester Hospital

Watch For Unsafe Toys

Before Santa comes to town this holiday season, the National Society to Prevent Blindness — Massachusetts Affiliate hopes he will have crossed unsafe toys off the request lists Bay State children have sent him

According to the Society, based in Belmont, last year an estimated 5,035 children were treated in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries. More than 80 percent of them were under age 15.

"Toy injuries can be prevented," says Richard Hurley, President of the Massachusetts Affiliate. "However, the gifts that Santa — and parents — leave under the tree this holiday should be carefully selected."

The Society recommends that before making purchases, buyers inspect the toy and consider if it is appropriate for the child and his or her maturity level. "Toys purchased for one child often find their ways into the hands of younger, less adept children," Mr. Hurley says. "This can be especially hazardous."

•Avoid projectile items, such as guns that shoot darts or cork.

•Examine dolls, stuffed animals and other cuddly toys for rigid interior frames that can poke through outside coverings.

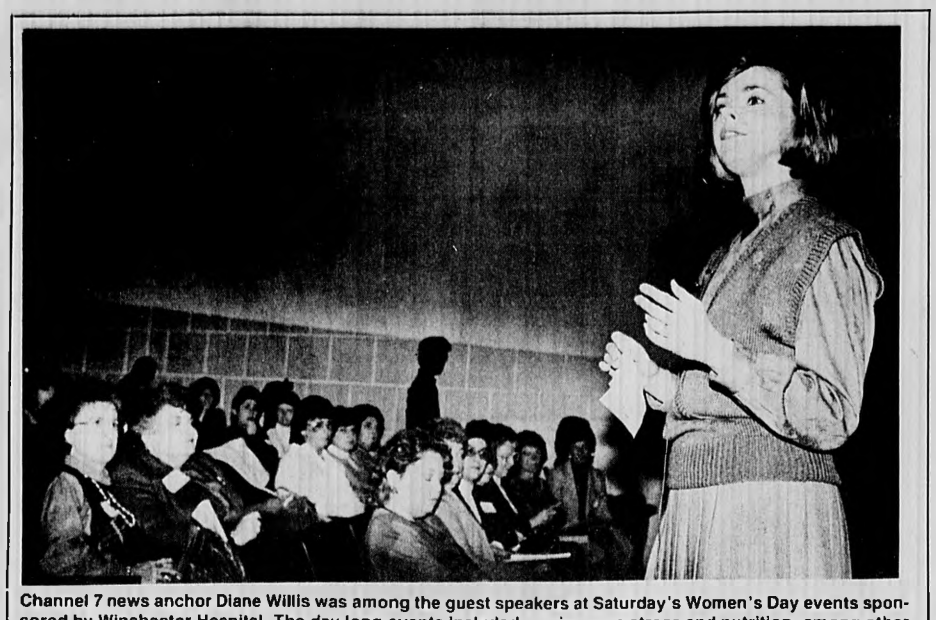
•Avoid toys that can shatter.

The Society is particularly concerned that parents and friends continue to purchase projectile non-toys for children. These include air and spring operated guns, slingshots, bows and arrows, and darts. Last year, these items resulted in approximately 3,600 people suffering eye injuries that required hospital emergency room treatment.

"This year, keep the holiday happy by only giving safe gifts and toys," says Mr. Hurley.

For further information on year-round children's eye safety, write for a copy of the Society's free brochure, "Play It Safe", to: National Society to Prevent Blindness — Massachusetts Affililate, 375 Concord ave., Belmont, Ma. 02178. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope with your request.

Founded in 1908, the National Society to Prevent Blindness is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education, and research. The Society is supported entirely by public contributions.



Channel 7 news anchor Diane Willis was among the guest speakers at Saturday's Women's Day events sponsored by Winchester Hospital. The day long events included seminars on stress and nutrition, among other topics.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

St. Eulalia's Choir is preparing for their upcoming concert trip to The Vatican in Rome.

Church Choir Plans Trip To The Vatican

The 44-member St. Eulalia's choir, including 15 Winchester residents, will give a series of concerts starting at 8:15 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 7 at the church, 50 Ridge st.

The concerts are in preparation for the group's concert trip to Rome. Vatican's Cardinal Sylvio Oddi heard St. Eulalia's Choir sing and invited the group to plan a trip to Rome.

At Saturday's concert they will sing sacred and secular songs with the Boston University Choral Union, under the joint direction of choir director Andy Smith and B.U.'s Terese Provenzano.

Admission to the concert is free and it will include ethnic folk songs and selections from Porgy and Bess, as well as choral pieces from Handel's Messiah.

At noon, Sunday, Dec. 15, the choir will take part in the Museum of Science's holiday concert series. The concert will feature Christmas carols and seasonal music in the museum lobby.

Organist for the choir is David Urrows of Cambridge, a doctoral candidate in music composition at Boston University, where he teaches several music courses. In addition to writing music, he is also a former assistant to composer Randall Thompson.

Art Gallery Exhibits In Dec.

The Winchester Art Association Gallery, 585a Main st., is featuring an all members holiday exhibit throughout the month of December.

There will be paintings, small gift items, crafts and other artistic offerings on display.

The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and on Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Other exhibits on view this month are paintings by Leda Sullivan at the Cambridgeport Bank and paintings by Gloria Giello at the Winchester Co-op Bank.

Local crafstwoman Pam Ivany gets some help from little Kelly as the two prepare teddy bears for the Parish of the Epiphany Fair this weekend, Dec. 6 and 7.

The Car Has A Mind Of Its Own

By TERRY MAROTTA

So my car is old and seedy-looking; this much I can live with.

Disdainful glances I'm used to by now, lurching around in the old blue boat, passing the cultured coupes and mannerly vans on life's highway. It's an elderly and dented thing, my car. It makes rude noises. It looks like it fought in the Ardennes.

I round a corner in it and twelve bottles on the floor of the back seat, waiting months now for redemption in a glassy afterlife, rattle like the bones of criminals denied decent burial.

Bulging trash bags, dump-bound, heave and shift with our movement like weighty corpses stashed in the trunk.

Still, as I say, I have made my peace with the old heap.

For like the little girl in the Exorcist, it seems, my old Buick has made a pact with the Dark side.

Like her, it has begun wetting on the rug; muttering imprecations and black medieval chants; throwing up on people, even.

Listen to this:

I take her for a small spin one rainy day last week. No big deal. Thrity miles into the country.

Something tells me, though, that she's planning a surprise for me. I tank up on gas and oil. I ask the man at the pumps to check the water.

"Water's fine," says he.

"Okey Dokey", says the fool behind the wheel. And off I drive.

Get up in the woods, now, and hear a fiendish sound. Open the hood and see the overflow tank: boiling like a witch's cauldron. No idiot lights announced this event. No pump-men foresaw it.

So we sit around, my car and I, deep in the weeping forests of November, trying to cool down.

We limp at length to a gas station. Pookity pookity, it sings on the way over.

"This car's not overheated," Pump-Man Two tells me. He opens the radiator. Fifty feet of water shoot straight up in the air.

The man screams. The car purrs.

This kind of thing happens all the time now.

Used to be, I took a firm hand with my vehicles, whacked'em upside the head now and then, like I do with my psychotic TV set.

But these days I'm afraid to. My car seems to be watching me now, wherever I move in a parking lot - like the way the eyes of dead and spooky ancestors in pictures seem to follow you around the room.

Don't know what it's planning for me next.

The FM band on its radio receives strange unearthly music from stations I can't even find outside of the car. The tape deck eats tapes - chews them, twirls them like strings of taffy, and spits them out again, tattered and undone. The AM band receives nothing at all, but hums and hisses eerily, sending messages, perhaps, to the Undead.

When it rain, it rains inside the car.

The door on the driver's side won't shut right any more. It flies open, in fact, while I'm doing 60 on the Interstate.

I think my car is trying to kill me.

I took it to the dump, finally, just this morning. Lifted the trunk to fetch out the fat bags of trash I know I packed neatly in there just three or four days ago.

The bags were torn open. Nibbled bones of small animals spilled forth. A dead mouse, still guillotined in his trap, reposed alongside them. And three cans of motor oil lay strewn over all, as if tossed there by the wanton intoxicated hand of that which had drunk their contents.

"Bad sign," I say to myself. "Heavy augury."

"Pookity hiss," says my car. "Pookity hiss."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Big Thanks To Students

TO THE EDITOR:

It may seem "old hat" to talk of Halloween the first week of December, but I think it is important to publicly thank the children of Winchester who collected for UNICEF at Halloween.

The final receipts are in and a total of $1186.31 was collected for needy children in developing and disaster-struck areas of the world.

Hats off to the students of Bartlett School who led with $402 and to those at Muraco who came in Second with $358.

A big thank you to Norine Casey at Bartlett, Eileen Schlorff, Muraco; Judy Bush, Vinson-Owen; Pam Meserve, Ambrose; Chris Murphy, Lynch, and Patsy Matsueda, Lincoln.

Sincerely,
Sandy Thompson

Scouts Cancel Western Night

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester Girl Scouts would like to thank all those who generously supported our recent fund raising effort on behalf of the Capital Campaign.

However, due to circumstances beyond our control we have to cancel the Adult Western Night Dec. 7, in Chidley Hall of the First Congregational Church.

Sincerely,
Mary Johnson

Reader Upset About Lack

TO THE EDITOR:

I am apalled by your failure to print two recent public service announcements concerning the intent of Winchester Child Care, Inc. to establish a summer day camp to complement and supplement existing town sponsored summer programs for children currently in grades K-6.

Your action has probably denied many Winchester residents the opportunity to apply for early registration for the program, which would give them priority for acceptance.

To make up for this lack of local publicity, the deadline for early application is being extended to Dec. 17, which is the day the parent board will meet to decide whether to proceed with the program.

Anyone wishing to learn more about the proposed summer day camp should contact me prior to that date.

Sincerely,
Kay Schodek, Chairperson
Publicity Committee

GUEST COLUMNS

Expert Calls For Credit Extension

BY SHARON M. POLLARD
Secretary of Energy Resources
Commonwealth of Massachusetts

The Massachusetts Residential Solar Tax Credit is due to expire at midnight on Dec. 31, 1985.

If this tax credit is not extended, Massachusetts stands to lose over 1000 solar related jobs and millions of solar related dollars.

Unlike many traditional forms of energy, solar is readily available to anyone with access to sunshine, and it is economically "clean".

Estimates have shown that the installation of a solar domestic hot water system may save the homeowner $300 a year in fuel bills.

Ever since 1979, Massachusetts residents who purchase solar energy systems for their homes have been able to deduct a substantial portion of the cost of that system from their tax bills.

Through a federal tax incentive--which is also due to expire on December 31, 1985--taxpayers can deduct 40 percent of the cost of a solar system installed on their principal residence, up to a maximum credit of $4,000.

After the federal tax credit is subtracted, Massachusetts taxpayers can claim an additional 35 percent state tax credit on the remaining cost of the solar energy system, up to a maximum of $1,000.

These tax credits helped to make solar energy an affordable alternative energy source for the Commonwealth's residents, and encouraged the development of a strong solar energy industry.

In addition, the use of solar energy systems have contributed to the Commonwealth's reduction of energy use from expensive, imported fossil fuels.

Several pieces of legislation are now pending in the Massachusetts State Senate that would extend the existing state tax credit.

One bill--S2336--would extend the credit for two years.

This legislation has the support of the Dukakis Administration's Executive Office of Energy Resources and the Legislature's Joint Committee on Energy.

Currently, over 87 percent of all Massachusetts energy consumed is imported from outside the Commonwealth, amounting to a net monetary loss of $7.9 billion a year from the state's economy and a reduction in the disposable income of Massachusetts families.

With the use of solar energy systems already in place, Massachusetts residents could bring $9 million back into their economy each year.

The State's Department of Revenue has projected that the existing residential solar credit will cost the Commonwealth $4.6 million in FY86.

Therefore, the cumulative annual savings in displaced fuel costs is already almost doubled the cost to the Commonwealth for the tax credit.

Afraid? Fear Is An Essential Emotion

By REV. LEE TRUMAN

Fear is an essential emotion. If any person were truly fearless, he would be dead before nightfall, no matter if he lived in a modern city or out in the wilderness. Just being a jaywalker tempts fate, providence and the odds.

The audience was questioning a lecturer who had just spoken on big game hunting in Africa.

"Is it true," asked one, "that wild beasts in the jungle will not harm you if you carry a torch?"

"That all depends," the lecturer said, "on just how fast you carry that torch."

Emotions such as fear are a part of every healthy person's makeup, but few of us have thought through our emotions. We seldom have the privilege of choosing which emotions we have and when we will have them, but we can choose to understand the ones we do have.

Bertrand Russell said the degree of one's emotions varies inversely with one's knowledge of the facts. Or, in my words, the less a person knows the more emotional he often becomes. The more we understand our emotions, the less we are bound by them, especially the emotion of fear.

Fear can be a very creative force. The four Methodist ministers who established the University of Southern California stated they did so out of a fear of ignorance, and so pledged their means and libraries.

Medicine has come from the fear of disease, our homes from the fear of the elements and the law has come from the fear of crime, disorder and violence.

It is usually the abnormalities of fear that we think about, the destructive fears a modern person often has to face, such as excessive anxiety, the feelings of desperation, the intangible pressures that close in on a person because no one seems to be able to run fast enough in our culture.

Besides these, we pick up our own unique fears in life. An outstanding author has a fear of high places, a talented doctor has a fear of cats and a banker a fear of the dark. Others confess their fears of responsibility, of old age, death, or the fear which comes from guilt associated with sins long past.

The effect of fear on our body is harsh. It was meant to be so. The adrenal glands give us that extra strength to flee or fight. But we modern humans can do neither, and so it only tears our own bodies apart.

Habitual dread, hostility, tension, all are intangibles, to be sure, but they give us a continuing emergency signal calling for the adrenal secretion, causing this emergency stimulant to become a chronic poison.

To get our fears out into the open and frankly face them is paramount. We are told that we were born with only two fears: fear of falling and of sudden noises. All other fears we have learned since birth, for the most part, to keep us alive.

The answer in dealing with our fears may come from the other side of the human personality, which is the love of danger. When a person feels life does not have enough tangible dangers to be challenging, he or she finds a hazardous situation. The office manager rides a motorcycle in a weekend scramble, the architect races a hydroplane, others drive sports cars, sky dive or champion unpopular causes.

Standing up to a hazardous situation and facing danger rather than running from it is an exciting experience. From this, then, I offer you one of the cure-alls for chronic fear. In a word, it is action.

The worst part of fear is the unknown. I have thought that this is why there is so much emotional illness among the well-to-do and the leisure people. These people have time to sit and fuel their imagination with fears, working themselves into a full-scale nervous breakdown.

Fear is for a purpose, but it is better to go to someone who is qualified and ask "dumb questions" about your fears than to live with them.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

THE HOUSE, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on five roll calls from the week of November 25-29.

INFORMAL SESSION- On November 26, the House 116-22, approved an order that the House meet informally on Wednesday, November 27.

Supporters, noting legislators perform many other duties in addition to voting and debating, said the order will give legislators more time to tend to other duties and to take a little time off before the hectic last weeks of the 1985 session.

Opponents said the legislature still has many important matters to address and argued an informal session is nothing more than a day off and will result in the House only working two days this week.

A "Yea" vote is for the order. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

CREDIT CARDS(S 2501)- House 85-53, rejected a bill allowing Massachusetts stores which offer credit cards to charge finance charges on new purchases on customers' accounts with any outstanding principle balances.

Currently, new purchases are not assessed the finance charges until the payment due date for the new purchases has passed.

Supporters, noting a 1984 law allows banks to do this, said current law allows consumers up to a 55 day freeload period which is unfair to stores. They noted the bill only eliminates that freeload period when there is an outstanding principle balance due.

Opponents said the bill is anti-consumer and would result in consumers paying finance charges on purchases they made only a few days earlier.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

CLERKS(H 6931)- House 120-18, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill providing for an additional assistant clerk in the district court of Central Berkshire.

The bill also provides that one of the Central Berkshire assistant clerks may occasionally serve in other courts in Berkshire County.

Supporters said the tremendous caseload necessitates the new position.

Opponents said the caseload is one of the lowest in the state and claimed the $20,000 job is unnecessary.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

ACID RAIN(S 1187)- House 136-0, gave unanimous initial approval to a bill limiting acid rain and acid rain deposition in Massachusetts.

The bill sets up a system, to be implemented by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, to adopt and implement a limitation on the total statewide actual annual sulfur dioxide emissions.

Supporters said these emissions, primarily released from facilities that burn fossil fuels, are harming many of the state's resources including lakes and streams. They noted the bill will reduce the emissions caused by Massachusetts industries and send a message to Congress about this national problem.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

TO COMMITTEE(H 2179, H 2576)- House 144-2, sent a bill dealing with licensing of physicians who enter the U.S. as refugees or receive political asylum to the Bills in Third Reading Committee (BTR).

On a 138-2 vote, the House did the same with a bill dealing with court-ordered parental involvement in treatment for certain children. Debate centered around the procedure for dealing with the bills rather than the merits of the bills themselves.

Supporters of sending the bills to BTR noted the bills have constitutional and other problems that have to be worked out in committee before the bills go to the House floor for a vote.

Opponents said the bills have already been in BTR and argued they should be voted up or down by the full House.

Both roll calls are listed below. The first is on the physician bill and the second is on the parental bill.

On both roll calls, a "Yea" vote is for sending the bill to committee. A "Nay" vote is against sending it to committee.)

Saltmarsh voted yes on both calls.

THE SENATE, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on the only roll call from the week of November 25-29.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION(S 2596)- Senate 36-0, approved its own version of a complex 71 page bill overhauling the state's 75 year old workers' compensation system.

Provisions include increased benefits, cost of living increases, a speedier system of payments and extensive reorganizations of the present operation and administration of the system.

Supporters said the long overdue measure is supported by both labor and industry and is fair to both sides. This new version now goes back to the House which has already approved its own version.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

THE "FOR SALE SIGN"

When our agents meet with clients to discuss marketing their homes, some clients resist the idea of having a "For Sale" sign placed in the front yard. They don't want the neighbors to know they're moving, or they may be concerned that complete strangers will knock on the door to ask about the house. For the most part, however, the advantages of a sign far outweigh the possible disadvantages.

First, that sign will make our phones ring. Many of our customers come from sign calls. We've also found that neighbors often sell houses for us, recommending their area to friends or colleagues who may be house hunting. If you want to sell quickly, letting the neighbors know is a good idea! Finally, almost all buyers will contact the realtor directly to make an appointment to see a house that interests them.

Having a "For Sale" sign in front of your house is not an absolute necessity, and most agents will not insist that you have one, but it will increase the property's exposure and make it sell more quickly.

For solid advice on marketing your home, come to The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors at 33 Thompson Street, Winchester, or call and speak with one of our professionals at 729-7000.

Theatre Cast Gears Up For 'Buried Child'

By CHRIS ALEXANDER
Special to The Star

The lights fade. The curtain rises. Seven anxious actors and actresses breathlessly await their cues. The sound of rain can be heard. And "Buried Child", the Pulitzer Prize winning dramatic play by Sam Shepard, begins to unfold on the Winchester High School stage.

Bill Johnson, an English teacher at W.H.S., has worked eight long weeks with the cast of "Buried Child," striving to present Shepard's play in a professional manner.

He has recruited guest speakers, utilized improvisational techniques, and taught the play, as he would to one of his classes, so that each actor would fully understand every last detail of Shepard's spine-tingling drama.

"I think 'Buired Child' has been a learning experience for all of us," Johnson said.

"In the last eight weeks, I have been impressed by the talent of the students, and, through some directorial techniques, have tried to further the quality of their performances," Johnson said.

The students seem to agree. Martha Redding said, "We've never really had a chance to test our abilities as dramatic actors. Many of the fall shows in the past have been comedies. We welcome the chance to prove ourselves, and 'Buried Child' gives us that chance."

The playwright, Sam Shepard, has been recognized again and again for excellence in the dramatic field. He received the Pulitzer Prize for "Buried Child" in 1979 and has written the screenplays for such hits as "Paris, Texas" and the soon to be released "Fool for Love."

He has starred in several films, among them "The Right Stuff," (an Oscar Nomination), "Fool for Love," and "Country," in which he played opposite his real life girlfriend, Jessica Lange. His plays, "A Lie of the Mind" is currently running on Broadway.

"Buried Child," like many of Shepard's works, deals with the American family — and all the pain and struggle involved with raising a family, and keeping it together as time goes by. Shepard recently revealed the reason for his fascination with the American family in a New York Times interview.

He states, "I thought for years it was boring, uninteresting to write about the family. But the interesting thing about taking real blood relationships is that the more you start to investigate those things as external characters, the more you see they're also internal characters," Shephard added.

"The mythology has to come out of real life, not the other way around. Mythology wasn't some trick someone invented to move us. It came out of the guts of man. And myths are related on an emotional level. They're not strictly intellectual programs."

While the actors must convey Shepard's messages, the stage crew, under the leadership of John Fusco, must provide a background conducive to the feeling of despair in "Buried Child."

Fusco, an electronics teacher at W.H.S., said, "The set will attempt to reflect the family situation in 'Buried Child', which has undergone considerable decay over the years as a result of family tragedy, denial, and neglect."

As for the intricate plot of the play itself, Winchester residents must attend a performance to discover those secrets.

Director Bil Johnson said, "It's been a while since the town has been offered strong, dramatic theater at the high school level. I hope the town of Winchester will come and support our efforts."

There will be three performances, the first on Friday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. This year marks the first matinee performance ever, at 2 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 14, and the final performance will take place that night at 8 p.m.

All tickets are $3. They may be purchased through any cast member, or at the door.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Local Resident To Appear In College Play

Winchester's Melissa Eugley will be in Ithaca College's theatre presentation of Hot 1 Baltimore, Lanford Wilson's award-winning play, Tuesday, Dec. 10 through Saturday, Dec. 14. All performances will be at 8 p.m., in the Arena Theatre of the Dillingham Center for the Performing Arts. Eugley is a senior drama major at Ithaca College, Ithaca, N.Y. and a graduate of Winchester High School. She is the daughter of Jenness and Mary Louise Eugley of Winchester.

The action is set in the once-elegant Hotel Baltimore, now in the last days of decline. On Memorial Day, its inhabitants learn that it will be demolished in a month

For tickets, reservations, or more information, contact the Ithaca College Theatre.

Anne-Marie Chubert will be performing with Michele Parker at the library Sunday, Dec. 8 from 3 to 4 p.m. as part of the library's Music In The Library series.

LIBRARY NEWS

Library Aim: Streamlining The System

The Winchester Public Library has been "on-line" with its computerized circulation system for two months now, long enough to allow both staff and regular library users to become comfortable with the system.

Over 5,000 Minuteman Library Network cards have been issued to Winchester residents, and the system is working well.

As a result of the new system, several procedures and policies have changed. The computer automatically generates notices for books being held on reserve, so yellow notices in window envelopes will soon be replacing the notification post cards patrons now receive. The system also automatically generates overdue notices on books more than 10 days overdue, which are sent to patrons.

The computer is able to track materials automatically, so some residents may be surprised to find that they have been declared "delinquent" by the computer for relatively small fines or a few overdue books, and are not able to check out more material.

The 20 libraries making up the Minuteman System have agreed on "thresholds" which tell the system to declare a card holder "delinquent." These are: three or more overdue books, $1 or more in fines, or an outstanding bill for $5 or more.

While these amounts are lower than the ones Winchester has enforced in the past, the library, as a member of the Minuteman Network, must abide by Network policies.

Additionally, if a patron has an outstanding bill from another of the Minuteman libraries, the bill must be settled with that other library before books may be checked out from the Winchester Public Library. Fines may be paid at any Minuteman library, but bills for lost books must be paid at the library where they were incurred.

One of the advantages of a computerized circulation system is its ability to tell if an item is checked out, on the shelf, or being held by one of the library's departmemts.

The library's checkpoint security system aids in this process of accurately tracking books by cutting down on the number of items removed from the library without being checked out.

The checkpoint system uses electronic devices, lpcated at the exits in the library, which "beep" when activated by a sensitized item which has not been properly checked out. The alarm alerts a patron who may have forgotten to check out books or return to the circulation desk.

The checkpoint system will not react to anything but library materials. Walking through the device is no more harmful than standing next to a radio, and it has no effect on film, cassettes, computer tapes, or pacemakers.

ABC Fund Drive Begins

The Winchester Committee for A Better Chance (ABC) is starting its annual fund drive which raises money for the program through financial contributions. The program, in its fifteenth year in Winchester, brings promising minority students here from areas outside of Massachusetts to attend Winchester High School.

The current budget to operate the ABC program is approximately $58,000 which is raised by holding a fall and spring event, bottle drives and seeking contributions from individuals and organizations.

According to president Sandra Thompson, "We must depend heavily on donations from a wide range of persons and organizations in order to reach our goal."

Winchester ABC is part of a national program which recruits academically motivated students for placement in outstanding independent and public high schools. Each community that hosts the public school ABC program establishes a residence where the students live during the school year under the supervision of a resident director.

The selection of students is handled by members of the ABC committee, which also has the function of overseeing various aspects of the entire program in this community. Over 30 people serve on the committee and many others volunteer their time to work toward maintaining the program.

"It is rewarding to work with a variety of committed people and, above all, it is rewarding to know that our program can and does make a real difference in someone's life," says Thompson.

As alumnus Blair Bradley, '81, describes it, "Winchester ABC is people. People who influenced me to work that much harder through their caring and giving. This kind of dedication is not always seen or experienced in today's society, but I feel privileged to have been a part of this experience. I cherish it. My years at ABC will help me in my future relationships with people and society."

The ABC program in Winchester has proven to be very effective as demonstrated by the outstanding college and career performances of its graduates. Winchester, in turn, has benefited from the talent, energy and diversity which the students bring to the town.

Anyone who wishes to make a contribution to help support this program can do so by sending a tax-deductible check payable to 'Winchester ABC' to Winchester ABC Program, P.O. Box 94, Winchester 01890. All contributions, large or small, will be gratefully received.

SENIOR SCENE

Aberjona Plans Conference

Aberjona Nursing Home, 184 Swanton Street, in conjunction with "Long Term Care East," (a committee of caregivers in the Minuteman Region) will host a conference on Alzheimer's Disease from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The goal of the conference, titled "Working Together" is to support and to improve the linkage between and among services for the elderly, with Alzheimer's, serving as a vehicle to show when and how different caregivers in the community are used.

The 100 or so participants will then break up into small groups of 10 to share ideas and experiences.

Finally the participants will reconvene for a presentation from four different panelists who will take questions raised in the smaller groups and address the conference in their particular area of expertise.

For any further information, please contact Sally Nichols or Robert Salter at, Aberjona Nursing Home, in Winchester.

Jenks Center To Hold Party

Seniors are invited to attend the annual Christmas party to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 1:30 p.m. at the Jenks Center.

In addition to home-made refreshments, the Rev. Robert Storer's play reading group will offer a holiday playlet. Music will be provided by accordianist Mel Simons and by the Center's Glee Club.

The party will be preceded by a brief quarterly business meeting of the Winchester Seniors Assoc. An overview of the building expansion project will be given.

Seniors Plan Holiday Dance

Midway between Chanukah and Christmas, and with a new moon overhead accompanied by Halley's comet, a holiday dance is set for Saturday, Dec. 14, starting at 8 p.m.

All seniors are welcome to dance to the music of Dick Brogna and his band and to enjoy the festivities of the evening.

Jenks Seniors To Sponsor Weekend Fair

The Winchester Seniors Association plans a fair at the Jenks Senior Center 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7.

Booths will linclude a men's boutique, women's boutique, jewelry, gifts, knit goods, holiday items, fruitcakes and a bake table.

Tickets will be sold for a butterfly lap robe and pillows, a needlepoint pillow, and a knitted Miss Piggy doll.

The surface of Mars is roughly equal in area to that of Earth's continents.

Sachems Stop Tanners And Win Title

Winchester Beats Woburn On Turkey Day By 22-12

By MIKE McKNIGHT

As the freezing rain fell on Knolton Stadium in Winchester on Thanksgiving Day, a football game to be remembered left Winchester with the Middlesex League Championship.

It was a bitterly cold day, with the the wind whipping through the stands and field. This was the Winchester Sachems and Woburn Tanners meeting for 1985, and would close the books on the season.

The Sachems pounded out a win over the Tanners 22-12 in horrendus weather

Woburn won the coin toss and elected to kick. On the kickoff Art Gordon of Winchester slipped on the snowy field and went down on the 13-yard line.

It took six minutes and 19 seconds to make it only 28 yards downfield before they punt it away.

Woburn took insignificant downs as the Sachem defence buckled down in the cold.

The Tanners punted the ball to the Winchester 40 where in a reverse, T.J. DellaSala completely befuddled the Tanners.

After breaking two tacklers he sprinted down the sideline for a six-point gain for Winchester.

In a fake kick John Mathson ran for the two-point conversion to put the Sachems on top 8'0.

Woburn took the ball again and after six plays had only made 17 yards before they were forced to punt. a 66 yarder.

Winchester was starting from their own six-yard line. It was first and 10 on the 6, White handed off to DellaSala up the middle and DellaSala walked over two defenders, broke one tackle and then sprinted for his second touchdown of the day.

This 94-yard touchdown run was the longest this season from scrimmage. Mark Shaw's kick put Winchester ahead 15'0 at the start of the second quarter.

Woburn punted their next possession away to the Winchester 41 yard line.

After a few solid runs by DellaSala and Darin Cromwell, the Sachems were on the Tanner 44.

Then with suprising speed Cromwell ran 40 yards to set up a first and goal for the Sachems in which Cromwell made the one-yard jump for Winchester.

The kick gave Winchester a 22-0 lead with 3:12 left in the half. The Sachems did not score again, for less than a minute later snow started to fall in great amounts.

Winchester's defense then had to show its ability to stop the pounding Tanner offensive attack.

Winchester's defense took over in the second half because its offense was effectively shut down with the heavy snowfall. The Sachems total offense for 10 minutes and 18 seconds of play was only 55 yards.

The Sachems did not even attempt a pass play the entire game. Woburn, on the other hand, attempted 20 passes with eight recepions for 145 yards. 60 percent of their total offense.

The major second half play was to slide in the snow, but the Sachems were victorious even after two fourth quarter touchdowns by Tanner Captain Ed Capone.

With the win, Winchester claimed the Middlesex League Championship.

Sachem '11' Is Honored

Over 300 people joined the Winchester High School Varsity Football team at the Knights of Columbus Hall Monday Night to celebrate their outstanding season. The dinner was provided by the parents. Clockwise from the left: parents and students enjoy their dinner and conversation; Head coach Manny Marshall applauds his team; tri-captains, Dennis Clark, Mike White and Tom Pigott re-cap the season; guest speaker Sean O'Hallaran, Boston College quarterback, points out the finer points of the game; football players look at old team photos.

Lynch Library Section Named For Teacher

The poetry/literature section of the Lynch Elementary School Library will be dedicated Dec. 12, to the memory of Catherine Sheridan, for many years a teacher in the Winchester Schools. Her last years were spent as a member of the Lynch Elementary School faculty.

The informal 2 p.m. ceremony will take place at the school library.

A portrait of Ms. Sheridan, done by Mary Jacobs, will be unveiled and permanently placed in the library.

For more information call the Lynch School, 721-7013.

Santa Sundaes At Lynch School

Mr. S. Claus of the North Pole invites all to meet him at the Lynch School on Thursday, Dec. 12, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. for an evening of Sundaes with Santa.

Voke Students Tour Courtroom

District Court Judge John Lingotti, law instructor, Judith L. Klimkiewicz, and Northeast law students spent time in the judge's chambers where numerous questions on court proceedings were discussed under Judge Lingotti's direction.

Bartlett Plans Holly Party

Parents and friends of Bartlett school will gather in the school foyer at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 6 for the annual Holly Party.

The Bartlett School Development Committee President Linda Houston will welcome everyone.

During a social hour, guests will be able to take chances on such items as: poinsettas, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mahoney of Sheffield West; a home dinner for 6, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Phipps of Cambridge st.; a gift certificate to Lyndell's bakery, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kett of York rd.; a gift certificate to Jimmy's Restaurant, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miminos; a fruit basket and bottles of cheer.

All proceeds will benefit the Bartlett School Development Committee.

Child Care Taking Applications

Winchester Child Care Inc., sponsor of the Kid's Corner after-school child care and enrichment program, is accepting early applications for a new summer day camp for children currently in grades K-6. The program is planned to run weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. from the end of school up to the week before school reopens. Tuition will be $75 per week. If your child did not bring a program brochure home from last week, you should contact Kay Schodek of 40 Canal st., immediately, as early applications are due Dec. 6.

Foundation Plans Scholarship Meet

A program on financial aid, sponsored by the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, will be presented to interested Winchester High School and Northeast Regional Vocational School seniors and their parents on Monday, Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Winchester High School auditorium. A snow date has been set for Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Speakers will be Grant Curtis, Dean of Financial Aid at Tufts University, who will speak about ways of financing post-high school education. Jim Bowers, chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, will speak about the specifics of applying to the local scholarship program.

"We try very hard to meet the financial needs of all students who complete applications. People should know that only the four members of the selection committee and professional advisors will ever have access to the application information.

"In fact, only the chairperson and professional advisor view the financial information in most cases. We maintain the highest regard for confidentiality," states Bower. He continues, "I would hope that every student who needs financial help will complete an application to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation."

Anthony DeBiase, head of the Winchester High School Guidance Department will also be available to answer questions and to provide informational pamphlets and scholarship application forms.

Those who cannot attend this meeting can pick up a packet of material at the Winchester High School Guidance office. The packet includes the booklet, 'Meeting College Costs.'

With the cost of education beyond high school so formidable to families these days, many people seek some sort of financial assistance. Said DeBiase, "Because of the rising costs involved in obtaining a post-high school education, we feel this program has merit for all."

Local Woman Attends Speech Convention

Rachelle Isserow Speech-Language Therapist in Winchester Public Schools attended the Annual National Convention of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Assn., Nov. 22-25, in Washington, D.C.

She joined 12,000 fellow professionals in speech and hearing in participating in the three-day convention program which included short courses, miniseminars, technical sessions, and scientific exhibits. The programs covered state-of-the-art developments and research findings in the field of communicative disorders.

Presentations were made by internationally recognized authorities on communication disorders and normal communication, as well as by specialists in other fields such as psychology, education, computer science and engineering.

Among the topics covered were noise-induced hearing loss, developments in high-technology for communication, drugs and diseases and their effect on speech and hearing, communication and special populations, finding infants at risk for communication disorders, and occupational hearing loss.

Special events at the Convention included the annual luncheon featuring speaker Ellen Goodman, Pulitzer-Prize winning syndicated columnist for the Boston Globe and a concert at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The American Speech-Language-Hearing Assn. represents more than 45,000 Speech-Language pathologists and audiologists who are specifically educated to treat the 22.6 million people in the United States affected by communicative disorders.

The Winchester Board of Appeal will hold a Public Hearing on Wednesday, December 18, 1985 at 7:00 P.M. in the Board of Health Clinic Room at Town Hall on the following matters:

(1) Petition No. 2702 - That of Michael Giambro concerning the property at 108 Ridge Street, Winchester, MA. The Petitioner seeks a Variance from Section 5.2 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-law or an Appeal in accordance with Chapter 40A, Section 8 of the Massachusetts General Laws so as to be able to construct a single family dwelling and retain the use of the existing dwelling on the lot until such time as the new dwelling is ready for occupancy. The property is located within the RDA (Single Family) zoning district and contains 4.16 acres.

(2) Petition No. 2703 - That of Charter Marketing Company concerning the property at 270 Cambridge Street, Winchester, MA. The Petitioner seeks a Special Permit under Section 3.34 and 8.5 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-law so as to be able to change the existing non-conforming use, that of a gasoline filling station, to another non conforming use, that of a gasoline filling station and convenience store. The property is located within the RDB (Single Family) zoning district and contains 57,272 square feet.

(3) Petition No. 2704 - That of James P. and Rosemary Maconochi concerning the property at 227-229 Pond Street, Winchester, MA. The Petitioners seek a Special Permit under Section 3.45 and 8.5 or a Dimensional Variance under Section 6.1 of the Town of Winchester Zoning By-Law so as to be able to construct an addition that would be located too close to the front lot line. The property is located within the RDB (Single Family) zoning district and contains 11,565 square feet.

(4) Petition No. 2705 - That of Michael Marcus concerning the property at 498 Main Street, Winchester, MA. The Petitioner seeks a Variance from Chapter 9 - Section 4 (5) of the Town of Winchester Sign By-Law to allow a free standing sign. The property is located within the GBD (General Business) zoning district and contains 10,675 square feet.

(5) Petition No. 2706 - That of Shear Perfection concerning the property at 780 Main Street, Winchester, MA. The petitioner seeks a Variance from Chapter 9 - Section 4 (5) of the Town of Winchester Sign By-Law to allow a free standing sign. The property is located within the GBD (General Business) zoning district and contains 9,783 square feet.

PLANNING BOARD
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
Regarding Subdivision of Land
And Revision of Board of Survey Layouts

Notice is hereby given that the Winchester Planning Board will hold a public hearing on MONDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1985 at 7:30 P.M., in the Board of Health Meeting Room, Basement, Town Hall, upon the application of A. Horace Weene, A & T Realty Corp., for Definitive Approval of a Subdivision of Land on the southerly side of Sussex Road, including the extension of Sussex Road from the existing public layout at Wellington Road and extending easterly about 666' ± to the Town Forest, and a way to be known as Hastings Road extending from Sussex Road southerly and westerly about 600' ±. In conjunction with these proposed layouts the Planning Board will also conduct a hearing to rescind the original Board of Survey layouts of Sussex Road and Hastings Road as previously approved in 1941 and 1945.

Prior to the hearing, the plans may be examined at the Planning Board/Engineering Department Office, Town Hall.

By order of the Planning Board this 13th day of November 1985.

School Officials Tackle Conflict On Tenure OK

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

School Committee members and Supt. Charles Mitsakos are at odds over who should evaluate teachers up for tenure.

School Board members and Mitsakos went head to head last week at a regular school committee meeting over whether the school board should perform the evaluations.

School Committee members said they want to do more than "rubber stamp" prospective tenure candidates in the Winchester school system — they want to participate in the interviews.

Supt. Charles Mitsakos disagrees.

He said he would prefer to provide the committee with documents about the candidates, and do the interviews himself.

"It's an administrative reponsibility and should be handled that way," said Mitsakos.

"I don't see it as an intrusion on the administration, I see it as an informative and objective process," said School Committee member Catherine Alexander.

Member Steven Powers agreed, "we should do more than rubber stamp, we should look into the matter."

Chairman Edward O'Connell and member Michael Ronayne were in favor of having the committee take part in the decision making process.

After three years in the Winchester school system all teachers are eligible for tenure. In December, Mitsakos said, five teachers will be evaluated for tenure.

School Committee member Alexander suggested that all members be given the opportunity to interview the tenure candidates and get "more of an insight into the evaluator."

In March of 1986, Mitsakos said, he will ask members for official recommendations to the committee. Between December and March, Mitsakos said, members will have the opportunity to review the candidates through documents.

"I don't want to see tenure made into a circus," he said.

• Mitsakos reported to the School Committee the air quality has greatly improved since all classroom unit ventilators were cleaned and checked out.

• Supt. Mitsakos extended commendations and congratulations to:

• Eugene Bouley coach of the boys' varsity soccer team, for a great season. Their record was 16-2-1.

• Manuel Marshall coach of the varsity football team. Marshall has coached at Winchester High School for 19 years. His record is 122 wins, 46 losses, and eight ties.

• Carol Minutoli coach of the girls' swim team for an outstanding season.

Another lip sync contest? Live performances of Christmas carols will be among tonight's festivities in Winchester's Town Common. Dump Probe Holds For Test Results, All Materials Gone

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Officials are still looking for the person who dumped contaminated soil off Socrates rd., but all contaminated soil has been removed.

William Sirull, environmental analyst for the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, said, "We're still waiting for test results — the case is still under investigation."

Rest assured, he said, "there is no imminent threat to Winchester residents — all materials have been removed from the location."

According to Sirull, Clean Harbor Inc. of Kingston, a licensed hazardous waste disposal company was hired by the Shell Oil Co., to remove the soil.

In October, 15 cubic yards of the soil was dumped in six piles about four feet tall at a secluded area off Socrates rd.

At that time the possibly hazardous nature of the soil had not yet been determined, and Sirull said results are still inconclusive.

It is now Dec. 5, and the tests have yet to be concluded, said Sirull.

"I'm not at liberty to talk about it," Sirull said.

Language Is Choice In Schools

Austin expressed concern that of M.cCall students enrolled in a language, 55 percent were in French and 45 percent in Spanish.

She said offering beginner's French in the 7th grade, "caused a surge in our French program."

However, she said, the percentage has balanced from 1984, when it was at 65 percent French students to 35 percent Spanish students.

Austin spends 60 percent of her time as a foreign language teacher at the high school and 40 percent as coordinator. She is responsible for 17 high school and junior high teachers.

During her 40-minute presentation to committee members, Austin said she is overloaded for the amount of time she puts in on the job.

Still, she said, she does not want to drop either the teaching or administrating to focus solely on one or the other.

Ironically, she said, much of her teaching time was forfeited while she prepared the report on language learning for the School Committee.

Speaking on her long-term program goals, Austin said, "I would like to develop language proficiency, I would like to take students to a point of communicating well."

Committee member Michael Ronayne suggested the possibility of introducing a foreign language program in the elementary schools.

Austin agreed that younger students more easily pick up foreign language skills, but cautioned that some elementary school teachers and principals are concerned about youngsters being forced to learn a foreign language before they're ready.

She also noted that an elementary school foreign language program would mean higher costs, and questioned whether the town's public school system is prepared to dole out such large sums of money.

"I would love to come back to you in two years and talk about that," she said.

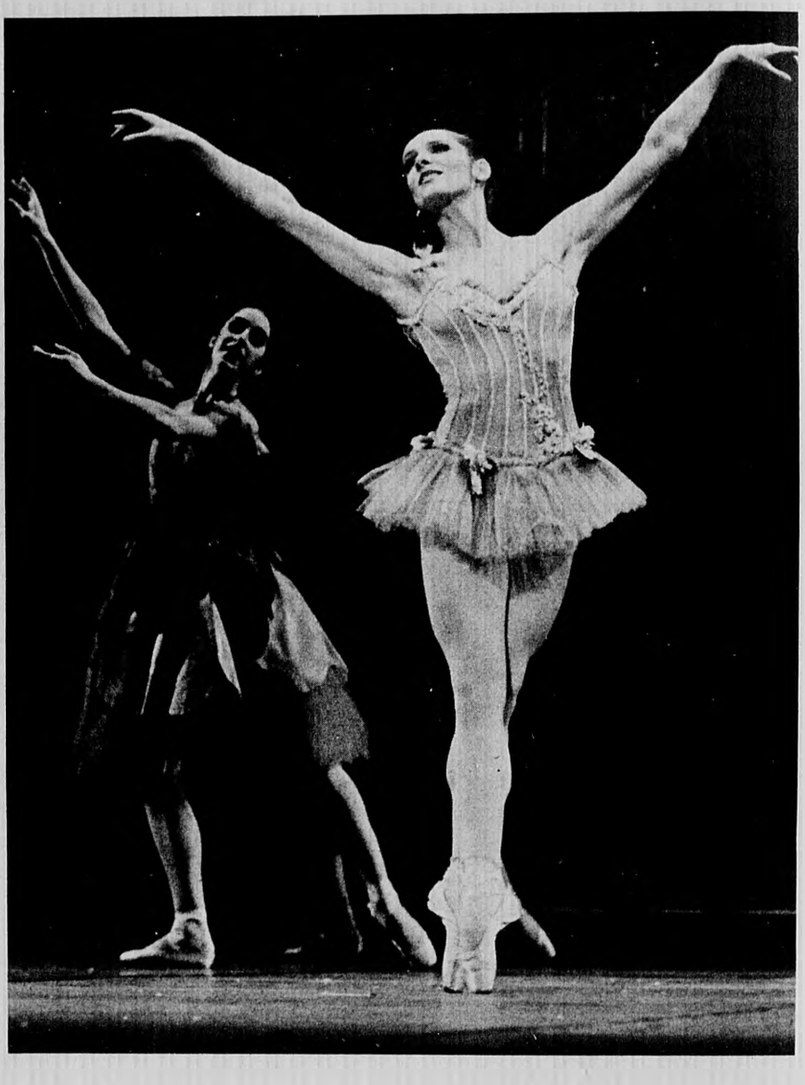
What To Do



The History Of Nutcracker

Based upon the fairy tale by E.T.A. Hoffman, "The Nutcracker" is a classic ballet in two acts.

The story begins in the Silberhaus home where preparations for a Christmas Eve celebration are underway and the children, Fritz and Clara, eagerly await the holiday festivities.

Their godfather, Dr. Drosselmeyer, arrives and presents Clara with a nutcracker. Jealous of his sister's present, Fritz seizes it, throws it to the ground breaking the new toy. Dr. Droselmeyer comforts Clara by mending the broken nutcracker.

Later that night, long after everyone has gone to bed, Clara steals down to the drawing room to retrieve her nutcracker.

Suddenly, the room is filled with mice and toy soldiers led by the Nutcracker himself. A battle ensues, but with Clara's help, the soldiers defeat the mice.

The Nutcracker is transformed into a handsome young man who leads Clara through the window to the Enchanted Forest where they meet the Snow King and Queen.

An elaborate ceremony is held in Clara's honor, and she is entertained by a number of exotic dances.

Christmas Favorite Is Third Of Tchaikovsky's Great Ballets

Tchaikovsky may be described as the ballet composer par excellence.

He possesed an extraordinary ability to create just the right atmosphere or evoke the subtlest of moods.

His feeling for orchestral color was strong, and he had a remarkable gift for melody.

His brilliant classics, Swan Lake and The Sleeping Beauty, drew mixed reviews at their premieres. Much of his music was thought obscure, unconventional, and too complicated for dancers to follow.

It was not until after his death at age 53 that the genius of his ballet scores was realized.

Tchaikovsky was the first composer to raise the music of the ballet to its present status as a serious orchestral form, equal to that of the symphony.

The Nutcracker is the third and last of Tchaikovsky's great ballet scores.

It was written in 1891 and 1892 in response to a commission from the Imperial Opera at St. Petersburg and premiered at the Maryinsky Theatre in December 1892. Despite Tsar Alexander III's hearty approval, the premiere was not a success.

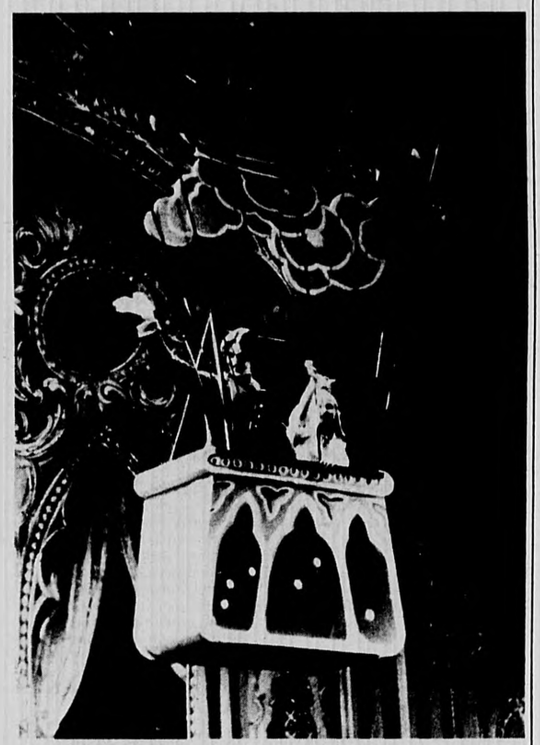
The lukewarm response from the critics served to confirm the moody composer's conviction that he was losing his power to created.

He died the following year, never to realize that his ballet scores eventually would be considered among the greatest ever written.

One of the most famous excerpts from The Nutcracker score is "The Dance of the Sugarplum Fairy".

It has a memorable passage for a unique instrument, the celeste, which Tchaikovsky heard in Paris and brought to Russia to introduce in this ballet. its limpid, twinkling tones are just right for the delicate Sugarplum Fairy.

What To Do



Tchaikovsky's 'The Nutcracker' will be presented by Boston Balllet Dec. 5-29. It is the morld's most oftenpresented ballet, and includes the famous "Dance of the Sugarplum Fairy."

'Nutcracker' Ballet Is Performed More Than Any Worldwide

Performed more than any other ballet in the world, "The Nutcracker" really is a phenomenon that has swept the country.

Ballet companies everywhere have taken up "The Nutcracker" tradition, and many perform 20 to 25 shows each holiday season. It forms the financial base of ticket sales for many companies, as well.

"It's a real bread and butter show," claims Bruce Wells, Associate Artistic Director of The Boston Ballet, "and The Boston Ballet's production is the biggest and the best. This year we'll have 35 performances, 33 at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts and two in Worcester. More people see our "Nutcracker" than any other in the world!" (Opening Dec. 5).

The popularity is due in part to the enchanting story of this classic ballet, based on a fairy tale by E.T.A. Hoffman.

"The Nutcracker" shows the holiday through the eyes of a child, and in doing so, reminds the audience of the child within.

It is a precious and fleeting moment for adults who recapture the simple joy of the holidays. For children, it is a mirror of their own fantasy and anticipation of the approaching festivities.

"The use of children in the ballet has a historical root," explains Wells, "The ballet company was really a family. Children used to live with their parents and the company, and started performing when they were very young. Dance today doesn't necessarily dictate using children, but they are the core of energy that surrounds "The Nutcracker."

"In the same way, how can we depict the street scenes in "Romeo and Juliet" and "Don Quixote" without children?" Wells adds, "We'll also be using children in this year's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

For "The Nutcracker," over 150 children age 7 and above who have studied at The Boston School of Ballet for at least one year have become part of this season's three rotating casts. "It's a major tradition," says Wells, who started in ballet himself as a child dancer in the show.

"Children may start as members of the party scene, and year after year move on to be angels, flowers, snowflakes, soloists in many of the scenes, and may eventually become the Sugarplum Fairy. The children take their roles seriously, and it does reflect their progress as dancers."

Wells recalls his own penchant for the dramatic.

"Once, I played the Mouse King, and when I was stabbed, I threw my head back so strongly that the costume head fell on stage!"

One can be certain that there have been thousands of such incidents since the ballet was first performed almost 100 years ago in 1892 at the Maryinsky Theatre in St. Petersburg, Russia.

"The Nutcracker's" choreography is traditionally attributed to both Marius Petipa and Lev Ivanov .

Petipa, choreographer to the Russian Court in the latter half of the 19th century, is the man who almost single-handedly raised the standard of Russian ballet to the level we know today.

Marked by the success of an 1862 four-act-extravaganza set in Egypt, Petipa eventually became master to the Imperial Ballet where he reigned almost 50 years.

His many works include two other romantic masterpieces with scores also by Tchaikovsky, "Swan Lake" and "Sleeping Beauty." He began work on "The Nutcracker" in 1892, but handed down the bulk of it to his assistant Lev Ivanov.

Today, Ivanov is considered a major precursor of modern ballet, who bridged the gap between the romanticism of Petipa and the vivid expressionism of Fokine.

"The Nutcracker" was first presented in Western Europe in 1934 by England's Sadler's Wells Ballet.

Sixteen years later it was first danced in America by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in New York City.

"The Nutcracker" is constantly being rechoreographed," says Wells, "and it's fun to see the differences from year to year. This season Bruce Marks (Artistic Director of The Boston Ballet) has rechoreographed the Arabian Dance and the battle between the soldiers and the mice, which also have new, charming costumes.

"I rechoreographed the Waltz of the Flower and the snow scene, which is something I've always wanted to do. It's really more than a ballet," Wells explained, "it's a holiday event - the costumes, the scenery, the lights, and of course the wonderful, uplifting music we all know so well."

The composer Tchaikovsky possessed an extraordinary ability to create just the right atmosphere or evoke the sublest of moods. His feeling for orchestral color was strong, and he had remarkable gift for melody.

His three great ballets, "Swan Lake," "Sleeping Beauty" and "The Nutcracker" are the core of almost every major ballet company in the world today, but actually drew mixed or lukewarm reviews when they premiered.

The choreographer Petipa had devised a very detailed scenario for "The Nutcracker," which allowed Tchaikovsky virtually no opportunity to impart his personal views or feelings.

Under such circumstances, it is truly the work of genius that he produced such an enduring and endearing piece. He used a full array of compositional techniques to vary and support the melodic material as well as taking full advantage of the resources of the orchestra.

Despite Tsar Alexander III's hearty approval, the negative response of the critics served to confirm the moody composer's conviction that he was losing his powers to create.

He died the following year, never realizing the "The Nutcracker" would survive the tastes of the critics to become recognized as one of the greatest ballet scores ever written.

"It just wouldn't be Christmas without "The Nutcracker," says Wells. "It's something we all look forward to year after year!"

Nuts To You!

Nutritious Holiday Crunch

Come fall, the wind blows crisp, the leaves change color, and the tiller turns to reaping.

Appetites quicken. Forgotten are the salad greens and citrus fruits of spring and summer. Body and soul craves wholesome, filling foods of harvested grains, apples, and tubers.

And, come fall, nuts abound.

Emily Dickinson, Amherst's chronicler of nature, reckons the nut among the surest signs of the season. She portrays it thus:

The morns are meeker than they were—
The nuts are getting brown—
The berry's cheek is plumper—
The Rose is out of town.

The return of tree nuts to well-stocked pantries is truly an autumn tradition. Nutritious and delicious, nuts are pleasing to the sight, to the touch, and to the palate.

Nuts on the table, haphazardly mixed in a jumble of earthy browns and reds and creams, mirror the colors of the world outside.

Pick some up. The rich, glossy sheen of the chestnut, the smooth dullness of the pecan and the filbert, and the coarse grooves of the walnut impart a sense of well-being, of provision for the winter months ahead.

Open one, with a satisfying crack, and taste it. The crunchy texture and hearty, piquant flavor of the nut cannot be matched.

People have eaten nuts since antiquity.

In early hunter-gatherer societies, women and girls combed the land in search of this protein source to bring to the communal dinner. Particularly in times of need, when large populations and limited resources made food scarce, nuts were important in the human diet.

Later, in the Middle Ages, nuts assumed greater popularity and wider usage. They were ground into meal, pressed for oil, and used as garnishes.

They were steeped in liquid to make nut milks, made into confections, and eaten whole.

In the Bible, pistachios and almonds are highly prized as gifts. Early Romans called the walnut the Nut of Jupiter, and used it for medicines and dyes as well as for food.

Cooks in the Middle Ages disguised rancidity or excessive salt in preserved meats with nuts. Heavy sauces and bland side dishes thickened with ground nuts masked the meat's pungency.

In Lenten times, nuts achieved distinction in the Christian diet. Strict religious observance forbade the use of butter, eggs, and meat produts during Lent. Cooks compensated with nuts.

They bound pastries with almond cream made from pulverized nuts instead of with eggs. Almond milk, a thinner version, provided a soup stock. Walnuts enlivened the dreary, redundant fish dishes common to Lent.

Early Americans favored nuts for desserts. Every fashionable dinner party ended with a third course dessert of fresh and preserved fruits, whole nuts, and sweetmeats.

Comfits of sugared nuts and flowers were special treats. Almonds, walnuts, and hazelnuts were staples among the comfits, fashioned at home with brown, white, or pink-tinted sugar.

Rich, sugary dessert creams and ice creams flavored with pistachio and burnt almond were also served.

The use of nuts in centerpieces and table decorations dates back at least to the 17th century, and became more elaborate throughout the 18th century.

What began as a simple wicker basket full of fruits and nuts grew to outlandish proportions in the 1700s. Urged on by popular books and household experts, fashionable ladies struggled to outdo one another in table art.

According to food historian Louise Conway Beldon, an early American centerpiece took the shape of a pyramid. Piles of whole fruits and nuts, interspersed with flowers and greenery, were glued together with icing inside a metal cone.

The cones were upended, forming tall pyramids, and placed in groups of two, three, or four at the center of the dessert table.

By mid-century, a cut glass sweetmeat pole was the centerpiece of choice. The tall glass pole, reaching heights of 14 inches, had extending arms adorned with comfit dishes.

Although Americans today neglect whole nuts at dessert, they embrace them during the holidays as snacks, in confectionary, as gifts, and in decoration.

Lillian Boutin, manager of Cardoos International Foods in Faneuil Hall Marketplace, reports nut sales almost double this time of year.

Most people, she guesses, buy them simply "to munch on," while others request boxes to present them as gifts.

Most popular in the wholesale markets are gift-packs, mixed nuts, and pistachios, Capen says.

He attributes the increased business directly to the upcoming holidays.

"People are more interested in entertaining, in get-togethers, and in eating" near the holidays, he explains. "Nuts are a nice little extra thing to have around."

The Superior Nut Company distributes nuts to grocery stores, bakeries, gourmet stores, chain stores, "practically every kind of store," Capen says. So, for the consumer, nuts are easily obtained.

Unlike other fruits, no easy index exists for selecting ripe, good-tasting nuts. Neither the appearance of the shell, nor its color is a reliable guide. And although squirrels identify bad nuts by smell, the human sense of smell is not as highly developed.

Because they contain oil, some nuts will invariably spoil, and one should expect to find a few bad nuts in any group. Once cracked, however, rancid or decomposed nuts are easily identified and avoided.

For optimum storage, nuts should be kept in cool, dry, dark areas, in glass or plastic containers. Unshelled nuts will keep longer.

A list of the season's most popular nuts, their origins and uses, follows. Sources of statistics is the U.S. department of Agriculture.

Almonds. Crisp, bland, and slightly sweet, almonds are delicious out of hand, and are frequently used in candies, nougats, ice creams, and pastries. Almond pastes are used to make marzipan, a sweet confectionary.

Like apple seeds, almond shells contain cyanogens, a sugar-cyanide complex, toxic in large quantities. The nutmeat is protected from the poison, however, and contains not a trace.

Related to the peach and plum, the almond tree first appeared in western Asia and northern Africa. At 23%, almonds rank second in worldwide production of nuts. Spain, Italy, and the U.S. are top exporters.

Not until the 1870s did scientists cross-breed a strain of almond trees suitable to California's climate. Since then, almond trees have grown to cover more California land than any crop except grapes.

The U.S. crops provide over half of the world's production. Increases are expected soon, so consumers will have ready access to almonds.

What To Learn

Holiday Overload:

Managing Holiday Stress Living Realistic Holidays

Story By Susan Curtis

There's a tender tugging inside, bringing back the coziest of childhood memories.

But the time crunch is on.

Energy is high and lists are long.

The holidays — Christmas, Hanukah, New Year's — are almost here.

And they bring it all back — the joys, the parties, the gifts, the tree with its floppy and tangled lights.

The abused charge cards and the hangovers.

Toys that fall apart all too soon and special recipes that beg baking.

Chills and cheer fill the soul.

These time-crunched weeks bring excitement and house guests for most people. Others, instead, see a dreaded and lonely time.

Diane Pascucci and Anna Melloni, workshop leaders at Somerville Hospital, focus on the seasonal stress triggers invading the daily lives of normally sane folks.

In a recent workshop on "Stress And The Holidays," these anti-stress experts gave sound advice for coping, surviving and enjoying this cherished dream-season.

Bascially, the holidays create two types of stressed individuals, says Pascucci, a registered nurse with a master's degree in special education and a second master's in mental health nursing.

"There are the understressed and the overloaded, with a great range in between," she says.

People produce personal stress during the holidays in attempts to recreate and recapture the love and magic remembered from childhood.

"Or what it was they thought they loved as children," says Melloni.

Melloni, now in diabetes research at Massachusetts General Hospital, worked at Somerville Hospital for 24 years. She and Pascucci have done stress management workshops together for two years.

Holiday overload starts with expectations.

Melloni describes television ads depicting perfect holidays.

Many people identify hopes and tasks viewed essential to the holiday mix. Relationships with families become idealized, fanning stress.

"We think that when we are together with our family, things will be different, better," says Pascucci. " The hope is there that problems will be resolved."

Yet, she says, in most cases, nothing had been done throughout the year to acknowledge or solve existing problems within a family. Tensions can, instead of easing, become further accentuated.

"People grow older," says Melloni.

"There's distancing. You're farther away from what you remember as a child."

For older people, distancing is more severe as the list of losses through death of friends and family lengthens.

More pressure is stirred into the dream by the media.

Melloni describes television ads depicting perfect holidays. Such scenes can set standards, already boistered by anticipation and memory, even higher.

"There's a great change in the normal routine," says Melloni. "That's stressful in itself.

"We add other things to do. Social calendars go off the wall. Yet the daily commitments of job, home and family are still there."

"People need to become more realistic," says Pascucci. "We have only 'x' amount of energy for shopping, entertaining,, baking, cleaning, and on and on."

Most people do manage holiday stress and enjoy, with some grumbles and headaches, their overloaded states.

Others, however, are sadly understressed, say Pascucci and Melloni. Due to financial or physical circumstances, they cannot participate as they wish in the holiday chaos.

"One of the terrible things about poverty is that people can't share," says Melloni. "Real financial constraints make them feel doubly deprived."

The elderly and ill also suffer underload, says Pascucci.

People suffering from arthritis, victims of stroke or other debilitating diseases cannot continue activities, such as crocheting or baking, which gave pleasure year-round, with added seasonal significance.

"These people are robbed twice over," she says. They lost valuable therapeutic outlets, as well as the ability to participate in the holidays as they once did.

The stress created by inactivity and deprivation can be just as damaging as that caused by the multitude of time-robbing and brain-drauining demands.

"Normal stress, positive stress, helps us to grow," says Melloni. "It is a motivator."

Extreme or chronic stress is debilitating, even dangerous. It drains mind and the body, making people less able to adapt to the needs of daily life and more vulnerable to illness.

Current theories suggest a relationship between certain body probelems and stress, says Melloni. Stress might contribute to ulcers, hypertension and possibly some types of cancer.

"It is very important to be aware of stress and what causes it," says Pascucci. "This varies from individual to individual.

"Some people bounce back in stressful situations and others fall apart", she says. "We have control over own lives and must take responsibility for ourselves."

The anti-stress team identifies protective measures for avoiding stress invasions during the holidays and throughout the year.

The stress caused by inactivity or deprivation can be just as damaging as that caused by the multitude of time-robbing and brain-draining demands.

Stress Free Stress Tips:

How to have hassle-free holidays?

Anti-stress experts Anna Melloni and Diane Pascucci suggest six steps to minimize the anxieties and overload that can invade this festive season.

Prioritize.

Holiday traditions and demands — real or imagined, can challenge routine limits of sanity, time and pocketbook.

If headaches and heartflutters are greater than the smiles of family and friends, back off.

Place realistic boundaries on what must and what can be done. Forget closet cleaning, buy a mince pie and send a gift certificate to the nephew in Duluth.

Eat Well.

Every tasty treat need not be devoured. Large intakes of sugar, caffeine, alcohol, salt and fats weaken well-being.

Martyrdom is not an answer, but moderation at the buffet table is an excellent ally in the stress struggle.

Rest.

Space events, energy and emotions. Build rest, even short breaks, into already hectic days. Invest in some private and quiet time.

The payoff promises greater enjoyment of everything.

Exercise.

Walk, jog, do sit ups, stretch, dance, move. Find the time for this sensible solution.

Exercise provides stamina and is a tonic for overworked minds and bodies.

Find Support

For many people, support networks are key anytime, and are more valued as seasonal stress increases.

People are there to help, listen, care.

Whether one is overloaded or overlonely, reach out to friends, families, neighbors, church or community groups for seasonal sharing.

Of course, it's all common sense, isn't it?

Happy holidays start from the inside.

Prioritize demands, recognize needs, and enjoy the process.

Replenishment, they say, is a major weapon.

"You must recognize what you need for yourself," says Melloni. "Be good to yourself so you can be good to others."

Pascucci sees a need for people, in addition to understanding personal needs and stress levels, to change habits — to focus control on their lives and what works for them.

"Free youself up to enjoy the process," she says.

The stress struggle has no easy and immediate answers.

Common sense rules are rapidly avoided as people rush and rave in daily routines. Yet, daily habits focusing on personal replenishment and care can support personal well-being through trying times, and highlight happier moments.

The role of nutrition is well-known for its contribution to mind

What's On The Boards By Dann Kosow

Cyrano Loses In Lots Of Holiday Shows

Catherine Rust Shines In Nigthawks

Review-The Gloucester Stage Company's world premiere of "Nighthawks," inspired by Edward Hopper's classic painting "Nighthawks At A Diner," is stamped with what has now become the trademark of the GSC -- brilliant ensemble acting!

Playwright Douglas Steinberg paints a canvas of character studies in the promising work-in-progress which is already slated for a Broadway mounting later this season.

On the boards through Dec. 22, "Nighthawks" features clever, insightful direction by Grey Cattell Johnson, a wonderfully authentic set by John Qualters, and a truly remarkable performance by Catherine Rust.

The script still requires work, segments of the first act being somewhat sluggish, but the second act builds with tremendous power and tension.

Set in New York City in 1942, during the black market war years, the action takes place in a "greasy spoon" of an all-night diner.

Owners Mae and Quig Horn (Ms. Rust and Al Morhmann) work the night shift, serving up coffee from second hands urns "a bit rusty on the inside."

As Mae joshes, if someone complains about the taste, "I tell'em it's Turkish blend." Lennie, an opportunist, is their daytime partner.

All the characters are losers. Mae experienced her moment in the sun as a 1928 Ziegfeld girl. Now resigned to slinging hash with dull Quig, Mae is frustrated, restless, and "going bonkers".

The drudgery has left her sullen, caustic and hypertense. 42 years old, with no hope and no future, she has become quick-tempered, outspoken and aggressive.

Quig is not too bright, with a bit of larceny in his bones, and, as an Italian, "a member of the family."

Among the customers is Sam (Mark Rogers), a long-time friend of the couple; Lucy (Doreen DiSanza), Mae's pretty neice and charge, who dreams of "getting out" and a better life; Clive Baldwin (Ken Cheeseman), Lucy's new boyfriend, a devious punk and a phoney; Face Dante (John Davin), a suave, small time Italian hoodlum who stutters when upset; and The Customer (David Zolfoli), an artist (Edward Hopper) who sits silently night after night sketching the low-life that frequent "the joint". With eight words of dialogue, yet onstage throughout most of the action, Zolfoli is quite amazing!

Middle-aged, lonely and single, Sam works as a bellhop in a near by hotel, in a "monkey suit" with "head down and palm out."

A polio victim and a cripple, Sam has always been sexually attracted to Mae. Now he obtains Quig's consent to "date" Mae, and Mae, desperate for any kind of diversion, is not adverse to the arrangement.

Sam steals sides of beef from the hotel which he sells to Quig at bargain prices. When Lennie discovers the deal, he pressures Sam for additional deliveries.

The black market meat actually belongs to the mob and Face confronts Quig and demands payment before anyone gets cut up.

Although the sum is repaid, the mob imposes a penalty; one of the lot must be sacrified to suffer facial disfigurement, and permanent bodily injury. The denounement is shattering!

Adaptation Of Cyrano Is Futile

Review-Theatre-goers who attended "Cyrando de Bergerac" at the Colonial Theatre, starring two-time Tony Award winner John Cullum in the tile role, witnessed an adaptation unlike any they had experienced before.

Indeed, the focus was so dramatically altered one scarcely recognized this classic story of unrequited love and its swashbuckling hero, gallent Gascon with the brillian, sardonic wit, poetic eloquence, and a protuberance so enormous as to be ludicrous.

Playwright Emily Frankel (Mrs. John Cullum) set out to streamline Edmond Rostand's original story in order to make it more appealing to modern (i.e.: youthful) audiences and in the process, she cut the ensemble to 17 performances (Rostand has over 50 characters), updated the play's language and imagery, and, at the same time, attempted to maintain in themes of comedy, adventure and romance.

Ms. Frankel obviously sensed a potential for light comedy and this is the tack she pursued. It was a valient experiment, but like oil and water, they simply did not mix.

The result was a burlesque, a Faydeau farce with Neil Simon one-liners.

Those seeing the play for the first time may have found it amusing, but purists were bound to be disappointed.

Wit and lyricism were downplayed. Buffoonery took center stage.

Romanticism and beauty were sacrificed, and those who cherish the Brian Hooker translation may have felt that Rostand's play, like our hero's symbol of purity of ideals, his white plume, had been defiled.

The only other major areas worthy of comment are the direction, set design, light design, and its star. The less said about the balance of the cast, the better. Staging by Arthur Storch was exciting and imaginative.

Victor A. Becker provided a most intriguing set, infinite rows of planks cascading from ceiling to floor and encompassing the entire stage.

Contemporary in concept, it worked amazingly well in depicting the lived locales; but again, it was jarring as a backdrop for 17th century France and for the poetic aspects of the play.

The title role is a part that is intended to overwhelm the play, a role that demands an indisputably versatile actor, a man blessed with glorious resonance and timbre of voice, limitless vocal and character shadings, dash and flair, finesse, eloquence, energy and panache, and Cullum more than fit the bill.

Maybe too much so, for when he died at the play's end, you almost believed it was simply another pratfall and that he would bounce up like a puppet and crack another sly joke.

Spewing forth the exquisite dialogue at rapid-fire pace (a la Martyn Green or Danny Kaye), much of the sentiment and sensitivity was lost and Cyrano became almost a cartoon character.

To use the time-tested adage, you don't fix what isn't broken!

Opera Company Presents Hansel And Gretel

The Opera Company of Boston, under the artistic direction of Sarah Caldwell, will present five holiday season performances of Engelbert Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" opening at 11 a.m., Thursday, Dec. 5, and continuing at 2 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 7-8, and 14-15.

To be conducted and staged by Miss Caldwell, the production will be sung in English and will star soprano Jeanne Ommerle as Gretel, mezzo-soprano Adelle Nicholson as Hansel, mezzo-soprano RoseMarie Freni as The Mother and also The Witch, and bass-baritone Raimund Herincx as The Father.

The sets and costumes, designed by Israeli artist David Sharir, have delighted and enchanted both children and adults with their ingenious blending of fantasy, magic and charm.

The cast is comprised of old friends and new company members. Miss Ommerle's performance as Musetta in "La Boheme" was acclaimed by the Boston Herald as "saucy, full of temperament, flirtatious, and, most importantly, imbued with great elegance and charm." Miss Nicholson (daughter of Opera Company stalwart Eunice Alberts), was described by the Boston Globe as having "a voice healthy as all outdoors."

Miss Freni repeats her triumphant performance as The Witch, and joining the company is Mr. Herincx, who has sung extensively with the Royal Opera at Covent Garden, the Metropolitan Opera, and the San Francisco Opera.

The Opera House box office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. Tickets may be charged to any major credit card by calling 426-2786. The Opera House is located in downtown Boston at 539 Washington st.

As the Boston Herald reported, "If you don't take your children by the hand and rush right down to the Opera House, you're going to miss out on the holiday's most delectable entertainment."

Trinity Rep Presents First Holiday Hurrah

Residents of Southeastern New England are eagerly awaiting the first ever "Holiday Hurrah, Thursday through Sunday, Dec. 5-8, at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet, Cranston, RI. Dubbed a "festive fair for kids of all ages," the event will unleash the first wave of holiday spirit for the 1985 yuletide season.

Presented by Trinity Repertory Company and sponsored by WLKW and WJAR, "Holiday Hurrah" will open on Thursday, Dec. 5, with a black-tie preferred opening gala. The following three days will be filled with displays and activities for adults and children alike.

Rhodes will be transformed into a fairyland that captures the fantasy and imagination of the holiday season. Regional artists and interior designers will create festive displays, including a giant gingerbread house, Victorian villages with trains, Christmas trees, storybook characters, Arabian Nights and more.

Holiday ceremonies will be held Dec. 6, inviting participation from school choirs and bellringers. Children will be encouraged to make ornaments for the fir trees and will be invited to join in the evening's decorating ceremony.

A number of local performing artists will entertain throughout the weekend. There will be jazz, folk, bluegrass and classical musicians, magicians and story-tellers, puppeteers, mimes and dancers.

Scrumptious holiday food and drink will abound. A special gift shop will feature arts and crafts.

Admission will be $3.50 for adults and $2.00 for children under twelve years of age. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Group discounts are available for 20 or more, and the event is accessible to the handicapped. Tickets for the Black and Silver Ball opening night party, Dec. 5 from 7 p.m. to midnight, are $125 per couple.

-Proceeds will help benefit Trinity Rep's Challenge Campaign. The theatre must raise $1.3 million in new and increased gifts by June, 1987.

For tickets or additional information, call the Trinity Rep box office at (401) 351-4242 or the Development Office at (401) 521-1100.

George Wein Tops Rooftop Jazz Series

America's foremost jazz impresario, George Wein, celebrates his 60th birthday in the Rooftop Jazz Series at the Starlight Roof, with Warren Vache on trumpet, Whit Browne on bass, Alan Dawson on drums, and Wein himself on piano.

Wein, who hails from Newton, has distinguished himself as the founder of the Newport Jazz Festival, and as the force behind the Boston Globe Jazz Festivals and the New York Jazz Festival, the New Orleans Jazz Festival, the Saragota Jazz Festival and many more both in the U.S. and abroad, too numerous to mention. Wein will perform Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6 and 7.

The outstanding lineup of jazz talent continues Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 12-14, with the gypsy guitar sensation, Bireli Lagrene and his trio. Lagrene, considered to be following in the footsteps of Django Reinhardt, will be making his Starlight debut.

The James Williams Quarter will appear Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 19-21, and Alan Dawson & Andy McGhee & Co. will perform Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 26-28 and Tuesday, Dec. 31.

Continuing entertainment at the Starlight Roof includes Jeff Lass on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 12:30 a.m., The Victor Mendoza Trio on Wednesdays from 8 p.m. to midnight, and Vance Gilbert on Thursdays and Fridays from 5 to 8 p.m.

The Starlight Rool is located at 575 Commonwealth ave. in Kenmore sq., atop the Howard Johnson's Hotel. Showtime is 9 and 11:30 p.m.. Tickets are available in advance by calling 497-1118. Call 267-6059.

The Friends of The Boston Ballet, Public Auction for the Arts, Friends of the Massachusetts Cultural Alliance and The Wang Center for the Performing Arts will host a Gala Nutcracker Ball after the opening performance of the Boston Ballet's 22nd production of The Nutcracker, Dec. 5, at The

Translation, Slated

Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

The party, designed for the whole family, will follow the 7:30 performance.

This gala event will be held in the Wang Center lobby, specially decorated for the occasion.

Soft Touch, a 26-piece jazz orchestra will be featured and a late supper will be served with champagne, cordials, egg nog, and a Sugar Plum Dessert Court.

The Boston Ballet cast of The Nutcracker will be in attendance along with magicians, mimes and costumed characters from the show.

Tickets to the gala include the performance and are $50 for adults and $30 for children under 18. For information and tickets, call 542-1323.

The Nutcracker will be performed Dec. 5 - 29 at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts, 270 Tremont st., Boston.

Juilliard At Jordan Hall

The Juilliard String Quartet will return to Jordan Hall at the New England Conservatory on Friday, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. to give the second of six concerts devoted to the complete cycle of Beethoven Quartets, under the auspices of the Wang Celebrity Series.

The remaining concerts will be performed on the following Fridays: Feb. 7, March 7, April 25, and May 2.

The Julliard String Quartet, hailed as the "first family of chamber music," continues in the tradition which has made it a touchstone of music excellence.

Comprised of violinist Robert Mann and Earl Carlyss, violists Samuel Rhodes and cellist Joel Krosnick, the Quartet is a favorite of Boston audiences.

It has been six years since the complete cycle of Beethoven Quartets was last performed in Boston by the Juilliard String Quartet.

Tickets for the Dec. 6 concert are on sale at the Jordon Hall box office. Call 536-2412.

Choir Boys At Symphony Hall

The beloved Vienna Choir Boys will perform a special Christmas program at Symphony Hall on Sunday, Dec. 8 at 3 p.m. in the Wang Celebrity Series. Ernest Raffelsberger will be conductor.

Founded by the humanist Emperor Maximilian I, just six years after Columbus made his first trip to the New World, the Vienna Choir Boys are both one of the world's oldest musical institutions and one of its youngest.

The 24 Austrian angels between the ages of eight and fourteen are the most popular choir ever to tour America, enchanting millions with the charm and excellence of their music-making.

Whether in Vienna or on annual three-month concert tours which take them to every corner of the globe, discipline is strict for the Vienna Choir Boys.

They rehearse regularly, observe early bedtimes, and are enrolled in an intensive academic program when not on tour.

For further information, call 266-1492.

Two Scrooges In Trinity's Christmas Carol

Trinity Repertory Company has announced that Howard London and Peter Gerety will share the role of Scrooge in this year's production of "A Christmas Carol," currently on the boards through Dec. 28.

The ninth annual mounting of the Charles Dickens classic, adapted by Adrian Hall and Richard Cumming, with original music by Mr. Cumming, has become a southern New England tradition during the holiday season.

A sellout annually, "A Christmas Carol" is directed by Company-member William Damkoehler. The scenery, lighting, and costumes are by Robert D. Soule, John F. Custer, and William Lane, respectively.

The cast will include company members Akin Babatunde, Stephen Berenson, Barbara Blossom, Brenda Jean Corwin, William Damkoehler, Scott DiDonato, Anne Farquhar, Keith Jochim, Richard Kavanaugh, Becca Lish, Margaret Marx, Brian McEleney, Ricardo Pitts-Wiley, Andrew Polk, Stella Reed, Cynthia Strickland, Frederick Sullivan, Jr., Patricia Ann Thomas, and Robert Whitney, plus as host of children as supernumeraries.

Performances are slated for 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday; 7 p.m. on Sunday; 2 p.m. on Sunday matinees; and selected Monday, Tuesday and Thursday matinees at 2 p.m. Additional performances are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m., Monday, Dec. 23; 2 and 7 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 24; and 2 and 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 26.

Group discounts are still available for selected performances, and children's ticket prices for all p.m. matinees is $10.

For reservations or further information, call (401) 351-4242 or visit the box office at 201 Washington st., Providence. Visa/MC accepted.

Beauty Part Next In Rep's Humanities Series.

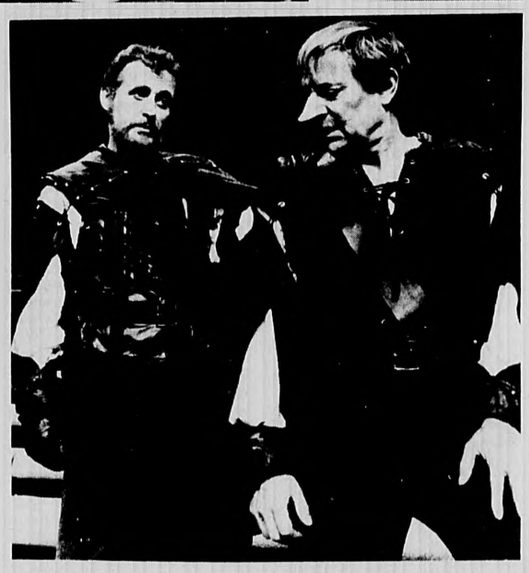
Trinity Repertory Company's award-winning Humanities series continues with another essay and post-performance discussion for S.J. Perelman's hilarious comedy, "The Beauty Part," which continues in the Downstairs Theatre through Jan. 5.

"The Beauty Part" is a delirious send-up of everything from Hollywood producers to private detectives.

The play follows the manic adventures of young Lance Weatherwax, whose search for "truth and beauty" leads his from an eccentric artist's apartment to a frantic TV studio in Hollywood.

The play is vintage Perelman, filled with extravagant dialogue, bizarre characters, and funny yet trenchant satire on American popular culture.

Performances are 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, 2 and 7 p.m. on Sundays, and 2 p.m. on selected Wednesday and Saturday matinees. For reservations and further information, call the box office at (401) 351-4242.



Clockwise from top left: Mark Rogers, Catherine Rust and Al Mohrmann appear in Nighthawks at Blackburn Tavern in Gloucester; Cyrano De Bergerac stars John Cullum in the title role, and his friend played by Sean Griffin, now at Colonial Theatre in Boston; Vienna Choir Boys will give a special Christmas concert in Symphony Hall Dec. 8; soprano Jeanne Ommerle will sing the role of Gretel in Hansel and Gretel performed by Opera Company of Boston.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Don't take on other people's burdens, and don't be afraid to speak out on things you feel strongly about. You have some very good ideas and are in a lucky cycle, so go for it! Recognition of your special talents will come.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — You're making some new beginnings and feeling independent, but don't neglect cooperative efforts — they'll pay back in kind. Lay out your plans carefully, be patient and get all the facts. New information proves valuable.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Listen to both sides and be the arbitrator in a family conflict. In a confusing situation make the effort to plow through red tape and get the information you need. Your fears dissolve when a decision is in your favor.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Holiday invitations and travel plans could excite you — just don't spread yourself too thin. The needs of family members or pets may take top priority now. Be sympathetic and diplomatic to co-workers who have problems.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Decide which of your creative, artistic ideas you want to implement and start making some Christmas gifts. In romance, the waiting game may be the best course to be sure you're being realistic. Your prestige among peers increases.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Renew contacts with old friends — send a card or letter, make every effort to be objective in a sticky domestic situation. Follow your instincts about a relationship that is intensifying and you'll get family approval.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — With some extra effort and dedication you can greatly increase your earning power now. Be alert for a communication that contains important information. There may be an opportunity to show off your talents and skills.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — The money you need for a decorating project could become available now. Your timing and judgment are good and you can pull off some inspired manuevers. Make future plans, including a long-range course of study.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Don't get involved in a behind-the-scenes struggle — keep a low profile until it blows over. Display a hidden talent that amazes everyone, including yourself. Get all the facts before starting a new project.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — It may be time to break with someone who has consumed much of your time, while giving little in return. Your magnetism is high and you're in touch with many important people. Romance could sparkle at a bright holiday party.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Look your best and let your personal style show through — you're in the spotlight now. New contacts, parties and lively discussions occupy your time and a new friendship could bloom. Have fun but don't neglect duties.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You could have a bright new idea that may involve travel. Take care of things that need doing, don't put them off — the temptation to procrastinate is great. Review your career goals and seize an opportunity.

Give Winter Birds Feast And Frolic: Make A Birdfeeder!

Story and Photos by Sharon Specht

With the coming of winter, pumpkins are in from the fields, sweaters appear on school children on their way to school, and the sky is black by 5 p.m.

Not all of the fine feathered creatures, however, vacation in warmer climates.

Birdfeeders, a long standing custom in many countries, offer an easy and relatively inexpensive assistance.

Not only can birdfeeders help the birds through the winter but they also provide hours of enjoyment for birdwatchers.

In Germany it was a tradition to hang food for the birds on trees at Christmas time.

Yet there is no reason to wait.

Elaine Boyer, administrative assistant at the Nature Center at Drumlin Farm, advises bird-lovers to hang feeders out with the start of the cold weather in the fall and to refill them often.

At Drumlin Farms in Lincoln, a recent workshop on making bird feeders had children and parents working side by side stringing cheerios and cranberries, and globbing peanut butter onto pine cones.

Amy, who enjoys coming to Drumlin Farm for nature classes says, "I like to feed the birds so they don't get hungry when it's cold out."

"I can't wait to go home and hang this up," says Tommy, energetically slapping peanut butter onto a pinecone. "I hope I can make some more!"

"Different birds like different food," says Boyer.

Ground feeders, such as mourning doves, finches and pheasants enjoy cracked corn. Small woodpeckers and certain types of finches like thistle seed.

Feeders can be adapted to suit different appetites.

Drumlin Farm, as an education center, offers a variety of programs, including the workshops activities for families on Sundays.

It is also a wildlife sanctuary which houses the headquarters for the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

The farm is named for a drumlin, a domed hill formed by a glacier, that is located south east of the Nature Center.

In 1905 the owners of the farm, Donald and Louise Gordon, invited children and adults to come and learn about the functions of a farm.

Guests were enthusiastic in their response to the educational opportunity provided. In 1955 Mrs. Gordon donated her estate to the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Upcoming events at the farm include:

An Adopt an Animal program as well as weekly nature classes for children are also offered.

For additional information about bird feeders and winter birds, call the Massachusetts Audubon Society at 259-9500.

Now get to work on those bird feeders, hang them up on nearby trees, and sit back to enjoy the feathered guests who come for dinner!

The Cheerio Loop

Cut about 12 inches of fishline and tie a knot at the end. String on a good size cranberry as an anchor.

Then string some cheerios, and alternate with cranberries as long as you want. Leave two inches of line.

The Peanut Butter Pinecone

This feeder is fun and easy to make, but a bit messy!

The Suet-Seed Bag

This favorite hanging birdfeeder is one that uses a used orange or onion bag — or any bag made from mesh.

Melt down some suet and mix it with birdseed. Let the suet/birdseed mixture harden and place it in the mesh bag.

This feeder is especially appreciated by nuthatches and chickadees who need the addition of some fat in their diet.

Other Feeders

Other natural hanging feeders include dried fruit suspended by a string, or a sunflower head positioned upside down.

Our Children
Supermarket Survival

Q. My grocery shopping is a constant frustration for me. I think I am an "enlightened parent," so I regularly take my 3-year-old with me. After all, the more experiences and communication the better — right?

Not always though, especially when I push him in the grocery cart past the breakfast cereals. He automatically reaches for and grabs the most sugar-coated ones.

I know they are not good for him, but I have a choice — let him grab or try to survive his howling. So far I've given in to avoid the confrontation.

But I know better. So please try to help me out.

A. How about expanding his experiences in other directions (the fire station, post office, other stores or shopping malls, for example), skipping that aisle in the grocery store, or trying to substitute another colorful, but less sugared, cereal (a pretty difficult approach)?

A 3-year old may sometimes be mature enough for a parent to use the reward route, based on what is sometimes called "Grandma's Law ("If you will do this, I will do that."). In this case what you may try to do is substitute a more acceptable purchase and bypass the cereal that is unacceptable to you.

Your problem can be a little warning to other parents not to let the sugar preference get started at all. It is obviously easier to prevent a habit than to change it.

"Thanks to my Amigo, I did my own Christmas shopping this year."

For the first time in 15 years, I could actually go out and do my shopping on my own. It felt so good not having to ask for help — not to be a drag on anyone. I feel so much more independent, thanks to my Amigo.

My battery-powered Amigo gives me the mobility I need around the house, and it easily fits into the trunk of the car, letting me shop, work, visit friends and go more places with my family.

If you or someone you know has difficulty walking, find out more about the Amigo. It's the original three-wheeled, battery-powered wheelchair, and the only one with a 5-year warranty.

Uncorking Holiday Beverage Pleasures

Uncorking the myths of champagne may make it easier to enjoy the holidays with a bit of the bubbly, according to Michel Budin, president of Perrier-Jouet champagne and a world authority on champagne. Following are comments to help dispel the myths of this classic drink.

Champagne makes me too tipsy.

"The alcohol content of champagne is equal to that of most red or white table wine, which is 12 to 12½ percent alcohol. Since champagne often is served during a moment of high spirits and celebration, there appears to be an almost psychological effect. The pop of the cork and the bubbles build anticipation of fun."

Champagne makes me sneeze.

"The bubbles in champagne, which are carbon dioxide gas, are one of the natural by-products of fermentation. Qualities of carbon dioxide are thrown off by all fermenting wines, but in the champagne process the bubbles are kept in the bottle. There is less gas in a bottle of champagne than in a comparable size bottle of carbonated soft drink."

Champagne is too sweet.

"Champagne can be sweet or dry. It is important to read the label carefully. It will help guide you in your selection. Most champagne sold in the United States is brut or extra dry — the two driest styles available. Sparkling wines usually have a sweeter taste."

You must drink the whole bottle or it goes flat.

"Granted, champagne is at the height of its effervescence when first opened; yet a half-full bottle placed in the back of the refrigerator holds most of its bubbles for a good 24 hours. Using a champagne stopper can help maintain champagne bubbles.

"Champagne does not go flat like carbonated soda because bubbles are a natural part of the wine. They are born in the bottle, not added. So they last longer.

"I must caution you, though, not to shake up the bottle because it will lessen its effervescence. After all, it is the bubble that we pay for!"

Champagne is too expensive.

"Champagne may seem expensive, but if you think of the experience and labor required to produce each bottle, you will begin to understand how reasonable the price is because of champagne's rareness, quality and delight. Champagne is made only in the Champagne region of France and from three very special grapes — the chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier. The chardonnay grapes cost two to three times more than grapes used to make conventional table wines and, unlike table wine, which has one fermentation, champagne has two. In addition, it is placed in a heavier bottle and requires greater care in its making."

I prefer wine to champagne.

"Champagne is wine."

It is too much fuss.

"If you are serving champagne, you need no other drink. Serving champagne is like having a whole bar rolled into one bottle. It suits most people's tastes. And since champagne is aged in the bottle, it is ready to drink when purchased. It must simply be chilled prior to serving."

It is hard to open.

"Once you open your first bottle of champagne, you will see how easy it is. To produce a soft, gentle pop and to avoid losing the precious liquid, handle the bottle gently. Slant the bottle in a 45-degree angle. Away from people, please. Unpeel the foil, untwist and remove the wire hood. Grasp the cork with thumb and forefinger, twisting the bottle in one direction, and let the pressure help push out the cork. Never use a corkscrew to open champagne."

I need special glasses to serve champagne.

"Any standard wine glass will do. Although many people believe that the saucerlike glass with the skinny base is the perfect champagne glass, it is not. Because of its flat surface, it dissipates the bubbles and prevents a concentration of aroma. An egg-shaped glass lets the bubbles rise and concentrates the aroma — assuring pleasure."

It is only for special occasions.

"Champagne is perfect for all occasions. In France we serve Perrier-Jouet anytime we want to make our guests feel special and honored. It's a perfect aperitif and perfect with the first courses and desserts, as well. It is the perfect, classic drink in France — why not America, too?"

Gifts That Satisfy Friends Food Cravings: Some Tasty Tips

Picture yourself doing all your Christmas shopping in a few hours and in only five stores. Imagine assembling 50 unique personal gift packages in 50 minutes without wrapping anything. Think of pleasing all the recipients immensely, without overspending.

"It's not only possible, it's incredibly easy," said Ron Solovitz, president of the Gourmet Group Ltd., manufacturers of Perfect Endings cakes.

"Since I'm in the specialty food business, I decided to get everyone food-related gifts last Christmas," he said. "But I didn't have a lot of time. So I made the usual Christmas list and next to each name I wrote that person's particular food passion. This formed the basis for a shopping scheme that yielded amazingly varied gifts tailored to the special cravings of each recipient.

Here's how you can do the same:

— List each person's favorite non-perishable food or flavor. Your list might include almonds, apricots, chocolate, cheese, coffee, hot peppers and spices, oranges, pasta, raspberries, walnuts and so on.

— Go to a local specialty food shop and pile a basket with gourmet goodies that include the preferred flavors — Jordan almonds, imported spiced apricots, Cointreau-soaked chocolate cake, Stilton cheese, decaffeinated mocha espresso, raspberry vinegar, dried jalapeno peppers, whole nutmegs.

— Head for the kitchen gadget section of your nearest department store. Look for items that in themselves would not make great gifts — slotted berry spoons, nutmeg graters, spice grinders and oversize coffee mugs — but would be wonderful additions to the food portion of each gift.

— Stop at a bookstore and pick up related cookbooks for those who might want to experiment further with their favorite food. Mexican cookbooks for the spice lover, cheese-serving guides for the cheese aficionados and the latest chocolate cookbook for those who simply can't resist that craving.

— For more expensive gift packages, pick up some cordials and liquors from a liquor store. Some liquor stores will deliver, so you may be able to eliminate this stop from your shopping spree.

— Buy shiny red paper shopping bags in several sizes, gift cards, white tissue paper and red-and-white striped ribbon at a gift wrap boutique.

Assembling the gifts is the most fun, Solovitz said. Line up the empty shopping bags, tape the recipient's name on each (later replace with proper gift card) and begin filling them. Control the total price of each gift by the number of items you place in each bag, saving the cordials and liquers for more costly gifts. Stuff tissue paper between items as needed. Add gift cards, remove the temporary labels and adorn with striped ribbon streamers.

You'll have an array of very personal, edible and enjoyable gifts for your friends and family. And anything that's left over, you can consume yourself.

Striking It Rich With Gold Jewelry

This holiday season easily can be hailed as the gilded age. Its gifts gleam with the warmth of shimmering gold to satisfy opulent tastes and create the fashionable "strike-it-rich" look of American and European fashion collections.

The fashion emphasis on dressing up and a stable gold price have rekindled the gold rush, according to the Gold Information Center. And an increasing variety of jewelry designs has kept the rush at full speed.

Goldsmiths have responded to changing lifestyles and fashion trends by creating a wide assortment of designs that complement every look, from traditional to trendy.

Jewelry and department stores throughout the country are well-stocked for the holiday season with an assortment of fashionable karat gold jewelry choices in all price ranges and styles.

For women on your shopping list, consider gold jewelry created with this year's romantic trend in mind — a rippled lacy cuff, a pair of rose-shaped earrings or a hammered bracelet incorporating a paisley motif. Pieces with unique texture and shape are increasing in importance among women who want to create an individualized fashion statement.

Other holiday gift front-runners include: gold coin and gold charm bracelets worn in multitude with several link bracelets for a sophisticated office look; gold bead necklaces worn in combination with the classic chain to complement tailored suits and geometric or angular jewelry such as a movable disk necklace or several interlocking triangles to form a bracelet.

For men on your list, consider their lifestyles so that you can select appropriate gifts. A conservative dresser may prefer gold with Old World charm — a pocket watch with fob, crest or signet ring or traditionally designed cuff links with coins, knots or monograms.

If his approach to fashion is more contemporary, consider a futuristic or high-tech piece of gold jewelry. Mixed with titantium, niobium or stainless steel, gold bracelets and necklaces look especially up-to-date. A geometric-styled ring with stone accents for color would be another good choice for the non-traditionalist.

With so many options available, there never has been a season like this one to remind us of gold's magic and power to stimulate the imaginations of jewelry and fashion designers. So, no matter what the fashion preference, you can color this Christmas gold.

Holiday Beauty And Hair Styles Abound

Gift shopping ... tree trimming ... cookie baking ... present wrapping. ... Don't look now, but the holidays are right around the corner.

Squeezed in between the traditional preparations, there's sure to be a lively schedule of holiday parties. Whether you're toasting the season with friends, family or coworkers, this is one time of year you really want to shine.

Even before the party circuit begins, take some time out to pamper yourself. Since beauty starts from the inside out, don't start sacrificing a good night's sleep as soon as the seasonal pace steps up. Trying to fit in too many holiday chores in too little time will only leave you with advanced stages of "holiday burnout" and certainly not in the mood to make merry.

The best way to keep burnout at bay is by setting priorities and sticking to them. Be sure to leave room in your schedule for indulging in a little personal pampering — a manicure, facial or massage is just what the doctor ordered.

Once you're feeling your best, you're ready to shine in this year's opulent look. This holiday's party style calls for nothing less than knockout glamour in makeup, accessories and hairstyles.

Evening wear has as radiance of its own, so after you've finally decided between the gold lame cocktail dress or the rich brocade dinner jacket, it's time to concentrate on the dazzling extras that will pull together a stunning look guaranteed to win second glances.

Go for drama, advised hairstyling experts at Goody Products, a manufacturer of hair accessories. To complement the rich fabrics and glittering textures of the latest fashions, today's hairstyles call for an elegant evening upsweep that fairly radiates glamour. If you're accustomed to wearing your hair down in a simple style, imagine how effective the element of surprise can be when you make your entrance in an upswept hairstyle.

One eye-catching style calls for hair to be caught up on one side with an elastic-coated ponytail holder. Use hairstyling gel on the ends and scrunch hair as you blow dry. You'll end up with a cascade of glamorous waves and a look that is sheer style.

You can create a variation on this look by using metallic-finish ponytail holders, available in a variety of holiday colors, to decorate hair. Pull your hair into a ponytail, then fasten the holders at one-inch intervals down the length of the ponytail. For another look, bobby pin the ponytail across and down the top of your head. You'll definitely create a little heat of your own with this showstopper.

If your hair is too short for an upswept style, a little creativity and styling mousse can offer the same illusion. Liberally apply mousse, then use a narrow mousse comb to direct hair to the nape of the neck. Attach a glittering bow to the nape or, better yet, use several rhinestone-accented barrettes to vertically outline the style from behind the ear to the nape.

Holiday Blessing: Fighting Stress

Avoid, or attempt to limit sweets, fats, salt, alcohol and caffeinated beverages, say these experts.

The holidays, of course, are a time of delightful excess and offer temptation, not temperance. Good intentions are often drowned with another glass of eggnog and a second sliver of pie.

Overindulgence of these caloric and caffeinated culprits, however, makes the body an easier target for stress, says Melloni.

Exercise, that other easily ignored good deed, strengthens the being. People must be realistic and find activities and times that suit their own needs and schedules.

"It doesn't have to be strenuous to be helpful," says Melloni. "Walking, even in the malls, is fine."

Rest, and adequate sleep, is another ingredient in the experts' recipe for replenishment.

"People need to give themselves permission to take a 'relaxation period' during the day," said Melloni. She advocates ten-minute breaks each day, as prescribed by Dr. Herbert Benson in "The Relaxation Response."

"It lets people empty their minds," she says.

"People also need support systems," says Pascucci.

Some people can be alone but others need other people, she says. Sharing can be valuable medicine for holiday and everyday stress.

"People need to reach out. Tell other people what your needs are," she says.

Those alone and ill, the holiday understressed, can contact local churches and senior citizen centers to learn about possible programs and events offering holiday sharing and sustenance.

"Everyone has the opportunity, even if you don't have money, to invite a friend or neighbor in for a cup of tea," she says.

Pascucci adds large doses of humor to the recommended arsenal of stress fighters.

"We need to laugh."

Research, she says, identifies actual physiological changes that can take place in the body when love and happiness are experienced.

"I read somewhere that life is too important to be taken seriously," she says.

Stress and the holidays?

Good intentions are part of the holidays.

Its negative products, whatever they be for each person, can become the underpinning for New Year's resolutions that stick around and turn into daily habits.

But now, there's so much to do. The cards, the gifts, the parties, the mincemeat pies, the homemade wreaths, the new shoes for the kids.

The Santa Claus face for the front door, the fresh holly that droops berries and leaves on the carpet, the tinsel that hangs around until Valentine's Day.....

The Nutty Holiday Treat

and inconsistent quality make Brazil nuts difficult to use. They are usually eaten alone, but are sometimes added to confections and puddings.

Brazil nut trees grow only in the Amazon, where most nuts are still harvested in the wild. Few trees have been commercially planted.

Brazil exports the nuts primarily to the U.S., Great Britain, and West Germany.

In recent years, slash-and-burn agriculture, expanding cattle ranches, and industrial development in Brazil have disrupted Brazil nut production. Supplies, never high, are expected to fall.

Cashews. Creamy in texture and delicately flavored, cashews are a favorite snacking nut. They can also be used in baking and candies, and are sometimes found ground into cashew butter.

Realted to poison ivy and poison oak, the cashew is never sold in the shell. An irritating oil in the shell's middle layer can severely blister the skin.

Cashews are also native to the Amazon, but are now produced primarily in Africa and India. The cashew ranks third in world production.

Chestnuts. Sweet and nutty, chestnuts are used extensively in Europe for cooking, baking and confectionary. To roast chestnuts, swirl them in a bit of oil and place in a covered container. Bake at low temperature in the oven until the shell pops open. Eat warm.

Chestnuts are available in American markets only sporadically. They do not store well, and should be used quickly.

Chestnut trees are native to Europe, Asia, North and South America. Chestnut blight has decimated the North American population, however, and nuts are commercially produced primarily in China, Japan, and Italy.

The edible chestnut should not be confused with the horse-chestnut, which is inedible.

Because filberts are harvested in France near the end of August, legend has it that the nut takes its name from St. Philibert's Day, Aug. 22.

The tree is native to Asia, Europe, North and Central America, but most nuts come from Turkey and Italy.

Macadamia nuts. Smooth, round, and crunchy, the macadamia nut is delicious by itself and in ice creams, cheesecakes, and cookies.

Commercial airliners are credited with introducing this nut to the general public. Since then, a taste for it has grown, and consumer demand far outstrips supplies.

The macadamia nut tree is native to Australia, but Hawaii is the major producer. Trees planted in California, Florida, and other countries in the late 1970s, and harvests are expected soon. Hawaii is also expanding production. This increased competition and greater supply may bring down consumer prices somewhat.

Pecans. Sweet and tender, pecans are used in pies, cakes, ice cream and other confectionary. They are also popular out of hand.

Pecans are native to North America, and were introduced to European settlers by the North American Indians. The settlers soon exported them to Europe, where they have become increasingly popular.

The Southern states, primarily Georgia, are major producers, although pecan trees grow as far west as New Mexico.

Walnuts. Crunchy with a slight bitter tang, walnuts are good out of hand, and in ice cream, cakes and candies.

Walnuts spoil quickly after chopping, once exposed to air. After shelling, they should be stored in the refrigerator, tightly wrapped.

The English (or Persian) walnut tree is native to Europe, the Middle East, and East Asia. The U.S. now takes the lead in worldwide English walnut production.

The black walnut tree is native to the U.S. and is valued as much for its wood as its nuts. Black walnuts are not usually marketed far from the tree. The tough shell makes the black walnut less desirable commercially.

Remember — nuts are highly adaptable foods. They will blend and contrast well when added to most recipes. Experiment. There is no better time than the holidays.

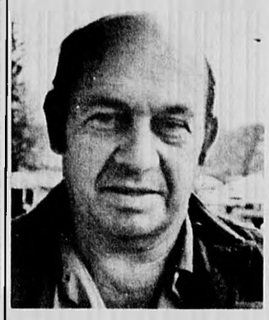
What Do You Say?

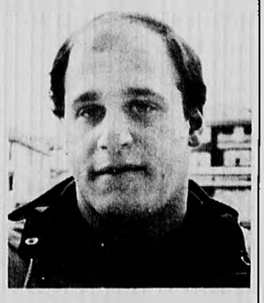
What's The Best Or Worst Part Of Your Job?

By LINDA RAUCH



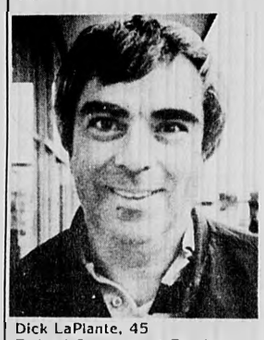
Gus Balducci, 56
Building Superintendent
Winchester

I love it. I am a building superintendent for the Wincester Savings Bank. My day is always different and there are always new challenges. I love the people I work with; they're of all ages, young and old.



Tom Shapiro, 24
Cook, Westin Hotel
Arlington

I started work about two weeks ago as a cook at the Westin Hotel. I like the challenge, going in the city, and meeting a lot of different people.



Dick LaPlante, 45
Federal Government Employee
Arlington

The best part of my job is the people I work with. I've worked with them for 25 years and they are definitely the best part. The worst part is being a federal employee because this administration is anti-federal government. Reagan wants to go towards private industry and we have to take the brunt of pay cuts and lower retirement benefits.

Michael Purchia, 36
Company Chairman
Winchester

I'm the chairman of the company Fitcorp Health Care Centers of Boston so I run my own show. I worked with a bank in New York for 12 years and now I'm doing something on my own. It's terrific. The company was started with a college roomate from Tufts so the business-friendship relationship seems to work.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself.

You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friends's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to overpricing frequently becomes a White Elephant. It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over from Maine to Rhode Island to New York but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Borjeson at 1-835-3102 for further information 11.3/TF

Fairs & Bazaars

'Tis The Season!

AND NOTHING adds to the nostalgic festive spirit of the holiday season quite like an old fashioned neighborhood fair or bazaar. Don't leave advertising of your special event to word of mouth and xeroxed flyers in store windows! Just place an ad in this category and reach over 39,000 homes! It's as easy as mailing a Greeting Card! Mail ad along with payment to: Century Newspapers, 3 Church Street, Winchester, MA 01890.

FAIR & BAZAAR Ads are priced at $10 for the first 15 words. 30 cents per each additional word. For this price the ad will run one week in The Arlington Advocate, Winchester Star, Belmont Citizen, Belmont Herald, Watertown Sun and Newton Transcript. In order to keep this low cost and enable the ad to appear in all six newspapers, IT IS REQUIRED THAT THE AD BE PRE-PAID either in person or by mail.

T.F. stands for TOTALLY FANTASTIC rates!

When you run a T.F. (till further notice ad) with Century Classifieds you get the advantage of running your ad continuously in 6 newspapers until YOU decide to cancel.

You will also receive a guaranteed place in the category of your choice. You will never be placed any lower in the category and should the advertiser above you cancel you will automatically be moved to that higher spot!

25 words or less with no subheading	$ 4.00 per week $16.00 per month
25 words or less with one line of subheading	$ 4.70 per week $18.80 per month
25 words or less with two lines of subheading	$ 5.40 per week $21.60 per month
25 words or less with three lines of subheading	$ 6.10 per week $24.40 per month

Six week run minimum is required on all T.F. advertising.

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit – alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts – is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department

Fire Strikes Store

Washington Street Shop, Apartment Heavily Damaged

By JILL M. HIGGINS and MAUREEN QUINLAN

A smokey Tuesday afternoon fire ripped through newly opened Sabatino's Gourmet Foods on Washington st., gutting the market and heavily damaging an apartment on the second floor.

Winchester Fire Chief estimated the two-alarm blaze caused at least $75,000 in damages; no injuries were reported.

McElhinney said firefighters were able to contain the blaze enough to prevent it from destroying the third floor.

"If it had gotten to the third floor, we might have lost the whole building," said McElhinney. He said the fire appears to have been caused by an electrical problem, but inspectors are still investigating the incident.

McElhinney said Sabatino's tenant said she saw smoke spewing from the bedroom walls, at which time she went downstairs to inform Sabatino, who was working at the food market on the first floor.

The fire progressed so rapidly, said McElhinney, that "by the time we arrived, there was smoke all over Washington st."

"The fire had swept through the ceiling," said McElhinney. "There was a lot of smoke, but when we pulled the ceiling down there were lots of flames, too."

Police blocked off the section of Washington st. near the fire scene for about two hours and rerouted traffic to Highland ave. and Main st.

As the crowd gathered to watch firefighters battle the smokey blaze, owner William Sabatino was comforted by sympathetic friends and neighbors.

The blaze was an especially cruel blow to the 11-year Winchester resident, who only months ago won a hard fought battle to acquire a take-out license. The fledgling business featured mainly Italian specialities and had just begun offering full meals for take out.

Over the summer, Sabatino poured a substantial amount of money into refurbishing the building, the site of the former Lynch's Market.

"He's been a good neighbor," said Michael Mistretta of 5 Harvard st., whose home is directly behind Sabatino's. "It's a shame this happened — he put so much effort into making the place look good."

Neighbor Diane Spezzaferri said she had been in the store only a half hour before the blaze broke out. She said she returned to the store and saw smoke in the distance.

"I came back for more meat sauce. . . I saw smoke from the distance, but I didn't know it was Sabatino's," she said.

Hugo Tranfaglia of nearby Swanton st. said he came to the scene after he saw ambulances near the end of his street.

"It's a shame, this fire," said Tranfaglia, shaking his head. "He (Sabatino) spent so much fixing it up and now this. . . "

"He loses out twice," said another neighbor, "First the house and then the business, too. It's just makes you heartsick."

Eateries In Line For Valet Parking

By JILL M. HIGGINS

If a plan suggested Monday by Selectmen comes to fruition, Winchester's three new restaurants may soon have valet parking service.

That will mean hands off — or cars off — the parking spaces in front of each restaurant.

Lucia's Ristorante is located on Mount Vernon st., while The Dover Grille is at Thompson st. and Maximilian's Cafe is at Converse pl. All are located within the newly renovated downtown area and opened up within the last six months.

"The idea came up during the course of a discussion at an economic development committee meeting," said Selectmen chairman Alan Macdonald on Tuesday.

Macdonald said the valet parking could be put into effect sometime during the holiday season, although that is not certain as yet.

He said there are some details that have to be ironed out, such as having the town engineering department determine which parking spots would be most suitable for valet parking.

He said the restaurants must also be given time to hire personnel for the valet jobs.

"We didn't set a starting date," said Macdonald. "The board pretty much left it up to Chad (Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer) and Cathy Alexander of the Chamber of Commerce to figure out."

On Monday, Selectman Michael Saraco said he has some reservations about tying up parking spots in the downtown area for a select few businesses.

"We'll be limiting the parking. I think we should think about this before we go closing off three or four spaces in front of each restaurant," said Saraco.

Also, he said it had come to his attention that perhaps the town common needn't be as large as it is.

"Maybe if we cut down on the size of the common, we can add a few more parking spaces over on Church st.," suggested Saraco.

Still, he said, if the town used the Shore rd. parking lot more, there would be "plenty" of parking in town.

Macdonald said that they have received no complaints so far from other merchants, but he said if there are substantial complaints the board will rethink the proposal.

"No, no complaints as yet," said Macdonald. "But if we do get some, we'll adjust the plans accordingly."

He said as far as he is concerned the valet parking plan is not offering preferential treatment for the restaurants.

"Valet parking is just one way of dealing with the downtown parking program — an issue we hope do more on in the spring.

"Obviously, we can't have designated parking places for every business in town. But restaurants are a little different," he said.

"You don't know how it'll work out until you try it. Who knows? We may even find out that the parking places in front of the restaurants are already being used by the restaurant patrons — We may actually find that we'll be opening up more spaces."

Winchester's police and fire departments could be "home" for the holidays if construction crews wrap up work according to latest plans.

Meanwhile, town officials are gearing up for possible lawsuits stemming from the project's repeated completion delays.

According to Permanent Building Committee chairman Walter Tonaszuck, fire personnel could move into the refurbished Mount Vernon st. station by the end of this week, with the police to follow within about a week.

Since the $2.7 million project began more than a year ago, the Police Department has been housed in the basement of the Lynch School, off Horn Pond Brook rd.

The police communications system has been operating from inside in a portable trailer at the right of the Mount Vernon st. station.

Fire personnel, who were not intended to be moved from the Mount Vernon st. building, were ousted last spring when it became impossible for construction crews to work around the fire trucks. The fire crews have been working from the Department of Public Works headquarters on Lake st.

"I'm a little bit gun-shy about predicting when everything will be done because of all the delays," said Tonaszuck on Tuesday.

"Every time we set a 'completion' date, it seems like it falls through because something isn't ready," he said.

Meanwhile, town counsel Douglas Randall said he expects the town and the contractor will wind up in a legal feud over the extra time taken to complete the project.

In science education, Winchester is acknowledged as having one of the finest programs in the country.

The National Science Teachers Association has recognized Winchester's programs in Physics, Introductory Physical Science (IPS), and elementary school science as outstanding and exemplary for Massachusetts and the nation.

A member of Winchester graduates go on to further education in science and careers in research and engineering.

But most importantly, a large majority of Winchester students have such favorable exposure to science early on that they continue with science all through high school.

This year 839 high school students are enrolled in one of the many levels of general science, chemistry, biology and physics classes. This represents over 70 percent of the student population, a high figure when compared to the national average, and a percentage which has remained this high for the last decade.

What are the reasons behind the general appeal of the sciences at the Winchester schools, and their record of awards and praise for science education?

Francis Finnegan, director of science education in Winchester, gives a lot of credit to the school system's science teachers and the community.

"We have a skilled and dedicated faculty who are all very involved in the program," says Finnegan.

"We also live in an atypical academic oriented community," he continues. "Many parents of our students work in higher education and many have been involved in the development of our curriculum."

The curriculum is an intriguing mixture of dedication to "the basics" combined with a liberal and creative approach to basic subjects.

"One of the things I have not allowed into our program are courses like water ecology or other types of

Woman Joins Fight To Clean Up Toxic Waste

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

In May of 1986 the legislature will vote on a plan to study and clean up some 1,000 sites around the Commonwealth in six years.

Last week, Knopf announced that enough signatures had been collected locally to put a petition before the state legislature.

Knopf, local coordinator for the Massachusetts Campaign to Clean Up Hazardous Waste, said 250 signatures were collected in Winchester, 181 from Woburn and 86,221 statewide.

Knopf said 61,508 signatures were required for the state to vote on it.

Knopf was somewhat distressed at the lack of response in Winchester and in Woburn, but attributed it to limited time and resources. Knopf said she received the petition from the state the last week in October and sent it back Nov. 10.

She said, "I'm involved because I'd like to see the world a safer place to live in for our children."

As conservation chairman for the Garden Club and as a volunteer for the Winchester Trails nature group, Knopf said she has a particular interest in the environment.

"People can really make a difference," said Knopf, saying petitions can be a key way for citizens to participate in major legislative decisions.

"I'm particularly interested because Winchester is downstream from the Industri-Plex site in Woburn," she said. The Industri-Plex and the G & H Wells sites, both in Woburn, are eligible for federal cleanup funds.

Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Deborah Prybyla said on Tuesday that the sites are the only two in Woburn eligible for federal funds because they are considered potential long-term threats to public health.

Prybyla said the EPA follows certain steps to determine which sites require federal funds. First, she said, the EPA identifies a potentially hazardous waste site and performs limited studies of the area.

If the site is found to be a serious threat, it is then considered eligible for federal "Superfund" cleanup money. "Superfund" was established in 1980 and designated for distribution through the EPA. It expired Sept. 30, 1985.

Prybyla said the EPA has so far spent $1.6 billion conducting tests and studies throughout the Commonwealth on various toxic waste sites.

According to Prybyla, the G & H Wells site study, begun in November of 1984, is currently in the first stage or remedial investigation phase.

The investigation, Prybyla said, will determine the type and extent of the contamination.

The second step is a determination of feasibility, during which the EPA evaluates clean up options. Prybyla said the two step study usually takes from 18 months to two years.

Panel Tackles Environmental Issues

By AMY B. CRANE

Environmental experts agree the federal government has done a great deal to aid the environment but said in an environmental forum pressing problems that need to be examined and solved.

Money shortages, lack of trash disposal alternatives, nuclear waste disposal and hazardous waste pollution were some of the challanges of the future cited by panelists speaking Dec. 6 at a Federal Environmental Protection Agency New England Citizens' Briefing.

"We are celebrating the 15th anniversary of EPA and we have found it is no longer acceptable to exploit nature," said EPA Region 1 Administrator Michael Deland.

"The state of the environment today is basically safe but precariously so. We need constant vigilance to protect it. We get new problems at a rate that outstrips our ability to cope with old ones," said Deland.

"Our successes fade in front of the increase in pressing problems," Deland said, noting that "problems are coming closer to home and are becoming more difficult to solve."

Panelists agreed that clean up of trash, nuclear and toxic waste is one problem the EPA and the environmental establishment currently faces which is already a bad problem and is one likely to get worse.

"We have to clean up the messes that we've already made," said Panelist Dr. Donald Hornig, director of the Interdisciplinary programs in health at Harvard's School of Public Health.

"There is an emerging challenge in generation and disposal of general and hazardous waste," Deland said. "There are contamination problems that could hurt us."

However, he said, "few among us would support the siting of a waste management facility in our backyards, but we do have a responsibility for waste managment. That responsibility lies at the source and not out of sight out of mind."

The country may always need some traditional waste disposal facilities, so maybe we should bite the tough political bullet and do it now, he

This represents over 70 percent of the student population, a high figure when compared to the national average, and a percentage which has remained this high for the last decade.

What are the reasons behind the general appeal of the sciences at the Winchester schools, and their record of awards and praise for science education?

Francis Finnegan, director of science education in Winchester, gives a lot of credit to the school system's science teachers and the community.

"We have a skilled and dedicated faculty who are all very involved in the program," says Finnegan.

"We also live in an atypical academic oriented community," he continues. "Many parents of our students work in higher education and many have been involved in the development of our curriculum."

The curriculum is an intriguing mixture of dedication to "the basics" combined with a liberal and creative approach to basic subjects.

"One of the things I have not allowed into our program are courses like water ecology or other types of

Woman Joins Fight To Clean Up Toxic Waste

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

In May of 1986 the legislature will vote on a plan to study and clean up some 1,000 sites around the Commonwealth in six years.

Last week, Knopf announced that enough signatures had been collected locally to put a petition before the state legislature.

Knopf, local coordinator for the Massachusetts Campaign to Clean Up Hazardous Waste, said 250 signatures were collected in Winchester, 181 from Woburn and 86,221 statewide.

Knopf said 61,508 signatures were required for the state to vote on it.

Knopf was somewhat distressed at the lack of response in Winchester and in Woburn, but attributed it to limited time and resources. Knopf said she received the petition from the state the last week in October and sent it back Nov. 10.

She said, "I'm involved because I'd like to see the world a safer place to live in for our children."

As conservation chairman for the Garden Club and as a volunteer for the Winchester Trails nature group, Knopf said she has a particular interest in the environment.

"People can really make a difference," said Knopf, saying petitions can be a key way for citizens to participate in major legislative decisions.

"I'm particularly interested because Winchester is downstream from the Industri-Plex site in Woburn," she said. The Industri-Plex and the G & H Wells sites, both in Woburn, are eligible for federal cleanup funds.

Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Deborah Prybyla said on Tuesday that the sites are the only two in Woburn eligible for federal funds because they are considered potential long-term threats to public health.

Prybyla said the EPA follows certain steps to determine which sites require federal funds. First, she said, the EPA identifies a potentially hazardous waste site and performs limited studies of the area.

If the site is found to be a serious threat, it is then considered eligible for federal "Superfund" cleanup money. "Superfund" was established in 1980 and designated for distribution through the EPA. It expired Sept. 30, 1985.

Prybyla said the EPA has so far spent $1.6 billion conducting tests and studies throughout the Commonwealth on various toxic waste sites.

According to Prybyla, the G & H Wells site study, begun in November of 1984, is currently in the first stage or remedial investigation phase.

The investigation, Prybyla said, will determine the type and extent of the contamination.

The second step is a determination of feasibility, during which the EPA evaluates clean up options. Prybyla said the two step study usually takes from 18 months to two years.

Panel Tackles Environmental Issues

By AMY B. CRANE

Environmental experts agree the federal government has done a great deal to aid the environment but said in an environmental forum pressing problems that need to be examined and solved.

Money shortages, lack of trash disposal alternatives, nuclear waste disposal and hazardous waste pollution were some of the challanges of the future cited by panelists speaking Dec. 6 at a Federal Environmental Protection Agency New England Citizens' Briefing.

"We are celebrating the 15th anniversary of EPA and we have found it is no longer acceptable to exploit nature," said EPA Region 1 Administrator Michael Deland.

"The state of the environment today is basically safe but precariously so. We need constant vigilance to protect it. We get new problems at a rate that outstrips our ability to cope with old ones," said Deland.

"Our successes fade in front of the increase in pressing problems," Deland said, noting that "problems are coming closer to home and are becoming more difficult to solve."

Panelists agreed that clean up of trash, nuclear and toxic waste is one problem the EPA and the environmental establishment currently faces which is already a bad problem and is one likely to get worse.

"We have to clean up the messes that we've already made," said Panelist Dr. Donald Hornig, director of the Interdisciplinary programs in health at Harvard's School of Public Health.

"There is an emerging challenge in generation and disposal of general and hazardous waste," Deland said. "There are contamination problems that could hurt us."

However, he said, "few among us would support the siting of a waste management facility in our backyards, but we do have a responsibility for waste managment. That responsibility lies at the source and not out of sight out of mind."

The country may always need some traditional waste disposal facilities, so maybe we should bite the tough political bullet and do it now, he

At 4:10 p.m., a Wildwood st. resident reported her car was broken into for the second time in one week. She told police a $200 alarm was stolen and a half a tank of gas was used. The ignition was also altered, police said.

At 8:14 p.m., an 11-year-old girl was assaulted by an unknown assailant, police said.

She told police she was leaving the Christmas lighting ceremony at the town commons and walking toward Laraway rd. parking lot when someone pushed her from behind to the ground. She said he chased her but she got away, police said.

The girl told police the man was 5'8" to 6' tall, wore a dark colored ski mask and a dark colored leather type jacket, police said.

Blaze Damages House On Cambridge Street

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Fire officials suspect arson was the cause of a Sunday morning blaze that heavily damaged a home under construction on Cambridge st. near the Woburn line.

At 6:14 a.m., Winchester and Woburn Fire Departments responded to the home owned by Giovani Marvino, of 15 Clayton ave., Medford.

According to reports, fire officials said the fire is believed to have started near a pile of debris in the basement of the house.

Winchester Fire Captain Charles McNutt, the department arson investigator, said the blaze appeared to be "deliberate arson."

However, McNutt was reportedly unable to find an accelerant which could have been used by someone to ignite the blaze.

As is routine in suspected arson incident, photographs were taken of the structure, indicating heavy damage, according to police.

No estimate of the damage was available and the incident is still under investigation.

HAVE YOU HEARD?...
by PAUL J. CONNOLLY

WHISTLING AIDS

Q. Why do hearing aids whistle whenever an object comes close to them?

A. Sensitivity is a hearing aid's prime virtue, but the too-close proximity of any object — a hand, a hat, a hairbrush — can make it whistle. Because microphone and receiver are so close to each other, whistling can occur if the volume control setting is high enough with almost all behind-the-ear and in-the-ear systems. However, once the user understands and adjusts to the aid's behavior, such acoustical feedback can be avoided. It in no way detracts from the many advantages of wearing a hearing aid.

Group Seeks Input On Town Hall Restoration

By JILL M. HIGGINS

The Town Hall Advisory Committee is looking for ideas — ideas that will breathe life into the aging, impressive building on Mount Vernon st.

For months, the committee has met each week to try to come up with a plan to restore the ornate structure, which will celebrate its 100th anniversary next year.

At the fall Town Meeting, the committee asked Town Meeting members to answer a questionnaire.

It asks members to seek input from their precincts about how town residents want the town hall put to use.

But Daniel Chane, chairman of the committee, says that fewer than a half dozen Town Meeting members have responded to the committee's cry for help.

"It's frustrating," said Chane. "You would think that people would want to have a say in how their own town hall is restored, but there hasn't been any real response to speak of."

Chane said his group had hoped to gain some insight into the town's desires for the structure, so that architects might be secured by the early part of next year.

At a recent meeting, the committee heard Boston architect William Rowe discuss the feasibility of combining the interior and exterior jobs.

"This is ethically very difficult for me," said Rowe, who is in line for the architectural contract. He said that combining the interior and exterior jobs would likely save the town more in the long run, because a single architect for the entire renovation would be more knowledgeable about the scope of work.

"It'd cost you more for you to have two architects because somebody's going to have to coordinate the two (interior and exterior) said Rowe.

Because the town still must go through the process of accepting bids and accepting renovation plans, it is unlikely work will begin before two more winters.

"The earliest time for a contractor to get on the job will be mid-October to November," said Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer at the committee meeting.

Rowe said that while that would mean the town hall have to withstand two winters instead of the hoped-for one, the added time probably would not harm the renovation efforts.

"It's got 100 years behind it — I don't think one more winter is going to make that much of a difference," said Rowe.

Among the architectural findings the committee has been mulling over is the proposed refurbishing of a library above the town clerk's offic

Postcards, some dating back as far as 1908, picture the Town Hall on Mount Vernon st. Note that one card even denotes the town hall as a "city hall." In those early days of the building, the town library was also included in the same building. The Town Hall study committe is considering opening up the old library area, which has long since been covered up. (Postcards courtesy of the Town Hall Committee)

Residents Urged To Make Choice In Service

"If you don't choose a long distance company, we'll have to choose one for you."

Roberta Clement, New England Telephone public relations manager, said that's the message behind New England Telephone's effort to encourage its Winchester customers to select the primary long distance company of their choice for making "1" plus area code calls.

"The selection process has been underway for several weeks," said Clement. "It reached a new phase November 2, when "1" plus area code dialing officially became available to Winchester customers using the long distance company they've selected."

She said that the selection process is an integral part of a telephone industry restructing that requires New England Telephone and other local telephone companies across the nation to develop a fully competitive market for customer access to long distance companies.

"As part of this process," Clements pointed out, "New England Telephone and other local telephone companies are required by the Federal Communications Commission to allocate phone customers who do not make a choice among the long distance companies serving their area.

"This means that customers have an opportunity to select a long distance company, either the one they use now or a different one, before a selection is made for them sometime in the future."

To assist customers in selecting a long distance company, New England Telephone has mailed customers an information packet that includes a list of the names, addresses and phone numbers of the companies serving Winchester customers whose phone numbers begin with 721 and 729.

Long distance companies offering to serve customers in Winchester are: GTE Sprint direct dial service, MCI dial 1 service, SBS Skyline (sm) long distance, Allnet dial 1 service, First Phone LINK service(TM), Western Union Long Distance Services, TDX Systems, Inc., AT&T Long Distance Service, ITT Longer Distance Service, and US Telecom.

Customers with questions regarding the selection process, or who want to sign up with a long distance company, may call New England Telephone toll free at 1-800-555-5000

LOOK AT THE NEIGHBORHOOD

One of the most important things you should do before you buy a house is take a close look at the neighborhood. That's what makes location so important in any house-buying decision. No matter how attractive the house may be, the neighborhood location is of primary importance from an investment point of view.

Look at the surrounding houses to see if they are well maintained. If there are large tracts of vacant land nearby, ask your Realtor to check with the local planning commission to find out what their future may be. If you're buying a house in an attractive residential neighborhood, any commercial development may have an impact on property values.

If you have children of school age, your Realtor can also help you by providing information about the school system. Local Realtors are acutely aware of all local conditions that will affect homeowners in the market area. This is just one of many professional services your Realtor can provide.

Board Delays Vote On Kindergarten Classes

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

School Committee members dodged a vote Tuesday night on the proposed optional all-day kindergarten program, although members appear to favor extending all half-day programs.

Members said they would like to extend each program by 45 minutes and look at the results after a year.

Committee member Catherine Alexander urged the board to keep in mind high budget costs when considering potential kindergarten programs.

The committee chose to vote on the two other sections of the early childhood program.

Five members voted in favor and one abstained to keep any child under 5 as of Sept. 1, 1987 from entering kindergarten and any child under 6 as of Sept. 1, 1988 from enrolling in first grade.

Members voted unanimously to institute a transition/readiness program for children not developmentally ready for the first grade.

Supt. Charles Mitsakos said it is an "intermediate step that some children need."

In other action, the committee voted to approve Winchester High School's course offerings for 1986-87 school year.

The committee approved the French Exchange trip in Febuary. 18 sophomores, juniors and seniors have been chosen.

The trip is scheduled for Jan. 31 to Feb. 23. The students will miss a total of 10 days of school plus the Febuary vacation.

According to the itinerary, the students will visit Lycee Claude Debussy, a school in St.-Germain-en-Laye, a suburb of Paris.

Leslie Hastings, exchange coordinator and french teacher, and Marta Sartori, the foreign language department aide will act as group leaders.

Budget discussions, on the agenda for Tuesday night's meeting were tabled until the board's next meeting, January 14.

Supt. Mitsakos made commendations and congratulations to:

- Ted Benton and David O'Reilly for their work on the Red and Black The High School newaspaper received first place award by Columbia Press.
- Terry Clements, Marianne Murray, Marialice Curran for receiving the first place team sweepstakes trophy in small school category at the Tabor Academy Speech Tournament.
- Deborah Maida, Sara Porell and Julie Guarnotta for being selected for the Boston Globe All Scholastic Girls' Soccer Team.
- Michael White and Dennis Clarke for being selected for the Globe All Scholastic Football team.
- Christopher Verhaegen for being selected for the Globe All Scholastic Boy's Soccer team.
- Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murphy for the donation of photography equipment to McCall Junior High School.
- Caci Venture Associates for a $100 donation to the school system's drug and alcohol program.

Cable Company Buys Local Van

Continental Cable has acquired a new van designated for use by the Winchester Local Origination studio.

The van will be shared with the Reading and Saugus studios as well.

Drew Bouldin, Community Services Director at Continental, says the vehicle will add another dimension to the local programming effort.

"Transportation has been a problem for us in the past," Bouldin said, "but we are confident this van will be an asset to local television."

The vehicle is currently being used primarily for transportation but there have been instances when it was turned into a mobile production unit.

"One of our goals over the next several months is to do some modifications to the van that would make productions in the field easier," said Bouldin.

Brad Parsons, Production Coordinator for Winchester, says, "The van has proven to be a useful production too. Looking towards the future I see it improving the quality of our shows."

D.A.R. Plans Dec. 16 Meeting

The equity in your home could be worth up to $150,000 in cash when you open a Home Equity Reserve Account at The Co-operative Bank of Concord.

Here's How It Works

Home Equity Reserve is a line of credit based on the difference between what your house is worth today and the amount of your first mortgage. If you've owned your home for very long, you probably qualify for a sizable amount of credit, whether you have your mortgage with us or not.

Give Yourself Credit

Home Equity Reserve is one of the most economical alternatives to credit cards for financing major purchases. Use it to make home improvements or pay for college tuition. Because the interest rate is indexed to the Prime Rate, it's always current, competitive and usually below rates charged for credit cards and other revolving credit lines. Best of all, Home Equity Reserve is easy and convenient to use. When you need a loan, simply write a check.

Security And Convenience

With Home Equity Reserve, you're in control. You have the security of knowing you have convenient access to substantial cash when you need it. A Home Equity Reserve Account may be the last loan you'll ever need.

It's On The House

Local Woman Plays In Drama

The cast consisted of James Lynch as Holmes with Joe Gropper as his sidekick, Dr. Watson, and Vallee, in a leading role, was Dr. Watson's old friend, Dr. Agatha Mortimer.

Director Diane Griliches is a multi-faceted lady. She runs a children's theater group in Newton known as Kids and Co., works as a musical director and is an accomplished musician.

Maximilian's: Coast To Coast Cuisine

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Winchester's newest restaurant, Maximilian's Cafe, is open at 27 Converse Place for what the owners call casual-elegant dining. In short, it's a dress-up or dress-down affair.

Manager Rita Casey says "the atmosphere is conducive to anything."

Casey says she operates by the ownership theory — "treat the restaurant as if you own it yourself."

The owners, Lou and Sheila Manzone, live in Virginia and are former Winchester residents. Casey says she meets with them on a weekly basis to keep them abreast of the business.

"We think a lot alike," Casey says matter-of-factly, adding that it is one reason why the restaurant runs smoothly.

Managing, Casey says, is not a "cut and dried job." As a manager, she says, she has ample opportunity to tap her creative talents. A normal work week for Casey means a minimum of 50 hours.

Still, she says, "It's a people business and I love it."

Making a career in the restaurant business is often described as difficult, she says, because restaurant people must work while others relax.

However, Casey says, "Once it gets in your blood, you can't help but love it. It is a love-hate business."

Casey's husband, also in the restaurant business, works as a manager at Serendipidity, a restaurant in Faneuil Hall. Casey says it helps having a spouse in the business because of the chaotic hours.

Maximilian's red and white striped menu was designed by owner Sheila Manzone and offers tidbits from her various dining experiences throughout the country. In the Manzones' travels across the United States, they picked up a vast array of recipes.

The diversity of the menu is indicative of the extent of the Mazone's travels. Considered among the favorites are Mexican nachos and the southern Louisiana Shrimp Creole.

Dishes from Chicago to Philadelphia to New Orleans are also daily favorites. And to top off the meal, a house specialty and a must for chocolate lovers, Casey suggests "Our Chocolate Seduction." All foods are prepared from scratch, she stresses.

The menu is the same for lunch and dinner, with an insert of entrees that changes on a weekly basis.

Maximilian's also provides a take out service — which has been a hit, says Casey, with the steady influx of downtown professionals.

Maximilian's plans to open a gourmet market Jan. 1. Casey says the market will serve both hot and cold foods, including their popular chicken tarragon salad. The market will also provide catering for parties.

A 10-year veteran in the business, Casey attributes her training and success to Steak and Ale, a Florida based dinner operation and T.G.I.F.'s, a popular national restaurant chain.

Prior to managing Maximilian's in Winchester, Casey managed Maximilian's Cafe in Needham for several months. The Needham restaurant is the veteran, she explains, with Winchester now her newest conquest.

Casey hopes to "draw people from the Boston area," into Winchester, by word of mouth and advertising.

Is she worried about being one of three new restaurants in town?

"No," she says confidently. After all, she says, competition "a plus for business."

Hospice Care Receives Early Christmas Gift

Christmas came early this year to Hospice Care with a gift of a computer from Choate-Symmes Hospital.

Hospice Care serves Winchester residents.

Choate-Symmes donated the Apple II-plus personal computer to Hospice Care to improve the organization's bookkeeping, accounting and word processing functions, according to Ed Dolan, Hospice Care executive director.

Dolan also spoke about the hospice's plans to move to larger quarters. For the last four years Hospice Care has been housed in offices donated by Symmes Hospital, but will soon move to larger quarters.

Dolan said they will relocate in newly renovated offices on Academy st., in Arlington.

Hospice Care is a non-profit organization which provides support for terminally ill people and their families in the comfort of their own home.

For more information, contact Hospice Care, 49 Hospital rd., in Arlington.

Local Residents Attend Meeting

Dorothy Matheson and Nancy Moore, both of Winchester, recently traveled to Washington, D.C. to attend the 1985 Annual Meeting and Symposium of the National Hospice Organization.

Matheson, a board member of Hospice Care, and Moore, nursing coordinator at Hospice Care, joined more than 1,200 hospice professionals from around the country at a four-day educational forum.

Annual Smokeout A Success

More than 19.7 million Americans took part in the American Cancer Society's ninth annual Great American Smokeout on Nov. 21, according to a random telephone survey on Smokeout Day.

One million more smokers quit this year than in 1984, representing 36.4 percent of the nation's estimated 54 million smokers. According to the survey, 78 percent of Mass. residents were aware that it was Smokeout Day.

Chamber Urges All To Celebrate

TO THE EDITOR:

Let's light up the town of Winchester and show our neighboring communities how beautiful this town really is. The Winchester Chamber of Commerce extends an open invitation to all residents and businesses to participate in the second lighting and decorating contest sponsored by the Chamber.

If you have decorated your home or place of business, give us a call. Don't be shy! The more entries we have, the brighter our town will be.

Winchester Center has been beautifully decorated for this yuletide season. Won't you please join with us in our effort to light and decorate the entire town? Call the Chamber office (729-8870) to have your holiday displays judged by our panel.

Sincerely,
Catherine S. Alexander
Executive Director

Voke School Group Thanks Local Donors

TO THE EDITOR:

On Dec. 4, the Parent-Teachers Organization of Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School held its Christmas Bazaar. The proceeds of this annual event are used to fund the students' scholarship and equipment program.

We would like to publicly acknowledge the following local merchants who were so willing to help and so generous in their donations: The Pampered Pet Shop; A.R. Decorating Center; The Winchester Camera Shop; Kean Flowers; Fells Hardware; The News Shop; and Henderson Stationers.

Many thanks to all of you from all of us at Northeast Regional.

Sincerely,
Steven and Frances Calabro

Church Women Extend Note Of Appreciation

TO THE EDITOR:

The Board of Church Women United of Winchester would like to thank all those who have helped with this year's sale of UNICEF cards and gifts, in particular:

The proprietors of Book Ends and Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery for so warmly welcoming us to their places of business;

This year's coordinators, Mrs. Lee J. Aubrey and Mrs. Sears Walker and the many volunteers from nine Winchester churches who have given (and are continuing to give) so generously of their time to staff the UNICEF booths;

The merchants who displayed our UNICEF posters and The Star for helping in publicizing the dates and locations of the sales.

Sales will continue at Mahoney's until Dec. 15 - daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

Sincerely,

Vozzella Family Says Thanks For Support

TO THE EDITOR:

We would like to express our sincere thanks to the Winchester Police Department, the Winchester Fire Department, all our friends and neighbors for all the kind expressions of sympathy they have shown us during our bereavement. We are grateful to the nurses and doctors at the Winchester Hospital for the good care and kindness they have given to our beloved Edith. Our thanks also go to the priests and nuns of the Immaculate Conception Church and of St. Mary's Church.

Sincerely,

Saltmarsh Lauds Surtax Repeal Petition

TO THE EDITOR:

The thousands of people throughout the Commonwealth who gathered signatures for the initiative petition to repeal the surtax deserve recognition and thanks.

Initiative petitions, for any cause, offer the opportunity for people to take a meaningful role in the legislative process. Participation in the campaign to gather thousands of signatures necessary for a petition is democracy at work.

Whether or not the necessary number of signatures were collected is not as important as the feeling of participation and making things happen. In this instance, the issue to repeal the surtax was brought to the forefront because of the attendant publicity and citizen activity.

As one of the co-sponsors of legislation currently pending to repeal the surtax, I am especially grateful to see that so many of my constituents signed this petition.

Sincerely,
Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr.
State Representative

Sometimes, Being A Parent Is So Trying

My friend Kathy and I joined this nature organization in a town not far from here.

It's a swell outfit: every year they have lectures devoted to chickadees, sermons concerning bees, entire colloquia given over to the mating rites of oak trees.

We thought if we signed our kids up for one of their programs, it would mean we were good mothers. We could feel OK about ourselves as stewards of the next generation. We could feel the way Kathy says she feels when she gives her kids fruit chews with their lunch instead of chocolate goodies. Never mind that the fruit chews glisten redly in their wrappers like sheets of artificial skin; never mind that they're made of the same stuff used in edible underwear. They're all natural. They have no sugar. They're served by careful moms.

Kathy and I, we buy the careful mom pitch every time.

We bought it wholesale when nature trails sent their brochure of programs at the start of last winter.

And in the beginning, I must admit, we were glad we had joined. I attended a seminar on birds with my child; she went to a panel-discussion on beavers with hers.

In my group we examined the trembling frames of some wild-eyed and fluttering captives, then passed around the porous and hollow bones of their deceased brethren.

We sat in a grave circle handling owl pellets, skinless golfballs, more or less, coughed up by those late-night creatures, and consisting of small bits of fur and claw and skeleton. I mean, it was even interesting.

And then they announced the winter night hike.

Because our kids are on different schedules, Kathy and I couldn't attend this soiree together.

She went on her hike the month before me. It was this time of year, roughly. The ground was still bare.

All she could offer in the way of commentary was a certain rolling of the eyes. They took you out in the woods she said, and showed you what the deer would be eating, if there were any deer in these parts - "if they hadn't all moved out when the highway went in 30 years ago."

They walked you around in the dark, she told me. They showed you the bark of trees. "They showed us dirt," Kathy said. "Can you imagine? If I want to see dirt, I'll look under my bed."

But more than that she declined to say. My turn for the winter night hike was approaching; she didn't want to spoil it for me.

When it came, my eight-year-old and I were ready. They marched us into the woods, just as Kathy said they'd do, a forlorn band of small children and earnest moms.

It was eight degrees above zero. First my toes began to ache; then my fillings. Within a quarter-hour, even my earrings hurt.

They played renditions of owl-song on a small cassette recorder, to see if any owls would answer. We listened hard for them, but all we could hear was the high faint hum of the highway, and the distant keening of a siren.

They made us march single file on the ink-black woods, 75 feet apart, to see if we could locate one another by soft hoots and gibbers, like the Indians used to do.

They showed us the bark, and the dirt, and the stuff the deer would eat if there were any deer in these parts.

Then they made us lie down in the snow. The idea was to pretend you were a dead tree, or a big rock or something, and see if you could fool your comrades, who were experimenting with the deceptive enchantments of night vision in the woods.

It was like the Battle of Stalingrad.

And we kept it up for two hours, creeping about and shivering and holding our little Sony recorder high into the wind to communicate with the owls.

The owls never answered us, of course. They'd probably moved out themselves back 30 years ago when the highway went in. They'd probably retired to Florida by now, and were raising their kids up on chocolate goodies and freeze-dried mice.

Owls don't go in much for speculation about whether or not they're good parents, I bet. Owls are reputed to be pretty wise, you know, wiser than most of the rest of us, even.

'You don't believe me, you can ask Kathy; she and I, we're experts on the subject.

GUEST COLUMN

Thankful For Christmas Memories

Every year, it starts earlier than the year before.

No sooner were Halloween pumpkins on doorsteps this year than people began complaining that America celebrates Christmas too early.

Too early for whom?

It's certainly not too early for the merchants, for whom a sucessful business year often depends on strong sales during the holiday season.

And it doesn't seem to be too early for the vast numbers of children and even adults who sincerely enjoy the extended holidays.

I know it's not too early for me.

I like Christmas.

And I like most of the tacky things that come with it, even if they arrive while I'm still wiping Thanksgiving dinner off my chin.

I like the wreaths and streamers in the town squares, and I like the Salvation Army Bands on the streetwalks.

I try to look past the fake snow and nativity scenes, and focus on the long lines of bubbling kids waiting to mob generic Santas.

I like brightly wrapped gifts, and I like the tiny pictures of ribbon and holly you see on every company's ads and flyers.

I even like the nonstop Christmas music on all the store PA systems.

A lot of people, though, say I like all the things that have nothing to do with the true meaning of Christmas.

They say I don't know what Christmas is really about.

Maybe I don't.

But I have a good time, all the same.

Even if my Christmas spirit stems not from Jesus or religious beliefs, but from general good will and a love and appreciation for close friends.

That doesn't sit well, though, with a lot of people who have very specific ideas on how, and how long, Christmas should be celebrated.

Not surprisingly, we disagree.

Not just on Christmas, I think, but on why and how people should observe holidays in the first place.

I guess it's because I grew up in the sixties and seventies, but I'm from the If It Feels Good, Do It school.

Green clothing doesn't excite me any more than green beer, for instance, but I don't try to dictate how others should celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

And I don't complain about the traffic snarls that spill from churches every Easter, even if I fail to appreciate the reason for all the fuss.

I haven't run in step with Memorial Day parades since I outgrew pinning baseball cards to my bicycle spokes, but I still don't complain when they block off the streets each May.

It's no skin off my back, really, and plenty of people seem to enjoy it.

Just like the people who enjoy Christmas, no matter what shape — or length — it takes.

If somebody's idea of Christmas is to sing carols in January, I think that's great.

The only thing I don't think is so great is when I hear self-righteous scrooges insist there's only one way to celebrate this Christmas business.

That, to me, is none of their business.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

THE SENATE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on two roll calls from the week of December 2-6.

ACUPUNCTURE(S 928)- Senate 30-7, gave near final approval and sent to the House a bill creating a committee on Acupuncture, under the Board of Registration of Medicine, to regulate the practice of acupuncture in the state.

The measure sets licensing and registration procedures including minimum education requirements.

Supporters said acupuncturists are currently unregulated and argued the bill will insure protection for consumers.

Opponents said the bill hurts consumers by giving the stamp of approval to this unclear practice.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

MATERNITY(S 2186)- Senate 29-3, rejected an amendment to a bill requiring several disclosures to maternity patients by admitting hospitals. The amendment would only require a hospital to give a patient information in its rate of caesarian sections performed versus its rate of vaginal births.

The admendment eliminates several other things the hospital would have to disclose under the bill, including the percentage of women who have had caesarian sections who have had a subsequent successful vaginal birth and the percentage of deliveries in birthing rooms.

Amendment supporters said requiring too much information will impose additional expenses on hospitals and may not result in many benefits to patients.

Opponents said the amendment weakens the bill and argued patients have a right to this information to help them make informed decisions.

Senator Richard Kraus voted no.

THE HOUSE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on five roll calls from the week of December 2-6.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION(H 6850)- House 142-0, gave final approval and sent to the Senate a new version of a complex bill overhauling the state's 75 year old workers' compensation system.

Key provisions include increased benefits, cost of living increases, speedier payments and extensive reorganization of the operation and administration of the system.

Supporters said the measure is fair and long overdue and is supported by both labor and industry.

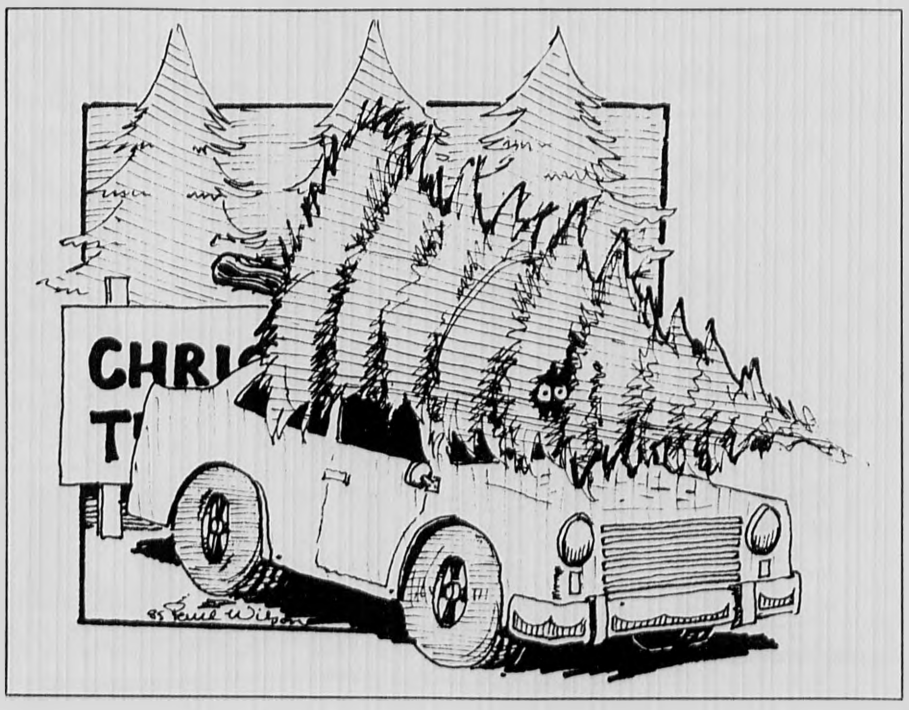
Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.



GENERIC DRUGS(S 2517)- House 129-0, gave near final approval to a bill mandating that a pharmacist substitute a generic drug for a brand name one unless the doctor writes the words "no substitution" on the prescription form.

Supporters said the bill could save almost $100 million and would help lower costs to consumers.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

ACID RAIN(S 1187)- House 123-0, gave near final approval to a bill limiting acid rain and acid rain deposition in the state. The bill gives the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering the power to adopt the implement a limitation on sulfur dioxide emissions.

Supporters said the bill will reduce these dangerous emissions which are harming lakes, streams and other resources.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

CUB(S 872)- House 89-61, rejected an amendment to a bill establishing a Consumer Utility Board (CUB) charged with representing and protecting the interests of the states residential utility consumers and funded by voluntary contributions through a form enclosed with residential utility bills.

The bill allows up to 30 percent of CUB's budget to be transferred to any one other corporation, government agency or individual while the amendment would limit the figure to 10 percent.

Admendment supporters said allowing CUB to give away 30 percent of its money is a dangerous loophole which could hurt the consumer.

SENIOR SCENE

Local Nursing Home Group Donates Van For Seniors

Beginning Dec. 6, each Friday a senior mini-bus service will be offered through the Jenks Senior Center in Winchester. It is being made available by the Winchester Nursing Homes Administration, which includes Aberjona, Winchester and Woburn nursing homes.

Considerable planning has been underway to provide a transportation system for Winchester's 5,000 senior residents. Unless they drive, there has been no way to get to shopping, banks and other incidental trips. This service will provide for these needs as well as for socializing.

The Jenks Center volunteers will continue to provide rides to and from medical appointments, etc. There are four separate routes each Friday, which provide access to and from the Jenks Senior Center and the Winchester center, to two large grocery stores and a mall, with a pickup throughout the town.

A schedule has been mailed to all seniors by the Winchester Council On Aging. The fee is 25 cents per ride.

This van is being used by the three local nursing homes for transportation to various programs and places throughout the Metro area.

Insurance Aid Is At Jenks

The Jenks Center will offer assistance to seniors preparing health insurance forms on Thursday, Dec. 19 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The center's health benefit counselors, recently trained by the Blue Cross and the Executive Office of Elder Affairs are well versed on handling various insurance claim forms. Seniors unable to attend may call the center to arrange for a home visit.

Jenks Hosts 1949 Film

The 1949 color movie "The Barkleys of Broadway" will be shown at the Jenks Center on Friday, Dec. 20 at 1 p.m.

Featuring the dancing of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, the musical comedy includes the humor of Oscar Levant and Billie Burke. Ira Gershwin furnished the lyrics and Harry Warren the music. Seniors are welcome to attend.

Health Tips Are Offered

Included in the wide range of subjects on the shelves of the Jenks Center Library are several books on health.

The literature emphasizes seniors nutritional needs and presents ways to meet those needs.

The centerpiece of the health collection is the monthly Harvard Medical School health letter. This publication contains concise and easily understood articles on current health problems and treatment. An annual index by topics is available.

In the space of 10 years, the publication's independence and objectivity has led to its becoming the third top newsletter in the country. Following its success, 10 other medical schools have started a newsletter.

Except for the health letters, seniors may borrow the books without charge.

The library is not available when the center is closed or when committees meet in the library.

Under the proposed building expansion plans providing for additional meeting rooms, the library will become accessible to seniors for reading purposes.

Celebrations

Muraco Holds Holiday Bazaar

On Friday, Dec. 6, the traditional Santa's bazaar was held for Muraco School students. Under the supervision of Elaine Russo, Doris Lombardi, and Barbara Petrilli who started preparations in June, many worked long hours making, buying and baking inexpensive items for the children to purchase for family and friends.

Even Santa was present to confide Christmas wishes to, and he gave each child a decorated sugar cookie. As the students came into the library, each put a slip of paper with his/her name on it for a chance at the many wonderful raffle itmes, which included a beautiful gingerbread house.

NOTES FROM THE BLACKBOARD

Sixth Graders Attend Concert

Vinson-Owen School sixth graders are attending the Boston Symphony Orchestra Youth Concert Series, designed for elementary school students.

Each concert includes instructive scripts, guest narrators, special lighting and production effects and musical demonstrations.

During the 1985-86 season, the Boston Symphony Youth Concerts, under director Harry Ellis Dickson, will offer such programs as vocal and choral music by Handel, Mozart and Beethoven; a baroque program including selections from Bach's 'Brandenburg' concertos and Handel's 'Water Music'; an all-American program with music by Copland, Ives, Schuller and Gershwin; an all-Brahms program featuring his Symphony No. 1; program music and tone poems by Sibelius, Strauss and Wagner.

Snakes Visit Fifth Graders

Fifth graders at Vinson-Owen School recently had an opportunity to explore the world of snakes as presented by Jim Serack of Zoological Research Institute Inc.

The hands-on educational program included lessons on ferrets, giant toads, king snakes, coral snakes and boa constrictors.

Chorus Students Are Televised

Music instructor Herman Greene has been presenting information and activities to help prepare the students for their visit to the Boston Symphony Orchestra Youth Concerts.

Also filmed was a fifth grade grade reading class performing in a play called "The Reluctant Dragon." The two school reporters for this year are sixth grader Lauren Blanchard and fifth grader Patricia Williams.

New Library Aide At V-O

Vinson-Owen School has a new library aide, Geraldine Driscoll, as well a longtime favorite, Marion Willing, who has been a story teller at the first grade for many years.

Kids' Concerts Are Underway

Vinson-Owen held its first of the season "Concerts For Kids By Kids" recently with two short performances by 18 V-O students.

"Concerts For Kids By Kids" was begun last year by Patsy Schlelkjer and Clare Corcoran, former V-O principal.

Each participating student must be studying a musical instrument with a teacher.

The November prformances included: Stephanie Powers, piano; Stephen Murray, clarinet; Christopher Hamblett, piano; Patricia Williams, trumpet; Marycatherine segota, piano; Polash Misra, flute; Katie Schlelkjer, cello; Ruchika Manghyen, piano; Olivia Wang, violin.

Also performing were: Tracey Mabardy, piano; Stephanie Pesca, violin; Alison McKay, piano; Debbie Hamblett, flute; Jennifer Esposito, piano; Matthew Pavella, trumpet; Andrea Marquardt, piano; Campbell Foster, clarinet; John Chen, piano; Debbie Hamblett, piano.

McCall Math Team Meets

The McCall Junior High math team recently competed in a Greater Boston League math meet at Coolidge Junior High in Reading. The local team placed second in the meet, which also had participants from Reading, Stoneham, Wilmington and Arlington.

Three Earn Test Awards

Six students from McCall Junior High will receive certificates for superior achievement in the annual fitness testing conducted recently.

The test includes a mile run, situps, and stretch events under the American Alliance of Health, Physical Education, recreation and Dance (AAHPERD).

Teachers Janet Keefe and John Donahue have announced the following students will receive awards: Elysa Aswad, Kim Davis and Carolyn Turcotte, all of the seventh grade, and Jori Cutler, Suzanne Foley and Michael Queenan, all of the eighth grade.

Teachers Attend Learning Event

McCall Junior High teacher Jan Keefe and Barbara Nixon recently attended a presentation entitled "Cooperative Learning" given by Lindy Johnson.

The discussion centered on various aspects of learning and the teacher's role in the learning process.

Muraco Schoolers Study Literature

As part of their literature program, fifth and sixth graders at Muraco School recently read "Bridge to Terabithia" by author Katherine Paterson.

The class also viewed a video which focused on the book, and conducted discussions.

The story centered on two fifth grade students who share a friendship.

Second Graders Are Publishing

Second grade students in Muraco School teacher Susan Bokil's class are publishing books to be placed in circulation at the school library.

The youngsters printed their self portraits on the computer, as a lesson in computer useage.

The children then wrote their autobiographies, which will be included in a bound edition with their self portrait. When the project is finished, youngsters will be able to check out their own books from the school library.

Colorville Comes To Muraco School

As a culminating activity for a unit on maps and globes, Marilyn DiMassa's first graders at Muraco School have designed their own classroom town called "Colorville."

The huge wall map has streets, houses, stores, parks and schools drawn by the children.

St. Mary's Lists Honor Roll

St. Mary's School has listed it honor roll students for the fall session. In the fifth grade, Joselyn Cruz received high honors, while Colleen Campbell and Patrick O'Reilly received first honors. Melissa Baker, Kim Ciano, Ellen Curran, Brian Queen and Paul Urzua earned second honors.

In the sixth grade, Jodi Pellegrim and James Reidy earned high honors. Melanie Doto, Todd Giaquinto, Meredith Lepore and Alison O'Connell received first honors. Kerry Cunio, Aaron Lyons and Wendy Russo took second honors.

In seventh grade, first honors went to Michael Bett and Erik Masci. Second honors went to Christpher Albiani and Tara Queen.

In eighth grade, first honors went to Alison Alberts and Nancy Boudreau. Second honors went to Matthew Albiani, Kathleen Curran and Anita Mazzarella.

Lincoln Schoolers Share Books

Lincoln School parents recently participated in "Sharing Books Together," an evening program celebrating children's literature.

Jean Berry, Lincoln School librarian, and Lincoln parent Miriam Mireeck Zeman, educational consultant and professor of children's literature at Wheelock College.

Zeman discussed trends in children's literature and holiday books as gifts. The Enrichment Committee of the Lincoln School Association sponsored the event.

High Schoolers Read At Lincoln

Several Winchester High students from Cheryl Howard's public speaking class recently visited Lincoln School first and second graders for storyteling. The Lincoln students enjoyed the storyteling, while the high schoolers had the opportunity to practice their speaking skills.

SCHOOL NEWS

TV Weatherman Visits Lincoln

Paul Cousins, a meterologist for WBZ television, recently visited Lincoln School sixth graders. During his presentation, Cousins discussed various aspects of the weather system, including atmospheric conditions that create weather, weather balloons, satellites and computers.

In addition, he gave the sixth graders weather maps showing weather patterns in different areas of the country.

Ambrose Students 'Break For Books'

Students Tour Plimoth Site

Travel-By-Book Winners Listed

The Lynch Library celebrated November with "Passport to Reading — Children of Other Lands" as its theme.

The children were encouraged to read books about foreign places and for each country visited in a book they could place their names into a special suitcase for the month-end drawing.

Winners of the Travel-By-Book contest were: grand prize, James Morrison, for having read more than 25 books; winner of random drawings, first graders Jerry Lyons and Nicholas Herrera.

The winners were able to choose a book for their prize. The highlight of the library's decorations was a large display with photographs of all the foreign students at Lynch. The photos displayed how each student would say hello in their native language. A total of 18 countries were represented.

Youngsters Study Weather Patterns

Students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Ambrose School are involved in an in-depth weather study. They are collecting weather data at home for the special science unit.

The youngsters have been split into two teams that will be recording and comparing data on dates, times and temperatures.

Ben Franklin Visits Lynch

Franklin was played by Bill Meikle, artist-in-residence at the Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington.

The students have been studying historical figures.

Blind Student Earns Honors

Jonathan Simeone, son of Robert and Mary Simeone of 6 Plymouth rd., Winchester, was recognized for his work and success as a special education student in the Winchester Public School system.

This special recognition was part of the tenth anniversary celebration last spring of Chapter 766, the special education law in Massachusetts. The Massachusetts Department of Education, Northeast Region, requested public school systems in the Northeast Region to nominate individuals who deserved recognition for their work and success in special education programs.

The Winchester Special Education Department selected Jonathan as a student worthy of this recognition.

Jonathan is a blind fifth grade student at the Vinson-Owen School. He is completely integrated in all areas of the school curriculum. This integration is often accompanied by specialized materials and equipment.

Jonathan's school books are provided in Braille, his dictionary is provided on tape, and a talking component which was recently purchased by the Winchester Special Education Department, has been added to one of the Apple computers at the Vinson-Owen School.

Jonathan's success at the Vinson-Owen School goes beyond just being a positive experience for him. The independence and positive self-image he exhibits has impacted the entire Vinson-Owen community.

His willingness to share his handicap positively with his peers has helped them gain a better understanding of blindness and a respect for special needs in general.

Jonathan is a student very worthy of this special recognition.

ASK THE EDUCATORS

Program Aims For Growth

Carole Davidson
Teacher of Music
Winchester Schools

Question: What is the fundamental premise for teaching music to young children?

The one simple word is fun. Children, particularly young children, learn best when they are having fun.

Parents put their children into music classes because they themselves appreciate music or because they are hoping to encourage motor skills or they show an ability but they really want their children to have fun.

Skills that are developed by the orderliness of music show up later in increased math and science skills. Children with early music development are also able to understand some music counting concepts that are harder to understand and demonstrate the older we start.

Concepts are taught through hand signals, rhythm echo games, singing games (especially repitition of singing — with everyone getting a turn to sing every song), and through movement games. They have to get the feeling of music. But the underlying technique for teaching music is to have fun while doing it.

If music is presented in a fun, non-threatening atmosphere, the accomplishments are astounding. And the later benefits for health and happiness are payoffs. In fact, they have found that singing can lower blood pressure. It's a way of relaxing.

Children who plan to take instruments later can save up to a year and a half of lessons because of early developed confidence and skill. I have students from ten different communities with a tendency for sibling to follow sibling and I am so proud when I see my former students in junior high and high school continuing their music programs and enjoying themselves.

Lynn Rahmeier
Director of Music
Winchester Schools

Question: We understand that an in-house review of the Music Department is underway. Could you give us some of the details?

This fall, the music department prepared a survey for a random sampling of parents throughout the system, seeking opinions about the various facets of the program, as well as information about the parent community relative to music.

Because we are sampling the population, rather than questioning the entire parent population, we are most eager to have as many parents as possible return the questionnaire. We hope to see the relationship between parental commitment to music and the level of involvement of children.

For those students whose parents are not committed to music, or simply inexperienced in it, we hope to gain insight into further ways to support them. Naturally, we also hope to see many ways in which we can strengthen the school program.

To the Winchester residents who did not receive a questionnaire, I urge you to consider your thoughts about the music program, jot them down on paper, and send them to me at the high school. In addition, we are interviewing students currently in the program, as well as those at the high school not involved in school music. Results of the review will be presented at the February School Committee meeting. Interested citizens are cordially invited to participate at any level of the process.

Jean Mortensen,
President of Friends of Winchester High Music

Question: Who makes up the Friends of Winchester High School Music and what are the goals and activities of the group?

The Friends of the Winchester High School Music Department is an organization which includes the parents of all music students at the high school, including the marching band, orchestra, concert band, jazz band and the chorus.

They work together to support and facilitate the music experience and to encourage the very best, comprehensive music program possible for Winchester. This includes continually emphasizing the value of the arts for everyone's education.

Efforts of the Friends have recently enabled students auditioning for district music opportunities to be transported by bus. Money is raised at the football game chuck wagon for musical instruments, scholarships, and uniform care. The Friends organization also conducts the fund-raising for band and orchestra special projects.

The marching band is currently fundraising for their trip to the Gator Bowl in 1986, and the orchestra for their performance in Washington, D.C. in the spring. We also continue to lobby for positive changes in the music program.

But perhaps the best feature of participation by the parents is the relationships that develop between the parents and the students. There is a mutual respect exhibited that I have not experienced in other programs.

We need the participation from parents of all music students to accomplish all that is necessary to compensate for the funds lost in Proposition 2½. And parents are rewarded by getting to know and work with, and come to appreciate, a fine group of students as a bonus.

POINSETTIA
Flower of the Holy Night

The Poinsettia, best known as our traditional Christmas decoration and centerpiece is really fairly new to this country. It wasn't until 1828 that Joel Robert Poinsett, the first United States ambassador to Mexico, introduced it to America. But the association with Christmas actually started much earlier.

Legend tells of a small Mexican village offering gifts to a crèche one Christmas Eve. A small boy, having nothing to give, knelt outside to pray. Where the boy had knelt immediately grew a beautiful plant with brilliant scarlet flowers. And thus the poinsettia became known as the Flower of the Holy Night.

At Mahoney's we've been raising our very own unique crop of The Flower of the Holy Night for over a decade. We have more than 30 greenhouses specially designed to meet the demanding and exacting procedure required to yield over 70,000 of New England's most beautiful poinsettias every year.

Our poinsettias are propagated from a special variety of cutting. They produce a heartier plant with brilliant longer-lasting flowers (bracts). You can choose red, white, pink, or a single pot with a combination of all three.

We carefully regulate the growth of our poinsettias to keep them from becoming too tall. By doing this the plant concentrates its energy on developing many more flowers and a denser, deep green foliage. You'll immediately see the difference. They're rounder, fuller and more healthy looking and make for more beautiful gifts and more graceful centerpieces.

Rounder, fuller, more healthy looking with more flowers and dense, deep green foliage.

Each poinsettia comes with an informative care sheet and, for no extra charge, you can have your poinsettia wrapped in the traditional red or green foil, or placed in a handsome basket.

Raising the most beautiful poinsettia is very demanding but, when you grow 70,000 of them each year, you become very good at it.

Local Panel Tackles The Environmental Issues

said, adding that some of these facilities maybe located in New England, perhaps near Boston.

"If we have learned anything it is that there is no 'away,' " he noted.

Deland and other speakers also agreed that there has to be a rational management scheme for disposing of wastes and a scheme to handle and control costs associated with disposal.

"We need to find some means to involve the costs of disposal into the product, because the disposal and product involves everyone," he said. "Already, one way or another everyone pays the costs of disposal."

Panelist Charles Schmidt agreed that the cost of waste disposal can not be borne entirely by corporations or by government.

As former chief executive officer to the S.D. Warren Paper Co. of Maine and SCA Environmental Services, Schmidt said that these companies as well as many others have paid millions and millions of dollars to clean up water bodies and hazardous waste sites.

"I have a real concern for fairness of who bears clean-up costs," he said. "These costs should be built into the costs of products because it is not fair for industry to pay and pay."

"I sometimes wonder if people interested in the environment and the EPA care if industries go out of business" because of environmental costs, he said.

He also deplored the adversarial attitude environmental groups have against people in industry.

"Sure, maybe we had to be kicked in the teeth at the beginning, but now that we are working on cleaning up, everyone has to keep perspective and share responsibilities," Schmidt said.

Schmidt did say that more companies need to understand their responsibility and liability in regard to the environment.

"When you are involved in the environment you can kill people," he said. "Chief Executive Officers have to learn that you don't leave the responsibility of waste.

Deland noted the EPA's major tool to deal with proper disposal of hazardous waste, the Superfund law, is in danger of not being renewed by Congress.

"Congress must move and must move soon on the reathorization of this program. The fact that Superfund is still unresolved puts us in real jeopardy," Deland said.

"It means in every instance where we take emergency action and I promise more action that I could well have to reflege on my promises," he added.

He said the EPA, through Superfund and other laws, has brought more enforcement action than ever before to New England, including a case involving sludge disposal into Boston Harbor and the first Superfund liability case which was recently settled.

The three main types of waste that are generated now and will continue to be generated are regular garbage, nuclear waste and hazardous waste, according to the panel.

"What I see is heaps and heaps of garbage and frantic environmental managers," said Leonard Wilson of the Vermont Agency of Environmental Conservation.

"The waste management problem currently lacks and urgently needs a solution," he said.

Landfills are overflowing and a number are leaking which poses a danger to wells and water supplies, especially in rural New England.

"We can't open new landfills and we can't find places to put garbage," he said.

Although garbage to energy plants are an option that are being used and explored in many parts of New England, including Vermont, they are very expensive and may cause pollution problems themselves, he noted.

"In regard to solid waste disposal I see people against landfills, incinerators and waste to energy plants," Hewett said.

"But we must evaluate these alternatives and see which offers the least amount of risks and make the choice that is necessary to dispose of waste," he said.

Lack of disposal alternatives is also a problem that plagues nuclear waste management, Hewett said.

"I see a growing tendency for people to say 'not in my state' in dealing with the disposal of low-level nuclear radioactive waste," he said.

He said it is important for the environmental establishment to educate the public to see that if they want to benefit from the technologies that make life what it is in the 1980's, they have deal responsibly with its side effects, including nuclear waste.

Currently, Massachusetts and other New England states send their low and high level nuclear waste to states such as North and South Carolina, states that are increasingly reluctant to take out-of-state waste.

New England residents must deal with the problem and decide a place to dispose of the waste before someone from the outside decides for them, Wilson said.

The short-term solution of storing nuclear wastes on site is not a permanent solution and states must seriously examine this problem, he said.

An important task of toxic waste managment groups is to come to an understanding of what effect the environment has on health and to decide how the various health threats compare with each others and which ones should be dealt with first, Hornig said.

There are many cancer-causing agents in the environment and their potentcy has a range of a million, he said.

Also, modern analytical chemistry is so sophisticated that there is nothing that we touch or eat that doesn't have some level of carcinogens.

These facts make it essential that decisions are made about which health threats are the most important and which the most resources and effort should be committed to.

Deland said the scientific community still has much mork to do in discovering what health effects toxins have.

"They can measure in parts per billion and trillion but they can't say what effect these small parts have on your health," he said.

"There will be a growth in the supply and use of toxic chemicals which threaten our air, soil and water in ways we don't yet understand," said panelist Dr. Charles Hewett, executive director, Maine Audubon Society.

EPA has been successful in regulating air and water pollution in the past because pollutants were generated by several major companies that were relatively easy to deal with and control.

Now, however, EPA and environmental groups face a more difficult challange in regulation and disposition of toxic chemicals, Hewett said, because more and more smaller businesses make use of toxic chemicals.

"It will be more difficult to deal with small companies and more difficult to get public support for regulation and enforcement because we are talking about regulating things that people use every day," Hewett said

Hornig noted that people deal with toxic chemicals in their homes and that a pressing environmental problem is how to get people to properly dispose such common household items as paint, solvents and used motor oil.

While the problems in the environment are pressing, panelists agreed that cooperation between the business, education and public sectors is paramount could lead to workable solutions

Officials Await Opening Of Town's New Building

Cumberland's request for an extension to the end of July.

Tonaszuck said the next extension marks the completion date for tomorrow, Dec. 13. According to the contract, any work not done after that could mean Cumberland will be responsible for the remaining costs.

Tonaszuck said those costs, for work beyond the Dec. 13 date, amount to "roughly $35,000."

He also said the town would not likely agree to any extensions or cost liabilities until the entire job is completed.

Randall, who did not attend Selectmen's executive session Monday night on the possible litigation, said he "strongly expects" that a suit will come from the delays.

He said such suits are common "whenever you have a (public building) project that continues on for months at a time."

Meanwhile, Tonaszuck said the building still needs to be inspected for occupancy by the town building inspected before either department moves in.

He said Boston architect Brett Donham is preparing a "punch list" of items that need to be adjusted at the new station.

"It's just a check list of sorts where the architect goes through the building and makes a list of things that aren't quite right, like a crack here or loose tile or something," said Tonaszuck.

He said although the fire department could possibly move in by the end of this week, it's possible that the chief may decide to delay the move until all the details are ironed out.

"After all this time, I doubt a week is going to make that much difference at this point," he said.

He said that some of the the delays could stem from changed work orders for the building, such as more storage room for the fire department.

Other unanticipated problems included a wall linking the old section of the station to the new one.

"We found that there was no support there, so we had to build in the support there," he said.

Also, he said, the ground beneath the floor where fire trucks will be stored was filled with a soft, peat-like substance. That area had to be filled in with a more suitable substance, said Tonaszuck, so that the floor would be strong and stable to accomodate the trucks.

Science Program: A Successful Gem

unfocused subjects. I think that those schools which have been putting in a huge melange of courses are now finding that our type of indepth study in specific areas is more valuable and versatile," says Finnegan.

Teaching the basics need not imply a lack of breadth. Within these subjects there is a great deal of room for different teaching methods and varied examples.

"For instance, we have a program in the seventh grade which we think is kind of special," says Finnegan. "It is a course which involves the life sciences and the physical sciences, using the human body as a vehicle to study physics principles. When we study the eye, we discuss optics; the arms and the muscular systems will be examples of levers and other mechanics concepts."

A major emphasis in all the sciences for all age groups is experimentation.

"I strongly believe that the correct way to teach science is not for someone to get up and lecture you, to tell you what you should be looking for. What we've tried to do at all levels is to have the students investigate first, and then try to make some sense of what they discover using the principles of science," says Finnegan.

High school chemistry, biology and physics all have required laboratories. In fact the science facilities in the high school were originally designed for close proximity to the classrooms so that students would have access to the well equipped labs at all hours of the day.

Even in the elementary schools, observation and experimentation are the major elements in science class.

"I think one of the things which turns kids off to science at a very early age is the use of the textbook in the elementary schools," says Finnegan.

"We like to use 'trade books'-a series of readings which compliment what they are learning through observation."

"We have a program for the early grades on applications, the application of the scientific process which students haved learned about in the classroom to things they are familiar with." says Finnegan.

"They go home and measure their rooms or read the gas meter. They are taught to differentiate between different types of objects by shape, material and color. In terms of science they're learning how to observe, classify, infer; they are learning to think analytically," Finnegan explains.

The successful results of this philosophy of science teaching speak for its effectiveness.

Winchester's approach to science education has its roots in the post-sputnik early sixties, a period of tremendous change and commitment of resources to scientific education. In 1962, the Boston Herald described the model program the town used as "the first of a whole spate of post-sputnik curriculum reforms that have swept the country in recent years. It emphasizes learning by laboratory experiment rather than lecture."

Organizations like the National Science Foundation sponsored an alphabet soup of teaching programs and curriculum in all subjects. Some Winchester school teachers traveled to NSF training centers during those years to take training classes offered by that organization.

Finnegan, who has been involved with science education and administration on a national level for a long time, helped to design and teach some of these training classes.

In the last several years, NSF has gotten out of the education business for fiscal reasons, but many of their programs live on and have been fine tuned, altered or changed with advancements of science to become part of public education in science in schools across the nation.

"Winchester's current science program owes a great deal to these early innovations, but over the years, our program has continuously evolved with changes in faculty and advancements in the subject;" says Finnegan.

"We try and keep pace with the times," says Finnegan. "The staff has been continually involved in the newest approaches in science education."

"We also build contemporary issues such as hazardous waste or Halley's comet into the study of basic subjects."

One of the major examples of change which all science has had to adapt is the use of the computer in the classroom

Five years ago, the school had a DEC system primarily for administrative purposes, but also used to teach a course in BASIC within the math department.

Today the high school has five Apple computers which are used extensively in many science classes.

"Physics Professor Larry Smith is the outstanding person in the secondary schools for computers," say Finnegan. "He has developed programs for subjects like graphing technique and analysis of motion. He has affected all of the other members of the department. In almost every course, we have students working in the laboratory with computer analysis of data. Other school systems are constantly trying to get their hands on our software."

"In the future we may be able to go on line with other schools to share programs and data," says Finnegan. "I can envision doing an experiment simultaneously with Lexington High and sharing results by computer."

Further changes in science and in education will undoubtedly be coming faster and faster. Fortunately for Winchester, the training in scientific thinking our students receive from the beginning of their public education is geared towards towards observing, identifying and analyzing new information and new ideas in an analytical way.

ABOUT TOWN

Kolligan Honored By Middlebury

Winchester resident Dr. Michael Kolliganwas recently honored by Middlebury College, which dedicated its newly refurbished training room in Dr. Kolligan's honor.

Dr. Kolligan, an alumnus of Middlebury, attended the ceremony at the college campus in Vermont.

The facility, which serves Middlebury's athletes as well as the entire college community, was designated as the Dr. Michael Kolligan Jr. '44 training room.

A copy of the plaque marking the room was presented to Dr. Kolligan by Middlebury president Olin Robinson at a dinner on the Middlebury campus.

Following his graduation from Middlebury, Dr. Kolligan went on to the University of Pennsylvania, where he earned his degree in dentistry. He is treasurer of the Distributor Corp. of New England in Malden.

He is married to the former Joyce Juskalian and they have two children, a son, Michael, a 1983 Middlebury graduate, and a daughter, Valerie.

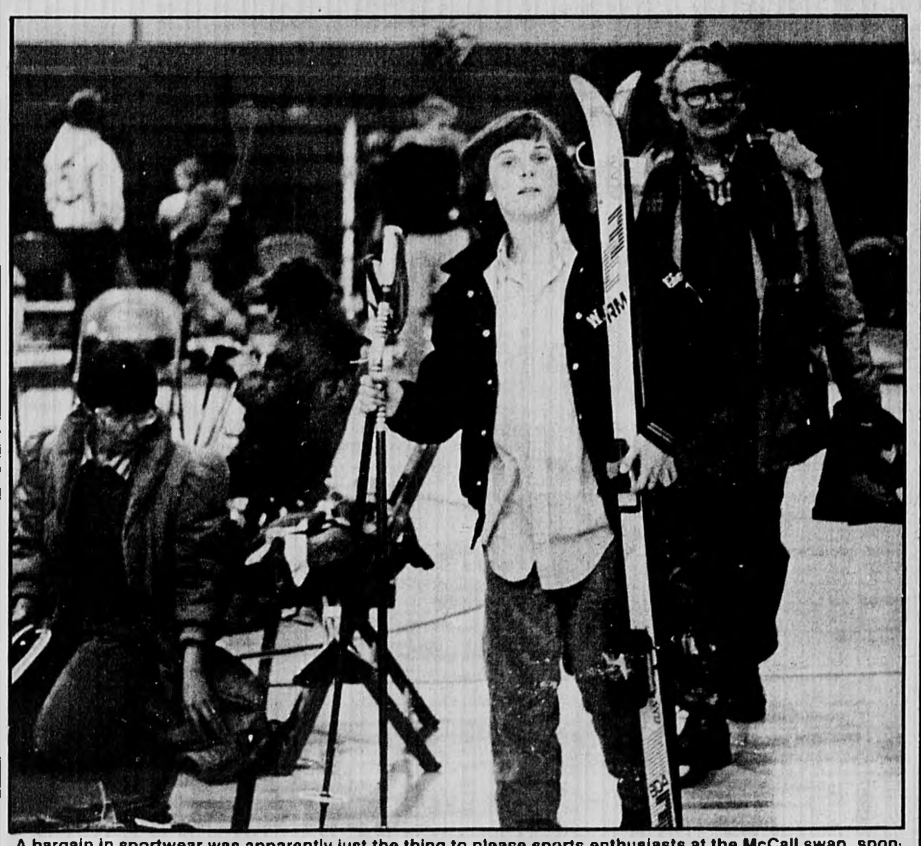
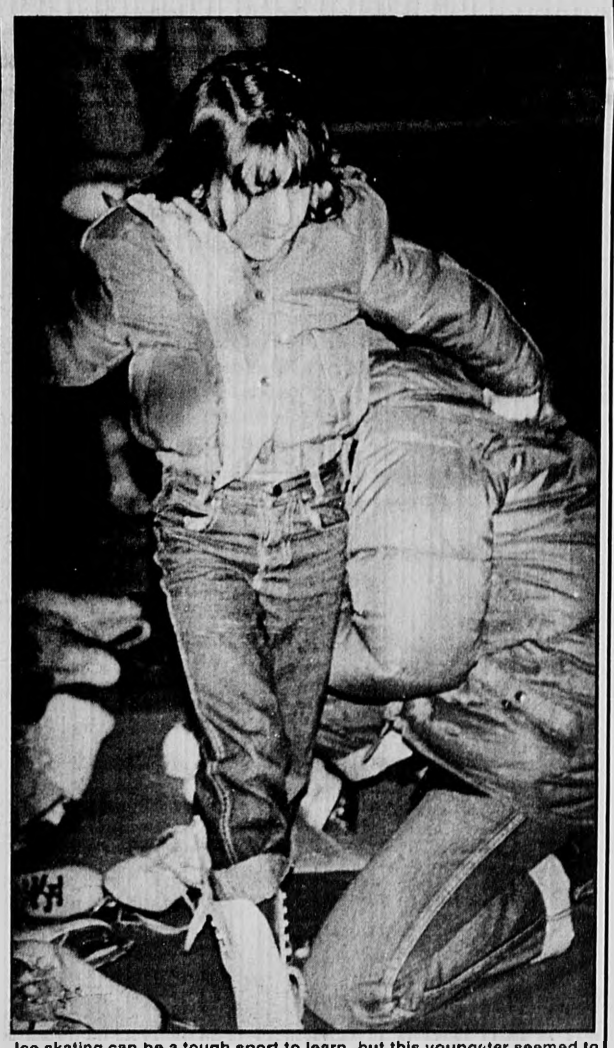
Fun In The Winter

Winchester's Leslie French looks over the ski equipment offered at the Recreation Department ski swap held recently at McCall Junior High School. The swap gave local residents a chance to pick up some bargains in winter sports equipment.



A bargain in sportwear was apparently just the thing to please sports enthusiasts at the McCall swap, sponsored by the Recreation Department.



Ice skating can be a tough sport to learn, but this youngster seemed to have as much trouble just trying on the skates at the ski and skate swap at McCall.

Recreation Department Offerings Can Help Trim Winter Blues

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester youngsters and adults suffering the cold weather blues can find challenge and relaxing exercise programs through the town recreation department's winter schedule.

Events from jazzerobics to ski trips will be offered in one of the department's most jam-packed schedules yet.

The group will leave on a one-day trip Friday, Dec. 27, to Gunstock Mountain in New Hampshire. Cost is $27 for the lift ticket and transportation; $39 for the lift, transportation and equipment rental.

A lesson is mandatory for all beginner skiers, available for an additional $5 charge.

In other skiing action, the Recreation Department will sponsor a trip to Wachusett Mountain on Saturday, Jan. 4. Cost is $23 for lift ticket and transportation; $35 for lift ticket, transportation and rentals.

The next trip will be on Jan. 18, to the Pat's Peak ski site. A $25 fee covers lift and transportation, while $35 includes equipment rental.

Two night-skiing trips are on the roster this year. The first will be Friday, Feb. 7, while the second is Friday, Feb. 28. Both trips will be to Crotched Mountain.

Each trip costs $15 apiece for lift and transportation, $20 with rentals. A ski lesson costs $4. Buses will leave McCall at 3:30 the days of the trips.

Also in February, a trip will be offered to Gunstock Mountain. That Feb. 20 trip costs $27 for lift and transportation, $39 with rentals. Lessons cost $4.

The last chance ski trip will be Saturday, March 15 to Loon Mountain. Lift tickets and transportation will cost $28, $39 with rental equipment.

In other ski offerings, registration is being accepted through Dec. 27 for a Feb. 18-20 trip for youngsters in grades 4-6 to Mount Wachusetts in Princeton.

Registration will continue through Dec. 27 at the Recreation Department from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Recreation Department will provide transportation for the Feb. 19-20 trip. The combination ski instruction program and open or free skiing is available for all skiing levels in daily, one-hour instructions.

Students can pay $48 for open skiing, lift tickets and transportation; $58 for open skiing, lift, lessons and transportation, or $90 for open skiing, lift tickets, lessons, rental and transportation.

Departures and returns will be at McCall parking area off Mystic Valley pkwy.

For cross country skiing buffs, the Recreation Department is sponsoring open trips beginning Jan. 18 at the Woburn Country Club.

Skiers in grade two and older will be taught on cross country skiing methods and techniques. Among the topics discussed will be proper clothing and ski waxing techniques.

The Jan. 13 session will be held at McCall to learn proper waxing and other techniques. The Jan. 18 and Jan. 25 sessions will be at the country club off Cambridge st. in Woburn.

Registration costs $15 per person, with a maximum of $40 per family. Participants must supply their own equipment. (Local rentals are available).

For adults looking to get into shape after all that holiday eating, the co-ed adult soccer sessions will begin Jan. 8 and continue through March 26.

The "pickup" type program will enable adults interested in learning more about soccer by actually playing the game inside at the Lincoln School gymnasium.

Basketball Team Aims To Shoot

By MIKE MCKNIGHT

The Winchester Sachems boys basketball team this year will be a team to be dealt with. So says coach Dave Smith.

The team will see the return of six seniors: Hank Lynch, David Delagrotte, Scott Oliveri, Steven Murry, and Dennis Clarke, who missed last season because of a knee injury.

This year's team, says Smith, will have an unknown depth to it. This depth was shown in a pre-season scrimmage against the Medford Stallions, where the Sachems trounced them in Medford 4 quarters to 1 with one tie.

Coach Smith is optimistic about this year's season. He says that the fans can expect the Sachems to run more and to put an emphasis on not having sloppy defense.

He said he is pleased to have four very good juniors, including varsity players like Chris Verhagen, and Mark Shaw comming back this year.

Offensively, the Sachems hope to play better from the outside and against the zone.

Asked about his team's offensive capabilites, Smith said, "Hank and Dello can be counted on for 12 to 13 points per game and as soon as Mark Shaw gets his football body into basketball shape he will be a great asset to us."

When Winchester goes against offensively strong teams like Lexington, they hope to play more man to man coverage, and be more flexible in their switches between defenses.

Their major switch, according to coach Smith, will be to use a full court press more often.

On the whole, this year's Winchester Sachems will be a exciting team to watch, as they try to snag some prestige in the Middlesex League.

Recreation Offerings Help Fight Blues

Games will be played from 7 to 9 p.m., and anyone interested may participate provided they are at least 18 years old.

There is no registration fee for the adult soccer games and interested residents may join in at any time during the season.

Also for adults this winter, the Recreation Department is offering jazzerobics at the Town Hall on Mount Vernon st.

The aerobic dance exercise program combines fun and fitness development into choreographed routines. The class consists of warmups, strength and flexibility exercises, aerobic workout and cooling down periods.

Jazzaerobics offers a complete, balanced workout that is physiologically sound and guarantees an enjoyable fitness experience.

The classes will begin Wednesday and Friday mornings, from 9:15 to 10:15 from Jan. 22 to march 26. Recreation Department officials are also considering a late afternoon class for Tuesday and Thursdays at 5 p.m. beginning Jan. 20.

Registration for jazzerobics is $25; babysitting is also provided for $20 per child.

The program focuses on cardiovascular fitness, posture, stamina, balance, flexibility and muscle tone. Routines are simple enough to be picked up by beginners.

The classes are held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Lynch and registrations takes place at the school before each class. Fee is $21 per month.

For youngsters in grades 7 through 12, box lacrosse will again be offered this season.

From Jan. 12 through March 16, youngsters will learn in a combined instructional and intramural type program geared to developing and improving lacrosse skills.

Classes will be held at the Winchester High School gym on Sundays from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Jan. 12.

Registration will cost $20.

For kindergartners and preschoolers, the Recreation Department will be offering gymnastics.

For youngsters 3 to 5 years old, a 10-week program beginning Jan. 21 to April 1 will feature activities aimed at developing youngsters' agility.

There will be two separate classes, for pre-school and kindergarten, both at McCall Junior High gymnasium.

For kindergartners 4½ to 5 years old, with parents accompanying, the classes will be held from 9:15 to 10 a.m.

For those 3½ to 4½ years old, with parental participation, the class will be from 10:15 to 11 a.m. The fee for the programs is $20 and registration may be completed at the Recreation Department.

A program of basic gymnastics instruction will be offered beginning Tuesday, Jan. 22, through March 12 for youngsters in kindergarten through grade six.

The instructions will be progressive in nature to suit the needs and skills of the individual participants.

Youngsters in kindergarten through grade 2 will attend classes through 6 to 7 p.m., while those in grades three through six will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. The fee for participants is $20.

Boys and girls in grades five through eight will be offered basic instruction in self-defense techniques and discipline.

The classes will be held from Jan. 20 through March 17 at the Youth Center at McCall Junior High. Registration fee is $20.

In other Recreation Department projects, a drama workshop, photography workshop and theater trips will be offered this winter.

The drama workshop will be held Wednesdays from Jan. 22 through March 13 at the Winchester High School social studies open area. The 10-week session is open to youngsters in grades 7 and 8 and will feature experimental and expressive creative drama.

A culminating demonstration will be part of the program, including theater games and original skits.

Fee for the drama workshop will be $10.

The photography workshop will be open for those in grades 7 through 8 and will continue for 8 weeks beginning Jan. 21.

There is a $25 registration fee for the one-hour per class course, which will feature film developing techniques, camera and darkroom techniques.

The classes will be held at McCall Junior High Youth Center.

Also being planned for the winter Recreation Department season are trips to theater productions in Boston. More information will be forthcoming on group rates and specifics on which productions will be available. The fee also will be announced at a later date.

Driscolls Lauded At Curry College

The Curry College men's soccer team concluded the best season in its history recently, ending with a 13-5-1 record through the help of three Winchester players.

Sophomore Mike Driscoll was a leading scorer, with seven goals and six assists for a total of 20 points. Goaltender Steve Driscoll, a junior, had a 9-1-1 record, including seven shutouts. Freshman Kevin Driscoll had a 3-1-7 record.

In addition to achieving the best record ever, the Colonels also set a record for shutouts with 11. Five of those shutouts came as the team closed out its schedule with five straight victories.

Top Local Runner Is Working Toward Ultimate Victory

By MIKE McKNIGHT

The story of Winchester's Barry Sirches' is one of a man striving for all he can achieve.

It is a story that begins at Winchester High School in 1983, where he became the fastest 2 mile runner in the history of the Middlesex League.

His success with the Sachems landed him an athletic scholarship at the University of Maryland and a chance to compete with athletes who shared skills on his own level.

There, at Maryland, his athletic hopes and dream were matched.

But into his second semester, his dreams came crashing down, as his grade point average dropped to 1.7. He needed a 2.0 to continue running.

Without his running, Sirches eventually dropped out of school. He paid a high price for losing the scholastics race.

Still, the top-notch athlete was no quitter. And it wasn't long before he was again determined to continue pursuing his athletic abilities.

Sirches' comeback was difficult, wrought with hard work and determination. "I stoped running completely for almost 2 months and gained 12 pounds." said Sirches in a recent interview.

Through Maloney's determined support, Sirches managed to dig back into the school books, to focus on the main concerns of schoolwork, running and a job.

"Mr. Maloney (the Sachems assistant track coach) got me going," said Sirches.

"Mr. Maloney deserves a real award, he has gotten the most out of me as possable."

Thinking, Sirches replies that he wants to win a forth All- American title. More importantly, he adds, he want to regain the respect of college runners and coaches.

"My life is not worth anything without something to chase . . ."

With a little luck and the hard work Sirches has shown he is capable of, it seems likely that Sirches will win turn out a true success story.

After all, he's out to capture a most coveted prize — his dignity.

Now, he is taking three night school courses at U. Mass. Boston: economics, psychology and math.

In fact, he has final exams next week. He says he knows he is doing better than he did in Maryland, but not as well as he would like to.

"I have found myself academically, and relearned how to study in a routine," he said.

Next year, he said, he hopes to go to school full-time and to improve his grades.

"I will go for help next year instead of sitting around like last year," he said, adding that he has made his mind to enter the law enforcement field.

What lies ahead for the 1983 Winchester High graduate?

"I have done the 3 mile to 6 mile transition with Mr. Maloney," said Sirches.

Council Seeks Parent Aides

The Parent Aid Program of the Woburn Council of Social Concern will hold an orientation for potential parent aides during the week of Jan. 13, 1986.

The Parent Aid Program serves parents in the Mystic Valley area, which includes Winchester. The program aims to help parents deal with the stresses of parenting.

Parents frustrated by their daily living conditions can feel better about themselves and their abilities when there is someone to share their concerns with.

Volunteer parent aids are needed to provide support, nurturing, warmth and acceptance to these parents. The aide serves as a friend, advocate and role model to the parent. Through this meaningful, trusting relationship the parent can build his/her self esteem and thereby become a more effective parent.

For more information on how you can participate, call Mary at 935-6495. The Parent Aid Program serves parents in the Mystic Valley area which includes the town of Winchester.

YOU'D BETTER SIT DOWN BEFORE YOU READ THIS:
(It's about our Individual Retirement Account. The best deal in town when you take a minute to understand the details.)
1. It's based on our 18-month Variable Rate Certificate of Deposit so that, after your initial $500 deposit, you can add $100 at any time. (You can't do that with everybody else's IRA.)
2. Plus, we pay you a bonus rate of 9.40% with an annual yield of 10% for this November and December (only) to get you to open it now. (You can't get that with everybody else's IRA.)
3. And, your Certificate will be continually compounded for the term.
4. So, next April, when everybody else is running around losing their head, you've already been getting ahead.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Dick Murphy
The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors
729-7000

GETTING READY FOR THE "OPEN HOUSE"

An "Open House" is a popular way to expose your home to prospective buyers. Your agent arranges an ad in the local newspaper inviting customers, and perhaps other realtors, to come see your house between specific hours — usually on weekend afternoons. At the appointed time, OPEN signs will sprout up, directing customers to your property. How do you get ready for the big event? First, make sure your house is clean and uncluttered. Go through a room at a time. Vacuum, make the beds, wash the dishes, and make the kitchen and baths sparkle. Mow and manicure the yard. While your agent will accompany visitors through your house, it's prudent to put any personal papers or valuables out of sight. Then you leave. Go to a movie or visit some friends. You may think you're needed to point out all of those special features your agent might forget. Leave anyway. Prospective buyers will be a lot more comfortable if you aren't around, and it will be easier for your agent to help them fall in love with your home if you're away for the afternoon. If you are planning a move, The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors employs full service professionals who can get your home sold and help you find a new one. Stop by our office at 33 Thompson Street, Winchester or give us a call at 729-7000.

Lincoln School's Fourth Grade Helps Make News

Youngsters Learn About Deadlines And Decisions

Story By Jill Higgins

The Lincoln School fourth graders look all business as they work to create the front page.

They are deep into the newspaper projects, trying to make sense out of piles of articles and photos

They are also "on deadline."

"Here, hurry up. Put this up there," says one youngster, showing some semblance of grace under pressure.

Quickly, another student slaps rubber cement on the tiny clipping and plunks it down on paper.

"There, that looks good," says another, as the rest of the group peers approvingly at the 8 by 11 inch pasted page.

Inside the "Chainlink" were quotes about supermarkets from the Lincoln School youngsters.

"They were suprised to see their comments in the magazine," said teacher Bernadette Golden. "I don't think they really realized they would be printed."

Young Mike Abatzis was quoted as saying, "We have supermarkets so people don't have to drive one hundred miles to the nearest farm. And so we can have man-made food."

Julie Doucette had another thought on the matter. "Without supermarkets we would have to hunt for our own food. Where would we go for candy?" she said.

It's a public relations gimmick, admits Mahoney, but it does help kids learn about communication.

"Mr. Mahoney," pleads one boy, "We've run out of pictures. What should we do?"

Within moments, Mahoney quells the young publisher's disaster.

"I don't know how you ran out of pictures, but why don't you borrow one from one of the other kids?" he says with a grin.

After deadline, the youngsters take turns showing off their work.

(Please see NEWS, Page 25)

Benjamin Coonley of Janet Greeno's fourth grade class at Lincoln looks pensive on the job.

CLUB NOTES

Council Will Begin Groups

Two groups will start anew at the Woburn Council of Social Concern, which serves Winchester.

The first is an Adolescent Discussion Group for youth ages 13-18. This group will provide supportive environment where teens can explore common issues including drugs, sexuality, self esteem, family relationships, etc. Meetings will be held Tuesday afternoons from 3:30 to 5, starting immediately.

Activities groups will begin again in January. The goal of this program is to use activities as a motivational tool for young people ages 11-15. There is a discussion as well as activities. Activities will alternate between free and low cost events.

Both groups will meet at the Woburn Council of Social Concern at 19 Campbell st., Woburn. All teenagers from the Mystic Valley area are eligible. For more information, contact Ellen Schachter at 935-6495.

United Way Serves 5,700 In Winchester

Spiller Honored

The United Way of Massachusetts Bay served the needs of more than 5,700 Winchester residents in 1984, according to information recently released by the United Community Planning Corp.

Overall last year, more than 1.2 million people in more than 80 eastern Massachusetts communities were helped by the United Way's 183 health and human service agencies, its information and referral service, and the "answer van," a mobile information unit.

Agencies serving Winchester residents include the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross, the North Metropolitan Homemaker Home Health Aide Service, the Minuteman Council of the Boy Scouts, and the American Cancer Society, Massachusetts division.

The American Cancer Society and the United Way are partners in education and fund raising in business and industry.

This year, the United Way celebrates 50 years of service to the Massachusetts Bay community.

Winchester's Robert J. Spiller, right, chairman and chief executive officer of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, received a recognition plaque for his volunteer efforts for United Way. Spiller helped United Way raise a record $39,010,240 in the fall annual fund raising campaign. With Spiller is "Merlin the Magician" — who made the presentation at the United Way's final dinner in Boston. Spiller, as chairman of the central division, reported a goal topping total of $1,308,832 raised by the division.

tures of the Purity presidents against each other in a sort of Sylvester Stallone-style bout.

"What's the vs. supposed to mean here?" asks Mahoney.

"It's supposed to be funny," chimes in one youngster, as the rest of them break into uncontrolable giggles.

"Do you know you're making fun of my company's president?" says Mahoney with feigned horror.

They try their hand again at making front pages, as well as inside pages for their own magazines.

Working with Mahoney, said teacher Golden, was good practice for the students, who later published their own school newspaper, called "Project Four."

After two hours, they call it a day in the newspaper world, and politely thank Mahoney for coming to visit.

"Maybe some day you'll be taking my job," he says joking.

"No way!" pipes up one youngster.

The Winchester Star

ABOUT TOWN

Montouri Named All New England

Boston College midfielder Maria Montuori of Winchester was recently named to the All-New England women's collegiate soccer team.

The junior was the Eagles' third highest scorer on the season and a key factor to the team's 13-5-1 season, as well as their advancement to the quarterfinals in the NCAA championships.

Doherty Gets Varsity Letter

St. Sebastian's Country Day School student Mike Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Doherty, was listed among those honored recently.

A junior at St. Sebastian's, he was awarded a varsity letter in soccer for the 1985 season.

Richarson Joins Soccer Winners

Tufts defeated Bowdoin, 1-0, on penalty kicks, and Smith, 1-0, in double overtime to claim its first NIAC Tourney crown.

Tufts finished the season with an 11-2-3 record and were ranked second among New England Division III teams.

Richardson was the third leading scorer on the 1985 team with five goals and four assists for 14 points. She had a season high of two goals and one assist in a 5-1 win over Wellesley College.

A former Winchester High soccer and softball player, she is the daughter of Dr. Philip and Joan Richardson, of 11 Hawthorne st.

She is a nutrition major at Tufts.

James Campbell Is Promoted

Winchesterite James Campbell, son of John W. and Marie I. Campbell of 19 Nathaniel rd., has been promoted in the Air Force to the rank of first lieutenant.

He is a 1983 graduate of The Citadel, Charleston, S.C.

Dooley Will Attend Seminar

Winchester High graduate Laura Dooley will be attending a national symposium in December at Dallas, Tex.

"Women in Natural Resources" which is being sponsored by the Society of American Foresters, will cover topics such as women's accomplishments and progress in the natural resource profession.

Dooley, who has been employed by the Department of Environmental Management, is a member of the Society of American Foresters.

Dooley will represent the Bureau of Forestry Development, the Bureau of Parks and Recreation and the Massachusetts Interpretive Services.

Fahey Named Bank Officer

Local native Robin J. Fahey has been appointed as assistant banking officer in the corporate banking department of Mellon Bank in Denver, Colo.

A Denver resident, Fahey earned her bachelor's degree at Mount Holyoke College in 1976 and her master's degree in 1983 at Boston University.

She joined Mellon Bank in July 1983 and was assigned to the bank's representative office in Denver as a commercial lender in January 1985.

Belmont Hill Awards Honors

Among those honored were the following from Winchester: in cross country, Lester L. Lien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hwachii Lien; in football, Arthur E. Boland, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Boland Jr.; Mortimer J. Buckley III, son of Dr. and Mrs. Mortimer J. Buckley; David F. Reno, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reno; and James B. Scanlan.

In addition, Boland, team co-captain, was chosen for all-league first defensive end. Buckley was selected for the all-league second team center. He will be a co-captain next year.

LIBRARY NEWS

Library Offers Gift Solutions

The library isn't usually the place one thinks of when planning holiday gift shopping, but the Winchester Public Library does have items for sale that would make special gifts.

The two-volume History of Winchester by Chapman and Stone, which chronicles the growth and development of the town from the days before European settlement through the 1960's, comes as a boxed set for $15. (The individual volumes are also available for $8 a piece.)

With their wealth of information about the town and numerous line drawings and photographs, these books would be welcomed by residents who have moved away, or by newcomers who desire to know more about their community.

In addition, the library is selling boxed note cards (15 to a box) for $2. The cards are printed on cream-colored paper and feature a sepia drawing of the library building.

A novel gift for a book or library lover would be a membership to the Friends of the Winchester Public Library. This organization is dedicated to promoting public awareness of the library's services and needs, and supports the library with financial assistance for improvement of facilities and programs.

Members receive the Friends' Newsletter, and are invited to special programs and events, including exhibits, lectures, and receptions. Memberships are available in several different categories, and range in price form $1 for a junior membership to $1,000 for a life membership.

Cabbage Patch Kid Left At Junior Libary

"Mommy, daddy, where are you?" is the lament of a Cabbage Patch Kid left in the Junior Library one Thursday in October. If your "baby" has disappeared, and you can identify her, please come and claim her.

Videocassette Library Growing

The library's collection of videocassettes is growing- eight new titles have recently been added to the collection. The new videos are: Star Trek III: the Search for Spock; We Are the World: the Video Event; Gone with the Wind; Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory; The Killing Fields; Desperately Seeking Susan; Becoming Real Forever; Based on the Velveteen Rabbit; and Educating Rita.

Videocassestes may be borrowed by Winchester residents 18 and over. Library patrons who wish to have videocassete borrowing privileges must fill out an application and leave a $10 check as a deposit. The videos circulate for 30 days.

News Deadline

News releases should be submitted by 4 p.m. Tuesday at the latest. The name and phone number of the publicity person should be provided on the release in case of questions.

Holsteins

The first Holstein cow was brought to America by Winthrop Chenery of Belmont. He bought it from a Dutch sea captain in 1852.

High School Drama Is On Stage This Weekend

This weekend, the Winchester High drama troupe will present "Buried Child" the dramatic thriller by actor/playwright Sam Shepard. There will be performances Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m. All will be held at the High School on Skillings rd. In photos at left, Will McCarter and Erik Mortenson look relaxed during a practice run, while Kim Ryan sips coffee as part of her performance as Shelley. Will McCarter makes a face during another part in the play.

Show Rehearsals To Begin Jan. 2 At St. Eulalia's

St. Eulalia's Parish in Winchester, will begin rehearsals on Jan. 2, 7:30 p.m., Manion Hall, for its upcoming March show.

Anyone who missed the auditions on Dec. 1 has another chance on Jan. 2. "A lot of talented people auditioned and all were excellent," says the show coordinator. "However, there is always room for more."

Betty Saulnier, who is always pulsing with activity and also participates in a number of stage performances, is producer.

We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better."

In a world where quality workmanship and door to door service seem like relics of the past, Faulkner's Cleansing, located at 437 Franklin st., Melrose, offers both of these to area residents.

For more than 38 years Faulkner's Cleansing has served the cleaning needs of Winchester residents and has built up a reputation for quality workmanship that has made them a trusted name in drycleaning and has made many Winchester residents lifelong customers.

Faulkner's not only drycleans all the usual items including pants suits, dresses, and coats, and cleans and presses shirts, but they also go one step further — Faulkner's inspects every article of clothing and replaces buttons or sews seams at no charge.

"We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better," explains owner/proprietor Francis Hardy.

For quality workmanship and the customer satisfaction which has been the trademark of Faulkner's for more than 38 years, or for convenient door to door service at no extra charge, come into Faulkner's at 437 Franklin st. Melrose, or just pick up the phone and call them at 665-6300.

Faulkner's Cleansing is open Monday through Friday, 7-5, Saturdays, 8-5.

OBITUARIES

Paul Forester Jr.

Funeral services were held Dec. 6, for Paul Forester Jr., 81, of Johnson rd., who died Dec. 3 after a long illness.

He was the husband of Gwen (Cooper) Forester and the late Helen E. Forester.

Born in New York City, Mr. Forester lived in Winchester for 52 years. He attended New York City schools.

He founded the Rex Lumber Co. in 1946 and was president, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of the firm, which had locations in Somerville and Cambridge, as well as in Acton for the last three years.

He was an active member of the Parish of the Epiphany in Winchester.

Mr. Forester was a member of the International Order of Hoo-Hoo, the Fraternal Lumber Organization, the Winchester Mystic Lodge of the Masons and the Winchester Country Club.

Besides his widow, his survivors include three sons, Paul William of Rochester, N.Y., Robert A. of Acton and Benjamin T. of Colts Neck, N.J.; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Arrangements were by Lane Funeral Home, Main st., with services Dec. 6 at the Parish of the Epiphany conducted by the Rev. John J. Bishop.

Donations in Mr. Forester's memory may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth ave., Boston, Ma. 02115.

Leonard Snyder

Word has been received of the death of Winchester native Leonard Wellington Snyder, 75, of Valley Forge, Pa.

He was the husband of Elizabeth Wilson Snyder and the son of Frederic S. and Anne T. Snyder.

He graduated from Milton Academy in Milton in 1928 and from Harvard College in 1931.

He retired from the Container Corp. of America after 35 years in sales in Chicago, New York City and Philadelphia.

He lived in Valley Forge for the last 16 years, where he served as a director of the Valley Forge Historical Society.

Besides his wife, his survivors include three sons, Frederic S. II, Peter J., and Christopher W.; two sisters, Mrs. F. King Turgeon of Amherst and Mr. Leslie Dozier of Fullerton, Calif., and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Dec. 1 in Devon, Pa. In lieu of flowers, memorial gifts may be made to the Hospice Fund of Paoli Memorial Hospital, Paoli, Pa. and the Valley Forge Historical Society, Valley Forge, Pa.

Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery, Winchester, on Nov. 30 with the Rev. Robert Storer officiating.

Olga Everson

She was born in Winchester and lived here 89 years. She attended Winchester schools.

Miss Everson had been a local telephone operator and also had worked for many years for the John Hancock insurance firm, retiring in 1951.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church of Winchester.

Marion Donaghy

Funeral services were held Monday for Marion Donaghy, 85, formerly of Winchester, who died Dec. 11 at Tuell Nursing Home, Melrose, after a long illness.

She was the widow of Arthur L. Donaghy.

Born in North Adams, she attended North Adams High School and the former Winchester Hospital School of Nursing. She earned her degree from Columbia University and was a nurse for the Stoneham public school system until her retirement.

A veteran of World War II, she attained the rank of captain and was a member of the Army Nurses Corps, having served on the Arcadia, a hospital ship serving in the European Theater.

Among her survivors are her mother-in-law, Mrs. Thomas W. (Kathryn) Donaghy of Winchester; two sisters-in-law, Mrs. James E. (Marion) Chaffe of Winchester and Mrs. Anthony J. (Marjorie) Asci of Stoneham; two nephews, L. Kimball Berry of North Adams and Albert Berry of Wilmington, Del.

Arrangements were by the A. E. Finnegan and Son Home for Funerals, 322 Main st., Stoneham. Burial was at Lindenwood Cemetery in Stoneham.

Edith Vozzella

Funeral services were held Nov. 29 for Edith A. Vozzella, 80, who died Nov. 25 at Winchester Hospital after a long illness.

She was the wife of Celestino Vozzella.

Born in Avellino, Italy, she came to Winchester as a child and lived here for 78 years.

A homemaker, she attended Winchester schools and was a member of the Immaculate Conception Church for many years.

Besides her husband, her survivors include four sons, Gennaro C. and Rudy P., both of Woburn, Celestino of Winchester and Frank E., a member of the Winchester Police Dept.,; four daughters, Rose M. Henick of Melrose, Josephine A. Scalisi of Stoneham, Edith A. Brock of Winchester and Matilda C. Harbour of Burlington; two brothers, Arthur Capone of Portsmouth, N.H., and Louis Capone; a sister, Rose Capone of Winchester, 22 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Funeral was held from Lane Funeral Home Nov. 29, followed by a funeral mass at Immaculate Conception Church, celebrated by the Rev. George Dufour.

Burial was at Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Donations in Mrs. Vozzella's memory may be made to the American Heart Assoc., 112 Cypress st., Brookline, Ma., 02146.

A Grand Reunion

Class Of 1960 Holds Reunion

The Winchester High School Class of 1960 celebrated its 25th reunion on November 1 and 2. An informal get together at the Jenks Senior Center on Friday evening started off the weekend, followed by a tailgating party and football game on Saturday afternoon (Winchester vs. Reading).

A cocktail party, buffet and dancing on Saturday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall completed the weekend.

The reunion committee began meeting a year in advance, obtaining current addresses, sending out mailings, gathering personal data on each classmate for the handout booklet and entering all this information into Warren Butts' computer was a time consuming task. Our special thanks to Dan Serieka (WHS '59) for his time and suggestions for making this weekend a terrific success.

Over 220 people attended, including former teachers Miss Nelson and Messrs. Aversa, Finnegan and Waite. Roger Mitchell traveled the farthest, from Honolulu, Hawaii, and interestingly enough, 30 classmates still live in Winchester.

Over 220 people attended, including former teachers Miss Nelson and Messrs. Aversa, Finnegan and Waite. Roger Mitchell traveled the farthest, from Honolulu, Hawaii, and interestingly enough, 30 classmates still live in Winchester.

Many items were raffled off, including the grand prize of round trip tickets for two to California. The winner of the trip was Martha Dyer Hooper — a travel agent!

From left, Janet Trupin Scallane, Janet Rotondi Harrington, Joan McCourt Morello and Nancy Gallazzo Bucknam share some fun going through the souvenir pamphlet and trying to find out what others are up to 25 years after graduation from Winchester High.

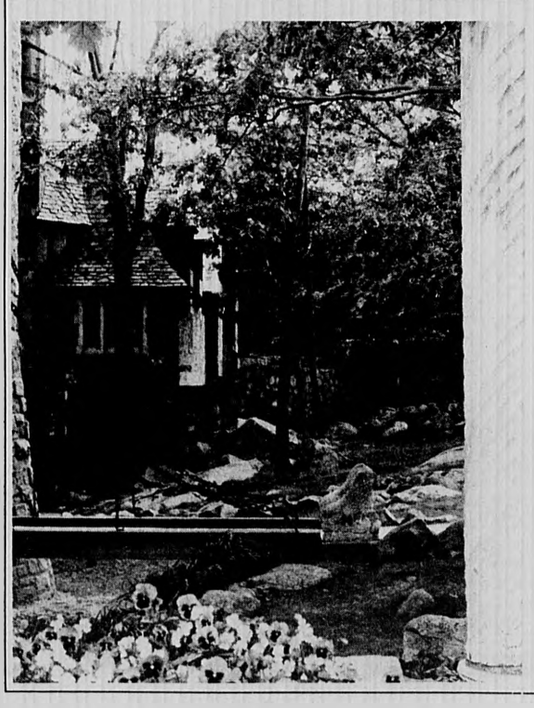
What To Visit



The Castle Hammond's Holds Many

The castle lurks, grey and huge, on the ocean's edge.

It doesn't belong here. This is Boston's North Shore: Victorian estates and newer, sensible homes dot the surrounding area.

And yet it stands.

Boldly and surely, secure in its battlements, iron entrance doors, and parapets, it extends its drawbridge into the present time and town of Gloucester.

It is a medieval castle, isn't it?

Its appearance tells tales from long-ago times.

Memories of chivalry, dark nights, festivals, fears, lords and ladies, and eternal study by midnight monks are tucked away in dusty corners and antique credenzas.

Built in 1929 from Cape May granite and dominating more than seven acres of rocky shore, this dream-creation is an eclectic masterpiece of style, period and imagination where centuries collide.

It was also home to Hammond and his wife, Irene Fenton, for 35 years.

Established as a museum in 1930, Hammond Castle Museum continues to be an outstanding cultural institution and historic landmark.

And it offers a personal and unusual visit with Hammond himself.

"I become more and more fascinated with the man," says John Pettibone, curator of Hammond Castle Museum and a supporter of the institution for 20 years.

Hammond created this legendary home, built then at a cost of $4 million, to give future generations the opportunity to visit Europe in their own backyard.

Finally, says Pettibone, Hammond was professionally involved in the future but was zealously absorbed with the past.

"He lived surrounded with the best of the past, because he couldn't change it," says Pettibone.

"Yet he focused on the future. He could change that."

Hammond, a member of RCA's Board of Directors, is credited with more than 600 inventions.

Consider the electric razor and the squirter used to clean off car windows. Hammond engineered early models of both.

His pioneering work of radio control, begun in his student days, contributed to the development of modern radio, television and radar and even helped put the U. S. television cameras on the moon.

His first invention — a circuit breaker — enabled him to circumvent an 8 p.m. lights-out rule at his prep school in New Jersey.

The son of a millionaire mining engineer, Hammond went on to graduate from Yale University and receive a doctorate in science from George Washington University.

Stretching 100 feet in length and 25 feet across, the Great Hall reflects the double design of a medieval hall and a recreation of the nave of a 13th-century cathedral in Carcassone, France.

A giant organ console, the largest known in a private collection, was designed and built by Hammond in a time span of 20 years.

It has more than 8,000 pipes, four manuals, 144 stops — many taken from old churches, and is housed in an 85-foot stone tower.

A huge fireplace and chimney canopy project from one wall into the hall, its carved facade taken block by block from a 15th century French Castle.

Tradition tells of long evenings when lord and lady sat at the fire's edge. As night lengthened and cooled, the royal couple moved their chairs into the cavernous fireplace, facing each other.

Throughout the night, at 15 minute intervals, they traded spots, keeping both sides warm and toasty.

The marvels of the Great Hall continue.

A sparkling suit of armor, considered gigantic as it fit a man 5-foot-6 and weighing 120 pounds, stands guard at the fireplace.

A snarling wolf head is etched into another helmet, showing insight into medieval war strategy. Not only did the headpiece protect, but it also attempted to frighten the enemy.

One of Hammond's most prized possessions is kept under lock and key in an Asian chest made of colored mirrors. It is the skull of a sailor known to have crewed for Christopher Columbus.

Hammond was fascinated with Columbus and retraced many of his routes along the American coast in his yacht.

He also experimented with unmanned, radio-controlled voyages and gave Gloucester residents a dose of ghost skippers.

One unmanned trip so excited Hammond that he forget the control, causing the yacht to crash in to the rocks not far from the setting of Longfellow's "The Wreck of the Hesperus."

Hammond worked from the Radio Research Laboratory housed in the castle's basement. From there, he engineered practical inventions still in use today.

One example is the heating system designed for Great Hall

What To Visit

By Susan Curtis

Lurks: Home Secrets

A series of pipes at the base of the fireplace brings cold air up the height of the chimney, toasty from a roaring fire, and releases the now warmed air through vents near the ceiling.

Temperatures here never dip below 75 degrees and rain, moonlight, and mist are controlled by pipes along the glass ceiling and a trio of bright blue lights.

Hammond, however, made it appear very shallow, incapable of supporting occupants larger than goldfish.

When entertaining guests, which he and his wife did quite often, the formally-dressed host would — to the horror of his friends — dive from a second-story window into the pool below.

Some visitors don't understand Hammond or his castle, she says. They find it "weird.

"They don t see the humor and how he used it," says Badger.

The dining room containsa 14th-century painting titled the "Martyrdom and Burial of St. Romanus," a man tortured to death by having his tongue pulled out.

When Hammond was feeling particularly mischiveous, says Badger, he would take his guests to the painting and describe it in vivid detail to them.

Dinner would then be served at a narrow table which came from a medieval monastery. The first course would be specially ordered by Hammond: beef tongue in brandied cherry sauce.

Carved 15th-century walls flank the dining room. The beauty of their original design, displaying open pages from the Bible, has been modified by life at Hammond Castle.

The Hammonds were cat-lovers and usually had nine cats at a time in residence. Many of the felines chose these walls, along with the room's 17th-century Spanish leatherback chairs, as their personal scratching posts.

Ten tiles in the dining room floor were made in Italy in the 1400's. Hammond commissioned a tile expert from Gloucester to duplicate the ancient originals. Once the floor was laid, the host challenged visitors to identify copy versus authentic.

The dining room, a smorgasbord of English and American pewter and china, abuts the library with its ancient clavichord and impressive collection of rare books.

Hammond himself was a writer, says Badger.

"I tend to think of Mr. Hammond as a truly Renaissance man, she says. "He was a scientist but that was not the sum total of the man."

Badger read some of Hammond's short stories — not surprisingly, Gothic thrillers — and found some of them to be 'quite good," he said.

One of the oldest pieces in the castle is a Roman stone child's coffin.

Guide Bruce Randall explains that, in those times, such burial pieces were ordered before an actual death as so many children died.

Children then were buried with their pets and toys.

Hammond followed this example and, upon his own death, was buried with several of his cats.

Two upstairs bedrooms are open for public display.

The Gothic Room contains a 600-year old bed weighing 500

The Changeling Is Absorbing

Review: The American Repertory Theatre has mounted the rare [illegible] Jacobean tragedy, Thomas Middleton's "The Changeling," as its season's opener in repertory [illegible] Feb. 9.

[illegible] passed only by Shakespeare's greatest tragedies in its [illegible] depth; this about Beatrice [illegible] the beast [illegible] beautiful virgin who is [illegible] by her passions and, losing [illegible] within her [illegible] herself.

[illegible] sorcerer Albert Brustein, has [illegible] the Changeling.

[illegible] produced in 1622, strip[illegible] ious matter [illegible] and [illegible] central [illegible] sensational contem[illegible] with them a power[illegible] information [illegible] passion and [illegible] that acts not only human fates but the physical en[illegible]

The action takes place in Alicante, Spain, in and near the castle of the nobleman Vermandero (Jeremy Geidt). Vermandero has promised the hand of his daughter, the strong-willed and beautiful Beatrice (Diane D'Aquila) to the wealthy nobleman Alonzo (Thomas Derrah), a man she barely knows.

However, days before the ceremony leading to the consummation of the arranged marriage, Beatrice falls in love with the nobleman Alsemero (Harry S. Murphy).

Determined to have her own way in this male-dominated society, Beatrice arranges for Alsemero, Beatrice tells her father's servant, the [illegible] (John Bottoms), [illegible] instinctively abhors, to murder her betrothed.

But to her dismay, once the deed is done De Flores insists upon [illegible] as payment, coldly passionate about her virginity. Beatrice protests vehemently but finally submits, setting the two of them on a path of certain destruction.

Mr. Brustein has produced a tense, absorbing Greek tragedy with 17th century verse, and personally highlights the production with stunning ritualistic freezes, unfathomable special effects, and his always taut, imaginative and extremely theatrical direction.

The mounting is made all the more contemporary by the exemplary naturalistic acting of the fine ensemble; the unique and ingenious Star Wars costumes by Michael H. Yeargan; the maze of levels, panels, screens and staircases that serve as the backdrop, also by Mr. Yeargan; the eerie compatable lighting by Richard Nadell which helps transform the stage into an unsettling vision of hell; and the ominous pulsating music by Rafi Lundeberg.

Miss D'Aquila and Mr. Bottoms are hypnotic to behold as the two change before your very eyes morally, spiritually, and even physically.

Bottoms develops a strange kind of beauty even as Ms. D'Aquila changes from virgin to murderess with an ethical blind spot; a deformed soul.

A Traditional Irish Christmas

[illegible] Traditional Irish Christmas with The Chieftains and their very special guest star Burgess Meredith joined by world-champion Irish step dancer Michael Flatley and other festive holiday-makers, including straw dancers and the Yale Slavic Chorus, come to Symphony Hall on Friday, Dec. 13, at 8:00 p.m. in the Wang Celebrity Series.

For more than two decades The Chieftains - Paddy Moloney, Martin Fay, Sean Keane, Derek Bell, Kevin Conneff and Matt Molloy - have uncovered a wealth of traditional Irish music, making it their own with a style that is as exhilarating as it is definitive.

Their diverse repertoire, including rousing jigs, tribal reels of ancient Celtics, gracious wedding serenades of the Georgian era, Chinese and American folk music, and the fact that their music leaves much room for improvisation, assures that no two performances are alike.

Equally versatile are their traditional Irish instruments - Uillean pipes, bodhrans, harps, flutes which can echo pagan rituals or the most delicate chamber music.

A Traditional Irish Christmas with The Chieftains and Burgess Meredith features an evening of holiday songs and carols, dances, ancient Irish rituals and popular entertainment.

Performing with The Chieftains are spectacular step dancer Michael Flatley, the Yale Slavic Chorus, and straw boy dancers - an ancient holiday ritual.

Trudeau's Ronnie A Smashing Hit

REVIEW

"Rap Master Ronnie" is ninety minutes of non-stop fun.

The new political musical revue with book and lyrics by Garry Trudeau and music by Elizabeth Swados, is at the Next Move Theatre through Dec. 22, but don't bet on the show moving out on that date.

This quick, slick, zingy, hilarious satire, presenting Trudeau and Swados' vision of Ronald Reagan's America, joshing his many lapses of memory and policy, can remain in the Hub as long as it so desires.

The show moves like wild-fire under Bill Castellino's astute direction and unbeatable choreography.

Music arrangements and direction by John Richard Lewis are sensational and the musicians, Lewis on the keyboards, Rob Reale on bass and guitar, and percussionist Russ Gold are great.

Jim Morris has Reagan's mannerisms, facial expressions and vocal shadings down to a science. Jeff Bannon and Patty Holley sing up a storm, Jeff Lyons, Leigh Gregory, Melanie Frueh Williams and Robin Thompson are super in this 18-tune romp.

In the hard rock opener "Rap Master Ronnie," Reagan observes that segregation has been totally eliminated, that the country is equal for "white and black, rich and poor, white and rich . . . you bet your bottom kruggerand!"

Miss Holley excels in the bitter blues number "Take That Smile Off Your Face," while "Class of '85" is a winning novelty tune.

Bannon chips in with a fine rendition of "You're Not Ready," which raps women's lib . . . "One day we'll need a woman's point of view" but for now we need women "riping on the vine without complaint . . . that's what most endears you."

Leading into the spoof "The (Moral) Majority" Reagan reasons, "I try to honor God in different ways . . . I vote Republican, I donate a great deal of money . . . and I visit cemeteries!"

Lyons scores with "Self Made Man," a parody on freeloaders, and the novelty "O Grenada," with its mambo beat, is a riot.

Following, Gregory sings the blues in "Cheese," a lampoon on the give-away program.

Choral work shines in "Human Rights" as the killing in San Salvador and Reagan's patronizing manner come under fire.

The Western "9 to 12" reflects on Reagan's workday . . . "9 to 12 he's working on the job, 12 to 5 old rawhide hits the hay . . . he's a cowboy!"

In "My Kids" comment is made on "My son who grew up in tights and Nancy's moaning, "It hurts so bad to shop at Sears."

The dirge "Victims," artfully sung by Bannon, is a parody on Reagan's visit to the German cemetery, and is followed by the sage "Thinking The Unthinkable," a tango on nuclear war . . . "it's bigger than Michael Jackson!"

Thompson excels with "Facts," which finds Reagan at a press conference . . . "If you're right 90 percent of the time, why quibble about the other three percent?"

"The Empire Strikes First" is a wild and hilarious fairy tale that gets cartoon strip treatment in sizing up "the great communicator."

"New Year's In Beirut" is a love letter to Brooke Shields from the 200 marines trapped in that country, while "Something For Nothing" focuses on the deficit.

See this gem by all means! Call 423-5572 for ticket information.

Perelman Comedy By Trinity Rep

REVIEW

Trinity Repertory Company's manic mounting of S.J. Perelman's comedy "The Beauty Part" (through Jan. 5), first produced on Broadway in 1962, is directed with such frantic fury by Philip Minor that it proves a run-away farce so crammed with slapstick, pratfalls, fractured English, bizarre characters, acting excesses and gimmickry as to be totally exhausting!

Taking a page from Mack Sennett or a zany Marx Brothers movie — indeed, Perelman collaborated on two of their films, the play is a funny yet trenchant satire on American pop culture and Hollywood movie moguls.

However, had a tighter grip been maintained and a half hour of lunatic excesses been lopped off, it would have been that much more satisfying.

What's On The Boards By Dann Kosow

Clockwise: John Bottoms and Diane D'Aquila appear in Thomas Middleton's 17th-century tragedy, The changeling, now at the American Repertory Theatre; the Chieftains and special guest Burgess Meredith present a Traditional Irish Christmas on Friday, Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. at Symphony Hall in the Wang Celebrity Series; David P.B. Stephens and Richard Kneeland perform in Trinity Rep's production of S.J. Perelman's The Beauty Part, at the Downstairs Theatre in Providence through Jan. 5.

Lance Weatherwax (David PB Stephens) is an innocent, starry-eyed 20 year-old Yale student who, upon learning that his parent's fortune is derived from Weatherwax All-Weather Disposal Units, is totally disillusioned.

Finding it degrading, and that he no longer can hold his head high, this latter-day La Mancha strikes out on his own to follow his own quest, his own star, in search of beauty and truth and the pursuit of purity of ideals.

Sadly, he finds that just about everyone can be seduced and corrupted by money and, in the end, finally succumbs to its powers of persuasion to gain justice and win his beloved.

Lance's travels and travails present his adulterous parents (Barbara Meek and Ed Hall) and a corrupted klutzy private eye (Richard Kneeland).

When Lance seeks solace with the love of his life, beatnik poetess April Monkhood (Anne Scurria), he finds she wants him only to pay her bills.

He lands a job as a writer with the female editor (Kneeland) of grisly pulp magazines but when Weatherwax interests deny her a sizable loan, she tosses Lance out on his ear.

Now Lance decides upon a career as an artist and seeks a position with pop artist Goddard Quagmeyer (Daniel Von Bargen).

At his studio he meets overbearing movie producer Harry Hubris (Kneeland) who is grooming his illiterate star Rob Roy Fruitwell (Richard Ferrone) to portray an artist in his next film. Hubris hires Quagmeyer to coach Fruitwell and Quagmeyer abandons his integrity for Hollywood and big bucks.

Lance also ends up in Hollywood, and in Hubris' employ, he steals hot movie properties.

Later, he tries to sell an advertising campaign to a petulant old ice cream tycoon and challenges a judge (Kneeland) dispensing packaged justice on television.

Lance crosses paths with April at a swank Hollywood party, again while she is serving as a nurse for the ice cream tycoon, and finally when she emerges from a huge cake an an erotic dancer.

The hard-working cast of 15, portraying 45 characters, is excellent.

Outstanding performances are Kneeland in the Bert Lahr role, Stephens as the wide-eyed preppie, Ms. Scurria as the eccentric girlfriend, and Geraline Librandi, who always conjures up a special effervescence.

Godspell Returns

Artistic Director Tom Celli has announced that "Godspell," the modern musical adaptation of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, will be presented by Portsmouth's (N.H.) Theatre by the Sea, opening Thursday, Dec. 12, and continuing through Jan. 5.

"Godspell" was conceived and adapted by John Michael Tebelak as a thesis project, with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, who also wrote the music for "Pippin" and "Working."

Based on the teachings of Christ, "Godspell" involves ten performers acting out an assortment of parodies, sight gags, vaudeville routines and various pantomime, all focusing upon the key parables and incidents in the Gospel.

Featured in the cast are Sam Scalamoni as Jesus and Robert Zolli as Judas.

Seats are available for all performances and reservations can be made by calling (603) 431-6660.

The box office is open Tuesday through Sunday, 12 noon to 9 p.m. at 125 Bow st. Group rates are available after Dec. 30. There will be no performance Christmas Day (Dec. 25), but a special matinee has been added on Thursday, Dec. 26, at 2 p.m.

Holiday Gift: The Magi At GSC

The Gloucester Stage Company presents "Gift of the Magi," Peter Eckstrom's musical adaptation of O.Henry's classic short story, for four days of special holiday performances at 4 p.m., 6 p.m., and 8 p.m., from Thursday, Dec. 19 through Sunday, Dec. 22, at The Universalist Unitarian Church, Mid-

Happy Holiday Shopping

Having trouble picking out a Christmas gift for a family member, but tired of buying candy or a sweater?

How does a medieval sword, a laserdazer, or a Halley's Comet ornament for the tree sound?

The Agaffiz Museum Gift Shop, located on 26 Oxford st. in the Harvard Museum of Natural Science, offers a wide array of items.

Unusual items include caterpillars that changes into a butterfly when the stomach is unzipped; insects preserved in fossilized resin that dates back to 10 — 40 million years; a line of jewelry, belts, and luggage made from abaca tree fiber; and stocking stuffers such as boxed and labelled minerals.

The gift shop also carries animal and natural history theme cards, celestial and bestial tree ornaments, flower presses for drawing, and semi-precious stone jewelry complete with the stone's specific history and folklore.

For the funkier friend or relative, The Institute of Contemporary Art might be the solution.

The gift shop, located at 955 Boylston st. in downtown Boston, features jewelry designed by Boston artists such as Don Southworth, Mary Sherwood, and Jill Rosenwald.

Paper mache bowties made by sculptor George Peterson are another option.

For children on the list, consider art aprons with snap-on pockets, playing cards, colorforms, and "Wet Pets and Bets" — little rubber pets and letters for the bath tub.

Desk items such as high tech pencil holders, clocks and staplers, as well as a contemporary art book and periodicals stock provide broad selection for the more serious-minded shopper.

The Museum of Science Gift Shop offers such gifts as executive slinkies in brass, gyroscopes, sonic operated kaleidescopes, laserdazers, and a defraction grading device with a metal spinning disk.

There are also a whole range of wooden puzzles, robot toys, and a thinking yo-yo with a clutch — allowing for better tricks such as the sleeper.

Stocking stuffers are the specialty of the Boston Children's Museum Gift Shop . Prices range from 10 cents to $5.

Besides kaleidescopes and slinkies, this gift shop carries astronaut ice cream bars of chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry, flip books, frog clickers, liquid bubble makers, and baking sets containing a rolling pin, grater, strainer, and measuring spoons.

Recycled item gift sets might intrique creative youngsters. Items such as styrofoam and cardboard are recreated into new and interesting gifts.

Give Gifts That Pamper

By Susan Curtis

Sometimes the most welcome holiday present comes not in gold foil or Santa-sprinkled wrapping paper.

Rather, it arrives as a service, a happening.

Non-gifts are different. They let the receiver feel papmpered, special, even outrageous.

Pretend as a purchaser.

What about a limousine ride?

The price tag is steep but it beats the train, car pools and parking problems.

Commonwealth Limousine Service in Boston presents three fee scales: sedan limousines are $30 per hour; formal Cadillacs cost $35; and a full stretch limo, complete with stereo radio, color TV, tinted glass, and other luxuries, rolls at $44 per hour.

There is a two-hour minimum during the day, and after 6 p.m., limousines are rented for three or more hours.

A 15 percent gratuitiy and the 5 percent state sales tax needs to be calculated into the cost of this gift. Reservations are required several days in advance.

With or without limousine accompaniment, a gift certificate of dinner for two is a delightful respite, especially during high-paced holiday times.

Most restaurants accept charge cards and structure the amount of the gift to include drinks and wine, tips and tax.

For the cost-conscious, lunch can be a less expensive treat with totals for two starting at $30.

Or brighten up someone's New Year with fresh flowers.

Doris Weldette of the Daisy Shop in Winchester and Medford says it is not uncommon for gift givers to arrange monthly delivery of floral fare for a complete year.

Once-a-month deliveries of fresh flowers run about $25 each or $300 for the year.

An even more frequent remembrance? At $700 or more, flowers can arrive weekly. A $15 per-week charge sends home a plant or fresh flowers in season.

Gifts to the home do pamper.

An annual subscription to the local daily or weekly newspaper brings the paper to the doorstep, regardless of weather.

Make this gift even cosier by including an electric coffee grinder and fresh coffee beans with the newspaper's certificate.

Add warmth and entertainment to winter week-ends by rental of a VCR and two or more tapes for use by favorite folks.

Hugo La Fauci of Winchester TV & Video charges $4.95 per day for the rental of a VCR unit. Tapes range from 99 cents to $3 rental for the first day with $1 per tape, regardless of initial fee, for each additional day.

A week-end package, then, might cost between $25 to $50 for the machine and a sampling of movies.

To All!

Marble collection sets made in shaped tin, a selection of wooden puzzles with teddy bears, trucks, and sailboats drawn on them, hand carved decoy birds made by a local artist and a selection of reproduced, early American pottery called spatterware and slipware — used everyday in colonial times for cooking and baking, are among the interesting shopping treats here.

Besides train sets and buildings to go with the sets, the shop sells trains made out of brass and coal.

The store also has hats, mugs, lighters, and lead crystal in the shape of trains; an engineer teddy bear; hook rug kits with locomotives on them; and wooden postcards, ready for mailing, with trains buffed on them.

Books about trains and train sets complete the selection.

For a more medievel Christmas, the Hammond Castle Museum in Gloucester, has items that look like they came from medievel Europe.

Consider swords and savers used by knights for jousting, armor caps and shields for the knights and knaves on your list.

There are framed and unframed brass rubbings of men and women of old Europe, model knights, stained glass pieces as window decorations, jewelry, and puzzles and posters of castles.

A sharp contrast from the middle ages, the Peabody Museum in Cambridge offers ethnographic art and traditional crafts made in the manner and custom by indigenous Welcome Eager Shoppers! Unusual Gifts And Specialties Are Ready For Wrapping!

Dinosaurs are popular holiday items and are the sole offering at the Dinostore on 2000 Mass. ave in Cambridge.

There are dinosaurs of every type and shape, including models of Tyranosauras Rex and Woolly Mammoth; posters, t-shirts, and wind-up toys; ties of various styles — some with dinosaurs and others with woolly mammoths on them; and books about dinosaurs for children ages 2 through adult.

For the conservative shopper, Filene's Christmas Store in Belmont provides a traditional variety of items to choose from with an international flavor.

Emperor Art candles, specially designed candles from Austria, are made from gingerbread molds and painted on the outside, allowing the candle to burn only inside the cylinder.

The 1985 ornament is brass, finished in 24k gold, with an etching of Old Ironsides or the Charles River skyline.

Two Austrian-designed ornaments are available and offer either Quincy Market or Boston Swan boats with "Greeting from

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — The heavy responsibilities you feel now are temporary and will pay off in the long run. You may get a second chance at something you thought was over — take the ball and run! Your judgment is good so start something new.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — You're in a powerful position now and can influence others — use it wisely. A dream could come true and you're more free than before. An important offer may be very good, but don't be afraid to ask lots of questions.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — You can finish up something important now and receive recognition for your efforts. Past accomplishements and innate talents open new doors for you. Show your gratitude to someone who has been and still is a loyal supporter.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You could unearth some surprising information when you try to learn more about someone you're romantically attracted to. You'll get to the top if you hang in there and maintain a steady effort. Take care of details yourself.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Hold your tongue, be diplomatic and willing to see another person's point of view. Guard against extravagant flamboyance in your gift buying — be practical. Be flexible if last-minute changes occur in your holiday plans.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Defer to others, let associates take the lead so you can concentrate on the details. A romantic proposal could come along and pique your interest. Give thought to finances, keep track of expenses and make realistic plans.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Give in to the urge to buy something luxurious for yourself. A sticky matter is resolved and frees you to use your own ideas. You could come out on top in a competitive situation, thanks to assistance from a powerful person.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Make your domestic surroundings more pleasant and do some entertaining. Your energy is high, you're ready to try new things, associates trust and support you, so go for it! Show your gratitude and loyalty to them.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — The dependability you've displayed in the past will pay off for you now. A relationship intensifies and you may be considering the possiblity of marriage. You're spontaneous now and filled with the holiday spirit.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — The tide is with you, so now is the time to make special requests and get affirmative answers. The accent is on new projects. Make changes, be bold and daring! Follow your intuition and restore harmony with relatives.

AQUARIUS: (Jan 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Take the initiative and make your independent, original moves — it may be a turning point in your career! Look at the long-term picture and be willing to pay the price for something of value. A message arrives and it's good news.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Your magnetism is at a high point and attention from the opposite sex is assured. Guard against extravagance in the social scene. You don't have to be the last of the big spenders to be popular! Review and revise your diet.

What To Do

Above: the world-famous Singing Toy Soldiers appear daily at Edaville Railraod during the annual Christmas Light Festival, through Jan. 5. Marching through the park harmonizing on Christmas carols, the singing soldiers lend authentic, old-fashioned holiday cheer to the traditional Edaville attractions, including 200,000 shimmering lights.

Toy Soldiers Come Alive At Edaville Railroad Park

This year's Christmas Light Festival at Edaville Railroad and Family Fun Park marks the return of one of the park's most popular holiday attractions -- the world-famous Singing Toy Soldiers.

The Christmas Festival is known far and wide as one of New England's premier holiday attractions. Through early January each year, families, throughout the Northeast and beyond, visit the park, home of the famous narrow-gauge railroad that bears the Edaville name.

The train leisurely wends its way through 5½ miles of vast woods and frosted cranberry bogs -- brought to life by more than 200,000 shimmering lights and handcrafted seasonal displays.

The train ride is just one of the many highlights of an Edaville Christmas, made all the more special by the appearances of the Singing Toy Soldiers.

The singers, all classically trained and expertly costumed, will perform daily at Edaville through January 5 in locations ranging from the Edaville Station to the New England Heritage Museum to the trains themselves.

Located on Route 58 in South Carver, Mass., (exit 2 on I495, 58 North), Edaville is open daily for the Christmas Festival through January 5, 4 to 9 p.m. weekdays and 2 to 9 p.m. weekends.

Admission is $6 for adults, $5 for seniors, and $3 for children. Call 866-4526.

Special Gifts For Children

By TERRY BISBEE

Even though you might not want to start thinking about Christmas yet, it is creeping up on us. Why not make it easy on yourself this year, and send a wonderful gift without ever having to leave the house?

Natural Gifts For Families

Are you looking for some special and unique Christmas gifts for some special and unique children? You'll find them here in the Hearthsong catalog, which offers items intended to encourage the spirit of play, wonder and discovery in families.

How about giving youngsters some Fairy Fleece'? This is soft, cleaned and carded sheep's wood plant-dyed in a variety of shades. Kids love to tease it into different forms and can use it with wooden toys to create trees, clouds, rivers, etc.

Other specialty items include hand-woven basket rocking cradles for one of the many dolls available here, face paints, games, art supplies and natural beauty products. There's also a selection of magical books.

Directions: Send a postcard.

HOMESTEAD HINTS

Good Ideas from the Past · by Donald J. Berg

Hints on Putting-up Fruit

From THE NATIONAL FARMER'S & HOUSEKEEPER'S CYCLOPEDIA, 1888

FASTENING FRUIT JARS — Very many housekeepers are greatly annoyed by the opening of their fruit jars after they have been carefully sealed. The difficulty arises from the fact that the rubber bands furnished with them are so hard, have so little rubber in them, that they do not yield to compression, and hence do not become tight. Boiling the bands before using is said to obviate the difficulty.

MOLD ON JELLY — If the paper which is put over jelly be dipped in the white of an egg, it will when dry be tight and firm, and keep the fruit from molding with much more certainty than if it is dipped in alcohol or brandy. The paper which is laid next the fruit is meant, not that which is tied or pasted over the glass.

BOTTLING FRUIT — Have ready some dry glass bottles, wide-mouthed and clean. Burn a match in each to exhaust the air; place the fruit quickly in each; cork with soft bungs or corks, and put in a cool oven; let them remain until the fruit has shrunken one-fourth. Take out the bottles; heat the corks well in and cover them with melted rosin. If the fruit has been picked dry, and is quite sound, it will keep for months in a cool, dry place, and retain all the flavor.

What Do You Say?

What Do You Want Santa To Bring You For Christmas?

By LINDA RAUCH

Danny Goldy, 15
Student
Belmont

A case of beer, a hundred dolars, and a new car — a new Monty Carlo SS. Christmas is my favorite time of the year because the family's together.

Rachel Berkowitz, 13
Student
Arlington

A trampoline, a stereo, clothes-blouses, a walkman, make-up, a sofa couch to lounge in my room, books — novels, and stuffed animals. I like Christmas because there's lots of joy and pleasure.

Tish Hanlon, 25
Real Estate Agent,
Hunnenman and Co.
Belmont

I would want a trip to the Caribbean — an airline ticket and a place to stay for two. I also want a farmhouse in Jackson, N.H.

Dave Gorman, 14
Student
Arlington

Probably a car — a porsche, and a stereo. I like Christmas because you get time off from school.

Museums

MUSEUM OF OUR NATIONAL HERITAGE, 33 Marrett rd., Lexington. 861-6559. Monday through Saturday 10 a.m.- 5 p.m., Sunday noon - 5 p.m. Free. EXHIBITS: Through Feb. 23, "Useful Knowledge and Publick Good: Dr. Franklin Considered." Benjamin Franklin's accomplishments in the fields of science, communications, and community improvement, topics of a special show marking the museum's 10th anniversary and its 100th exhibition. Featured most weekends is artist-in residence Bill Meikle as Ben Franklin. NEW EXHIBIT: Through March 23, "Patchwork History: American Quilts and Quilters," features quilts and their histories, borrowed from public and private collections. To help recreate the lives of those who made the quilts, biographies will be told through letters, diaries, paintings and photographs. Special events during the exhibit will include demonstrations by local quilters; programs on family folklore; and films about Appalachian artists and the women who settled the Western plains. UPCOMING EXHIBIT: Dec. 15 through June 15. "Childhood Treasures," celebrates the timeless traditions of childhood collecting and examines 19th and 20th century playthings from the viewpoints of children who collected them. Call for schedule.

DECORDOVA & DANA MUSEUM, Sandy Pond road, Lincoln. Tel. 259 8355. Hours: Tuesday through Thursday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., Friday until 9 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, noon - 5 p.m. Closed holidays. Adults $1.50, ages 6-21 and elders 50 cents. A multifaceted center for the arts, the Museum exhibits and collects significant examples of modern American art with emphasis on New England artists. EXHIBITS: Through Jan. 26, "Unaffiliated Artists Without Galleries" A juried exhibition designed to uncover New England artists of exceptional creative and technical ability who are not currently affiliated with a commercial or cooperative gallery. Including a variety of media, the exhibition features established artists and previously unrecognized regional talents who exhibit infrequently. ONGOING: Contemporary sculpture by international artists on museum's 35-acre parkland.

CONCORD ANTIQUARIAN MUSEUM, Concord, Mass. Tel. 969-9609. CURRENT EXHIBIT: Through Jan. 5, a special exhibition, "All Dolled-Up: 19th Century Dolls From the Museum's Collection." Approximately 30 dolls, placed in the period rooms of the museum are displayed. Cost for tour is $3.

A living history museum that recreates a New England town of the 1830's. Costumed interpreters recreate work, family and social life on this 200-acre park with over 40 historical buildings. ONGOING: J. Cheney Wells Clock Gallery of early American clocks. SPECIAL EVENTS: "Going Out To Dinner," a program inviting the public to explore an evening in the village, prepare a hearth-cooked meal and enjoy the meal by candlelight in an early 19th-century setting. Meet at Visitor Center on Saturdays at 5 p.m.

Caillebotte Children is one of almost 100 paintings by Pierre Auguste Renoir on display at the Museum of Fine Arts through Jan. 5.

Countdown to Christmas

Traintrips To Cape Cod

Stroll in Sandwich Village, a shopping spree at the famous Christmas Tree Shop, or private parties for employees and friends in the train's deluxe parlor cars.

"We're really thrilled to be extending our season," said Mark A. Snider, President of the Railroad. "Over the years many people have requested holiday train service - it' such a romantic idea and just perfect for our train which strives to bring back the romance of rail travel."

"Everyone at the railroad is working very hard to create a nostalgic and magical atmosphere on board. Plus, we'll travel to places with old-fashioned charm as well as old-fashioned shopping values - And that, in and of itself, is a new idea this Christmas and reason to celebrate!"

What will distinguish this holiday train service will be the train itself.

During holiday weekends the two first-class parlor cars will be colorfully decorated. Hot cider and Yule Tide Specialties are featured in the Tavern Car.

In Sandwich, the oldest town on Cape Cod, "Old-fashioned Christmas" has real meaning. Passengers will be able to enjoy the charm of the village on weekends, taking advantage of both the holiday stroll and annual Christmas celebrations.

Passengers may also use the Holiday Train Service to travel to and from Hyannis. "The Hub of Cape Cod", for day trips or weekend getaways.

Holiday train service makes two round trips on Saturday and Sunday from the Braintree T Station, direct from Boston via Red Line MBTA. Departures from Braintree are at 12:00 Noon and 6:30 p.m. with return departures from Hyannis at 9:00 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

One way train fares are $8.00. The special one day round trip train fare to Sandwich Village, including shuttle bus transportation to all activities, is $19.95.

The Castle Of Centuries

pounds. One wall boasts a seating area built in by Hammond himself from a medieval confessional booth.

This elegant piece, useful for storage of clothes and personal articles, also served as a type of defensive weapon, says guide Randall.

It was not uncommon for the manor lord's enemies to bribe the cook to poison the master's food.

Servants were required to taste the prepared fare first. Meals were then stored in the credence chest for one or more hours. If the servant survived his sample, the master then enjoyed his now cool, and perhaps buggy, but safe meal.

If the servant fell ill, the cook, of course, would be killed.

The Purple Room features, for the castle, surprisingly new furniture, including fine examples of Queen Anne and Pennsylvania Dutch styles.

The wallpaper in this guest room has been stenciled bright purple and extends over baseboards and doors, thereby creating the impression of a single square.

The illusion is made more complete by special door hinges, designed by Hammond, which connect to the inside panels, therby making them invisible from the outside.

No monetary worth has been assigned to the seemingly endless parade of antique and ancient objects here at the Hammond Castle.

Individual pieces create astonishment. Collectively they cause mind-boggle.

Pettibone often sees people who visited the castle as children themselves returning with children of their own. They remember the excitement, the beauty, the history and, perhaps even the bizarre, from this 35-room fantasy.

Hammond loved to observe the visitors marveling and milling through his home.

He would tuck himself away in a high bishop's chair, in a dark recess behind a copy of an eighth century altar screen and watch as his butler gave tours of the Great Hall for, back in the earlier days, a nickel per person.

"Who knows who's been influenced and how they've been influenced by the decor and the place," questions Pettibone.

A guest might also wonder how many people have been influenced by their visit with the surprising and most uncommon Mr. Hammond?

Joyful Season For Stage

dle st., Gloucester, Mass.

"Gift of the Magi" takes place in Manhattan on Christmas Eve, 1905, in the fourth floor walk-up of a young married couple, Della and Jim Young.

Eckstrom faithfully adapts O. Henry's ironic tale about the loving pair, each of whom secretly sells their most precious possessions to bring happiness to their loved one on Christmas Day.

Although both Della and Jim buy expensive gifts for each other, they discover that the only gift that really matters is the gift of love.

The playwright will be in residence during rehearsals, working closely with director Sally Russell, musical director David Alpher, and the "Magi" cast.

In the spring of 1981 the Actors Theatre of Louisville commissioned Eckstrom to write "Gift of the Magi." Call 281-4099 for ticket information.

Holiday Schedule For Broadway

"Forbidden Broadway," Gerard Alessandrini's long-running hit musical comedy revue, has announced a special holiday performance schedule. "Forbidden Broadway" — starring Toni Di Buono, Brad Ellis, Michael McGrath, Karen Murphy and Michael Thayer — continues playing in the Terrace Room at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel, in an open-ended engagement.

"Forbidden Broadway" roasts and toasts the Great White Way's biggest and brightest stars and shows, including "Cats," "Evita," "Camelot," Carol Channing and Julie Andrews.

The special holiday performance schedule and prices follow: no performances Monday through Wednesday, Dec. 23-25; performances Thursday and Friday, Dec. 26 and 27 at 8 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 28 at 7 and 10 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 29 at 3 and 6 p.m.; and Monday, Dec. 30 at 8 p.m. Tickets for December 26-30 performances are $18.

New Year's Eve there will be two special shows with times and prices to be announced. There will be no performances on Jan. 1.

Regular performances resume on Thursday, Jan. 2 with new ticket prices: Tuesday through Thursday evenings $17; Friday and Saturday evenings $19; and both Sunday performances are $15.

On Sundays, senior citizens can enjoy "Forbidden Broadway" for a special discounted price of only $11 each; or in senior groups of twenty or more for only $10 per ticket.

For information and to charge tickets by phone, call the box office, located in the Terrace Room, Boston Park Plaza Hotel, at 357-8384.

Klezmer Band In Concert

The Klezmer Conservatory Band, the jazz/folk/ragtime ensemble of 15 musicians, presents their unique and creative interpretations of traditional Klezmer and Yiddish music at Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 14.

Klezmer is Yiddish for the "wandering musicians" who traveled and played in the eastern European ghettos.

The music was brought to America early in this century, but soon faded due to integration.

Today, however, the sounds of Klezmer play a prominent role in the world of ethnic music.

At that time he was teaching ethnic music and his studies fueled his curiosity about his own heritage.

He soon discovered that both a grandfather and an uncle were members of the Philadelphia Klezmer orchestras in the 20s and 30s and decided to carry on the tradition.

Today, the Klezmer s revival is in full swing.

Since its inception, KCB has introduced a music with a 1000-year heritage while performing concerts nationwide.

The band has released two albums, "Yiddishe Renaissance" and "Klez!", and was featured on "Tourists," recorded live and released by the popular radio program "A Prairie Home Companion."

The Klezmer sound is a novel mix of ragtime, folk, pop and jazz, created by a variety of horn and string instruments. It is a joyous and infectious brand of instrumental and vocal music.

The Boston-based troupe is non-denominational, and each member has been schooled in both classical music and jazz.

For information or to charge tickets, call (617) 470-1905.

...is produced by ... as Andrei Serban, who previously directed three of the company's most celebrated and ... productions ... The King Stags, ... Snow Queen ... and Cupid and Psyche.

Performances ... in repertory through Feb. 2.

Since ... The Jumpers' ... has run unusually long run for an opera (36 performances), and is presented so frequently, four of the principal roles have been double cast.

The Stepmother will be portrayed alternately by mezzo-sopranos Ruby Hinds and Valeri Walters. The Husband will be sung alternately by baritones Sanford Sylvan and S. Mark Aliapoulios. The Stepdaughter by sopranos Janet Brown and Sue Ellen Kuzma and The Son by sopranos Lynn Torgove and Lisa Saffer. Also appearing in the cast are soprano Jayne West as The First Wife, baritone David Stone as The Goldsmith, A.R.T. actor Thomas Derrah as The Cobbler and William Cotton (a recent ... as The Miller.

Sets and costumes are by A.R.T. principal designer Michael H. Yeargan, and lighting is by Jennifer Tipton, A.R.T.'s principal lighting designer.

The Jumpers' Tree joins Thomas Middleton's 17th-century tragedy, The Changeling, directed by Robert Brustein, which plays through Feb. 19.

A.R.T.'s third offering is Jean Genet's contemporary classic The Balcony, in a new translation by Jean-Claude van Itallie, directed by JoAnne Akalaitis, with music by Ruben Blades.

Previews for The Balcony open at 8 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 10, and the play opens officially at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

Subscriptions to the five-play season (as well as single tickets) are still available by calling the A.R.T. box office at (617) 547-8300. Curtain is 8 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, with 2 p.m. matinees on Saturday and Sunday.

Holiday In Portland

The Portland (ME) Stage Company's second production of the season, now playing through Dec. 22, is Holiday, by Philip Barry, directed by Artistic Director Barbara Rosoff.

This American classic deals with life in an upper crust society. A young man who would rather enjoy life while he is young and work after it is the center of a triangle in which love finally triumphs.

Opening Jan. 2 through Jan. 26 is Arthur Hoffard's Master Harold ... and the boys, directed by Sara Brooks.

The play chronicles a moment in the life of a young white boy when, in reaction to a personal hurt, mistreats his closest comrade, a black man, in a manner that separates them only as apartheid can.

Tickets and further information are available by calling the box office at (207) 774-0465.

ART Hosts Film Premiere

The New England premiere of Richard Attenborough's A Chorus Line, slated for 8 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 19, at Boston's Sack Cinema, will be the major 1985 fundraiser for The American Repertory Theater and Actors Institute. Artistic Director ...

Tickets to the film and reception are $40 per person ($30 tax deductible). Special tickets are $100 per person ($80 tax deductible).

Boston decorated on them.

Silk floral arrangements can be made at a customer's request or individual silk flowers may be purchased to make original designs.

For the perfect puppy or curious cat, the Boston Pet Supply is the place to buy presents for pets or new pets for family and friends.

Choose from a full range of exotic birds and fish or supplies for hobbyists such as fancy tanks and cages. Ant farms and aquarium packages are also popular items.

The store offers a wide variety of books for children and adults ranging from information on how to care for a pet to books on specific breeds.

Of course, pets can't be forgotten.

To keep that cat or dog warm on those cold winter nights, sweaters and coats are available.

For that special feline are floor to ceiling scratching posts and even cat condominiums one, two, or three stories high.

There is now a sale on silk, 3×5, American flags for $6.99, reduced from $24.

Two Christmas flags are now available. The first has a design with Santa Claus and his reindeer with the message "Merry Christmas."

The other offers a wreath with Santa Claus in its center.

A possible rememdy is Snapazoo, the toy that snaps and resnaps to create new toys.

Available at the Boston Children's Museum Shop, this toy is made from various colored velour, foam, and heavy-duty snaps to ensure safety.

It is also available by mail by sending $9.95 to Procreations, P.O. Box 27, Brookline, 02146.

Unique Christmas gifts flow at Copley Place.

From France, varieties of atomizers for the dressing table can be found at Fragrantly Yours.

For an antique look, there are blue-tinted or milk glass bottle designs with etched flowers. Thick, curved glass and tassle make up the art deco designs, and hand painted copies from Austria complete the line of bottles with a large variety of fragrances.

Claddagh rings, charms, and pendants made in 14k or 9k gold with a diamond heart optional are available at The Irish Piper.

Doubled breasted, 100 percent wool suits imported from Italy can be found at Enrico Celli.

Hair adornments handmade by local craftspeople can be bought at Le Chapeau. Topped with red velvet or rhinestones, there is also a selection of satin bows with brooches and fan-shaped, gold lame combs.

Make a splash into the holiday party scene in a 100 percent French angora dress. Handwoven by an artists' cooperative in South Boston, they are available in 31 colors with a low-cut back design, available at Tissage.

Skiers and travellers can use the snappy, handmade 100 percent cotton canvas ski bag. Made with durable, water resistant double scotch guard canvas, the bags are designed and sewn by shop owner Judy Lombard of Island Canvas.

The bags come in 28 different colors and will fit skis six feet long and up.

Holiday shopping need not be that dreaded chore.

Going a bit off the beaten path offers opportunity for finding that gift. And, perhaps, with a little less hassle?

Pampering Gifts

The Royal Certificate, with a $100 price tag, is a mix and match package of luxury and might include a facial, a back massage, paraffin hand treatment, make-up treatment with cash left over for purchase of products.

Other salons feature nail and hair treatments, attractive alternatives or complements to the skin care sensation.

Then there is the home.

Holiday havoc can leave it destroyed.

Give a gift of a professional housecleaning service.

Dirtworks in Boston will send out a team of three, complete with a team supervisor, cleaning materials and utensils, for a minimum of $54 an hour.

The service welcomes "one-shot deals," says Mina Mees, who estimates an arrangement of two hours to clean a three bedroom house, with dining room, living room, family room, kitchen, and one and a half baths, providing it is not a "real pigpen."

Gift-givers may send checks in advance and Dirtworks will send out a letter announcing the gift.

Fees vary among housecleaning services and advance planning is necessary.

Children pose special gift problems.

Aside from wading through long lines and shells of monstrous faces with high-priced plastic homes and vechicles, many "must have" toy gifts all too soon fall apart or are sadly forgotten.

Gift certificates for art, dance, music or science classes offer an interesting and affordable options.

The Kendall Center in Belmont, for example, presents 11-week courses in clay, ceramics, mask making or drawing and painting with prices running from $40 to $55, says director Kathy Pritchard.

The Center also offers dance classes as well as programs for teenagers and adults.

Investigate other schools, museums and continuing education divisions at local colleges for additional creative and eductional courses.

Holidays and the New Year fuel, for some, soul-searching.

Thoughts of career change, a new job, re-entry to the market slide through the tinsel of the holiday-filled mind.

The Continuum at 785 Centre st. in Newton offers a "gift that keeps on giving," says Jane Klickstein.

This career counseling organization will send gift certificates, starting at $15 for workshop participation, to help the career ponderer with resume preparation, job search strategies, interviewing skills, or career clarification.

Individual sessions are $40. For $145, the recipient gets three individual sessions of counseling and career testing.

Careful consideration of people on the shopping list can generate other ideas, services, classes and events.

These personalized services can be unusual, helpful, interesting and affordable.

Most arrangements can be made by telephone, saving the giver time and energy.

Even better? Saving the hassle of creative gift-wrapping.

One-of-a-kind articles are also featured and include such novelties as an antique chest from India, an old Burmese puppet and an impressive selection of antique tribal jewelery from India, Africa and Indonesia.

American Indian jewelery from 1900 to 1940 as well as interesting contemporary pieces are also on sale.

Prices range from 25 cents for stocking stuffers to $3000.

WE'LL MANAGE!!!

If you own an apartment house, you will have hired a management firm to relieve you of the duties of collecting rents, arranging for maintenance and repairs, finding new tenants, and paying the bills.

If you rent a condo or a single or multi-family house, however, you have to assume these time-consuming burdens yourself. If you do not live in the neighborhood, you may find these tasks quite a chore at times.

So, let us manage! Our rental manager will manage small rental properties at very modest monthly costs. When you are leaving the area temporarily and wish to rent your own home, or are the proud owner of a profitable two or three-family property you wish to keep without retaining the hassles, call our management agent, Lois Ardito.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think gutting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over from Maine to Rhode Island to New York — but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Our Warmest Wishes To All For A Happy & Safe Holiday Season!

MY BABY boy. She wonders how many more hours her heart will feel broken- In secret she says she needs to see him but no words are spoken- I can't wait.. I can't wait- Well, I've got to know when I can see you again- Am I wasting my time while you make up your mind? Tho we've been out of touch- I can't wait.. I can't wait- What can I do when I'm crazy for you? .Lightning strikes. Maybe once, this time twice.

I WAS roaming through the world looking for someone special then I found you. Thanks for all the love and fun we have had. We will always be together. I love you. Love Amanda. 12.12

DAVID, THANKS for the second chance. I know if we both try we can work this out together. We have had too many good times to let our relationship this slip away. I love you. Love always Paula. 12.12/12.26

A NEW England Christmas and an Australian New Year. Who could ask for more? Almost there. Dreamweaver. Thoughts of you and nothing more keep the Season bright. Love You.

Good News for the Weekend Mechanic

Audi 5000S Sedan

If you do your own repair work, do the job right with genuine Audi replacement parts. First of all, they fit, so if you take your Audi apart Saturday morning, you know the parts you bought will get you back on the road without another trip. Second, every part has a 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty. At Audi, we care as much about your car as you do.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Town

Residents have only two more days, until Dec. 21, to sign up to have Santa make a special "early delivery" on Christmas Eve.

The club will again sponsor its annual Christmas Eve Santa Claus gift delivery to local households, with visits from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

According to program chairman Michael Boodakian, the program was a great success last year. More than 80 gifts were delivered to local youngsters.

This year, the group hopes to deliver more than 150 packages from local families to the waiting children.

Gifts for delivery should be dropped off Sunday, Dec. 22 at Koko Boodakian and Sons, 1026 Main st. Since Santa's visits will be limited, reservations should be made by no later than Dec. 21.

For more information on Santa's visits, contact Michael Boodakian, 34 Ridge st.

New Law: Poll Sites Fall Short

By JILL M. HIGGINS

State elections officials are cracking down on Winchester and other communities whose polling places are inaccessible to elderly and handicapped voters.

According to the state, a new federal act requires all polling places to be accessible to elderly and handicapped voters for federal elections.

Winchester Town Clerk Carolyn Ward said on Tuesday that Town Hall, one of four local polling places, will not meet the standards until well past the September 1986 deadline.

"None of them (local polling sites) are completely accessible at this point," said Ward.

"I know we'd not be in compliance at the moment," she said. She added it is unlikley that Town Hall will conform with the guidelines, because the building is slated for a major renovation project which would not begin for at least several months.

"The Vinson-Owen School is relatively accessible and the Lincoln School is not too bad, except that there is a step," she said. The Lynch School polling site is also fairly compliant, she said.

Ward said it is possible the town could seek a waiver of the federal act, which would allow the town to continue using the Town Hall.

According to state elections officials, the town must apply for an exemption by March 20, 1986. All polling places for which applications have not been filed at that time must fully comply with all accessibility regulations by the Sept. 16, 1986 primary.

An alternative to the waiver, said Ward, is for Selectmen to consider redesignating polling places. "We don't have many places to go, though," she said.

David Sullivan, legal counsel for the state's elections division of Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly, said failing to comply with the rule could bring a court order that would demand compliance.

"They (local officials) can erect a ramp at the existing polling site or move the polling place. . . . Obviously, the exemptions will be granted sparingly," said Sullivan.

He said if exemptions are not granted and the town still does not a comply, the U.S. Department of Justice, which has jurisdiction in this case, will step in.

However, he said he does not expect such action to occur. There is no fine for noncompliance, he said, unless a town ignores a court order.

Among the requirements for polling places are:

- A clear, unobstructed site entrance which is uninterrupted by steps or abrupt chnages in level greater than a half inch.
- Handicapped parking spaces, each either 12 feet wide or provided in pairs of 8-foot spaces separated by a 4-foot center aisle.
- A permanent or portable ramp which is at least 36 inches wide and has handrails on both sides 34 inches high.

At least one machine in each polling place must have a specimen ballot posted inside no higher than 48 inches and voting levers no high than 60 inches above the floor.

House Leadership Changes Spur More Floor Debate

Editor's note: This is the final part in a series of articles on the workings of the Massachusetts legislature.

By ERIC BLOM

When the state House of Representatives elected George Keverian speaker, he promised to make the legislative process more open and less dictatorial.

Rank and file law-makers replaced entrenched committee chairmen, and Keverian designed rules to shift power from party leaders to the legislative body itself.

A measure of the speaker's continuing influence, however, is that only rule changes proposed by Keverian passed the bi-annual review process.

Personnel and rule changes resulted in more floor debate, and greater influence for a large number of legislators. The practice of leadership unanimity has weakened, and committee chairmen now oppose other committees' bills. In some cases, they oppose legislation favorably reported out by their own committee.

"I think it does any institution good to have a change from time to time," says current Speaker George Keverian. "I think the legislature is better for it."

Leadership disagreements on the floor, a practice unheard of under former Speaker McGee, do not worry him, says the House leader.

"I want the legislature to be a forum where everyone freely participates," Keverian says, adding it has been a productive session.

Arlington Rep. John F. Cusack — a committee chairman until ousted by Keverian — disagrees with the speaker, saying it has not been a productive session.

"As far as productivity goes, it is the least productive year since I have been here," Cusack says.

Cusack has been a House member for 14 years and served as Chairman of the Housing and Urban Development committee for eight years under McGee.

Newton Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci, commmittee chairman for Human Services and Elderly Affairs under both McGee and Keverian, disagrees with Cusack's assessment of the session's productivity.

"Despite the newness, despite the controversy of changing speakers, I can say for certain that this has been a productive session," DeNucci says.

But, he adds, he is not completely sold on rules reform.

"To a degree the process is much more open," DeNucci says. "I'm not saying all that is good, but it is a change. I think there needs to be someone in charge, a sense of direction. I'm not sure every part of rules reform has been positive."

He says Democratic floor dissent makes it difficult to get a program passed.

"It seems rather strange that a chairman couldn't muster enough votes for his position to win in committee" and then continue to argue on the floor, DeNucci says. "Either we are part of the Democratic leadership, or we are not."

Cusack says the turnover in committee chairmen was not productive.

"Basically, they cleaned house," he says of the new Democratic leadership. "The previous speaker's leadership team was eliminated."

Because new committee chairmen are not yet trusted by the legislature, their bills will be challanged on the floor, says Cusack.

"It is a credibility factor," he says.

"You don't come in and know all the intricacies of the MDC."

"What you are finding more of is someone coming to the floor who is not prepared to defend the bill," Cusack says. "I think it has dragged out the process tremendously."

He calls the start of this year's session "chaos."

But one man's chaos is another man's energy.

Keverian compares appointing committee chairmen with sending a new quarterback into a football game.

"He makes up [for inexperience] with energy, intensity and strength that the others might not have had," Keverian says.

"The members were here," he says. "The chairman doesn't necessarily have any more expertise than a member. One of the problems in any legislature is a surplus of talent."

Board Wants Meeting On Renovation Plan

By JILL M. HIGGINS

The Town Hall Advisory Committee got the Selectmen's blessing Monday night for a Special Town Meeting to get Town Hall renovation plans rolling.

Committee chairman Daniel Chane met with Selectmen Monday to review the itinerary for the project, which is expected to take about two years to complete.

A total of $10,000 was appropriated at the 1985 Spring Town Meeting for plans and specifications for exterior improvements.

An additional $18,000 will be needed, said Chane, which could be allocated from public building accounts. If shortfalls exist in current accounts, the committee will then ask Town Meeting for the remaining amount.

In a detailed report commended by Selectmen Chairman Alan MacDonald as being an "ambitious schedule," Chane said his group is aiming for an April Town Meeting.

In the report, Chane said the group plans:

- To have detailed plans and bid documents for the external improvements ready for bid in the

Local Merchants Await Late Holiday Shoppers

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

It is the calm before the storm for Winchester merchants.

Last-minute "panic shopping" is just around the corner.

So far, buyers have been browsing but not doling out Christmas cash with any great vigor.

Artie Bennos, owner of Simms Jewelry in Winchester Center, said, "Panic buying hasn't hit yet, but when it does we're ready with extra employees and family to pitch in."

This year Bennos said diamonds and pearls are moving quickly.

"Sales are way up for us as far as dollar figures are concerned, but this year we're selling larger ticket items," Bennos said.

Bennos expects the crunch to hit today and continue through Christmas Eve.

At Topsy Turvey, a children's store on Main st., new owner Martha O'Neil said, "I'm fortunate for doing as well as I am."

O'Neil took over the store in September and had little time to stock her shelves before the holiday season hit.

Town Center Decorations Are Vandalized

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Winchester Police are investigating an unusual vandalism incident that occurred early Sunday which involved two statues at the rotary on Main street.

According to the police report, at 4:28 a.m. police found one Christmas caroller statue dressed in a Ku Klux Klan robe and hood.

Another statue had a hangman's noose around its neck, police said.

"I didn't attach a great deal of significance to the report," said Winchester Police Chief John McHugh.

"I am concerned about the safety of the statues," he said adding last year some of the statues were even removed from the rotary.

He said no other incidents involving the Ku Klux Klan have been reported recently and that he suspects the Sunday incident was isolated.

No further information was available.

Police Arrest Youth After Disturbance

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Police arrested a 17-year-old Winchester youth on Tuesday on charges of disorderly conduct, assault and battery to a police officer and possession of a controlled substance, according to police.

Police said the youth was yelling into stores near Main st. and Thompson st. at 3:50 p.m. on Tuesday.

According to police, the youth was eventually arrested after he refused to stop the yelling.

According to police, the youth allegedly hit police officer Kenneth Green after he got of the cruiser at the Lynch station.

Police also seized a smoking pipe.

The youth was scheduled for arraignment at Fourth District Court in Woburn this week.

POLICE LOG

Wednesday, Dec. 11

At 9:09 a.m., police arrested a Winchester man on two outstanding motor vehicle warrants.

Police arrested the man after a car failed to stop for a red light at the intersection of Cambridge st. and Wildwood st.

He was cuffed and booked and taken the Lynch station. According to the report, he was released on personal recognizance after posting bail.

Thursday, Dec. 12

At 9:35 a.m., a Cambridge st. resident told police someone vandalized her 1981 Blue Oldsmobile Cutlass that was parked in her driveway. She said it happened between 9 p.m., Dec. 11 and Thursday morning. Police said the rear vent window of the car was broken but entry was not gained.

At 10:45 a.m., a former Vine st. resident came to the Lynch station believed to be intoxicated, police said.

The man was placed in protective custody and then taken to the Middlesex detoxification center.

At 6 p.m., police issued a citation to a Hudson man in connection with a hit-and-run accident involving a Cross st. incident.

A Medford resident told police a delivery truck hit his car parked on Cross st. and then took off. Police said the driver of the truck later came to the Lynch station, where police cited the driver for leaving the scene of an accident involving property damage.

According to police, about $300 to $500 in damage was done to the car.

Friday, Dec. 13

At 8:49 a.m., an elderly woman stumbled down the stairs of the post office, cutting her nose, police said. Police assisted the fire department and the ambulance took the woman to Winchester Hospital.

At 10:03 a.m., a Wilson st. resident told police someone stole her 1973 Mercedes from her driveway. On Dec. 15, the car was found at the tennis courts off Garfield ave., police said.

At 11:29 a.m., the Bonnell Ford Co. reported that two cars had been stolen from the dealership parking lot. According to police, an unregistered 1985 LTD, valued at $10,000, was stolen from the lot. On Dec. 14 the car was recovered undamaged, police said. A $13,500 1985 Ford Mustang, stolen at the same time, has not been recovered, according to police.

At 10:30 p.m., police arrested a Medford man for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

The man was taken to the Lynch station and then to the Woburn Police Department for a breathalyzer test. He is scheduled to be arraigned Dec. 30.

Saturday, Dec. 14

At 9:15 a.m., a Chapin ct. resident told police someone smashed her window between 6 p.m., Dec. 13 and 7 a.m., Dec. 14.

Monday, Dec. 16

At 2:28 p.m., a Fernway resident told police someone tried to break into her house. According to the police report, there were pry marks on the window, but entry was not gained.

At 2:53 p.m., an employee at the News Shop on Main st. in Winchester Center told police youths were gathered in front of the shop. Police said they dispersed the youths.

Museum Hours

The Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett rd., Lexington, is open Mondays through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. Admission and parking for the museum are free; there are facilities for limited and handicapped persons.

Two Drug Suspects Are Arrested

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Two Arlington residents are facing drug possession charges after Winchester police arrested the pair early Friday morning at the Winchester Boat Club parking lot.

Police arrested Peter J. DiPerna, 21, and Lorraine M. Andersen, 29, Dec. 13 at 1:31 a.m. at the Cambridge st. lot. The two were charged with possession of a Class B substance.

After appearing at Fourth District Court in Woburn on Monday, their cases were continued to March 13, 1986.

According to the report, a police cruiser was patroling on Cambridge st. when police saw a car in the club lot with lights on.

After questioning the car's occupants, police seized a brown clipboard with what police called "a white powdery substance" on its surface.

The suspects were taken to the Lynch station. The car, a 1982 Oldsmobile, was towed from the scene.

According to police, also seized was a magazine paper with a slight residue of a white powder, which was found in the ash tray of the car.

United Way Gives $700,000 To Help Troubled Teens

The United Way of Massachusetts Bay established a new $700,000 Teen Initiative to fund nonprofit agencies which work to prevent teenage suicide, pregnancy, drug and alcohol abuse, and other problems. The one-time grant is the largest of its kind ever issued by the United Way.

United Way of Massachusetts Bay agencies serving Winchester include the American Red Cross Eastern Middlesex Region, North Metropolitan Homemaker Home Health Aide Service, Cambridge Family and Children's Services and Minuteman Council of Boy Scouts.

Under the two-year plan, $350,000 will be issued beginning in 1986 and again in 1987 to United Way agencies that provide services for teens. Non-affiliate agencies are also eligible for funds by collaborating on programs with United Way affiliates.

"The Initiative is part of a new strategy to assist teenagers with problems," said Michael Zoob, volunteer chairman of the United Way Teen Services Advisory Committee and vice president of Elderhostel. "It was the consensus among agencies and United Way allocations volunteers that teens in the Boston area have largely unmet needs."

The Initiative was announced by United Way volunteer president and Shawmut Bank of Boston president John P. LaWare at a recent United Way-sponsored teen conference.

Featuring workshops and guest speakers, the conference drew a large cross-section of agency representatives and well-known experts who focused on developing contemporary teen programs.

Current local and national statistics reveal high and growing rates for suicide, drinking, drug abuse, and teenage motherhood.

Among the Massachusetts statistics LaWare cited are:

- A 33 percent rise since last year in the suicide rate for those under 20.
- 100,000 problem drinkers.
- 60 percent drug abuse by age 12.
- Approximately 30,000 teen mothers, many of whom live on welfare and in poverty.

"As teen problems become more complex, many agencies report increasing difficulties in attracting and serving teens," Zoob said. "The United Way, which in 1985 provided nearly $6 million for youth-related services, recognizes that teen services need to be broadened in order to meet teenagers' changing needs."

The recently formed United Way Teen Services Advisory Committee consists of representatives from Citizen-Review Committees who help determine how best to spend United Way dollars and from other funding sources including city and state government and private foundations.

Presently, the committee is working on program guidelines, a request-for-proposals, and criteria for collaborating with affiliates.

Mt. Vernon Home Holds Celebrations

Santa came early to the Winchester Mt. Vernon Home as the residents celebrated at a party in their honor on Dec. 12. Stockings filled with gifts were in his pack for everyone and the houses were decorated with a tree and other decorations.

The residents had a busy week, with a concert on Dec. 11, put on by students in the Winchester Music Program and piano students of Susan Barrett. Corrie Nichols coordinated the program; students who participated include Patty Cummings, Rachel Cooper, Ben Coonley, Mahrya Dakubu, Elizabeth Cavitch, and Deborah Hamblett.

On Dec. 15, a Christmas reception was held for the residents, administrator Grace Phillips, president Ann May, and the volunteer board of directors.

The residents are looking forward to the holidays and to the celebration of Marjorie Mason's 100th birthday at the end of January.

College Courses Begin Jan. 22

Fisher Junior College- Division of Continuing Education will begin a new eight week term on Wednesday, Jan. 22, at its Winchester extension located at Winchester Senior High School, 80 Skillings rd.

Courses to be offered include college English I, intermediate accounting I, macroeconomics, and word processing I. Students are welcome to take courses in an area of special interest or begin their pursuit toward an associate degree in business administration, computer applications, accounting, or medical assisting. Students may also work toward a certificate in word processing/office systems.

The courses are offered at night so that students may keep their full-time jobs while earning their degree. Financial aid and veteran's benefits are available for eligible students.

For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, 80 Skillings rd.

Area District Attorney Is Guest Speaker

The Somerville Police Academy, a municipal/regional training academy which is operated by the City of Somerville Police Department, in conjunction with the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council, recently graduated 27 cadets from various cities, towns and university police forces in Middlesex County and across the state.

Middlesex County District Attorney Scott Harshbarger was the keynote speaker at the graduation luncheon which was attended by approximately 300 invited guests.

Harshbarger told the graduates "the overwhelming majority of police officers with which I deal in Middlesex County are decent, honorable, dedicated top quality professional law enforcement people. As members of the law enforcement community we must always remember that fact.

"At the same time, we bear a responsibility to identify, root out and address the small minority who violate the public trust. The integrity of the criminal justice system depends on it."

Harshbarger said that the law enforcement community faces a major crisis of confidence today.

"The public simply does not believe that they can be protected from crime or that government institutions perform fairly, equally and with integrity," he said.

LIBRARY NEWS

Library Friends Make A Difference

Friends make the difference. Neither an individual nor an institution can have too many good friends. The Friends of the Winchester Public Library organization is working to make Winchester's good library a great one.

Formed in 1981, the Friends group has more than 360 members dedicated to advocating a strong public library and promoting public awareness of the library's services and needs.

During the past four years, the Friends has sponsored many activities, both to entertain and enlighten its members and to raise money for library services and improvements.

The Friends sponsors two yearly lecture series, which have featured speakers such as author Noel Perrin, Chinese chef Nina Simonds, Robert J. Lurtsema, host of Morning Pro Musica, Bob Thompson of WGBH's Victory Garden, and Robert Cormier, popular author of books for young adults, among others.

Each year at Town Day the Friends run a book sale. Through dues and fundraising efforts they have raised money for a variety of library furnishings and equipment, including magazine shelves and carpeting for the reference room, a Kiosk and information directory for the lobby, renovation of the library's front door, and a coin operated computer for use by the public.

Long range planning for the efficient and attractive use of library space is another concern of the Friends. The group has sponsored a library space study and contest for design ideas for the front entrance, and has paid architectural fees for designs and plans. Members also volunteer to help on special library projects.

Several different committees allow members to concentrate their energies in areas of special interest — these include program planning, hospitality, school liaison, volunteer services, publicity, and development.

The Friends of the Winchester Public Library has just published a brochure highlighting its goals and achievements, encouraging old friends to renew their memberships, and inviting new friends to join.

Memberships are available in several different categories, including junior memberships for children, individual, family, business, and life.

Membership applications are available at the library.

Pajama Story Hour

Library To Close For The Holidays

To celebrate the Christmas holiday, the Winchester Public Library will close at 1 p.m. on Dec. 24, Christmas Eve, and will be closed all day Dec. 25, Christmas Day. The library will reopen at 10 a.m. Dec. 26.

Winton Club Plans 'Celebrate'

Just when everyone thought the celebrations would end on New Year's Eve and a long, dreary winter loomed ahead, Winton Club kicks off "Celebrate," its 65th annual musical revue to benefit Winchester Hospital.

Auditions for the show will be held on Monday, Jan. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Winchester Town Hall auditorium.

Everyone beyond high school age who is interested in singing or dancing in this community-spirited production is encouraged to audition on Jan. 6. Rehearsals will begin immediately and continue for three weeks until the show opens on Jan. 27.

"Celebrate" is the inspiration of Cabaret Chairman Maryalyce Norris, who feels that 1986 brings many reasons to celebrate, among them the 75th anniversary of Winton Club's service to Winchester Hospital.

Founded in 1911 as a sewing group to supply linens for the original Cottage Hospital, the club has expanded its efforts over the years to include operating a coffee shop and a gift shop at the hospital and running a gift cart which visits patients' rooms.

In 1979, the club voted to discontinue the sewing aspect of its activities and concentrate instead on raising money and giving volunteer service to the hospital.

Winton Club's annual Cabaret takes a full year to prepare and nets about $20,000 for the hospital. This figure represents about one-third of the club's annual gifts to the hospital, which last year totalled $65,225.

The 1986 show will be professionally directed and choreographed by Christopher Brown of California. Assisting him will be musical director Edward Madden. Both men have lent their talents to previous Cabarets and their return this year foretells an enjoyable experience for cast members and a lively and entertaining show.

"Celebrate" will be presented for six nights, from Monday, Jan. 27 through Saturday, Feb. 1. Tickets will go on sale Jan. 6.

Fortnightly Carol Sing Is Dec. 24

The Fortnightly — Winchester — is continuing its 62nd musical holiday tradition of caroling for the town on Christmas. This year will be the 62nd year that the group has filled the streets of Winchester with music. Christmas carols will be sung on Winchester Common on Dec. 24 from 7 to 7:30 p.m. The carolers will be accompanied by the Winchester High School Band under the direction of Priscilla Miller.

All are invited to join in this Christmas celebration.

College Offers Courses For Kids

The Middlesex Community College will be offering nine courses on Saturday mornings beginning Feb. 8 through its student enrichment program. The program is open to all youngsters from 8 to 13 in the Winchester area and will be held from 9 to 11 a.m.

Last September over 70 area youngsters came together at the Middlesex Burlington Campus, Terrace Hall Avenue, to explore subjects such as computers, science crafts, typing and speed reading. Each class is limited to a maximum of 15 students and the focus is on the child's individual needs, interests and abilities. The atmosphere is non-competitive. There are no tests or grades and the emphasis is on having fun while learning in depth about a subject of particular interest.

Courses beginning Feb. 8 include computers and typing which will run for 10 weeks each and speed reading, french without tears and boost your memory for faster learning, which are five week courses.

Another five week series begins on March 22 when Explore and Encounter the Worlds of Science through the Mediums of Crafts, Let's Be Beautiful, Let's Feel Beautiful and 35 milimeter Photography will be offered.

There will be a health science representative in attendance. Transportation is not provided, but assistance will be given in setting up carpools.

The deadline for registering for courses beginning Feb. 8 is Jan. 31. To receive a catalog describing all the courses, registration/health service forms, contact MCC Division of Continuing Education/Community Services.

ABC House Drive Is Jan. 11

The holiday season is a popular time for parties and family gatherings and those involved with A.B.C. hope that everyone will save their returnable bottles and cans for the next bottle drive Saturday, January 11.

As usual, the collection will take place at the Sons of Italy parking lot on Swanton st., adjacent to the town transfer station. The collection will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Those who cannot drop their bottles and cans off should contact Kathy Bodie, chairman of the event (5 Dix terr.), Donna Down (4 Atherton rd.), or Sandy Thompson (48 Samoset rd.).

The bottle drive is one of several events held to raise funds for A Better Chance in Winchester, a program designed to give minority students a challenging high school education so that they can go on to college and careers.

BUYER'S REMORSE

Your Realtor calls with great news. Your offer has just been accepted. Congratulations! You're about to become a homeowner!

Your initial euphoria may be short lived, however. You begin to have second thoughts. First, it's the mortgage. It's so much money and takes 30 years to pay off. You look over the estimated closing costs, adding up the cash you'll need for settlement, and feeling like you'll never be able to afford to eat meat again. Finally, you stare at the structural inspector's report and convince yourself that the roof will blow off and every major system will fail the day after you move in. You're in a frenzy. 'What have I gotten into, and how can I get out of it?

Relax. This is normal, so normal that it even has a name — Buyer's Remorse. It's virtually always temporary, and if you have an extreme attack, don't hesitate to call your realtor. We're experienced at helping our customers through homebuying jitters with almost every property we sell.

The professionals at The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors can guide you through each step of the home buying or selling process. Just stop by our offices at 33 Thompson Street, Winchester or give us a call at 729-7000.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

THE HOUSE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on 13 roll calls from the week of December 9-13. Roll calls from any late week and weekend sessions will be included in the next report

Abortion(S 2189)- House 88-60, rejected an amendment to a bill to compensate victims of violent crimes.

The amendment would strike a section of the bill prohibiting rape victims from receiving funds for abortion or for counseling for abortion.

Amendment supporters said restricting these funds is unfair to rape victims and will essentially prevent poorer victims from the freedom of choice.

Opponents, noting the bill offers rape victims many other kinds of assistance, argued the amendment goes too far and allows public funds to be used for these abortions

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Cable TV (S 163)- House 124-27, gave initial approval to a bill extending the maximum term for renewal of cable television licenses from 10 to 15 years.

Supporters argued the bill simply gives local communities the option to increase the length of time for a contract renewal with a cable company and claimed it gives local awarding authorities another tool.

Opponents said the bill was special interest legislation for the cable industry and said shorter terms are better for local communities.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Voice Therapists(H 6967)- House 74-70, gave initial approval to a bill establishing a board of certification of voice therapy to license and regulate voice therapists. The measure sets licensing procedures including minimum education and other requirements.

Supporters said the bill will insure regulation of these therapists and protection for consumers.

Opponents said the bill creates more bureaucracy and protects the professional rather than the consumer.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Brooklawn Park(H 5326)- House 89-59, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill allowing the Department of Parks and Recreation to spend money which the legislature authorizes for the rehabilitation of New Bedford's Brooklawn Park including the construction of an indoor swimming pool.

Supporters said the park services many persons in a large area and noted the project is for improvement to an outdoor pool to help kids.

Opponents said this is a pork barrel project for a single city and argued it could result in the state funding a $1 million pool for New Bedford.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Water Management(S 2417)- House 142-2, gave near final approval to a complicated 19 page bill establishing a Massachusetts Water Management Act and charging the water resources commission and the Division of Environmental Quality engineering to work together in the planning, establishment and management of programs to assess the uses of water in the State and to plan for future water needs.

Supporters, noting that water is finite and nonrenewable, said the bill will begin to address the problems facing the state.

Opponents offered no arguments against the bill.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Transportation Package(H 6919)- House 137-0, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a $911 million bond issue for a transportation improvement package for the state.

Supporters, noting the $911 million will allow recapture of $1 billion in federal funds, said the package will help improve the state's highways, bridges, and rail and public transit facilities.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Cigarette Ads(H 6919)- House 96-46, rejected a transportation package amendment effective in 1987, prohibiting cigarette advertisements on any MBTA vehicles or stations and imposing up to a $50 fine a day for violations.

Amendment suporters said the state should not allow ads promoting this dangerous addiction to be placed on state properties.

Opponents said the ads generate millions for the state and argued a ban would be unconstitutional.

A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Gift Shopping: Methods Of Madness

By TERRY MAROTTA

Let's face it: nobody likes to Christmas shop except little kids.

They like it because it's your money they're spending instead of theirs, and because the stuff they buy for you is really for them.

My little girls bought me a satin doll sitting on a swing last year. They knew I'd love it. Cost was no object. It hangs in their room.

There's the parking problem for starters, then the human gridlock once you get inside the store itself. When you finally do make your way to a counter, it's fourteen deep in humanity; the merchandise is scarcely visible.

You finger one corner of a scarf and wait half an hour to ask its price -- only to learn that it's hanging from the neck of the person beside you.

It's a grisly business, Christmas shopping is.

But my husband David has a method all his own for coping with it.

The first rule, he says, is to stay away from the mall and the marketplace. Too much choice is the enemy of efficient shopping. Go to one store and plan to buy something for everyone there.

Next, move from counter to counter and ask yourself, who can I buy for here? Most people start with the person, then dream up the gift. All wrong, maintains David. What you have to do is start with the gift and dream up the person. Come in by the shaving mugs and your uncle gets a shaving mug. Land at Skin Care and it's facial cream.

You need to take an assistant along on one of these quests of course, someone to hold on to the money. Big shots never carry their own money. They have little guys to do that for them.

I used to be the little guy in our family. My husband would round up enough socks for an octupus convention, hankies to catch every sneeze inside 128 — then scratch six people's names from the list and mosey off to the next counter, leaving me to extend the cash, or write the check, or engage in the elaborate Ceremony of the Charge Card.

He could rip through a list extending down to the floor in an hour and a half, spend hundreds of dollars without breaking stride.

He was the only adult I ever knew who didn't mind Christmas shopping. To him, it was a challenge, and not a job.

I was even a little sorry to take it away from him.

It wasn't the string bikini he bought me during my 6th month of pregnancy, or even the Japanese nature poems he gave to his mom — (sure, they were still in Japanese, but she said she liked the designs the words made along the page).

I took the job away from him because he made it too easy.

Christmas shopping is not meant to be easy. You're supposed to sweat, and worry, and develop a nervous headache over it.

You're supposed to tackle it at last on a night stinging with sleet, when a fish-grey slush can suck at your ankles, when your car can tangle its bumpers with other cars' bumpers, like the braces of kissing twelve-year-olds.

To do less is to miss the point of the Christmas season altogether.

So I've relieved David of his share of the job. I shop solo now.

He lounges at home on the sofa, snoozing and considering the hockey scores. The messy tasks of the marketplace are far from his thoughts. The only gifts he needs think of these days at Christmas are the ones for me — from him and from our small children.

That's how the swinging angel got here last year. And the other gifts too, each betraying signs of the old method: the jumper cables, the 3-in-1 oil, the shaving mug and that one storm window — the kind made of plastic you stretch up over the pane.

Oh! There was one other gift, now that I think of it, one he went all out on: a framed portrait of the Celtics in full battle regalia.

He knew I'd love that one. Cost was no object. It hangs in his room.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WHS Football Supporters Thanked

TO THE EDITOR:

As the 1985 Sachem football season fades from the scene, we would like to take this opportunity to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to a number of people.

First, thanks to the entire Sachem squad for providing the town with another exciting season of excellent football. Both on and off the field, you were a credit to your parents, coaches, school and community.

The WHS coaching staff headed by Manny Marshall and including David Berman, John Donahue, Tom Klein, Len Merullo, Robert Miksen, and John Pirani provided the knowledge necessary to play the game but more inportantly an environment that allowed our young men to mature into thoughtful, thinking individuals.

Athletic director Bill Colella once again provided the team with first rate equipment and uniforms and gave his support to our fund raising efforts at the home games.

The success of the season was the result of many people providing a variety of supporting roles. From the parents who hosted, cooked and served at our Friday night dinners, and supported the team by their presence at all the games; to coach Kate Sullivan and the cheerleaders for their spirit and enthusiasm during the games as well as throughout the week; to Miss Miller and the band members for their excellent half-time shows as well as playing frequently during the games; to all the loyal fans of Winchester, your support and interest was noticed and appreciated. To each and every one of you, a hearty thank you!

Within the community, we want to acknowledge with gratitude the Knights of Columbus for donating their hall for our annual appreciation dinner. This year over 340 people attended.

Also, a special thanks is extended to the Christopher Columbus Society, the Sons of Italy and the Immaculate Conception Church for donating their halls for our Friday night dinners. This generous gesture made it possible to include all the varsity and junior varsity players. We believe this involvement by all team members created a special spirit of cooperation.

As in any effort there were many people who played key roles during this season. A thank you goes to Carl Provost of the Woburn Daily Times for providing the copy of all press releases, enabling Bill Morton to assemble a scrapbook which was given to all players, coaches, and managers.

An added thanks to the Winchester Savings Bank for funding this project. To the Rev. George Butera for hosting the annual Thanksgiving Mass, to Whitney Gay for his many hours to the field taking pictures of each player, to Richard Burke and Dan Serieka for arranging the slide show, to George Sexeny and Anthony Gianci for there commitment to the dinners, and a special appreciation to George Geannaris for his very generous donation.

We would also like to thank the following clubs, businesses and individuals for there generous financial support.

Sabatino's Gourmet Foods, O'Neil's Pharmacy, Winc. Co-Op Bank, Aberjona Nursing Home Inc., Chute Oil Co., Peter Provinzano, RPT. Dover Grille, Shawmut County Bank, Shear Perfection Hair Salon;

Northeast Orthopedic Inc., William Kermond M.D., John Siliski M.D., James Bayley M.D., John and Marcia Mathson, Woburn Daily Times, Mr. and Mrs. C.P. Reeves, Kiwanis Club of Winc., Attorney Paul M. Youth Center Staff Thanks Ski Swappers

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the Winchester Council on Youth and the Youth Center, we would like to express our thanks and appreciation to all of those who participated in the first annual Ski Swap which was held on Saturday, Nov. 30.

We wish to thank those who came down to McCall Jr. High School Saturday morning to drop off equipment, as well as those who came to the sale that afternoon.

The success of this year's program was due to the Recreation summer staff and the many volunteers who donated their time.

Because the response was so encouraging, we look forward to next year's Ski Swap, we hope that all of those people who took advantage of the sale have an enjoyable ski season.

We hope to see you all on the slopes.

Very truly yours,
Stephen D'Onofrio

Town Dept. Asks Residents For Cooperation

TO THE EDITOR:

We are coming into the season of short days and short tempers, and long on cold ice and snow.

As Town employees, our duty is to keep the roads as safe as possible for you, the Town's people. Contrary to belief, we do not like to plow in your driveways after you worked so hard to shovel them out, but our orders are to keep roads open as wide as possible so that emergency vehicles can pass safely and quickly to respond to your calls. We must also push the snow back to make room for more.

The following are a few simple tips to make life easier for all of us:

1. If you must shovel, shovel your snow away from the snowplow or wait until we are through.

2. Do not blow or throw snow into the street. It makes it difficult for us, and your snow usually ends up back in your driveway or your neighbor's driveway.

3. Stay home during a snowstorm if possible, also if you don't have snowtires on your car, leave it home.

4. Do not leave snowbanks too high at the end of your driveway. It's very dangerous in regards to small children walking along the sidewalk or by your driveway. Snowbanks can also block your vision to oncoming traffic.

5. Please, joggers, restrain from jogging until the storm is over.

6. If you employ private contractors to plow your driveway, make sure they don't leave your snow in the street. Large wind rows left on the street can be, and are dangerous to passing traffic. You could be the victim of someone else's thoughtlessness.

7. Please keep your children off the streets until all plowing has ceased.

Due to Prop. 2½, we are understaffed. This means long hours of hard driving. We do it because it is our job. You are our employers and we must keep you safe and happy. This is a community effort so please help us.

Every snowstorm or ice storm is an emergency. This is the most dangerous season of the year, and we must help each other live through it safely.

All we ask is help us to our job. Please be careful and drive safely.

Reader: Give Portuguese Some Credit

TO THE EDITOR:

It is regrettable that the interesting creation of Dr. William Barone and artist James Dobbins mentioned in the Nov. 28, 1985, page 5 issue does not include the Portuguese navigator Pedro Alvares Cabral, the discoverer of Brazil

The proposed commemorative stamp submitted to the U.S. postal department has an omission. What about Pedro Alvares Cabral? It ignores the role of the Portuguese in the discovery and settlement of Vera Cruz (Brazil).

There is documentation to justify the placement of Cabral among the explorers of the 15th and the 16th centuries. It suffices to mention two references to his endeavors.

First, the letter written by the chronicler of the expedition, named Pero Vaz Caminha to King Manuel in which he describes in detail the landing in South America in what is today the state of Brazil.

He describes the presence of natives, naked, with dark skin and docile. They exchange gifts: hats, bird feathers, beads, and offered wine which the natives didn't like. Some of them had lower lips pierced with pieces of white bone. There were girls painted from head to foot, naked.

All of this and more Caminha observed during the ten days of their stay in the future Brazil. The carpenters of the expedition made a wooden cross which was kissed by the natives after being blessed by the priests who then offered two masses. A few "degredados", (convicts) were the Christian faith.

The second document was a letter written by a member of the fleet known as Mester Joao, and sent to King Manuel. This Mestre Joao could observe the stars, use the astrolab, and was in charge of the nauticul instruments in the flagship of Cabval. He described the land as being very beautiful, lush with vegetation and colorful birds.

Upon the return of Vasco da Gama to Lisbon in 1499 after his discovery of India by sea, he was received by King Manuel who was pleased with his description of the maritime exploration. He immediately gave order to the shipyards for the construction of 13 caravels, armed with artillery power.

Fifteen hundred men composed this second expedition. The command was given to a nobleman of the court, 32 years of age, named Pedro Alvares Cabral, with instructions to sail southwest to avoid the prevalent calms of the Gulf of Guinea that had plaqued Bartolomeu Dias, Vasco da Gama and others.

The King also wished to respect the Treaty of Tordesillas and stay within the limits of the Portuguese sphere.

Cabral left Lisbon on March 9, 1500 and, on April 20, 1500, sighted a mountain to which he gave the name, Pascoal. He reached Porto Seguro (safe harbor), in Terra of Vera Cruz (true cross) on May 3, 1500.

After staying ten days exploring the new lands, Cabral set course for the Cape Verde Islands and reached Calicut in India on Sept. 13, 1500 after facing storms with the loss of three caravels with their brilliant captains, one of which was Bartolomeu Dias. Cabral was received by the Zamorim, trading posts were established ashore and he continued onto Cochin.

King Manuel heard of the Florentine, Americo Vespucci, friend of the Medicis, and asked him to come to Lisbon. After bing rejected by the King of Spain, Vespucci offered his services to King Manuel, who gave him three caravels.

He left Lisbon on May 13, 1501, sailed along Rio de Janeiro and Rio de la Plata. He returned to Lisbon on July 22, 1502. Clearly Vespucci reached Brazil one year after Cabral.

My disagreement with the premise of the excellent work of Dr. Barone and James Dobbins prompted my decision to point out the omission of one of the most important of the discoverers of the Americans. Philately is not well served if Pedro Alvares Cabral is not represented on this commemorative stamp.

Sincerely,
John M. Tavares, M.D.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Girardi

Mark Girardi, Kalipso Pappas Are Married

Kalipso N. Pappas and Mark s. Girardi were married Sept. 7 at the Greek Orthodox Church of Woburn. Father George Tsoukalas officiated the ceremony.

The bride is the daugher of Nick and Thalia Pappas of Winchester. The bridegroom is the son of Roger and Lucy Girardi of Methuen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Priscilla gown of ivory oriental silk, with a square neckline, dropped waistline, and a cathedral trian. She wore a matching wreath of seed pearls with a scalloped and sequined edge sheer veil. The bride carried an arrangement of white orchards and pink snapdragons.

Colleen Phillips, formerly of Winchester, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nand Geraniotis, cousin of the bride, and Nancy Moda, both from Winchester. Kelly Sciacca of Methuen, and Katie Conway. They wore dusty rose tea-length gowns of Moire silk and carried bouquets of roses, irises, lilies and bachelor buttons.

Alex Pappas of Winchester, brother of the bride, was the best man. Ushers were Theodor Pappas, also a brother of the bride, of Winchester, Tom Mansour of Woburn, Arthur Meuse of Lynnfield, and Larry Webster of Haverhill.

Following a two week wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple resides in North Andover.

Red Cross Suggests Giving Safety Gifts

Give the gift of safety this year Show concern for friends and loved ones by giving a gift that will help avoid hazards or prevent injuries in case of an accident

The list of potential gifts is endless, from a child's safety seat to hand rails in one's bathtub or a collapsible ladder for a fire escape, according to a report from the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension Service, which [illegible]ves Winchester.

[illegible]he Red Cross asks people for the gift of life with blood. A safety gift is also a potential gift of life and surely love Many people feel that if they give a safety gift people will think of them as strange, but the truth is most people will be touched because someone really cares about their well-being

Everyone can use a safety gift, perhaps a night light for the hall or bathroom or abrasive strips for stairways and bathtubs. A rechargeable flashlight for the elderly is always a good useable gift.

Many people are hard to buy for: if it's difficult to think of something, try to remember the last time this person was seen doing something dangerous perhaps standing on a chair to reach a bowl, box or tool If so, buy a ladder or stepstool of the appropriate height For someone who doesn't have a smoke detector yet, get them one and install it.

Always keep safety in mind when buying toys for children. Avoid toys with sharp edges, projections or small parts that could break off and be swallowed. Check the package and buy toys recommended for the proper age group. Be sure the toys are well made and can stand a lot of play and abuse that active children are certainly going to give them

Hockey Team Looks Good

By DAVID DEMARCO

All right rinkrats, it's hockey season, time to bundle up and head down to the ice.

This year's Sachem team should be decent, considering two state powerhouse teams are in the Middlesex League – Wakefield and Woburn.

The team has 14 seniors on a roster of 21, so the experience is there. Although Winchester is coming off a season that started with a bang and just seemed to fizzle out, 1984 was a vast improvement over recent seasons. This year, the team should do well.

The Sachems finished the preseason on Saturday, Dec. 14 in Stoneham, as they faced Lexington High for two 10-minute periods in the annual Middlesex League Jamboree. The Sachems started out slowly, as a bigger Lexington team kept the puck in the Winchester zone for most of the first period.

Jim Chute played the entire first period in goal for Winchester and looked sharp. Senior right wing Billy Ryder of Lexington gave the Minutemen the lead at 2:22 of the second period, putting the puck past sophomore Jim McInerney.

Both teams were skating back and forth until Lexington's Kevin Quinan received a penalty for crosschecking at 11:05.

This was the Sachems' third powerplay opportunity and quite possibly their last chance to tie the game.

On their previous two powerplays, the Sachems had been unable to generate any pressure in the Lexington zone.

In the different ice palaces of the league, Sachem fans could be heard chanting Giso ... Giso ... Giso all last year. Well, Chris Giso is back and in fantastic form.

At 11:23, while on a powerplay, Chris Giso took the puck and broke over the blue line skating to the right of goalie. Giso backhanded a picture perfect pass to a waiting Brian Griffin in front of the Minuteman crease for the tying goal.

Winchester's line up falls in place like this: on defense, Coach Mike Whyte seems to be using three pairs. Nicky Genaris and Derek Binding are at the top, followed by John Hakett and Bill Newborn with T.J. Della Salla and Scott Donaghy finishing up the defensemen.

Three forward lines are also being used. The top line looks like Chris Giso, Al Dumit and Brian Griffin.

The Sachems were scheduled to open up Wednesday, Dec. 18 at Belmont with a 6:30 start.

The next contest is Saturday, Dec. 21 against Wakefield at Stoneham arena with a 4 p.m. face-off.

This should be an interesting year for Sachem hockey fans. The team has a tremendous amount of potential and also features one of the finest coaches in the Middlesex League.

If they come together offensively, look for the Sachems to knock off some of the bigger names in Eastern Mass. hockey.

Norton Presents A View Of Season

By MIKE MCKNIGHT

Steve Norton doesn't stay still very long — in fact, to get an interview, a good pair of running shoes is almost as important as a pen and a pad of paper.

The Winchester Star talked to Steve Norton, the Winchester Sachems indoor track coach on Dec. 17 and got his opinions on the upcoming season.

The Sachems, as well as most other Middlessex League teams, have been dominated in the last few years by the powerful Reading Rockets squads.

Still a confident coach Norton says he is "cautiously optimistic" about the Sachems' chances for a crown this year.

He says he thinks his team will "bring them (other teams) right down to the relay" — if not beat them. According to Norton, the Sachems will be "the dominant running team in the league" for many reasons.

The major strength of this year's team, says Norton, is that many freshmen and sophomores who have come back to run again.

"They are in shape and are ready to run. They are all good kids and have a lot of heart. They work hard and are not afraid to give 150 percent," says Norton.

The team, he says, is looking forward to the return of seniors Glenn Dorsom, Michael White, Janet Weileman, and Dereck Rutherford to boost morale and team scores this season.

Says Norton, "We are expecting a lot from these guys."

When asked about any possible team weaknesses, Norton was qick to accent the posaitive.,

"My main job," says coach Norton, "is to take a negative and turn into a positive." So far, said Norton,there are no real negative aspects to the team's condition.

The Winchester Sachems winter track team of 1985-86 has a large list of expectations from their coach.

Their performance, if it matches Norton's hopes, could well lead them to the top of the Middlesex League.

Carroll Leads Swim Statistics

Winchesterite Michael Carroll, 11, a member of the Community Stars and Stripes Swim Team and son of Mary and John Carroll, showed his outstanding ability for the team by being named to the Top Ten Swimming Listing by New England Swimming.

He achieved a spot on the list by swimming one of the 10 fastest times in the 100 meter freestyle, 50 and 100 meter breast stroke and 50 meter butterfly.

Carroll was also recently named as the top outstanding swimmer during the short course winter season.

Clarke, White On Star Team

Quarterback and cornerback Mike White and defensive lineman Dennis Clarke of the Sachems 1985 football team were named to the All-Scholastic team which appeared in the Boston Globe this week.

The squad is selected by the Globe's school sports staff with imput from the Eastern Mass. coaches who are members of the Globe coaches poll.

Named to the Middlesex League All-Star team on offense, selected by the coaches, were lineman Joe Berry, White, back T. J. Della Sala, and placekicker John Sericka.

Selected on defense were Clarke and Rich Burke.

Clarke and White were also selected as members of the Division I All-Star team on defense.

Caroline Twomey On All-Star Field Hockey

Senior Connecticut College Co-Capt. Caroline Twomey of Winchester, has been named to the 16-member All-American field hockey team by a national coaches board.

Twomey, the first field hockey player from the college to receive the honor, was one of two selected from the Northeast region.

A midfielder on the team's 10-3-1 team, Twomey has been a Northeast College Field Hockey Assn. all-Star for four years.

She participated in the National Sectional Field Hockey Tournament as a member of the Northeast team during the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Winchester resident is the first athlete from the school to participate in four national tournaments.

An American History major, she was second in scoring in 1985 with eight goals and two assists.

Twomey graduates as Connecticut College's field hockey career leader in points , 26 goals and seven assists, and in goals, 26.

Driscolls Lauded At Curry College

The Curry College men's soccer team concluded the best season in its history recently, ending with a 13-5-1 record through the help of three Winchester players.

Sophomore Mike Driscoll was a leading scorer, with seven goals and six assists for a total of 20 points. Goaltender Steve Driscoll, a junior, had a 9-1-1 record, including seven shutouts. Freshman Kevin Driscoll had a 3-1-7 record.

In addition to achieving the best record ever, the Colonels also set a record for shutouts with 11. Five of those shutouts came as the team closed out its schedule with five straight victories.

Sachems Are Second In Carnival

Friday the 13th didn't bring bad luck to the Winchester High School boys swim team, which took second place honors at this season's relay carnival.

The relay carnival was hosted by Belmont High School, which topped the scoring with 268 points, followed by Winchester, which nabbed 266 and Lexington with 256.

The Middlesex League's six teams, including Winchester, Belmont, Lexington, Wakefield, Melrose and Burlington, participated in the relay.

In the 500-yard freestroke relay, finishing in second place, were Alexi Carayannopoulos, Jim Blasi, T.J. Foley, Greg O'Connor and Sinan Kobow.

In the 100-yard individual medley relay to finish in third place were Mike Bowers, John Murray, Steven Fitzgerald and Adam Laats.

In diving, Winchester did extremely well, taking first place honors through the efforts of high scorer Guy Pollino.

In the 300-yard butterfly, Alexi Carayannopoulos, T.J. Foley, John Murray and Jim Blasi took second place.

Winchester's last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay captured first, putting Winchester in second place in the overall standings.

Transition Period For WHS Girls Team

By DAVID DEMARCO

There are no more Barbara Delaneys, Mitch Powers or Terry Ducharmes, but that doesn't mean that Sachemette basketball won't be exciting this year.

Basically, this will be a rebuilding year for Winchester.

"This is a transition period for us. We have more size, but a lot less varsity experience this year," stated Coach Joe DeSarcina.

It seems that player enthusiasm is high, as the team prepares for the season. "We're getting ready and we're not going to be intimidated by the reputation of other teams," added Sachemette Katie Carroll.

The team itself is sporting some very familiar names, as both the Guarnotta sisters switch to hoop for the winter. Ellen Donahoe will be playing guard as one of the co-captains along with Julie Guarnotta.

Maureen Dokas will be in the middle with Heidi MacDonald off the bench to relieve "Doak." Jean Cullen, Katie Carroll, Alyssa Parker, Trish Bracken and Lynn Braga add to the club with limited experience.

"We're the dark horse of the league. Belmont will be tough Tuesday, and we'll have to play some serious defensive. We're ready to get down," said Sachemette Maureen Dokas.

The beginning of the season will be very important, as Winchester faces two powerhouse teams in Belmont and Wakefield.

"It will be a key part of the year. We have to keep our confidence and poise. To beat Belmont we have to keep our turnouts to a minimum, so we don't put ourselves in a hole early," commented coach DeSarcina.

Winchester opens up on Tuesday Dec. 17, with Belmont coming here for a 5 p.m. tapoff. Friday Dec. 20 sees perennial powerhouse Wakefield come into W.H.S. with an 8:15 p.m. start.

It will be difficult for Winchester to progress to the tournament position that they held last year, being knocked out by rival Concord/Carlisle. However, it promises to be an exciting developmental season.

SENIOR SCENE

Blackhams Sponsor Jenks Party

Recognizing that many seniors are alone on New Year's Eve, James and Ann Blackham of Winchester are again sponsoring a party at the Jenks Center.

The Jenks Center will open its doors at 9 p.m., Dec. 31 to bring together the town's seniors to celebrate the arrival of the New Year. Music, buffet and favors will be included in the evening celebration. Call the Center for a reservation. Transportation will be furnished if requested.

The Blackham family, longtime Winchester residents, has been active in town affairs for years. James Blackham's father served as selectman at the early age of 27, which has never been equaled. After graduating from Holy Cross College with a business administration degree, James Blackham entered the insurance field.

Ann Blackham's early years were spent in Ohio. Born in Shaker Heights, graduated at St. Mary's College with a degree in English followed by graduate studies at Ohio State leading to a master's degree, she arrived in Winchester in 1949.

Former president of the Winchester Women's Republican Club, she is past president of the State Federation of Republican Women. From 1969-74, Ann Blackham was chairperson of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

She is a director of Bay State Health Care, a corporator of Winchester Hospital, and a director of New World Bank for Savings. After raising a family, Ann Blackham became a realtor in 1961.

The Blackhams' concern with the needs of local seniors has been shared by the whole business community. Many firms played a vital role in the original fund-raising campaign to construct a senior center. This initial interest has continued not only through financial contributions but by donations of needed equipment and furniture.

Contributions of merchandise and services have been received.

This strong bond between the business community and Jenks Center is now being proven in the current campaign to enlarge the seniors building. A video tape on the center's activities prepared by Cynthia Krumme and underwritten by Ann Blackham Realty Co. is but one recent instance of the support being received.

The coming New Year's party for seniors in a building made possible in part by many local firms epitomizes the character of the town's business community

'Tis The Season

Robert Mulford leads the Jenks Glee Club at recent Christmas party at Jenks Center . The singing group performed this season at Winchester Nursing Home and at Palmer st. Housing.

Jenks Center Drive Begins

Dr. Richard Norberg, chairman of the WSA Board of Trustees, reported progress on the initial phase of the $850,000 fund-raising drive to enlarge the Jenks Center.

Following the Nov. 24 kickoff campaign, an appeal letter was mailed to Winchester seniors. The response has been gratifying and indicates a widespread acceptance of the need for a larger building to adequately serve the increasing senior population.

A large corps of volunteers, headed by Edith Beal, is making follow-up telephone calls as the solicitation continues. Drawings and pictures of the proposed expansion are on display at the Jenks Center for townspeople to view.

Church Women Provide Food

Hilde Zerwekh, coordinator of the "Share-A-Meal" program for Church Women United, will provide a tray of home cooked holiday food to seniors Seniors expecting to be alone on Christmas should call Hilde Zerwekh or the Jenks Center to make arrangements

Silver Pages Signup Set

Seniors who have not received an identification card for participating in the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s nation-wide discount program should now register at the Jenks Center.

Southwestern Bell's directory of businesses offering purchase discounts to seniors will be mailed directly to registered seniors in the next few weeks.

Bingo Game Is Dec. 27

The monthly bingo game at the Jenks Center is set for Friday, Dec. 27, starting at 1:15 p.m. All seniors are welcome

Elder Affairs Secretary Richard H. Rowland is advising Massachusetts elders of the Massachusetts supplemental rates for Federal SSI payments as of Jan. 1, 1986 and encouraged eligible elders to apply.

The Secretary explained that SSI is a Federal income maintenance program providing monthly payments to U.S. citizens who are 65 and over, blind, or disabled and who have little or no income and resources

Claimants who qualify under more than one category of eligibility can receive payments under the category which the Social Security office believes to be most advantageous to the individual or couple

Bartlett Celebrates Holidays

On Dec. 6 parents and friends gathered in the school foyer for the annual Holly Party. Proceeds went to benefit the Bartlett School Development Fund.

Children will be able to win such items as Celtics tickets, "Cabbage Patch" dolls, mechanical toys, etc., at the school party to be held on closing date Friday, Dec. 20. Once again proceeds will benefit the Development Fund.

At the last monthly meeting, it was voted to use funds obtained during December activities to buy another copying machine for use by all the teachers. Donation boxes have also been placed in classrooms and funds obtained this way will be given to Globe Santa and to the Tom Dooley Refugee Hospital in Thailand, where Norine T. Casey is a board member. Students in grade five to eight will sing Christmas carols at Winchester Nursing Home today, Dec. 19, led by Bartlett music instructor Karen Mahoney.

Afterschool Program Gives Youth Adventures

Kids' Corner, Winchester's program of after-school care for children in grades K-6, has gotten off to a fantastic start. Already KC kids have participated in a variety of interesting activities.

The kindergarteners who go to Kids Corner right after school at 11:45 have been cooking, working at art projects making batik pillows, learning music, and doing physical activities. Every week they walk to the public library to hear a story.

They have also had special activities like taking a trip to Wilson's Farm to learn about growing and harvesting vegetables, riding the train (getting on at Winchester Center and debarking at Wedgemere Station) to the Ginn Field playground, and visiting Purity Supreme, where they not only learned about each department, but also received pumpkins that they turned into jack-o'-lanterns.

First through third graders at Kids' Corner have been studying about whales (one of KC's teachers is a marine biologist), and making their own time capsule. They've also done some cooking and art projects, as well as played soccer and performed a play.

On Thursday release days their special activities have included roller skating, visiting the Museum of Transportation, touring the Coca Cola plant, going to the movies, and, while Indian summer lingered, picnicking at Sandy Beach. The third graders also have been lucky enough to participate in an extra special activity -- a series of drawing workshops taught by Dudty Fletcher of the DeCordova Museum School.

O.K.O. (Older Kids Only), the fourth through sixth graders at Kids' Corner, have plunged into activities especially designed to appeal to the interests of older kids. They are learning typing, karate, and how to make pottery. They've also gone bowling, swimming, played miniature golf, and been put through their paces in a fitness course in Stoneham. For their release day special activities, they have gone roller skating, visited the China Exhibit at the Science Museum, and toured the Computer Museum.

A Moving Tribute

Show Rehearsals To Begin Jan. 2 At St. Eulalia's

St. Eulalia's Parish in Winchester, will begin rehearsals on Jan. 2, 7:30 p.m., Manion Hall, for its upcoming March show.

Anyone who missed the auditions on Dec. 1 has another chance on Jan. 2. "A lot of talented people auditioned and all were excellent," says the show coordinator. "However, there is always room for more."

Ellen Kazin, a warm and caring person who puts everyone at ease, is show director.

Betty Saulnier, who is always pulsating

Hospital Offers Courses In Babysitting

Winchester Hospital will offer a four session babysitting course. The sessions will be held Mondays, January 6, 13, 20 and 27, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the Kingsbury Seminar Room at the hospital.

The classes will be taught by Susan Powers, R.N., with guest speakers from the police and fire departments.

The course content will include the responsibility of babysitting; fire safety; minor first aid; accident prevention; personal safety and caring for an infant, a toddler and children through school age.

Red Cross Offers Courses

The American Red Cross of Mass Bay, Eastern Middlesex Region will offer a two-evening Multimedia First Aid Course in Melrose in January.

The 8 hour course will be held on Tuesdays, January 7 and 14 from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Melrose Red Cross Chapter, 786 Main Street.

For many whose time is limited, this eight-hour course has proven to be an effective way for individuals to become trained to handle injuries and emergencies. Many Scout Leaders and Day Care Personnel require this certification and they are encouraged to enroll early as class sizes are limited.

All courses require pre-registration. For more information call the region office of the Red Cross.

Gatto To Quit Post, Moving South

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Weekend flights to South Carolina will soon be a thing of the past for School Committee member Catherine Gatto.

Gatto told fellow committee members and the public last week that she and her three children are moving south to join her husband, who moved last spring to South Carolina for a coaching job.

Her resignation will open up a two-year seat for the March 1986 elections. Two three-year seats will also be up for grabs.

"I would really like to stay — I am wobbling on this decision, I try not to think about it," she said on Tuesday.

Gatto won the seat on the board last March, just days before her husband, Vic, former Tufts Football coach, accepted a coaching job at Davidson College in South Carolina.

At the time, Gatto said some residents were apparently were concerned that the town would then have to call a special town meeting to replace her.

Gatto recalled that she received numerous calls from people interested in buying their house and it was not on the market.

The decision was not an easy one for Gatto, she said.

"Well obviously I don't want to leave Winchester, if I did I would have left last March," Gatto said.

The past nine months for the Gatto family have been difficult, Gatto said.

"After much soul-searching, we decided if we want to keep the family together — the family would have to get together."

Gatto said their house on Winthrop st. has been on the market as of Dec. 10.

Gatto said she and her husband were hoping that after the fall football season a job would open up in the Boston area.

"The south is a lovely country, but it's not very liberated," she said. As for the school system, Gatto said, "there is no comparison.

"There is not the same sense of community, like we have here in Winchester," she said.

Gatto said she didn't expect to move back in a year, "It's obviously an option — kids need a sense of roots."

By announcing her resignation now, Gatto said, "I hope it will give the people an opportunity to run. Most people like to start campaigning right after the holidays."

Groundbreaking

The building boom is on in Winchester, as the groundbreaking of the Vine st. apartment complex shows. Stonehenge Heights, located at 35 Vine st., will accommodate eight one bedroom apartments and 15 two bedroom apartments. At the groundbreaking, from left are Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer, attorney Larry Murray of Murray and Quill, Selectmen Chairman Alan Macdonald, Richard Johnson, owner and developer, Selectman Judie Muggia, Mrs. William Sciarsic of Isenberg Haven Architects and Selectman Mark Lombardi. Completion date is tentatively set for Sept. 1, 1986.

Doll Party A Success

The magic of Christmas rests in the wide-eyed wonder of children: the hushed respect for Santa, the odd request for pencils or a new pair of shoelaces, a Clorox-bottle-turned piggy-bank, hand picked at the local Christmas bazaar for Mom and Dad.

For some children, if it weren't for kindness of others, the fun and innocence of the season would turn into the disappointment of cold, hard reality.

Many good programs exist to ensure that the magic is kept alive for these children, and Morgan Memorial's doll party is one of them.

On Dec. 18, over 100 children, ranging in age from five to ten, were invited to a party at the non-profit agency's headquarters in Boston's South End to sing carols, have refreshments, socialize, and pick out the doll or stuffed animal of their fancy.

The children were invited from neighboring daycare centers serving the South End, Roxbury, and Chinatown. The children also each receive a hat and mittens or scarf

The dolls, stuffed animals, and hand-knit goods are the loving products of volunteers for Morgan Memorial Goodwill. The dolls are taken from your local donations to Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries' Attended Donation Centers, then given to the volunteers who clean them up, dress them up, and transform them into one-of-a-kind toys. The stuffed animals, hats, scarves and mittens are hand-made by other volunteers. These volunteers are like the elves of Santa's workshop, spreading joy to children with their behind the scenes efforts.

Morgan Memorial collects, rehabilitates and sells low-priced clothing and household goods as a way to support their human services. For 90 years Morgan Memorial Goodwill has served 159 communities in Eastern Massachusetts

Local Man Attends Museum Event

The last structural steel beam was set in place recently for the major new addition for Boston's Museum of Science at its Science Park complex at the northern end of the Charles River basin.

Officiating at the morning topping out ceremony were Dr. Roger L. Nichols, director of Boston's Museum of Science, Winchester's Warren S. Berg, president of the Museum's Board of Trustees, Merle T. Westlake, senior vice president of The Stubbins Assoc. and principal architect, and Donald B. Wilson, president of A.O. Wilson and Co., steel fabricators.

The project comprises a new 334-seat domed science theater named in memory of Stephen P. Mugar and Marian G. Mugar, and a new wing housing increased educational and exhibit space. Designed by The Stubbins Associates Inc. of Cambridge, the 112,700-square-foot expansion also includes new entrance and lobby areas, museum gift store and food facilities.

The science theater will feature state-of-the-art audio-visual technology of the specialized Omnimax projection system and will bring a new theater experience to Boston and the Northeast.

The Omnimax is a giant renewable exhibit for the teaching of science," related Dr. Roger L. Nichols, Director of Boston's Museum of Science, who was instrumental in bringing the Omnimax to Boston. "It is an opportunity to produce scientific films that are educational as well as entertaining, for young and old alike."

The new addition housing the 25,000 square foot theater will be placed on the entrance side of the museum's existing east wing, facing the McGrath/O'Brien Highway.

Plans call for re-establishing the elegant Skyline Restaurant in the top floor of the museum's tower, serviced by a new glass elevator offering a spectacular view of the Charles River.

Ceremonial Guest

Toys Help Toddlers' Vision Doctor Reports

Toys bought for holiday gifts can help a toddler build visual-perceptual abilities, says Winchester optometrist Dr. Albert L. Sherburne.

"Nobel Prize research shows that when visual stimulation is insufficient during early life, the vision centers of the brain do not develop properly," says Sherbourne.

"Toys, games and all kinds of objects give children experiences that help program their ability to locate and identify objects, to be able to understand the relationships between shapes and sizes and locations and to visualize and even conceptualize better," he said.

These early experiences are used throughout life as basic reference points for perceiving and understanding what is seen.

"Toys and games also provide opportunities for a child to develop and coordinated the complex visual skills that will be required once school begins," Sherbourne said.

Up to 80 percent of learning involves reading, writing and other visual work.

"As the Nobel nominating committee said, 'It is only a slight exaggeration to say that what we see today, how we perceive the visual world around us, depends on the visual experiences we had during the first stages of our lives,'" Sherbourne said.

Here are some of the toys and activities that help a child build eye hand coordination, general movement skills (for everything from writing to sports), shape and size discrimination (needed for reading), space and distance judgements (needed for driving and sports) and visualization and visual memory skills that enable us to develop concepts.

- Birth to 5 months, Toys: Sturdy crib mobiles, gyms and large, bright rubber squeak toys. Activities: peek-a-boo and patty cake.
- Six to 8 months, Toys: stuffed animals, floating bath toys. Activities: hide and seek with toys.
- Nine to 12 months Toys: Sturdy cardboard books, take apart toys, snaplock beads, blocks and stacking/nesting toys. Activities: roll a ball back and forth.
- One-year-olds Toys: bright balls, blocks, zippers, rocking horse and riding toys pushed by the feet. Activities: throwing a ball.
- Two-year-olds Toys: pencils, markers, crayons, bean bag-ring toss games, peg hammering toys sorting shapes and sizes toys, puzzles and blocks. Activities: read to the child, outdoor play, catch.

A great toy for children this age is a nesting coffee percolator with parts that fit inside each other when properly assembled.

Providing developmentally beneficial toys helps lay a foundation of visual skills the child can rely on throughout life.

The foundation of a person's visual abilities is built during the first few years of life.

"So it is critical that a child's vision be evaluated as early as possible. Eye disease is very rare in infants and small children, but suppressed vision and 'turned eyes' are found more often," said Sherburne.

"Amblyopia is a condition in which the person never learns to 'decode' the visual signals of one eye. Although it can be dealt with later in life, overcoming amblyopia as early as possible is best," said Sherburne.

Hospital Leader Cites Women's Health Proposal

Just prior to Diane Willis, Channel 7's news anchorwoman and guest speaker at the Women's Day '85 program, held recently at the Winchester High School, Eugene E. Loubier, president of Winchester Hospital elicited a strong approval from the audience when he announced the hospital's "commitment to a Women's Health Center."

Loubier told the hospital sponsored program's attendees that "the Board of Directors had approved the concept and the development of the comprehensive women's health center."

According to Loubier, some of the center's elements were already in place.

An advisory committee of women will be formed to aid in the planning and development of the health center concept.

A certificate of need application has already been filed to renovate the hospital's maternity suite to create new birthing rooms, a modern postpartum area and special care nursery. Twenty-four hour epidural anesthesia coverage will also be provided as well as neonatology service.

The recruitment of new male and female obstetricians and gynecologists and a board certified reproductive (infertility) endocrinologist.

These needs, Loubier indicated were the results of a comprehensive survey of 400 women of child bearing age in the hospital's service area who were asked to describe the elements of a total obstetrical service that would most appeal to them.

He also stated that Winchester Hospital was developing relationships with Boston hospitals "to include training and maintaining our (pediatric and neonatal) skills to offer care locally and increase women's ability to stay in the community for obstetric, pediatric and neonatology services." Affiliations with Health Maintenance Organizations were also being developed to enable women members of the HMO's to obtain OB/GYN services at Winchester.

Loubier cited two additional elements of the health center geared for women over 35: mammography for breast cancer screening; osteoporosis screening.

The final components of the health center, exercise/nutrition and community education would include classes for every age group: health education for teens; family planning and management of professional life; childraising and marriage for women in the decade of the '80's; "empty nest" issues, cancer support and education for older women.

Willis captivated her audience for thirty minutes citing the challenges for women in the 1980s and stating that there are no pat answers to the problems women face.

"Our mothers are not role models for us anymore", she said, "instead we need to have confidence in ourselves that whatever you choose to do is right for you. Be satisfied in what you are doing and do it well."

For the next hour Willis answered questions from the audience about her TV career, her background and training and her plans for the future. She spoke of her work with the Ethiopian famine victims and of her recent coverage of the AIDS disease problem.

Brunch with Ms. Willis and a series of workshops for women followed the two speakers.

This classic fruitcake is sweetened with 100% Vermont maple syrup and naturally dried fruits and nuts. It is now available in 3 pound gift tins for those who appreciate the finest. Order by December 15 for UPS delivery anywhere.

CLUB NOTES

Sons of Italy Blood Drive A Success

The Sons of Italy hosted a successful blood drive for the American Red Cross on Nov. 23. 94 registrations resulted in 79 units being collected, which was well over their projected goal.

Such a success was due to the combined efforts of the Sons of Italy, its Women's Lodge and several Winchester community Red Cross volunteers, as well as the generosity of the community donors.

Members of the Women's Lodge No. 1592 who worked at bloodmobile were: Rose Marie Adamkowski, Sue Caputo, Jane MacIsaac, Mary Nilo, Jennie Tranfaglia, Angie Tuttle, Mary Valentino and Georgianna Venuti.

Tony Staffieri headed the men from the Sons of Italy who prepared the delicious luncheon served to the donors, in addition to other duties. They included Gus Baldacci, Jerry Borsini, Bucky Borsini, Andy Buzzotta, Bob Cintolo, Rocco DeTeso, Joe DiSbino, Randy Kazazian and Joe Paonessa.

Martha Bett, June Cannon, Diana Donnellan, Leona Poole and Dr. Robert Smith from the Red Cross Chapter also assisted.

The Winchester community should be very proud of its voluntary blood donation record as most bloodmobiles have consistently met or surpassed their goals.

The Northeast Regional Blood Services is appreciative of this effort and hopes to have this kind of support in 1986.

Donors were: Howard Abbott, Frank Adams, Roger Adams, Robert Adams, Anthony Antonuccio, Guistino Baldacci, Martha Barry, Patricia Baxter, Dorothy Beattie, Ernest Benshiomol, Titial Bett, Steven Boettcher, Richard Borsini, Jeremiah Borsini, Anthony Borsini and Latino Borsini.

Also, Jeremiah Borsini, Jr., Laurie Bradlee, Scott Bradley, William Branley, Edward Brown, Janice Brown, Clellan Bunn, Paul Burke, Frank Buzzotta, John Buzzotta, Geraldine Buzzotta, John Cannon, Anne Cantillon, Robert Cintolo, Louise Coughlan, Edgar Craver, Andrew Crawford and Giuseppe Dattilo.

Also, Frank DiMambro, Anthony DiPrizio, Joseph Dischino, Domenic Divincenzo, John Duffy, Marie Edwards, Joanne Vichera, Andrew Fichera, Rose Fiore, Lawrence Flowers, Peter Franchi, Lloyd Frank, Nancy Goodwin, Gordon Grant, Timothy Hennelly and Helen Hennelly.

Also, Eileen Moore, Marjorie Moore, Dorothy Mueller, Carol Oliver, Charles Papadinis, Donald Peck, Charles Perenick, Kimberly Petone, Mark Piper, John Pratt, Charles Preus, Ronald Richburg, Norman Richburg and Joseph Riga.

Mt. Holyoke, Wellesley To Sponsor Event

What is it like to attend a women's college? How does it compare to a coed school? Are the academics more difficult than other similarly sized liberal art colleges in New England?

These are a few of the questions that will be discussed at the second annual "Super Sundae" on Dec. 29 at 3 Harrington rd., Winchester at 3 to 5 p.m.

High school sophomores, juniors and seniors are invited to attend the informal gathering. For further details and directions to Harrington rd., contact Mary Jean Weylman of Harrington rd.

Parish Club Plans Dinner

Tickets are still available for the New Year's Eve Dinner Dance sponsored by St. Eulalia's Parish Club, on Tuesday, Dec. 31, at the Church Hall on Ridge st., Winchester. Ticket price includes wine and cheese, 7 p.m.; dinner (catered by Bon Vivant of Woburn), 8 p.m., and continental breakfast, 1 a.m.

Music will be provided by Joe Sica and the Satinaires.

For tickets and more information call: Beverly, 729-8233, or Marie, 729-8313.

Andersen Remodeling Center
471 Summer Street Arlington Mass. 02174 641-0006

After 12 years as a general contractor, Dick Andersen decided to specialize in one aspect of the building trade. As the owner/proprietor of Andersen Remodeling, 471 Summer st., Arlington, Andersen concentrates on the design, repair, and installation of bathrooms and kitchens.

At Andersen's Summer st. showroom you can see bathrooms and kitchens set up with the actual materials you can buy for your home. Anderson carries two lines of cabinets Marvell and Scheirich. Scheirich is a quality stock cabinet available in specific sizes and colors. Marvell cabinets are custom-made to fit the specifications of a certain room.

"I can build a Marvell cabinet to virtually any size," explains Andersen. "If you can draw it, I can build it."

If you are building that dream house or room, you can have Andersen do it or you can do it yourself. Andersen will advise you as to a suitable design and can build your cabinets and install your entire bathroom or kitchen.

Or, you can purchase the components from Andersen and install it yourself, saving on installation and on the fixtures themselves.

For those of us less mechanically inclined, Andersen offers complete expert installation on all kitchens and bathrooms. And if you are remodeling your home and need an electrician, plumber or other professional, Andersen will obtain one to make the entire process go more smoothly and to insure quality workmanship.

In fact, Andersen can supervise and design an entire addition to your home if you so desire.

He offers free estimates and advice to anyone who contracts him. And, his prices on cabinets, vanity cabinets and installation are competitive with anyone's. His work is also always first quality.

In addition, Andersen also installs a wide variety of wood, metal and vinyl windows. "You can't beat my prices on windows and installation," Andersen explains.

For bathroom andd kitchen repair, design, or installation, for the installation of windows, or for the addition of an entire room or section to your home, call Dick Andersen. Andersen Remodeling is open Monday-Friday 9-5, Saturdays, 10-2.

Council Seeks Parent Aides

As Christmas rapidly approaches, gift giving is foremost in the minds of many people The Woburn Council of Social Concern is individuals who would like to do something extra special for another person

They are looking for people who would consider giving a gift of time and friendship to a parent who is having difficulty coping with the everyday problems and pressures of parenting to serve as parent aides

Parent aides are volunteers who befriend, nurture and act as role models in a nonjudgemental, supportive way to parents experiencing stress Volunteers are not required to be parents, but a knowledge and understanding of the stresses of parenting is essential

An orientation for potential parent aides is scheduled for the week of January 13, 1986, at the Woburn Council of Social Concern. For more information on how to participate, call Mary at 935-6495 The Parent Aide Program serves Winchester parents

Her most frequent shoppers, she said, are local grandmothers.

"A lot of grandmothers say they prefer the local stores instead of hassling with the malls," O'Neil said.

Superman and robot pajamas seem to be the fastest movers at Topsy Turvey, O'Neil said. Also hair ornaments and jewelry for girls are popular.

Across the street at Woolworth's, gobots and masters of the universe dolls are, "hot sellers," according to manager Michael Frates.

"You know, gobots are robots that transform into cars," Frates said, matter-of-factly.

"Anything spacey is fantastic," he said.

One pitfall to downtown shopping he said is the parking. "It's awful, it's the worst. It's the biggest gripe we get from all our customers."

He said the lack of parking spaces probably drives customers and business away.

As far as sales, he said, "They have not peaked over last year's sales."

At Heritage Trails Antiques, brass items are the biggest sellers.

"We have sold a tremendous amount of brass gifts," said an employee, who also said that the flux of shoppers has been fairly steady.

spring of 1986 and have that phase of the project bid by a late April Special Town Meeting. Construction on exterior improvements would begin in the summer of 1986.

- To have preliminary plans and budget estimate prepared for the Special Town Meeting to enable Town Meeting to vote on the scope of the work for completing the interior improvements.

Final plans and bid documents would be prepared over the summer and the project would be bid in the late fall of 1986. Interior construction would begin by the winter of 1987.

- To have the interior and exterior improvements compatible and top have all improvements completed by the end of 1987.

According to the committee, the estimated cost for the exterior work is about $1 million, while interior work is expected to cost between $600,000 and $2 million, depending on the extent of the renovations.

Chane's report also noted that the town made its last payment in fiscal year 1986 for the cost of the High School. According to Chane, the town thus has the capacity to borrow with an annual debt service payment of $700,000.

Boston architect Wiliam Rowe has been chosen by Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer for the design project. Howe is also the choice of the Town Hall Advisory Committee.

Rowe will be charging $10,000 for the exterior plans and specications, and $15,000 more for interior preliminary plans and budget estimates.

Season's Greetings

"During the year, in the rush of events, we tend to overlook the important friendships that are the true basis of business relationships. One of the great pleasures of the Holiday Season is the opportunity to exchange cordial greetings with those whose friendship and goodwill we value so highly.

In this spirit it is our pleasure to say "Thank You" and extend our sincere appreciation for the very pleasant association we enjoy with you.

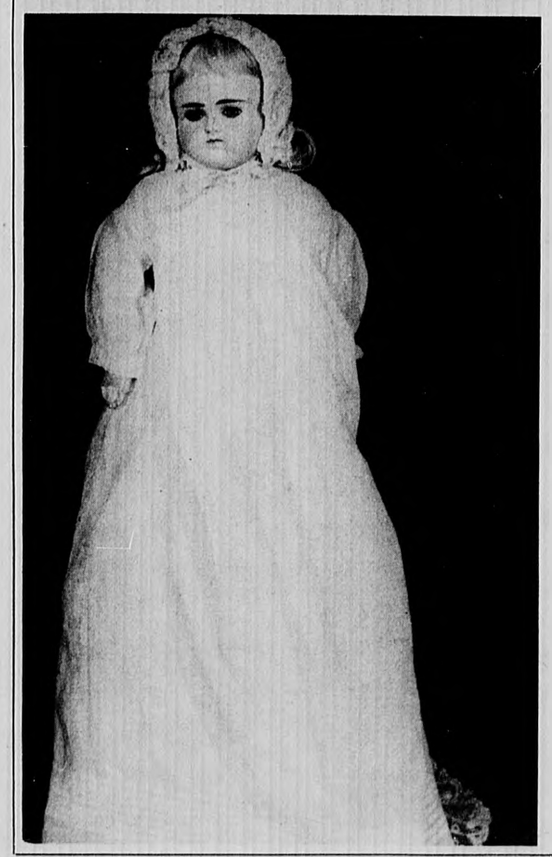
What To Visit



Clockwise from top left: this doll was made for a child and features a French bisque swivel head, glass eyes and a human hair wig; this doll, dated at about 1820, was used as a form to design, make and sell bonnets; this doll is a good example of a Queen Anne period carved doll with face and hands carved from wood; this 19th-century doll has a German bisque head with a kid body.

HELLO,

Antique Dolls Looked

Move over, Barbie!

Take a back seat, Cabbage Patch!

Thirty vintage dolls are out of wraps and on display at the Concord Antiquarian Museum.

These dolls, each with a birthday of 100 years and more, speak of times different than today when Barbie and Ken, Cabbage Patch, She-ra, Care Bear and Skeletor invade store shelves and parental pocketbooks.

Compared to dolls today, these dolls do relatively nothing.

No glitzy sports cars, swimming pools, high chairs, back packs, laser swords and disco boots made up their package.

They simply look lovely.

And they were loved.

Whispers of slower times come from their finely-chiseled faces. Long evenings of shared secrets are imagined. Cozy playtimes over tiny teacups. And the very special care of bedtime ritual.

"A lot of people can look at dolls and recall their own childhood," says Delores Lyon, Curator of Costumes at the Concord Museum.

Adults, she says, love the exhibit as much as children. Unlike furniture or antique artifacts — of varying interest to different people, the appeal of vintage dolls is universal.

Under Lyon's guidance, a committee created six vignettes featuring the antique dolls in winter and holiday settings.

A snow scene shows 19th century Chase dolls — so called because of their faces which are made from molded, painted fabric, says Sue Svenson of Yesterdolls in Chelmsford.

Dressed in winter warmest, including girl dolls dressed in boys clothing, these dolls engage in festive outdoor frolic. Back then children's playthings were indeed differentiated by sex.

A second display, set in the Revolutionary Bedroom, features dolls preparing for bed. Examples of their finely detailed clothing are abundant.

A French bisque head doll dating from about 1880, highlights another exhibit. In her day, she was called a fashion doll.

Such dolls served two purposes says Ann Chang, coordinator of public relations for the museum.

"It could be used as a Sears catalog, to show off latest fashions or it could be a child's toy."

Dolls reflected the times, says Lyons. They were dressed in the elaborate fashion as were adults of

Museum Celebrates

Within a few weeks, the Concord Antiquarian Museum launches a year-long celebration of its 100th birthday.

Its history began in 1851 when Cummings E. Davis moved from his birthplace of Brooklyn, New York to Concord where five generations of his family had lived.

Davis ran the local newspaper store in Concord, then an area comprising Acton, Carlisle, Lincoln, parts of Bedford and today's Concord.

Davis, therefore, lived alone in Concord and indulged his passionate and lifelong interest in the town's history and crafts.

He did odd jobs to supplement his meager pay and often received items of furniture or art as payment for his services.

Local folks considered him an eccentric, a rag-picker and a scavenger, says Ann Chang, coordinator of public relations for the museum. Yet they respected him, his knowledge and his concern for the past.

He was known to rummage through neighborhood trash for neglected treasures. One example is an antique pine chest in the museum and rescued from a local stable where it was used as a horses' trough.

The result?

After 35 years, Davis assembled an impressive collection of furniture, pewter, porcelain and china, ceramics, textiles and other artifacts which formed the foundation of the Concord Antiquarian Museum.

Today the museum, thanks to

Lady Loves

Sue Svenson says she owns between three and four thousand dolls.

And she's not bragging.

Svenson and her mother own and operate Yesterdolls, a store and doll repair shop in Chelmsford. Together they have accumulated impressive facts and pieces of research as well as dolls.

"I enjoy antique dolls," says Svenson. "I like the fact that after 100 years or so, they are still surviving and they have lived though three or four childhoods so far."

Her personal favorite is the Ginny Doll, popular in the 1950's and reminescent of her own childhood.

"Doll collecting is fun," she says.

"It lets you revert back to your own childhood. And, not only is it an art form, but it also lets me use my sewing talents."

Svenson and her mother are well able to whip up new outfits or recreate exact copies of outfits from a variety of era and style.

She had easily noted the increase in interest as well as cost in the antique doll market. Even the day. No beaten-up jeans and rock group tee-shirts for offspring then — they were as formally and finely garbed as their parents.

Doll clothing was often homemade, says Lyons. Even small children made or assisted in the creation of these delicate outfits.

Tiny finery often displayed professional touches. It was not uncommon, says Svenson, for dressmakers to design and make high quality outfits for mother, daughter and dolly.

Louisa, a doll owned by Loulsa May Alcott, is perched in a high chair in the Empire Room and is a permanent display.

She was originally blonde but had her hair dyed black by the Alcott sisters so that she could better participate in a funeral scene in one of their play productions.

Four dolls enjoy a tea party in yet another display. Items from the toy collection, including fine china tea cups and serving pieces, complete this fanciful scene.

One of the museum's oldest and finest dolls is presented in the Relic Room. Dating from the Revolutionary period, this Queen Anne doll, an wooden-peg doll in almost perfect condition, has a "jesso" face — a type of plaster coating used to smooth canvas covered and stuffed doll heads.

Arms and legs, darkenend with age, are made of kid.

The museum is famous for its Old Concord Christmas in which the entire establishment, part of which dates back 300 years, is decorated in the spirit of Christmas.

This year a doll-sized celebration, complete with an elaborately loaded tree, offers a miniature version of Old Concord Christmas set for 1986.

Here several dolls, decked out in their holiday best, share gifts and tiny toys, borrowed from the museum's collection, with each other.

Here one can examine the workings of jointed dolls with limbs that move. Unusual types of dolls are also displayed, incuding the smallest doll in the show — one crinkled Beatrice Potter-type figure carved from a hickory nut.

This exhibit at the Concord Antiquarian Museum encourages visitors of all ages to retap memories, renew holiday joys and relive, at least for a short time, the wonder of the holidays.

Its First Century

Davis' initial devotion, boasts the country's most complete documented collection of antique objects and art from a single area, says Chang.

The Concord Antiquarian Society was initiated in 1886 by a group of prominent residents who wished to perpetuate and expand Davis's collection.

The Perkins House, a 17th-century wooden frame house moved from Ipswich to Concord is 1939, represents the earliest style of architecture built by the English colonists here.

It was reconstructed at the back of the museum building which itself was built 60 years ago on property donated by the family of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Within the Perkins House are furnishings and household objects from colonial times.

Tw dioramas invite examination of Concord before and sfter the arrival of the colonists. Prominent in both displays, and remembered by a plaque in Concord center today, is Jethro's Tree.

It was under the spreading limbs of this great tree that the colonists concluded their agreement with the Indians for the purchase of this property. It was done in peace and so the town gained the name, "Concord."

Fifteen period rooms are featured within the museum, including the Chippendale Room, the Queen Anne Room and the Federal Parlor. Each one, respectfully recreated to match its proper time and tone in history, is a treat to the senses.

The Ralph Waldo Emerson Room, built to exact dimensions reproductions come with hefty price tags.

A French fashion doll, such as the one on display at the Concord Antiquarian Museum, might have cost about $6 in 1880. Today, says Svenson, it could fetch a minimum price of $4000 and up, if in good condition and in original apparel.

German bisque dolls, more common then and today, can command purchase prices of $300 to $400.

Even Barbie dolls boast increased prices.

A regular original Barbie would today sell for $100. The first edition, recalled after three months on the market because, says Svenson, "it was so ugly," would now, if in its original box, sell for $1000.

So, as presents are wildly ripped open during this holiday time, dolls should be carefully reviewed. Today's delight, complete with sparkling accessories of fine plastic and polyester, might become the next generation's costly treasure.

What To Do

It is also a wonderful opportunity to rediscover the joys of family activities.

If family excursions sound appealing, then the problem becomes the choosing.

While most people were shopping, wrapping gifts, and baking, personnel at museums and theatres were busy planning exciting vacation activities.

So pick a destination, take a cab, bus, train or car and set out to make this school vacation something special.

Children's Activities

The Boston Museum of Science, at Science Park, presents many activities.

• Let's Celebrate! A December Holiday Celebration — The MIT Folk Dancers (Great Well, Basement West) at 12:30 p.m. On Dec. 28.

The New England Aquarium at Central Wharf is open Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

An added holiday highlight is a visit to the Aquarium's recently renovated freshwater gallery. It features both the Amazon and the Connecticut River systems and offers an interesting comparison of these two freshwater habitats.

The new Amazon gallery displays reptiles and amphibians. Dangerous creatures, such as the alligator-like caiman, poison arrow frogs, piranhas and anacondas, the world's longest snakes, enhance the sense of the exotic.

Fruit-eating fishes, such as the pacu, round out the collection to emphasize the interaction between the forest and aquatic environments.

The focal point of the renovated gallery is the new 4,000 gallon "Flood Forest" tank, filled with recreations of Amazon flora and fauna, and the all-new electric eel tank.

• Electric eel feeding at 11 a.m. daily lets youngsters see and hear the increased electricity generated while the animal feeds.

• Animal Interviews at 11:35 a.m. and 2:35 p.m. daily with marine educators discussing the muskrat and the anaconda.

• Top of the Tank Talks, held at 12:15 and 3:25 daily, focus on sea life in the huge tank, examining habits of sharks, sea turtles, and baracuda.

Admission to the Aquarium is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors, college students and military personnel with I.D. and $3 for children ages 4 though 15.

Admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Museum hours are Thursday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Pre arranged tours are available on Monday, tuesday and Wednesday.

Featured events for vacation week include:

• Banner Making Workshop and Museum Tour, for third graders and up, at 10 a.m. on Dec. 26.

Children will produce a rubbing of a Medieval tombstone from England.

• Shield Making Workshop, third graders and up at 10 a.m. on Dec. 28.

Youngsters will design and construct their own knight's shield.

Theater Events

Several plays are in town during school vacation ranging from ballet to puppets and designed to please children of all ages.

Not to be missed is The Nutcracker, performed by The Boston Ballet and at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Prices are $23 - $13; $33 for dress circle includes $10 tax-deductible donation. All prices include a 50 cent Wang Center restoration fee.

Performances at 2 and 7:30 p.m. are offered through vacation week. Call 542-3600.

It's a rare bird indeed that stands eight feet tall, sports countless golden plumes and is an international celebrity.

So, naturally, when Big Bird, that one-of-a-kind canary, mysteriously vanishes from his home at 123 Sesame Street, more than a few feathers are ruffled.

The ensuing search by pals Bert, Ernie, Cookie Monster, Prairie Dawn and the rest of the flock is the focus of "Missing Bird Mystery," Sesame Street Live's happy stage musical starring Jim Henson's lovable Muppets.

Inspector Fortescu Farquar and his klutzy constables join the Sesame Street sleuths who take time out from the hunt to do some hot hoofing and warble a few tunes including "Rubber Ducky," "Sing" and "What's the Name of that Song."

Performances are offered on these dates:

• Dec. 26 at 7 p.m.

• Dec. 27 at 2 and 7 p.m.

• Dec. 28 at 11 a.m., 3, and 7 p.m.

• Dec. 29 at 1 and 4:30 p.m.

Ticket prices are $9.50 and $8, although discounts of $3 are available at the WCVB-TV Family Prformance on Dec. 26.

Call 742-0200 or 720-1900 for reservation information.

Tickets are $7, $5, and $3.50. Call 266-7262 for reservations.

Performances are at 2 p.m. from Thursday, Dec. 26 through Monday, Dec. 30.

The Boston Children's Theatre offers Cinderella and Pippi Longstocking as future productions this season.

Rumpelstiltskin appears at The Puppet Showplace Theatre, 32-33 Station st. in Brookline Village.

Based on the Grimm fairy tale, this production features lively incidental music, colorful costumes, and magical settings.

Performances are 1 and 3 p.m. each day.

Tickets are $3. Call 731-6400.

The all-time favorite, Peter Pan, starring Nemeniah Persoff and Penny Peyser of TV's "Crazy Like a Fox," plays at Portsmouth Music Hall, 28 Chestnut st., in Portsmouth New Hampshire.

Ticket prices are $18 to $10. Call (603) 720-3434 or 1-800-382-8080. Tickets are also available at box office.

The performance schedule is:

• Dec. 26, 27, and Jan. 2 at 8 p.m.

Nutcracker Tops Holiday

Review If there is one holiday event more eagerly awaited than Santa's climbing down the chimney it has to be The Boston Ballet's annual yuletide mounting of The Nutcracker!

This gorgeous extravaganza, at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts through Dec. 29, is a magical delight for both the young-in age and the young-at-heart!

The choreography is based upon the original Ivanov-Petipa composition, but The Boston Ballet's enchanting version of this engaging fairy tale, inspired by E.T.A. Hoffman, presents lots of new and wondrous surprises.

Associate Artistic Director Bruce Wells has devised new choreography for the Snow scene which closes the first act, and Act II is virtually all original, with Artistic Director Bruce Marks contributing new choreography to the Arabian divertissement as well as restaging the grand pas de deux.

Last season, Mr. Wells added a new opening scene to Act II and this year offers his new versions of Spanish, Marzipan, Hoops and The Waltz of the Flowers, and Mr. Marks has rechoreographed the Arabian Dance and the battle between the soldiers and the mice, which also have new, comic costumes.

All the new material works marvelously well and much humor has been added to the entire evening.

The Nutcracker utilizes just about the entire ensemble, with alternating casts, and over 150 children in assorted roles.

Indeed, the principal dancers seem virtually entranced by Tchaikovsky's beautiful and melodic score and the gorgeous treatment it receives under the baton of Myron Romanul, and they perform with a "joie de vivre" rarely witnessed on the ballet stage.

The Dickensian sets by Herbert Senn and Helen Pond, reminiscent of old-fashioned lacy valentines, and the elegant costumes by David Walter are as stunning and vibrant as ever and all the scenic magic remains -- the beautiful interiors of blue and gold with cathedral doors and windows, the traditional "on stage" snowfall that creates an exquisite winter wonderland, the reindeer-drawn sleigh, the breathtaking Christmas tree that grows 40 feet high, the hot air balloon that transports the Nutcracker and Clara to the spellbinding Palace of Sweets, bathed in ethereal pastels of pink, mauve and raspberry, Mother Ginger and her huge hoop skirt that cloaks her brood of children and the celebrated Nutcracker himself.

Notable performances were contributed by Vadim Strukov as Dr. Drosselmeyer, Tony Collins as both The Grandmother and Mother Ginger hilarious in both roles, Stewart Yaros as The Nutcracker, Kelly Ekas as Clara, Alexander Van Alstyne as The Mouse King, Laura Young and William Pizzuto as The Snow Queen and King.

Further kudos go to Denise Pons, Christopher Adams and Arthur Leeth, exceptional in the Arabian divertissement, Karl Condon and Carolyn Yatska in the Chinese "Tea", Christian Zimmermann as the Hoop soloist, Pamela Royal as the Marzipan Shepherdess, Marie-Christine Mouis as the Dew Drop Fairy, Lori Nowak as the Sugarplum Fairy, and Devon Carney as the Cavalier.

Albee's Malcolm Proves Provocative

Review - Edward Albee's rarely seen drama Malcolm, presented by Brandeis University Dept. of Theatre Arts at the Spingold Theatre, and directed by the Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Albee, a visiting professor of theatre arts this fall as well as a guest director, proved a provocative and absorbing theatre piece!

It is easy to see why Albee was attracted to the idea of adapting James Purdy's novel for the stage.

In texture, the black comedy, both serious and funny, reminds one of Albee's earlier efforts like Zoo Story or The Sandbox.

A blending of fantasy, allegory and satire, "Malcolm" was first produced on Broadway in 1966.

Albee's best known plays are Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (1961-62), A Delicate Balance (1966) and Everything in the Garden (1968).

Set on a sparse stage with a series of levels, locales change by means of hand-drawn platforms (wagons), easily capturing the void, the nowhereness, the sterile atmosphere.

The staging by Anne M. Mundell is wisely kept simple to maintain the flow of action.

Malcolm is the skillfully told tale of the destruction of innocence through exposure to the selfish, self-centered and compassionless who worship money, liquor and drugs, and sex, and who accept corruption of the individual as a way of life in America.

Malcolm is a pubescent, a 14 or 15-year-old boy set adrift.

Malcolm, Walter Winston O'Neil, is first met as a well-groomed and educated young man, sitting on a bench in front of a hotel somewhere in the United States.

His father has arranged for his residency at the hotel (also purchasing his clothes up to age 17) and Malcolm sits outside the hotel daily awaiting his father's return.

A strange older man named Cox (Stephen P. Sorkin), who purports to be an astrologer, has observed the boy's daily routine and eventually manipulates him, sending him on a series of visits ostensibly to expose him to his fellow man, but which ultimately leads to his doom.

His first call is to Laureen (Donna Manley) and Kermit (Dyer Bilgrave) Raphaelson.

Kermit is a doddering, whining, wheelchair-bound self-indulgent who claims to be 182.

Young Laureen, a former prostitute, still yearns for her former profession, to which she eventually returns.

Madame (Lisa Simon Conley) and Girard Girard (Peter Appel) are middle-aged, filthy rich, and obsessed by possessions of any and all nature.

Madame is attended by four young male playmates while Girard wants dissolution of their marriage vows at any cost. Most of all, both want to 'own' Malcolm!

His third visit is with a hippy couple, Eloisa (Gayle Keller) and Jerome Brace (Joe Gaines).

She is an opportunist painter and he is a former jailbird, who now lusts after Malcolm.

Eloisa eventually sells her portrait of Malcolm to Madame Girard for $10,000, while Jerome sells Malcolm to Mr. Girard for $3,500.

Malcolm finally becomes the pawn of successful black pop singer and nymphomaniac Melba (Monique Nicole McIntyre), who has her henchmen take Malcolm to Madame Rosita (Donna Manley) for sexual indoctrination before taking Malcolm for her husband and killing him with flagrant excess.

What's On The Boards By Dann Kosow

Boasts Ronnie

Rap Master Extended

"Rap Master Ronnie," Garry Trudeau and Elizabeth Swados' smash musical revue, has extended its engagement at the Next Move Theatre through March 2.

Since its opening last month, the tuneful, satirical revue, which takes a thoughtful look at Ronald Reagan's America, has shattered all box office records at the 270-seat theatre.

Trudeau and Swados take on subjects ranging from Yuppies and the Moral Majority to Reagan's foreign policy forays into Grenada and Lebanon.

Boston's critics have hailed the show as "a raucous rollicking revue" with "satire that is always on the mark without being nasty, funny, never ferocious."

"Rap Master Ronnie" was conceived by Trudeau and Swados as a comment on the 1984 presidential election.

The show was first seen in a highly successful six week engagement at New York's Village Gate during the fall campaign.

There have been subsequent productions in Los Angeles (ten months) and Chicago (where it has been running since August, 1985).

Both Trudeau and Swados felt that the artistic community had either been ignoring the election, or had become resigned to it. "It didn't seem right to me to let it go without trying to say something," said Trudeau in an interview they both gave in Sept., 1984.

"The piece is enormously challenging because, as everybody knows, Reagan has proven unusally resistant to frontal assault. That's a very difficult target to take aim at," he said.

For Swados though, the work is also a theatrical challenge.

"Peter Brook and Joe Chaikin taught me a principle that I'll never let go of, which is not to play around with the truth of an emotion, said Swados.

"Even if people go away from the theatre affected adversely, what's important is that they've been touched somewhere in a place that's not familiar. When you choose a political topic, you're preaching to be converted."

"If the work is good, it makes the converted more alive. It makes the adrenalin flow," Swados said.

"This feeling spurs people to do other things and it becomes a chain of events. The stronger you make the converted the better the situation is for polarized views to have a go at each other."

"I think Liz and I share an affirming view of this country," Trudeau said.

"The lessons of satire are inferential -- you can't proselytize. We don't at any point in the evening say 'Go vote Democratic.'

"We just say what we think is amoral and immoral. From the standpoint of reaching people with an idea, you could make the case that my time might have been better spent going back to the ("Doonesbury") strip four months earlier and writing about the current Administration for a huge audience as opposed to the tiny one in a theatre."

"But you have to find your voice where you can, and this was something each of us felt we had to do."

Performances of Rap Master Ronnie, at the Next Move Theatre, 1 Boylston Place, Boston, are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday, 7:30 and 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 3 and 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Charge tickets by phone at Teletron (720-3434 or 1-800-382-8080). For tickets and information, call the box office at (617) 423-5572.

Late Club Opens At Charles

The Late Club at the Charles Playhouse, 76 Warrenton st., Boston, the only nightclub of its kind in the Hub opening its doors at 11 p.m., got officially underway with a 1930's "speakeasy" party last week.

The new nightspot, according to Charles Playhouse owner Frank Sugrue, "hopefully will become an extension of Boston's nightlife and will represent an attempt to attract show folk, celebrities and after-theater crowds."

Broadway pianist and raconteur Scott Olsen is the headlined performer.

The Late Club features a complete supper menu, a new dance floor has been installed, and The Club, with valet parking and no cover charge, operates from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. nightly.

The speakeasy opening night 'theme' party celebrated the decadent cafe society of the 30's and boasted classic automobiles, a cigarette girl, the sounds of Cole Porter and Billy Holiday, and fashions of the era.

The Charles Playhouse, which opened its doors Nov. 29, 1957, has never been dark for more than a few weeks at a time in any given theater season.

"The Charles is enjoying one of the healthiest times in its history," said Sugrue.

"I have three hits playing simultaneously in the complex - 'Sheer Madness' in the 193-seat cabaret, 'Greater Tuna' on the 525-seat main stage, and the Comedy Connection in the 150-seat lounge area."

Our Children
Neighborly Concerns

By WILLARD ABRAHAM, Ph.D.

Q. I don't want to be an interfering neighbor, but either I or someone else had better do something before we have a real tragedy in our neighborhood.

The neighbor is a divorced young lady who has two delightful, beautiful children who are only 2 and 3 years old. She occasionally leaves them alone in their house right next door to us, locking each one in his own bedroom.

During the week when she is working she has a full-time baby-sitter with them, but on weekends she takes full charge (if you can call it that). It isn't that she leaves them for long periods of time; she doesn't, just when she drives off to the grocery or something like that. If she's gone at night, she does have a baby-sitter, but it is those daytime periods that I worry about.

I have seen her many times with the youngsters, and her affection for them is apparent. In addition, they are always neat and clean, obviously well cared for.

She has a good-paying job, so money isn't the issue. I guess it is just thoughtlessness or being unaware of what can happen when young children are left alone.

Perhaps you will tell me to "butt out," and maybe I should, but I'd worry just the same.

A. The art of being neighborly is in knowing how much and when to become involved. Your concern is certainly legitimate, so let's think about how you can handle the situation diplomatically.

The best approach might be directly with the young mother, especially if you have at least a speaking acquaintance with her. Helping her become aware (if she already isn't) to the dangers of fire or other home problems that can occur, especially if children are locked in, may be appreciated. If they are not behind closed doors, the dangers from passing cars and strangers are also great.

Your manner in discussing this situation with her is so important. You will no doubt want to avoid the hazard of being told to mind your own business. However, if it does reach that point, you may have to retreat and perhaps be satisfied that you unselfishly did try to be neighborly.

If you talk to her, I hope she will take your comments in the spirit in which you offer them.

TAPAS expands and gets smaller

TAPAS restaurant has become known for its exciting array of international hors d'oeuvres. Our unique menu, composed of small beautifully prepared selections, invites you to explore a variety of different foods each time you dine with us. In fact, our menu has been so successful that we have decided to take one step further.

Museum Boasts Treasures

contains the personal belongings from Emerson's own study at the time of his death.

A small slant-ceiling room, tucked behind the impressive Empire room, houses the personal effects of Henry David Thoreau and recreates his hut at Walden Pond. Here are the bed, table, chair from the famous retreat as well as Thoreau's favorite books, spyglass and beloved flute.

The museum is known to have the greatest collection of artifact from the Thoreau family, says Chang.

The Relic Room features a diarama and artifacts from the Battle of North Bridge, the skirmish of April 19, 1775 lasting less than four minutes, which produced "the shot heard around the world."

Here visitors can see a lantern said to be one of two used to signal Paul Revere from the belfry of Old North Church; a horn carried by Abner Hosmer who was fatally wounded at North Bridge on that infamous day; and a sword carried by James Barrett, the leader of the Minute Men across North Bridge.

The museum, in addition to the richness of each room, offers special events and educational programs to school children and adults, lectures and concerts.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Monday through Saturday and 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday. Group tours are availalbe by prior arrangement. Call 369-9609.

Black Dress Packs Lots Of Punch

By Wendi Winters

Why does the holiday season only come once a year? From mid-November through early January, there is an exciting flurry of parties, balls, dances and family dinners that wears out our feet and exhausts our wardrobes, yet leaves us yearning for more when the season ends.

This holiday season will see an opulent array of sumptuous evening dresses — for every special occasion — cut from gold lames, exotic gilded brocades, velvets and bright iridescent taffetas decorated effusively with glitter, beads and spangles. For the woman who wants megawatt glamour, these are the clothes in which she wants to make a much noticed entrance.

Yet this also is the year the "little black dress" makes a dramatic comeback in beautifully designed silhouettes that need no flashy gimmicks to stand out in the crowd. The little black dresses are notable for their slenderizing, close-to-the-body fit in luxurious midnight fabrics. And, being black, they will retain appeal long after this year's vibrant, trendy colors have faded from the scene.

These dresses look good at any length. Perry Ellis presented what he called "simple little slips," a sexy grouping of bias-draped, barely there, above-the-knee skimmers in silk, satin and wool vaguely reminiscent of those worn by the flappers in the '20s. Diane Pernet, an avante-garde designer, went to the other extreme with long, hooded and cowled jersey dresses that sensuously cover the body and slither gracefully to the floor.

The knees are covered in Morton Myles' collection of black matte crepe cocktail dresses, but he deftly exposed a woman's back and cleavage to her best advantage. One short dress, with crushed cummerbund, features a bared back illuminated with plumes of multicolored beadwork and pearls.

Black also provides an ideal contrast to this season's glitzy metallic fabrics. Geoffrey Beene's molten gold-lame top glows over a long, curvy, high-waisted skirt. In her premier collection under her own name, Donna Karan revived and glamorized the simple bodysuit by redesigning it in luxurious cashmere with broadened shoulders. She then wrapped it with a shiny golden sarong and enveloped both pieces in an oversize sweater-coat.

British Customs Wassail To Wales

Entertaining for the holidays takes on historical and international tones with David Sandeman, sixth generation of the House of Sandeman, a producer and distributor of port wines and sherries.

Nestled on a 550-acre estate in Sussex is the classic British farmhouse where Sandeman and his wife, Sue, invite family and friends to enjoy wassail and other truly delicious and very British accompaniments during the holidays.

"Waes hael, the original words from which wassail was derived, was coined by a Saxon," Sandeman said. "In 450 A.D., the Saxon princess Rowena saluted British King Vortigen with waes hael' — a toast to health. Britishers take their toasts seriously, and we have derived numerous customs from the original."

By the 17th century, the British began to refer to wassail as a loving cup or bowl brimming with a warm and delicious combination of ales and spices. As new countries were colonized and trade formalized, new wines and exotic spices were added.

In the spirit of giving, well-to-do people offered wassail to people who came to their door wassailing — singing for a cupful.

The British brought wassail to America with them, where it officially became part of Christmas custom in the 19th century. And, as with most holidays, Christmas almost demands that food and drink be paired for best enjoyment. The House of Sandeman offers distinctive and easy recipes for wassailing with friends and family:

WASSAIL

12 apples, cored
2 parts tawny port
2 parts ale
1 part brandy
1 tbsp. grated nutmeg
1 tbsp. allspice
1 tbsp. ginger
½ tsp. cardamom
1 tbsp. clove
Thin strips of lemon peel
1 stick cinnamon
12 egg whites

Bake apples in 375 F oven for 30 minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, except egg whites, in saucepan and simmer.

Beat egg whites until frothy. Pour gently into punch bowl. Add saucepan mixture to punch bowl and top with baked apples. Serve warm.

SANDEMAN'S FRUIT CAKE

1½ cups raisins
1 cup candied fruit
¼ lb. blanched walnuts
4 tbsps. amontillado sherry
2 sticks butter or margarine
⅔ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
4 eggs
2⅓ cups flour
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt

Steep fruit and nuts in 2 tablespoons sherry overnight.

Line 9-inch round tin with two layers of waxed paper, extending paper 1 inch above tin.

Cream butter and sugar. Add unbeaten eggs and mix well. Add half of the fruit and remainder of sherry. Stir.

Sift flour, spices, baking powder and salt and gradually add to half to mixture. Add remainder of fruit and then gradually add remainder of flour. Mix.

Place mixture in prepared tin on middle shelf of 325 F oven. Bake about 2 hours (test after 1½ hours).

NO BAKE FRUIT CAKE

1 lb. seedless raisins
1 lb. pitted dates
1 lb. dried figs
1 lb. shredded coconut
1 lb. shelled walnuts
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
¼ cup amontillado sherry (optional)

Coarsely chop raisins, dates, figs, coconut and walnuts through food processor or blender. Do not overblend.

Empty mixture into large mixing bowl and add salt, vanilla and sherry. Blend well.

Spoon and pack mixture into a mold. Two 6-cup loaf pans are suitable. Cover and place a weight on top. Refrigerate three days or keep in a cold place to "age." Serve thinly sliced.

HOT PORT WINE SAUCE

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup ruby port
1 tsp. grated orange rind

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat egg and add to butter mixture. Stir in port and orange rind.

Just before serving, heat mixture, stirring until warm throughout.

Word For Yule Party Fare Is Simple

Call it a cocktail party, an "open house" or a cocktail-buffet. Or just say — in the spontaneous and lively spirit of the holiday season — "drop by between 5 and 8."

A practical and adaptable form of holiday entertaining, the cocktail party lends itself both to champagne and nibbles for a few friends and to extravagant, once-a-year bashes where the host gets to catch up with folks he rarely gets to see. And it all can be done with minimal demand on the kitchen.

The most frequently heard advice from caterers and professional party givers is to offer simple fare.

Keep drinks "neat" and unembellished; keep cocktail nibbles easy-to-eat and straightforward (which does not preclude sumptuous). Today's fare is served with style on uncluttered trays and platters, with fanciful crowning touches such as a single, colorful flower or some exotic leaves as background.

It's also imaginative and unusual.

For cocktail parties of 30 people or more, there should be six or seven different hors d'oeuvres — some hot, some cold, and with a variety of textures. Include both the substantial and the "frilly"; the rich, sumptuous bites as well as morsels that diet-conscious revelers can also enjoy.

One of the thorniest questions in cocktail party planning is "how much?" Martha Stewart, author of "Entertaining," suggests planning for up to 20 tidbits per person. If the fare is heartier, she revises the number downward. Stewart also notes from experience that the greater variety of hors d'oeuvres she offers, the more excited guests get about the food and the more they eat.

The drinks at a holiday cocktail party also deserve some thought and imagination. In addition to supplying the traditional liquors and appropriate mixers, the thoughtful host will add some unexpected treat to the bar, such as a bottle of wonderful old Scotch, or crystal bowls of the eggnog, punch and Glogg that fairly shout Merry Christmas!

Since white wine remains a popular cocktail party drink, hosts should choose the bar's white wine carefully. Ideally, it should be dry, with only a hint of fruitiness. Chardonnay is a perfect choice; fuisses and fumés are also appropriate.

Champagne is another festive way of celebrating the holidays with friends and families; iced vodka is a stylish accompaniment to any hors d'oeuvre, especially those that include caviar.

And, of course, non-alcoholic drinks should be offered, not merely as an afterthought, but as an elegant, refreshing alternative.

Holiday Timesaver: The Perfect Gift

Many big boxes under Christmas trees in recent years have held microwave ovens, to the delight of recipients. Sometimes, however, these gifts aren't used to full potential.

"Like any other gift, a microwave oven's size and features should match the needs and lifestyle of its recipient," said Anne Howard, marketing services manager for Sharp Electronics Corp.'s appliance division. A deluxe model may overwhelm a person who uses the microwave oven only to defrost foods, while a chef-on-the-run may be unsatisfied with a basic model that doesn't leave open the option to prepare entire meals.

But any microwave can be an asset to a busy Christmas cook.

"A microwave oven is a perfect timesaver during the holiday season," said Nancy Boyle, manager of product development and training for the Sharp Electronics Corp.'s appliance division. "For instance, a microwave can make cracking nuts for holiday recipes easier."

Place an 8-ounce package of unshelled walnuts, pecans, Brazil nuts, almonds or filberts and 1 cup of water in a 2-quart, microwave-safe casserole. Cover the dish with plastic wrap and microwave on high (100 percent) for 2 to 4 minutes. Let the dish stand for 1 minute and then drain. Spread the nuts on a paper towel to dry and then carefully crack the shells.

"Be careful — there still may be hot water inside the shell," Boyle said.

"While gifts from the kitchen always are welcome, many people don't have time to prepare them," Boyle said. "The microwave can cut gift-making time considerably."

To make ½ cup of citrus extract used for baking, remove the peel from one lemon or orange with a vegetable peeler or zester. Discard any white membrane. Place the peel in a 4-ounce bottle and add ½ cup vodka. Microwave on high for 30 to 45 seconds or until the bottle feels warm. Cap the bottle and let it stand at room temperature for two weeks. "Recipes for baked goods using the extract could be included with this gift," Boyle said.

Besides a quick way to prepare gifts, the microwave oven is a timesaver when preparing meals after a long day of shopping, Boyle said. "Leftovers reheat quickly, and favorite dishes like baked potatoes or steamed broccoli take only minutes. Cleanup time is minimized because food often is cooked and served in the same dish.

And, of course, microwaves are great for heating up holiday meal leftovers. The easiest way to reheat a single serving of turkey meat is on a dinner plate covered with wax paper or plastic wrap, Boyle said.

"Arrange the meat so the thickest slices are on the outside and microwave on medium (50 percent) for 1 to 3 minutes. This method saves cleanup time because the food is cooked and served on the same plate," she said.

Aside from single serving reheats, turkey or ham leftovers can be added to special casserole dishes made quickly and easily in a microwave oven. Following are recipes from the Sharp test kitchens:

QUICHE IN A CRESCENT

- 1½ cups finely cubed ham
- 1 cup finely cubed Swiss cheese
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- 1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen chopped broccoli, thawed and drained
- ½ tsp. ground nutmeg
- Pepper to taste
- 2 (8 oz.) pkgs. refrigerator crescent rolls

Preheat convection microwave oven to 375 F. Combine all ingredients except crescent rolls, mix well.

Flatten each crescent roll. Spoon 1½ tablespoons ham mixture onto crescent. Roll up, starting at wide end. Pinch edges together. Place on ungreased pizza pans. Bake at low, 12 to 14 minutes, until golden brown.

Makes 16 crescents.

Give Holidays The Flavor Of France

By Dean Carroll

Most of the world's Christmas customs have become practically universal. But in France – the nation known for its ability to celebrate just about anything in style – the holidays are honored with particularly Gallic flair.

Following are some musings from the makers of Benedictine and B&B Liqueurs to give your own festivities the flavor of France for a Christmas as rich in fine cuisine as in tradition.

Long before Princess Helene brought the first Christmas tree to Paris in 1840, the French were continuing the age-old tradition of the Yule log. Originally a Viking custom, the burning of the Yule log celebrated the triumph of light over darkness and the rebirth of the sun at the winter solstice, the darkest time of the year.

The tradition in France was to have the entire family haul in the Yule log. The youngest child then would pour a glass of wine on it while asking that God bless the family and their house.

The most famous French holiday dessert commemorates this tradition. The buche de Noel is a luscious chocolate cake rolled with cream, liqueur and nut filling and coated with chocolate icing to look like the log of a tree. Painstaking chefs even make meringue mushrooms to make the buche appear more authentic when presented.

When French children tuck in themselves to wait for the gifts Pere Noel will bring, they leave their shoes by the fireplace with a glass of water for the old fellow's refreshment. But on Christmas Eve, the French eat and drink much more than water. First, the entire family attends midnight mass. Afterward, presents are exchanged and everyone sits down to an elaborate feast featuring pates, oysters, special black-and-white sausages, salads, cheeses, charcuterie and desserts. The main dish usually is poultry: goose in Alsace, turkey in Paris and Burgundy. Some of the featured desserts might be the buche de Noel or a Christmas snowball.

On Christmas Day, the family sits down to another splendid meal, again based on poultry of some kind. One specialty is roast goose served with savory apple stuffing, sauteed sliced apples and sausages.

French New Year's Eve is, as in America, a time of revelry and merrymaking. And, typically Gallic, time for another wonderful midnight feast. Often served are special cream puff desserts.

Most Americans consider the holidays over on the first of the year. But the French have one more day of feasting – January 6, Epiphany or Twelfth Night, when the Three Kings or Magi were said to have reached Bethlehem to bring gifts to Christ. In earlier decades, Twelfth Night was an occasion for a major party. Today, it still is celebrated with a gateau des Rois, a "king's cake," which is baked with a bean or charm inside. Traditionally, the person who finds the bean or charm when eating the cake becomes "king" for the night and is blessed with luck all year.

Following is a Christmas recipe from the Benedictine Abbey to put a little French magic into your holidays celebrations.

BENEDICTINE CHESTNUT CREAM

⅓ cup sugar
3½ tbsps. cornstarch
6 lightly beaten egg yolks
3½ cups milk
⅔ cup Benedictine
1 tsp. vanilla
½ lb. chestnuts
1 (1 inch) piece vanilla bean
1 (3 oz.) pkg. ladyfingers
2½ cups heavy cream
¼ cup sugar

In saucepan, combine ⅓ cup sugar, cornstarch and egg yolks. In separate pan, scald 2 cups milk and gradually add to yolk mixture, blending with wire whisk. Cook over low heat, stirring with whisk until mixture is thickened and smooth. Do not allow to boil. Remove from heat. Blend in 2 tablespoons Benedictine and vanilla. Cover with plastic wrap placed directly on surface of cream. Cool.

Cut cross in flat side of each chestnut. Cover with water. Boil 15 minutes. Drain and cover with cold water. Shell and peel off brown skin.

Scald remaining 1½ cups milk. Add chestnuts and vanilla bean. Cook over simmering water for 30 minutes or until chestnuts are very tender. Reserve 4 for garnish. Remove vanilla bean. Puree chestnuts and milk in food processor or blender. Blend into cooked cream. Chill.

Brush cut sides of ladyfingers with remaining Benedictine. Whip heavy cream to stiff peaks with remaining ¼ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon Benedictine.

In 1½-quart straight-sided dessert dish, layer half cream, half lady-fingers and 2 cups whipped cream. Repeat. Decorate top with remaining 1 cup whipped cream and reserved chestnuts. Chill until ready to serve.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself.

You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to overpricing frequently becomes a White Elephant. It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

SERVICE TO BUYERS
Century 21

Pres. Charles Agrillo

HOW MUCH!

Setting an asking price for your home is one of the most vital steps to selling it. And, it's one of the trickiest parts of the selling process. Too little, and you lose potential return on your real estate investment. Too high a price, and you could be in worse trouble.

Put quite simply, a house that's priced too high won't sell. And it will scare away those potential buyers who are its logical market. By the time you drop the price to a more realistic level, as you'll have to, you've lost the initial impetus of a fresh-on-the-market property.

A professional real estate agent doesn't have to pluck a selling price out of thin air. Careful consideration of comparable properties that have sold recently, balanced by current mortgage rates, help set the price. An expert can set a price right on the button.

It's smart to sell your house fast at the best possible price. Smart sellers list with the experts at

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb. full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over -- from Maine to Rhode Island to New York -- but more are from eastern Massachusetts. "I GUARANTEE CAR REPAIRS FOR LIFE."

"That's a pretty strong statement, and I couldn't say it if I couldn't back it up. But my Lifetime Service Guarantee means what it says: You'll never pay twice for the same repair for as long as you own your vehicle. Here's how it works. If you ever need to have your Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, or Ford light truck fixed, you pay once, and I'll guarantee that if the covered part ever has to be fixed again, I'll fix it free. Free parts. Free labor. For as long as you own your vehicle. No matter when or where you bought it. The Lifetime Service Guarantee. It's a service commitment ffrom me to you, because I stand behind my work, and I put it in writing. Come in and ask us to see a copy of the Lifetime Service Guarantee.

We fix cars for keeps.

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit – alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts – is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department

POLICE LOG

Wednesday, Dec. 18

At 8:13 a.m., a Tanglewood ln. resident told police someone stole a $400 kerosene heater from a new Tanglewood ln. house on the lane under construction. According to the report, the incident occurred between 6 p.m., Dec. 16 and 6 p.m., Dec. 17.

At 8:56 a.m., police responded to a car accident on Main st. A Sargent st. resident pulled out of a driveway and backing into an oncoming car driven by a Cabot st. resident. No injuries were reported, police said.

The Sargent st. resident said the bright sun obstructed her view, police said.

According to the report, more than $500 of damage was done to both cars.

At 7:38 p.m., police responded to a car accident on Washington and Mt. Vernon streets. A Malden resident, driving a 1985 Mazda RX-7 tried to make a left turn from Skillings rd. onto Mt. Vernon st. when she struck a 1978 Chevrolet Malibu, driven by a Melrose resident going north on Washington st, police said. Damage to both cars was minor, according to the report.

At 9:30 p.m. a Symmes rd. resident, 17, was issued a citation for speeding and driving an unregistered car westbound on Cross st.

Police were on radar patrol in the area of Cross st. at Highlandview ave. when they clocked a 1977 Chevrolet Monte Carlo traveling 42 m.p.h., police said.

When police stopped the car on Verplast ave., the driver produced an expired resignation sticker. The car was towed from the scene.

Tuesday, Dec. 17

At 1:04 p.m., a Verplast ave. resident told police someone broke into her daughter's car and stole a $70 blue and red down jacket and ransacked the glove compartment.

She also told police someone ransacked the glove compartment of her 1982 brown Chevrolet Citation but nothing was taken.

Both cars were unlocked, police said.

At 3:12 p.m., a Nelson st. resident told police someone broke the ignition of his car, police said.

Monday, Dec. 16

At 4:53 p.m., a Cross st. resident told police youths removed bulbs from his Christmas lights on Dec. 13 and again Dec. 16.

Local Youth Dies After Hit And Run

Funeral services are at 11 a.m. today for a 14-year-old Winchester boy killed in what police describe as a drunk driving hit-and-run accident Saturday night.

Robert Marshall, 14, of 57 Salem st., was walking on Main st. near Water st. about 8:50 p.m. Saturday when he was struck by a car and dragged some 100 feet. The boy died Sunday afternoon.

A 25-year-old Winchester man, John R. Kennedy, is free on personal recognizance and faces charges of vehicular homicide, drunk driving, driving to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident. He was charged Monday in Fourth District Court in Woburn.

Funeral services begin at 11 a.m. at Immaculate Conception Church, followed by burial at Wildwood Cemetery.

The victim, described as friendly, outgoing and an avid baseball fan, was hit by a car moments after he had been talking with his parents. He had met them as he walked home with a friend.

Police reported eyewitnesses said James and Gael Marshall had just finished talking with their youngest son when he turned to cross the street again to continue home.

According to reports, the teen was dragged by the vehicle at least 100 feet after he was struck. The car then sped off.

Marshall was taken to Winchester Hospital and quickly transferred to Massachusetts General Hospital. He was pronounced dead at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

Kennedy was arrested at 10:25 p.m. Saturday. He was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, driving to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to police, Kennedy was freed on personal recognizance after his arrest Saturday night.

Young Marshall was known as friendly, outgoing and an avid baseball fan.

The student council at McCall Junior High, where he attended school, is already planning a memorial, according to school principal Evander French Jr.

"They're meeting with me this morning (Monday) to talk about what they want to do," said French yesterday. "I know they're all pretty concerned and I think they'll probably want to do something more when they get back to school."

The amiable youth was active in both the Babe Ruth All Stars team and in numerous Winchester youth athletics.

In addition to his parents, he leaves a brother, Lawrence W., and a sister, Lori J., both of whom live at home.

His obituary is on today's obituary page.

Area College Gets Donation

Middlesex Community College, which serves the Winchester area, announced that digital Equipment Corp. recently made a donation to the Software Technical Writing Program. This nationally recognized intensive 20-week program has graduated six classes since its inception in 1981.

Graduates have been placed with over 50 area high tech and business firms. Designed in cooperation with industry professionals, this program has benefited greatly from the interest and support of the high tech firms in the Middlesex service area.

In making this donation, Mark Conway, Corporate Contributions Administrator of Digital stated, "We at Digital, recognize the commitment your organization has made in your community; and we are pleased to be able to assist you in your endeavors."

Middlesex Community College President, Dr. James E. Houlihan Jr., thanked Digital for their generous donation noting that industry support insures continued efforts to develop quality training programs for business and industry.

NOVENA TO MARY, QUEEN OF ALL HEARTS

O Mary, Queen of All Hearts, Advocate of the most hopeless cases; Mother most pure, most compassionate; Mother of Divine Love, full of divine light, we confide to your care the favors which we ask of you today.

Consider our misery, our tears, our interior trials and sufferings! We know that you can help us through the merits of your Divine Son, Jesus. We promise, if our prayers are heard, to spread your glory, by making you known under the title of MARY, QUEEN OF ALL HEARTS, Queen of the Universe.

Grant, we beseech you, hear our prayers, for every day you give us so many proofs of your love and your power of intercession to heal both body and soul.

We hop, against all hope. Ask Jesus to cure us, pardon us, and grant us final perseverance.

O Mary, Queen of All Hearts, help us, we have confidence in you. (3 times).

E.P.

What I Like About Holidays

The holiday season is a special time for me because I get to spend time with my family. I like to decorate things. I also like to bake on holidays. I love unwrapping gifts I get and eating the good foods.

During The Holidays

The thing I like best about the holidays is shaking the presents to guess what's inside. When you open it, it's a surprise to see what you got. It might be what you wanted that will last for a long time and you'll never get bored of. The candy you get might be your favorite kind of candy.

What I Like Best About Christmas

I like Christmas because at midnight I go up to the attic where my parents sleep. I see Santa up on the roof. This year after I come from the attic I will sneak down where the Christmas tree is and watch Santa put the presents around the Christmas tree.

What I Like Best About Christmas

I celebrate Chinese New Year instead of Christmas. My mother, father, and relatives give me certain amounts of money in a little red pocket. I put the pocket under my pillow overnight for good luck. Then, I put the money in my bank and save up for college. That's how I celebrate Chinese New Year.

What I Like Best About Christmas

I like Christmas because my church asks Czechoslovakian people that live in Boston to have a party. We have a party when we taste each others' favorite party desserts. This year the party was on December 8. I can't wait till next year!

What I Like Best About Christmas

I like presents that Santa gives me and other children. I like Santa's reindeers coming and going. But there's one thing I don't like. It is spending all the money that I saved for college on presents.

What I Think About Winter Holidays

I like Christmas the most of all the winter holidays. Christmas is a joyful time of year. My mother keeps telling me not to think about what I will get. It is also hard to think about others but I manage. Christmas all started a long long time ago, as most of you know. It happened when Mary had to go back to Bethlehem. When Mary got there she could not fit into a hotel so she had to stay in a cave and that's where she had Jesus.

My Favorite Holiday

When Christmas comes I feel happy because I get to see all my aunts and uncles and my grandparents and my cousins. It's lots of fun because we have a big dinner and we play games, watch TV, we play Atari. I sometimes go outside and play army with my cousins. Then we go inside and open our presents and have lots of fun. After we've opened our presents, my cousins and I chase the girls and hide on them and scare them. We follow them and mostly bug them. That's why I like Christmas.

Yule Time

Mother, father, brother, sis
Under the Mistletoe - can we kiss?

Let's "boogie down" put on a song
If it's a carol, we'll sing along

Let's give our gifts, so merrily
We'll get a planter and put up the tree

We'll smother it with angels, and stars oh, so bright
We'll wrap it with candles and then hit the lights

It will stand in the dark with all of its pride
It will light up our faces and hearts deep inside.

We'll open our presents on the magic day
We'll be lost in happiness, all cares thrown away

When the tree comes down, we'll clean up the floor
The joys of Christmas have gone out the door.

Ridiculous Resolutions

The New Year's approaching,
It's on its way.
I've made some resolutions,
Which I'd like to say.

I'll clean my room
I'll leave no dust
I'll do my homework-
That's a must.

I'll feed the cat,
I'll feed the dog,
I'll stoke the fireplace with logs.

I'll read some books.
I won't watch T.V.
We'll do things together
Just you and me!

I'll stand the tree,
I'll string it with lights
I'll hang ornaments,
All through the night.

You might ask yourself why I'm doing so much.
After all, I'm only seven
The answer is simple-
I'm trying to get to heaven!

The Idea Of Christmas

I clambered down the stairs. Christmas day had finally come, the day of joy. The first thought that entered my mind was to run to the gifts. I began to look at them, and my imagination ran wild playing a guessing game. Suddenly, I stopped. This was not what Christmas was really about: gifts and presents. Christmas has a real meaning, one that was slowly starting to be concealed amidst gifts. Christmas is a time of joy, and thankfulness; to celebrate the birth of Christ and life itself. Behind the array of presents, trees, and shining lights is the true meaning of Christmas that can never be changed.

The True Meaning Of Hanukah

Hanukah is a special holiday to me because of the reason for celebrating it. It is celebrated because the Macabees were fighting for the right to practice their religion freely. They won the war, but when they returned to the temple, what they saw was horrible. It had been defiled with pigs and other things that were against the Jewish laws. They would have to rebuild the temple, but first they needed to make more oil because all they had left was a very little bit. To make the oil, they needed 8 nights' worth of oil to make the new oil by, and they didn't have that much but miraculously the oil lasted 8 nights. Every night of Hanukah we light a candle. This is a special time because even if we are all very busy, we find a few moments to spend with the family. Hanukah is a holiday of rejoicing in which we play dreidle games with the four-sided top that has on each side a Hebrew letter signifying the words "A great miracle happened there." We also eat the traditional potato latkes, and sing and dance.

Daniell Nacamuli

Chanukah Magic

Chanukah to me represents magic, a mystical ancient magic. This magic enabled the holy flame to burn eight days on one day's supply of holy oil. It also enabled that miracle to be remembered today and let it be celebrated.

When the candles of Chanukah burn, each golden drop of wax that slides down each of the candles represents a minuscule amount of that magic. Then all the wax collects at the bottom of each candle and waits for the flame to reach it and set it free into the air. All of the magic from all of the candles all over the earth spreads and envelops the earth in magic and creates more miracles.

Each time Chanukah arrives, the magic is strengthened and more miracles happen. Even if the earth is destroyed, the magic will still exist. This is true for the magic is made of pure joy created by exchanging gifts and remembering what happened long ago.

Meaning Of Christmas

Matthew Dexter, Grade 1, Muraco School

Ralph Linnell, Grade 1, Muraco School

The True Meaning Of Christmas

The true meaning of Christmas is really about the closeness in everybody's family and not the hustle bustle advertising of "Buy this! Buy that!" That's not what Christmas means.

Sure, its fun to continue the traditional Christmas by decorating the Christmas tree, hanging stockings on the hearth, and exchanging presents —though the old saying "it's better to give rather than receive" is nice, as long as we remember the true meaning of Christmas; the quiet birth of Jesus Christ in Bethlehem on that first Christmas day.

It would be fine to celebrate Christmas in the traditional way or to start a new tradition. Maybe this year instead of running non-stop until Christmas Eve, sit down for awhile with your children by the tree and maybe discuss with them the true meaning of Christmas and ask them what it means to them and maybe, just maybe, you would enjoy Christmas a little more.

Someone In Red

A faint light shone through my window. I expected to see a silhouette of a fat, round man with a sack slung over his shoulder. But the only silhouette I saw was that of swaying trees outside my window.

I was becoming depressed. It was Christmas Eve. Visions of sugar plums were supposed to be dancing in my head. I was supposed to be merry and gay, but instead I was sad. Since my father had been laid off from work last summer, there had been very little money. He told me not to be so sure that Santa Claus would come this year because of a reindeer strike or something like that. But I knew that real reason.

Well, now that you know my story, you know why I would be depressed. I was beginning to lose all hope on Santa until...

When I first heard it, I thought maybe someone left a window open and the wind blew something over. But then I began to wonder. I thought "I closed all the windows, didn't I?" I know curiosity killed the cat but I didn't care. I quickly shd into my robe and slippers and crept downstairs. Before I could even reach the bottom of the stairs something caught my eye. It was standing next to my Christmas tree. Something red, something fat and round in red, or maybe, just maybe, it was not a something but a someone.

From that Christmas on, I never lost hope in that someone in red.

Holiday Times

When the winter holidays come, our house goes wild. We are up to unheard of hours putting up ornaments and wreaths. I love seeing the Christmas trees in people's windows and other decorations. I like to see my family, especially my Uncle Hockey. He lives in Vermont on a farm. Some of the presents I get are pretty weird but I like them.

Christmas Is Sharing

There is only one word that describes Christmas, that's sharing. Christmas is a time to share. It's a time to share love, friendship and thoughtfulness.

My idea of Christmas is a time to spend time with the family, have fun, go home, wake up at five in the morning and open my gifts, go to church then wait for next year.

But now I know what Christmas is really about. It's about Christ's birthday. See, when Jesus was born, he was born in a manger in a stable in a desert. That's why we go to church on Christmas. When Jesus was born, he was given gifts by a drummer boy and the three kings and the three shepherds. That's why we give gifts.

Capping The Show With A Silent Tableau

By TERRY MAROTTA

As Christmas approaches, I look to the children in my life for inspiration: it is they who know better than anyone how to conjure up a proper seasonal feeling.

I knew myself once, a long time ago, when I was a little girl. My older sister and I marked Christmas in those days with a pageant which we worked on for hours up on the third floor, fashioning costumes, mapping our choreography, penning dialogue. And we capped the show each year with a silent tableau of the Nativity.

We took two big old rocking chairs and overturned them to form our stable. We pulled them together, so their high backs touched, to create its roof. Then we crawled in under it and became the Holy Family.

I begged each year for a chance to be Mary.

"Of course you can't be Mary," my sister would explain in brisk dismissal. "Everyone knows that Mary's color is blue; my eyes are blue. Your eyes are brown. You have to be Joseph."

So Joseph I was , in my grandfather's old brown bathrobe. I stood holding my shepherd's crook and tried to look as patient and awestruck and slightly fuddled as I imagined that nice man himself to have looked on the night of the great event

My sister was Mary, with her eyes and blond hair. She gazed prettily at our Christ child, a battered Tiny Tears doll much prized for its ability, once fed a bit of water, to leak from every opening but the appropriate ones.

We loved that doll, though, and looked somberly down at it with every nuance of seriousness and adoration we could crowd onto our small faces - my sister in her realm of heavenly blue, I in mine of earthy brown, and the baby between us, connecting the two. We nearly knew, for a minute there, what it meant for Time to touch Eternity, I think. We almost understood, in the tenderness of our young souls, what the miracle was really about.

And now, these many years later, I see my children at this season almost understanding too.

Oh, the baby doesn't understand much of course; he's only a year-and-a-half. But he does admire a certain picture of a woodland manger scene we have, stuck with magnets to our refrigerator.

He takes it off and yells, "Bunnies!" "Bordies" "Jeeesus BABY," and covers them all with loud wet smacking kisses. Who is to say he doesn't understand what the excitement might have been about on that dark night so long ago?

Our oldest child surely understands. She grapples daily at this season with the mystery of Santa Claus: she's one of a dwindling few in her fourth grade class who still believe in him. The others deride her. But she ignores them, and maintains a dignified silence on the subject. "It's like religion," she told me the other day, perched on the kitchen counter. "If you believe in it, then for you it's true. Those kids can't take Santa away from me."

She's right too: a faith like hers is not susceptible to mob rule.

But the child at this season who most vividly conveyed to me the hovering proximity of the divine in our lives was neither the joy-brimming baby nor his philosopher-sister, but the one in between them. Celetial illuminations have always shimmered frequently before her new eyes.

It was bedtime. She was inside the little tent she has rigged up over her mattress, and, as usual, she was talking to herself.

Her big sister, laboring away at word-problems in her own bed, asked who she was talking to this time.

"God," she said. "I'm telling him jokes."

"And does God listen to them?," I wanted to know.

"Mummy! Of course! He always listens!"

"But how do you know He listens to the jokes?," her sister then pressed her.

"Because I hear Him laughing," she told us both graverly.

We looked at each other then, this aging ex-Joseph, this Santa-believing fourth grader.

And we didn't doubt it for a minute.

Merry Christmas, everybody.

Holiday Hosts Beware

By RICHARD MANUGIAN

Now that they're legally responsible for the potential actions of intoxicated guests, hosts and hostesses of private parties have to wonder what they can do to ensure safe holiday get-togethers.

"For many people, alcohol becomes the party," Felice Llano says. "A good host has to make sure that there is more to it than that."

Llano, the director of the Waltham Weston Recovery Center, which serves Watertown, Newton and Belmont residents, recommends a number of things party givers can do to help prevent holiday mishaps to their guests:

- Be sure to provide food in order to slow down alcohol absorption, and because many guests may have rushed from one location to another and may not have had a chance to eat.
- Provide soft drinks and other non-alcoholic beverages for those who do not drink.
- Do not serve double drinks, because guests may not be aware it is a double and also because it speeds intoxication.
- When a guest's glass is empty, do not rush to refill it -- wait until the guest requests a refill.
- Plan a cocktail hour that doesn't continue for hours on end.
- Provide high-protein and non-salty foods, like cheese or egg salad canapes, which will absorb alcohol. Salty foods, like pretzels or peanuts or potato chips, make people drink more quickly and in greater quantities than they normally would.
- Serve coffee or some other non-alcoholic beverage the last hour of the party. These drinks aren't intended to sober the guests — only time will do that, Llano says — but will give guests something to drink other than alcohol prior to getting behind the wheel of a car.

"If someone drinks too much, you are responsible," Llano says.

"If someone drinks too much, you are responsible," Llano says. "That may mean offering a ride, or calling a cab, or talking another guest into giving someone a ride and letting them leave their car until the next day."

Contrary to popular belief, cold showers and coffee will not sober a drunk, Llano warns, because the human body requires an average of an hour to process a single drink.

"That only makes a more active drunk," she says.

Llano advises guests not to drink on empty stomachs and to carry cash for taxis in the event they wind up too intoxicated to drive.

A party goer can also set up a buddy system with another guest, Llano says, so that the transportation is shared and he or she will not have to drive after a party of extended drinking.

Just as important, Llano says, for party givers should realize that not all guests want to drink alcohol.

"I've been at parties where there are recovering [alcoholics] but no non-alcoholic drinks offered or visable," Llano says. "We try to impress upon people to offer an option."

Non-drinkers aren't necessarily alcoholics, Llano says, but may also be drinkers who have found they don't know when to stop and are better off not drinking to begin with.

"It's hard for people trying to change their behavior when a host or hostess really pushes a drink," Llano says. "We have to be sensitive to that."

Non-alcoholic Party Drink Substitutes

Cardinal Punch

- 1 quart cranberry juice
- 1 quart orange juice
- 2 lemons squeezed or 2 oz. lemon juice
- 4 quarts ginger ale
- Mint sprigs

Combine juices with ice an chill. Pour into punch bowl over block of ice and add ginger ale. Garnish glasses with mint sprigs. You may wish to add orange sherbet scoops. Serves 44.

Strawberry Crush

- 1package frozen strawberries
- 1 small can frozen lemonade concentrate
- 1 medium can crushed pineapple
- 3 quarts ginger ale
- Ice ring
- Mint leaves
- Sliced fresh strawberries

Whirl the frozen strawberries, lemonade concentrate and pineapple in a blender until smooth. Pour into a large punch bowl and add ginger ale. Stir into mix thoroughly. Add the ice ring and garnish with mint leaves and sliced strawberries. Makes 20-25 four-ounce servings.

Mock Pink Champagne

- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1 six-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate
- 1 six-ounce can frozen grapefruit juice concentrate
- 1 28-ounce bottle chilled ginger ale

Early in the day, mix sugar with water in saucepan and boil five minutes. Cool, add frozen juice concentrates. Refrigerate. At serving time, add ginger ale and grenadine syrup. Stir lightly.

Resident Urges Rememberance Of History

TO THE EDITOR:

Consistent with the reporting of the other newspapers The Winchester Star has neglected to make any acknowledgement of the anniversary of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941 which propelled the United States into World War II.

The anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima received considerable coverage in the Boston newspapers along with implied criticism of the United States. For the benefit of those who were not around at the time of the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki I hasten to add that these bombings abruptly ended the War and saved countless lives both American and Japanese.

We should not forget that had it not been for the perfidious attack at Pearl Harbor there would probably never have been an Hiroshima.

Sincerely,
Harry Baldwin

Reader Says Seniors May Face Worse

TO THE EDITOR:

If your senior readers have been watching the price of necessities inching up this past year, let them not relax their apprehensions because a cost of living adjustment will be made in their social security checks as of January 1.

Looking into the crystal ball, this reader prognosticates a flurry of action in the grocery field, as tickets are once more revised upward to take place as soon as Uncle Sam's checks are delivered.

Supporters Thanked

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of all of the members of the Winchester High School Marching Band, which has just completed its Fall marching season, we are writing to thank the many people in the community who supported the band in its recent round of fundraising.

The band and the Friends of the High School Music Department conducted the annual cheese and sausage sale before Thanksgiving and raffled a new car at the Thanksgiving football game.

All of this helped to kick off the band's fundraising for its trip to the Gator Bowl in December, 1986, one year from now.

The nearly 100 students in the band, plus the flag and rifle corps, and the tumblettes, bring the band to a full size of over 130, under the direction of Priscilla Miller.

Now that the Fall marching season is over and we no longer have to practice at 6:30 a.m. three mornings each week and spend all day Saturday practicing and performing, we all feel ready for a rest.

However, that is not the case.

The concert band plans winter and spring concerts on Jan. 30 and May 29.

And, as part of our further Gator Bowl fundraising, the band plans to present a new and very special Pops Night on May 3.

We hope you will plan to attend.

However we could not end the marching season without expressing the appreciation of all the students involved for the very generous support which the people of Winchester continue to give to the band. Thank you very much.

The officers of the band,
Kathy Mortensen, President
Scott Racek, Vice President
Deborah Skahan, Secretary
Matt Mallio, Equipment Manager

United Way Says Thanks For Support

TO THE EDITOR:

Thanks to the support of thousands of area residents and the local media, the United Way of Massachusetts Bay has completed the most successful fundraising drive in our 50-year history. We raised a record $39,010,240 -- an 11 percent increase over last year -- making this the fourth year in a row that we have topped our goal.

The United Way's West Region (19 communities west of Boston) also topped its area goal, raising $1,369,488 to support many United Way agencies serving local residents.

In spite of a strong local economy, the need for food and shelter, day care, youth and elderly services, drug and alcohol abuse programs, and other vital services is greater than ever. This coming year, more than one million people in eastern Massachusetts -- one out of every three -- will be helped by 192 United Way agencies. These people include our families, our friends, our neighbors, and ourselves.

Through this successful campaign, we have given hope not only to the needy, but to our entire community. Our appreciation goes out to all contributors and volunteers who this year helped us find a way.

Thanks to you, it does work for all of us.

Sincerely,
Thomas C. Colbert
United Way West Division Chairman

Care Thanks Local Donors

TO THE EDITOR:

This year was a year of disasters. Tragic reports from famine-stricken Africa seemed to appear daily in newspapers. And headlines alerted us to the tidal wave in Bangladesh, the earthquake in Mexico and the volcano eruption in Colombia.

I would like to thank all New Englanders who responded to these life-threatening emergencies with contributions to CARE's overseas programs. And i would like to express CARE's sincere appreciation to the media for reporting these events which spark the hand of generosity from so many readers.

Through the concern and support of individuals and groups, CARE was able to give meaningful assistance to people during these emergencies, as well as to millions of people in need in over 35 countries around the world.

CARE not only provides food and other relief during a crisis, but follows up with long-term self-help projects that help some of the poorest people on earth break the grip of poverty. Some of these projects include reforestation, income-generation and primary health care.

In 1986, CARE will be celebrating its 40th anniversary with great hope for the future for all people in all lands. Thank you for making us believe in the power of the will to help others.

SENIOR SCENE

Jenks Center Joins Communities

When the Jenks Senior Center announced in late November plans to enlarge its building, it was following the lead of several other nearby communities. The past year has seen the expansion of facilities needed to provide services to an increasing number of seniors.

Lexington's senior citizens center requiring additional space moved in September from a church building to a school building on Mass. Avenue. The larger quarters have allowed for broadening its activities.

For several years, the Woburn seniors program operated from two sites. On December 1 the former veterans Memorial School became the new home for over 6,000 seniors.

Arlington has functioned in a small area of the Maple Street school building. The allotted space has restricted service as the older population increased. The building is currently being remodeled and a vastly enlarged space location is being made available shortly for seniors.

When the Jenks Center opened in April 1978 it quickly gained recognition as a pioneer in facilities dedicated to serving seniors. Population changes and greater concern for senior needs now facing Winchester have led to the current fund raising drive.

Unlike many other communities, the reliance will be on private funds as opposed to governmental assistance. Private funds also have financed the operational costs of the building since construction.

All seniors are now being canvassed before broadening the appeal to other sectors of the town. The Fundraising Committee reports that the favorable response from seniors indicates their appreciation of the many services offered at the Jenks Center.

Jenks Offers Referral Aid

As 1985 winds down, the Jenks Center informational and referral services continue at an increasing rate. By years end over 8,000 telephone calls will have been handled this year.

To many of the town's seniors the information desk is the starting point for advice when a home or personal problem arises. Calls requesting transportation, loan of wheelchairs and walkers, advice on nursing home admittance, and the name of an appropriate social service organization comprise the bulk of the calls.

The 8,000 yearly telephone calls are initially handled by over 20 volunteers under the direction of Louise Kelly, chairwoman of the informational and referral committee.

Many seniors are no longer able to visit the Jenks Center and it is through the senior service line that they are being served. Except for weekends and holidays, the line is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Nursing Home Sponsors Meet On Alzheimers

Aberjona Nursing Home in Winchester hosted a workshop early this month for families of Alzheimer's Disease patients titled "Working Together."

The workshop attracted 100 participants who heard a keynote address by Dr. Katherine Hesse, coordinator of geriatric services at Mt. Auburn Hospital. Dr. Hesse described the care needs of Alzheimer's Disease victims and their families at different stages of the disease.

Ten mini-workshops, led by social workers, doctors and nurses met to discuss the problems they have encountered in providing care for Alzheimer's patients.

A panel also addressed the issues of improving community links. Paul McCarthy is the director of "Community Family"; a specialized Alzheimer's day care program. He discussed the program and highlighted legislative and funding concerns.

Robert Salter, administrator of Aberjona Nursing Home, addressed the nursing home demographics and some future concerns as the population ages at an accelerating rate.

Judith Overdorf, home care director of Minuteman Home Care Corp., spoke to the group about the resources available to help families who are caring for patients in the home setting.

Barbara Murphy, who cares for her mother, an Alzheimer's Disease victim, at home, and was able to give us her personal view of the needs a family member may have.

Ed Alessi of LIFE (Living is for the Elderly) and the Bedford Veterans Hospital, moderated the panel and chaired the workshop committee.

There were 24 sponsoring agencies. Each participant received a resource guide to services especially for Alzheimer's Disease patients. Additional guides are available for $3 by calling Robert Salter or Sally Nichols at 729-9370 or they may be ordered by mail at Box 490, Winchester.

The event concluded with a luncheon served by the Aberjona Nursing Home staff.

Council Seeks Parent Aides

The Mystic Valley Parent Aide Program, which serves Winchester, volunteers to act as friends and advocates to some of the many parents in our community who are under constant stress.

Residents who have even a few hours a week to visit are asked to share ideas, and support for parents who need someone to listen, understand and "be there."

An orientation meeting for those interested in participating as parent aides is being scheduled for the week of January 13. For further information, please call Mary Schuh at 935-6495.

Middlesex Plans Spring Programs

Middlesex Community College, Division of Continuing Education/Community Services announces that beginning Monday, Jan. 6, people may register in person for spring 1986 programs. Building 5, North Campus, Springs Road, Bedford will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays for registration. In addition, mail-in registrations will be accepted through Friday, January 24 for Continuing Education courses.

More than 600 credit and non-credit courses, seminars and workshops are being offered days, evenings and Saturdays this spring at the instruction centers. Most continuing education courses recieve three credits which can be applied to various degree or certificate programs.

Community services career and personal development courses, small business seminars and leisure living workshops begin throughout the semester.

For additional information, a catalog and registration forms or directions to building 5, north campus, call Middlesex Community College, Continuing Education/Community Services at 275-8910, ext. 240.

Service Offer Holiday Food Suggestions

Holiday traditions and personal memories of the holidays are often associated with food according to Nancy C. Stutzman, Extension Home Economist, with the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Many of us feel obligated to continue family food traditions with the same enthusiasm as grandmother, even though our health sense suggests that we cut down on quantity and reduce the amount of sugar, fat and salt in our foods. The challenge is to keep the holiday traditions and memories, while respecting current health concerns.

As the festive season approaches we can look at our family eating customs and decide what to keep, and what to leave behind. A new holiday tradition can begin at any time!

One way might be to use traditional holiday foods as holiday decorations, for entertaining or for gifts. For example, instead of baking dozens of cookies with children, bake cookie dough ornaments.

We should not let food come before the main focus of holiday entertaining. Too much food, and time spent on food preparation, can detract from the real pleasure of the holidays. The best holiday activities and traditions are those we do with family and friends. Cutting down on food consumption during the holiday is better than dieting post-holiday.

Sachems Open Against Belmont

By MIKE McKNIGHT

The Winchester Sachems basketball team has started there season off with a bang. The Sachems have had straight wins over two of their league rivals, the Belmont Marauders, and the Wakefield Warriors.

The Sachems went down to the wire against Belmont on December 17 but prevailed 65 to 63. This win by Winchester could not have happened without the offensive explosion of senior Hank Lynch. Lynch scored a career high of 28 points and did not miss a single foul shot.

Winchester coach Dave Smith said about Lynch "We needed every point he made...every shot was key."

On December 20 the Sachems went toe to toe with one of the best defensive teams in the league (the Wakefield Warriors) and abuse them in Wakefield. This is not the same 13-12 team of last year by any measurement.

"We are very happy to break open against a good defensive team," said coach Smith. And break open is just what they did, in a 65 to 42 romp of the Warriors.

"At the end of the first quarter, we were tied 14-14. Then we switched to total man-to-man," said coach Dave Smith.

In the next two quarters of play, Winchester, after a two point deficit in the first quarter held a shakey two to four point lead the rest of the game. Other players of note were David DellaGrotte who gained 12 points, Peter Mulvaney with a great defensive effort, and Steven Murray whose clutch defensive play in the last 4 seconds of the game saved it from a possible defeating overtime.

"Steven Murray is the smartest defensive player we've got," said Coach Smith. The high scorers for the Belmont Mauarders were John Cahill and Steven Pollard with 19 and 15 points respectively.

the Sachems outscored Wakefield by 16 points — mainly with the help of Hank Lynch — who sunk 16 points and junior Chris Verhaegen, who gained 24 points on the night.

Said Dave Smith "Verhaegen has the speed and agility. Now he needs the experience."

Winchester's next game was scheduled to be hosted by Melrose on Monday, Dec. 23.

It should be a good game of basketball. Said Coach Dave Smith, "Melrose embarrassed us in Winchester last year and we feel like we have something to prove."

Let's hope Winchester's hoopsters try to make it three in a row on the road.

Winton Club Plans 'Celebrate'

Just when everyone thought the celebrations would end on New Year's Eve and a long, dreary winter loomed ahead, Winton Club kicks off "Celebrate," its 65th annual musical revue to benefit Winchester Hospital.

Auditions for the show will be held on Monday, Jan. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Winchester Town Hall auditorium.

Everyone beyond high school age who is interested in singing or dancing in this community-spirited production is encouraged to audition on Jan. 6. Rehearsals will begin immediately and continue for three weeks until the show opens on Jan. 27.

"Celebrate" is the inspiration of Cabaret Chairman Maryalyce Norris, who feels that 1986 brings many reasons to celebrate, among them the 75th anniversary of Winton Club's service to Winchester Hospital.

Founded in 1911 as a sewing group to supply linens for the original Cottage Hospital, the club has expanded its efforts over the years to include operating a coffee shop and a gift shop at the hospital and running a gift cart which visits patients' rooms.

In 1979, the club voted to discontinue the sewing aspect of its activities and concentrate instead on raising money and giving volunteer service to the hospital.

Winton Club's annual Cabaret takes a full year to prepare and nets about $20,000 for the hospital. This figure represents about one-third of the club's annual gifts to the hospital, which last year totalled $65,225.

The 1986 show will be professionally directed and choreographed by Christopher Brown of California. Assisting him will be musical director Edward Madden. Both men have lent their talents to previous Cabarets and their return this year foretells an enjoyable experience for cast members and a lively and entertaining show.

"Celebrate" will be presented for six nights, from Monday, Jan. 27 through Saturday, Feb. 1. Tickets will go on sale Jan. 6.

CLUB NOTES

Winton Club Gets Ready For Cabaret

The Winchester Town Hall auditorium is once again being readied for its annual role as home for the Winton Club cabaret.

On Monday, January 6 at 7 p.m., the hall will be ablaze with lights, music, excited chatter and the sound of dancing feet, as previous performers and newcomers will try out for Winton Club's 1986 musical revue, entitled "Celebrate".

Cabaret Chairman Maryalyce Norris, creator of "Celebrate", stresses that tryouts needn't have prior performing experience to try out. Show director is Christopher Brown and accompaniment will be by Edward Madden, musical director.

The show will feature songs and dances from Broadway shows including "Camelot" and "Pajama Game" and many Cole Porter songs. A sampling of the 700 costumes to be used in the show, created by Demetrius, an associate of Chris Brown, will be on display on talent night.

Any adult from the local area may audition. Dancers are requested to wear leotards and medium heels; soloists should bring their own sheet music.

Performances, extended to six nights this year, are Monday, Jan. 27 through Saturday, Feb. 1. All proceeds from the show benefit Winchester Hospital.

Studio Guild Plans Exhibit

The Studio Guild will exhibit paintings and drawings by its members at the Winchester Art Assn. Gallery. The opening reception will be held at the Gallery, 585A Main st., on Sunday, Jan. 5, from 4 to 6 p.m. The Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 12 to 4 p.m. beginning Jan. 5 through Jan. 23.

The Studio Guild is a group of local artists, including beginners, who meet weekly at the Church of Epiphany on Church st., guided by Rhoda Rosenberg, a Boston print maker.

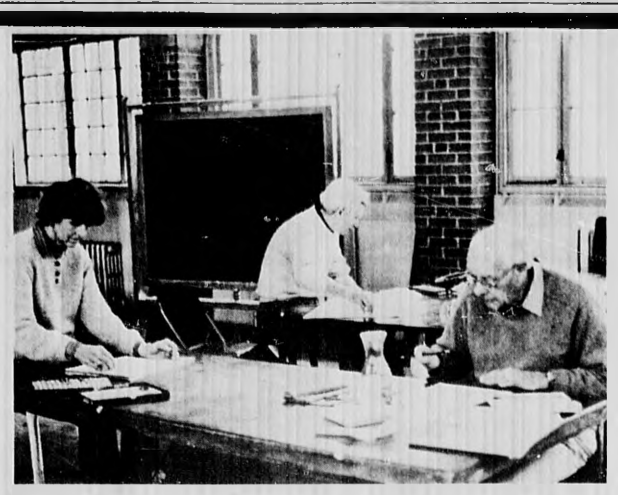
Maryalyce Norris, 1986 Winton Club Cabaret Chairman.



Studio Guild members Ruth Kenerson, president, Bob Gallant center and Ben Marshal prepare for an upcoming exhibit. The Studio Guild meets at the Church of the Epiphany.

ABC House Drive Is Jan. 11

The holiday season is a popular time for parties and family gatherings and those involved with A B C hope that everyone will save their returnable bottles and cans for the next bottle drive Saturday, January 11.

As usual, the collection will take place at the Sons of Italy parking lot on Swanton st., adjacent to the town transfer station. The collection will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Those who cannot drop their bottles and cans off should contact Kathy Bodie, chairman of the event (5 Dix terr.), Donna Down (4 Atherton rd.), or Sandy Thompson (48 Samoset rd.)

The bottle drive is one of several events held to raise funds for A Better Chance in Winchester, a program designed to give minority students a challenging high school education so that they can go on to college and careers.

Fortnightly Carol Sing Is Dec. 24

The Fortnightly — Winchester — is continuing its 62nd musical holiday tradition of caroling for the town on Christmas. This year will be the 62nd year that the group has filled the streets of Winchester with music. Christmas carols will be sung on Winchester Common on Dec. 24 from 7 to 7:30 p.m. The carolers will be accompanied by the Winchester High School Band under the direction of Priscilla Miller.

All are invited to join in this Christmas celebration.

School Lists Honor Roll Corrections

Larocco Elected To Panel

Vincent E. Larocco, principal of Winchester High School, was recently elected to the Commission on Public Schools of the New England Assn. of Schools and Colleges at the Assn.'s centennial celebration meeting held in Boston.

The New England Assn., founded in 1885, is recognized by the US Department of Education as a reliable agency to award accreditation to schools in New England. The Commission on Public Schools, composed of 26 members, establishes accreditation policies for public middle level and high schools in the six-state region.

Larocco has chaired many evaluation teams for the commission. His professional affiliations include the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals and the Massachusetts Assn. of Secondary School Principals. As a 15-year member of the Middlesex League Principals Assn., he served two years as president and two years as secretary-treasurer. His recent election to the Commission is for a three-year term through 1988.

St. Eulalia's Begins Rehearsal

St. Eulalia's parish in Winchester will begin rehearsals on Jan. 2, 7:30 p.m., Manion Hall, for its March show featuring the music and songs of Irving Berlin.

The show is scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings March 7 and 8 and Sunday afternoon March 9.

Jayne Tafia watches State Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh endorse the Visiting Nurse Community Health Free Care Club.

Visiting Nurses Support Free Care

Winchester's State Representative Sherman Saltmarsh Jr. is helping launch the "VNCH Free Care—1000 Club" of Visiting Nurse and Community Health, Inc., a non-profit home health care organization which has served Winchester for 86 years.

The visiting nurses are committed to the concept of free care for needy patients. Free Care fundraising is more necessary now than ever before, according to Jayne Tapia, VNA executive director, who says that today Medicare is cutting off clients earlier.

"We are seeing a lot of patients who wouldn't ordinarily be in need of free and reduced fee care who do today," she said. "We have to raise more money to help the elderly and other sick patients whose resources have been cut."

Winchester residents can join in the "VNCH Free Care—1000 Club" by calling the agency at 643-6090 for a membership application. Another way to help FREE CARE in the Winchester Community is to mail a tax-deductible check to Free Care Fund, Visiting Nurse and Community Health Inc., 87 Pleasant st., Arlington 02174.

The spirit of Christmas...

The spirit of Christmas is as elusive as the note of a Christmas carol, carried on the wind.

The spirit of Christmas is a hard thing to define. You cannot touch it or see it, but you know when it is there. It may be hard to recognize with a Santa on every corner and long lines of people in too big a hurry. But remember that each and all of those other shoppers are using their Christmas spirits to make their own family and friends happy. So when you're in a crowd in a hurry remember that the spirit of Christmas is there.

We wish you a Merry Christmas!
Although the thought is as ancient as the celebration, it's wished sincerely to each and every one of you from all of us.

Alice Morse

Alice (Miller) (Dean) Morse, 90, of Winchester, formerly of Gloucester, and Lemon Grove, CA, died Wednesday, Dec. 18 at the Winchester Nursing Home.

Born in Stoneham on May 5, 1895, she graduated from Cushing Academy in 1913 and attended Wellesley College and Radcliffe College.

Along with her husband, Edmund Morse, she was a sponsor of the Morse School in Tecate, Mexico.

Surviving her is two daughters, Celena D. Bradlee of Winchester and Nancy D. Kingman of Acton; two sons, Frederic S. Dean of Los Angeles, and William M. Dean of Center Harbor, NH; 13 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren.

Interment will be in New Cemetery in Ashburnham, MA, at a later date.

Gifts in her memory may be made to the charity of one's choice. Arrangements by the Joseph Dee & Son Funeral Home, Concord.

Viola Farnsworth

Viola May (Webber) Farnsworth, 87, died Dec. 17 at Winchester Hospital after a brief illness.

She was the widow of the late Col. Ora Lee Farnsworth.

Born in Salem, Ma., she lived in Winchester more than 50 years and was a member of the First Congregational Church in Winchester.

Among her survivors are her son, Donald H. Warren of Ipswich; two stepsons, Norman Farnsworth and Roy Farnsworth; and three grandchildren, Scott Warren, Cynda Warren and Martha Warren.

A memorial service will be held at a later date and burial will be at the family lot at Oak Grove Cemetery in Medford.

Olga Everson

Olga M. Everson, 99, of Medford and formerly of Winchester, died Dec. 1 at Ann Mark Nursing Home in Revere after a long illness.

Born in Winchester, she was a lifelong town resident, before moving to Revere.

She was an insurance clerk and a membr of the First Congregational Church of Winchester.

Among her survivors are her brother, Joseph Everson of Winchester; her niece, Doris Allen of Medford; three grand-nephews and five great-grandnieces and great-grandnephews.

Funeral services were held Dec. 4 at Ripley Chapel at the First Congregational Church, officiated by the Rev. Walter B. Davis.

Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery in Winchester.

Robert J. Marshall

A funeral mass will be held at 11 a.m. today for Robert J. Marshall, 14, who died Sunday, Dec. 22 following an accident on Saturday night.

Born in Woburn, he was the son of James E. and Gael E. (Eaton) Marshall of Salem st.

He died at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

He lived in Winchester most of his life and was a student at McCall Junior High.

Active in Winchester youth sports, he was a member of the Babe Ruth All Star team and several other school and local activities.

Besides his parents, among his survivors are his brother, Lawrence W. and his sister, Lori J., both of Winchester; his maternal grandmother, Mary E. Eaton of Nashua, N.H., and his paternal grandmother, Regina Marshall of Millport, N.Y.

The funeral mass will be at 11 a.m. today at the Immaculate Conception Church, Washington st. Burial will be at Wildwood Cemetery.

Arrangements are by Lane Funeral Home, 766 Main st.

EPA Orders Fencing Of Site

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

The Wildwood Conservation Commission of Lynnfield faces fines up to $5,000 a day if Wells G & H, a hazardous waste site in Woburn, is not fenced in by Dec. 31.

The site is near the Aberjona River, which flows directly through Winchester.

The Environmental Protection Agency alerted the commission Dec. 16 indicating the threat to the public presented by the 15-acre site.

Wells G & H is one of two sites in Woburn eligible for federal cleanup funds because it is considered a long term threat to public health.

Meanwhile, Dominic Serratore, director of the Winchester Department of Public Works said, "The contaminated site shouldn't have an impact on our drinking water, because we don't use well water."

Winchester gets its drinking water from the Metropolitan District Commission and the reservoirs which are substantially full, Serratore said.

However, he said the waste site may eventually affect Leonard Beach, off Cross st. in Winchester.

Serratore said the beach is adjacent to the Aberjona River, which passes by the Woburn sites then flows through Winchester.

According to Serratore, the water is sampled and tested at the beach annually. The next test is scheduled for April before the summer season begins.

"I don't see any direct hazard to Winchester," Serratore said.

In a recent release, EPA Regional Administrator Michael R. Deland said, "The Wildwood property needs to be fenced and posted to prevent people from exposure to contaminants in the soil and in barrels and debris at the site."

"The site is not secured now; people on motorcycles and on foot have been seen at the site," he said.

The Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering closed the wells in 1979 because of high levels of the contaminants trichloroethylene, 1,2-trans-dichloroethylene, 1,1,1-trichloroethane, DDT, and chlordane and trichloroethylene.

The site is located above part of an aquifer which supplied water to Wells G & H. The Wells G & H Superfund site consists of two municipal water supply wells that drew water from the Aberjona River Aquifer and supplied the City of Woburn.

Currently the site is in the first phase of testing, mandatory before initiating clean-up procedures.

The remedial investigating phase began in Nov. of 1984 and is still going on.

Upon completion of this phase, the second step, determination of feasibility will begin.

Under the comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act, "Superfund", EPA may require such actions as the fencing and posting when wastes may present an imminent and substantial hazard to public health or the environment.

Saltmarsh Lauds Workers Comp Law

Newly signed legislation reforming and modernizing the Commonwealth's 75-year-old Workers Compensation program was described today by Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh as "a common sense victory for disabled workers."

Saltmarsh said the new statute "will speed the payment of just claims; bring out-of-date benefits up to date; and help injured workers retrain for reentry into the job market."

The measure also contains "disincentives" to the excessive litigation which often tied up claims for years, and provides for streamlined administrative handling of disability claims and arbitration procedures.

"Workmens Compensation reform was at the top of my personal agenda," Saltmarsh said. "And with the help of House Speaker George Keverian, Chairman Kenneth Lemanski of the Joint Committee on Commerce and Labor, and the members of the Joint Committee on Commerce and Labor, it was made a priority matter for the entire House. Labor Committee, it was made a priority matter for the entire House.

"What we finally arrived at was a true piece of compromise legislation in the very best sense," commented Saltmarsh. "The new law represents the very best thinking of both labor and business who cooperated closely in the process."

"I believe all sides can be proud of this new Workers Compensation Act," concluded Whip. "It is based on the concept of fairness and on the dignity and human worth of the working man and working woman."

LIBRARY NEWS

In observance of New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, the Winchester Public Library will close at 5:30 p.m. on Dec. 31 and will be closed all day on Jan. 1. The library will reopen at 10 a.m., Thursday, Jan. 2.

Eight videocassettes have been added to the Winchester Public Library's circulating collection. They are: Beverly Hills Cop, Chinatown, 48 Hours, Harold and Maude, National Velvet, Swiss Family Robinson, A Tale of Two Cities, and Trading Places

Use of the video collection is free to Winchester residents 18 or older. A deposit in the form of a $10 check is required to borrow videocassettes. One videocassette may be borrowed at a time, and the loan period is three days.

January is movie month at the library as the Winchester Junior Library presents a "Preschool Film Festival" for children from 3 to 5 years of age. The films will be shown on four consecutive Thursdays, starting on Jan. 9. Two sessions will be offered each week, one from 10:30 to 11:15, and the other from 1:30 to 2:15

Each session will feature three short films.

On Jan. 9, "Doctor DeSoto," "Cannonball," and "Leopold the See-Through Crumb Picker" will be featured.

The Jan. 16 selections will include "Winnie the Pooh and a Day for Eeyore," "Dragon Castle," and "The Wizard."

"The Little Engine That Could," "Little Sunshade Umbrella," and "Patrick" will be screened on Jan. 23.

The series will conclude on Jan. 30 with the showing of "Grandfather's Mitten," "Donald's Nephews," and "Swimmy."

The "Preschool Film Festival" is open to all children between three and five years of age. These are "drop-in" programs; no registration is required.

GUIDELINES FOR HOUSEHUNTERS

Finding the perfect house for your family is just the first step toward moving you into a new home. The second is negotiating the sales agreement with the sellers — both the price and the terms. To find out if the asking price is in line with the neighborhood, you can ask the realtor to provide you with "comparables" — selling prices for similar homes located nearby. Your agent can also tell you how these houses may differ from the one you're considering buying. Use this information to help decide whether a particular property is a good value. If the price seems too high, perhaps the sellers are willing to negotiate. They may lower the price, agree to provide owner financing, or pay some of the closing costs. Your agent can't tell you what to offer or what the sellers will accept — the sellers probably won't know what they'll accept until they are presented with a written offer — but the information provided can help you decide how much you want to pay.

The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors' agents are trained to guide you through every step of the home buying and selling process. Call us at 729-7000, or stop by our office at 33 Thompson Street. Our professionals are available to serve any of your real estate needs

Merry Christmas
People caring for people.

As nursing homes in Winchester, we are making a major contribution to our society. We are people dedicated to caring for people.

We are a care center that provides Residential Care, Restorative Care, Social and Emotional Support and Nursing Care. We are persons striving to protect the Rights, Pride, Dignity and Security of all elderly under our care.

Our nursing homes provide the support needed to retain and restore patient independence and self-esteem, as well as physical care geared toward recuperation. Remotivation, rehabilitation and skilled nursing are the most important means of attaining this goal. It is important for these elderly people to not only be physically healthy, but socially and emotionally healthy as well. Our nursing homes are comprised of a special group of people who love the elderly and want to work with them to keep them happy. We are people caring for people.

What To See: Camel Country
What's On The Boards: Magic And Mirth

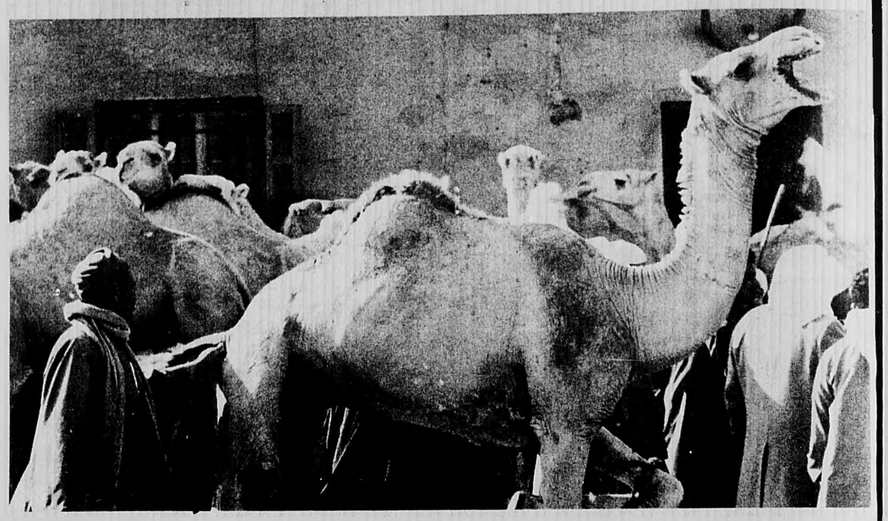
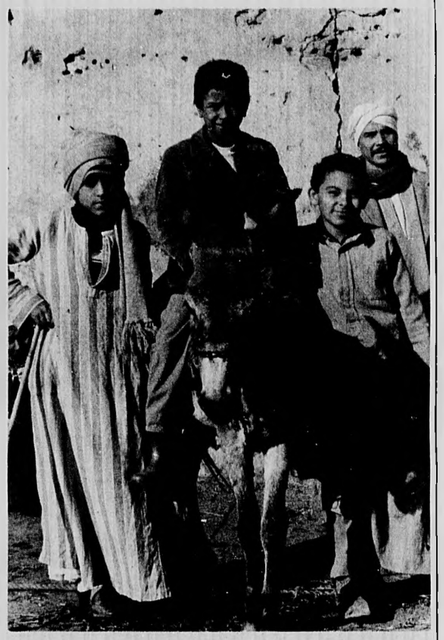
What To Visit



Lost In The Camel Market

A Neophyte's Visit To Egypt

Story and Photos
By William B. Haynes



Nostrils flaring, eyes like fireballs, a herd of escaped camels bounded towards me.

Three dark-skinned men in flowing white gellabeas wielded short whips and chased them across the dirt road, through the chickens and ducks who scattered, terrified, and complaining noisily. The chase continued around donkey carts, and by stalls of used clothes.

And again, the misshaped missiles hurled towards me. I was terrified. Scared to death by the size of these charging beasts, and the overwhelming strangeness of the locality. Having never seen a camel outside the confines of Brooklyn Zoo, and having only arrived in Cairo a few days earlier, I knew not what to do next.

My legs acted before I had time to think, and a moment later, I found myself straddling the top of a high cement wall, watching the camels stampede by in a cloud of sand and grit.

A group of shop-keepers exploded in laughter, hurling insults and advice at the silly American.

A citizen of great, proud, and powerful land rendered helpless by a minor camel stampede. "Welcome to Egypt"! they sang out in their characteristic good natured mockery, and offered me a glass of mint tea as I cautiously descended.

I had arrived at the camel market at Imbaba. Located in the northwestern section of Cairo, Egypt, Imbaba is a fairly new, yet poor and rapidly disintegrating district of tenement buildings, small shops, and flooded roads.

It is about a twenty minute taxi drive from downtown Cairo.

As we bumped through the pot-hole-gutted streets, and swerved around huge bodies of water at 6:30 in the morning, the taxi driver asked "You tourist, why Imbaba? Imbaba not clean! I said "camel" and he suspiciously drove on.

Just past the Imbaba airport, we slowed to a crawling pace behind a parade of jalopies going to market. Donkeys pulled wagons laden with alfalfa, and chickens in cages.

Men with their heads covered with turbans, flew by on their motorcycles and sidecars. Their long robes flowed behind them, my out of place image reflected momentarily in their sun glasses.

Men sat at open cafes drinking mint tea and smoking honey-dipped tobacco through huge, brass water pipes. Fat women dressed in long, black, Muslim robes balanced groceries in their heads. The ever-present children greeted me as I left the taxi and joined the motley parade.

The Imbabe Camel Market takes place every Friday morning from 7 to 10 a.m.

I paid my 50 cents and walked through the gate just as it was opening.

I was immediately surrounded by horse blankets, saddles, halters, fatigues, and old great-coats for sale.

There were rows of cast bronze hands that could be attached to a horse's halter to diver the evil eye - jealousy, and assist the driver in avoiding accidents.

I strolled past the sheep vendors, the goat dealers, the donkey hawkers, the break peddlers, and the man frying kabobs. I stopped at the tea and smoking site, filled with conversation.

Here, 10 cents would buy a glass of tea, tobacco, and the use of a narghile, or water pipe.

Fifteen minutes later, coughing and a bit dizzy, I stumbled past a man flaying a goat, before finally reaching my original destination and purpose for this reckless exploit — The Camels.

Camels are haughty looking creatures. Their ears are almost always back, their long noses are carried aloft in an air of disdain, their gain is cynical, their half shut eyes are bored.

They look as if they believe God must have made a mistake by putting such a dignified beast as themselves in the awkward, lumpy costume of a dromedary.

Their country club aplomb seems to have been made cynical by centuries of drudgery.

As "ships of the desert" they carried jewels, silk, and ivory from east to west on the many caravan routes criss-crossing the Middle East. Even today, they are valued for their carrying capacity, durability, and hide, hair and meat.

They have found a place in the tourist industry as well. On any jaunt to the Pyramids, one can see various hucksters employing camels as economic tools.

They offer as unsuspecting tourist a seat aboard the nobel beast for free, letting the hapless visitor perch royally, high atop this magnificent animal. But, as photos are snapped by the family far below, the hucksters insist on a $10 dismountal fee.

Camels are treated roughly. Any look into their soulful eyes will tell you so.

They have an expression of mild annoyance at those irritating humans far below their long necks and seven foot shoulders who whack them with sticks, feel their legs, open their mouths, and yell at one another as they hurriedly exchange wads of old bills.

Men make the camels stand up one moment, only to order them to kneel down the next.

Occasionally, when provoked too much, camels will put aside their polished demeanor and kick or spit upon the heads of the men harassing them.

It has been said that the camel looks like "a horse planned by a committee." An apt description for such a haphazard looking creature.

With long gangly legs, wide two-toed feet that seem to sink into the sand as he walks, with a large ungainly hamp, a long neck, and bedroom eyes, the camel is an enigma in the animal kingdom.

Yet, the camel ignores the jibes at this physical make-up. Because the very characteristics that render him a comical figure, are just those that allow him to survive.

Each one of his apalling appendages is actually a highly developed evolutionary adaptation to a brutal desert environment.

The eccentric-looking feet allow the camel to walk easily on sand. The sleepy eyes are actually quite keen, and are protected from the sandy wind by double rows of eye lashes.

The humps store fat which they can draw from on long treks across the dresert. They can go without eating or drinking for days at a time, and a quick stop at an oasis can fill them with water in a 10-minute chug.

Hence, this comical looking creature copes beautifully in the sandy, arid, blistering hot and windy surroundings that are his home.

The men howled and the camels roared. Feet stomped the ground, and arms flailed in this primevil dance. Huddled in groups of five to 75, the camels stood or kneeled, stomped and reeled, side by side.

There were camels everywhere. One thousand to 3,000 camels carry out the rituals of daily life every Friday within the dusty confines of the open air market.

They arrive by truck every Friday morning as the sun rises over Cairo, on the vast leg of their long journey north from Sudan. The camels are driven in herds across Sudan for forty days, until they cross Lake Nasser which lies below the Aswan Dam and divides Egypt and Sudan. Then they board trucks in Upper Egypt, at Aswan, and drive a day along the lush banks of the Nile to Cairo.

Sadik Ali Ahmed has worked at the market for 42 years. Now his son, Mohamed, and grandson, Mubarek, assist him.

Sadik sells his best camels for 1000 Egyptian Pounds (about 750 U.S. dollars), his middle range camels sell for 500 Egyptian Pounds and the old and inform, and the baby camels can be bought for 250 Egyptian Pounds.

Sadik graciously offered me mint tea and a seat on his bench in the shade. While we were talking, and gesturing, and sipping tea, Sadik received two wads of bills from his smiling offspring. He patiently counted the money and then softly declared that he had sold two good camels.

The North African sun was climbing higher in the sky and the market was near closing. It had been a successful day. Sadik would tend to his camels until next Friday and then hope to do it again.

"Ma' salamah" (Go in Peace) we said to one another, and I left the camel market and the sand and the dusk, and hailed a cab back into downtown Cairo.

Later in the year I returned to the tumult of the camel market, to Sadik and his family, and shared some mint tea. The overwhelming strangeness of that first visit was gone, but the hospitality and the magic remained.

Clockwise, from top left: A prospective buyer examines a camel; buyers listen attentively as an owner elaborates on his camel's attributes; young men at the camel market; an entrepeneur fries kabobs; a pair of camel traders relax with a glass of mint tea and a water pipe; Sadik Ali Ahmed watches oveer his herd; a camel expresses his opinion of the sales.

Magic And Mirth Make The Season!

Doubles Is Doubly Funny

Review —

When in the Big Apple, take in a set of "Doubles," a funny, funny play by David Wiltse, at Broadway's Ritz Theatre. Masterfully directed with baseline accuracy by Morton DaCosta, glib dialogue flies across the net as fast as balls bouncing off John MacEnroe's racquet. Wonderful performances by Cliff Gorman, Keir Dullea, Charles Repole and Robert Reed complete the fun.

Doubles revolves around four married men who meet each Tuesday night for their weekly game of tennis.

As they disrobe and dress in the locker room of the public facility, they indulge in harmless horseplay and inoffensive, typically male conversation ranging from male friendships and male mid-life crisis to love and divorce, loneliness and extra-marital sex.

But the play's content is far from shallow and the title refers not only to the game of tennis but also to the two faces worn by every individual — the front put on for general consumption, and the other self we rarely expose because it hurts too much.

Lennie (Cliff Gorman) is a forceful, aggressive 41-year-old overgrown prankster who enjoys roasting his partners in the locker room but is driven to win at all costs, including cheating, on the courts.

An authority on superfluous trivia and often overbearing, he is totally unaware of his own failings.

His father-in-law owns a chain of grocery stories and Lenny manages one of them for a living.

George (Robert Reed) is a prosperous stockbroker and a frustrated lyricist who lives far beyond his not insignificant means.

Arnie (Charles Repole), a quiet, softspoken nebbish, is an "ambulance chasing" lawyer.

Together with Henry, who does not appear, the foursome, all of the Jewish faith, are comfortable with each other.

However, when Henry drops out and sends WASPish Unitarian Guy (Keir Dullea), a writer for Tennis Magazine, in his stead, the dialogue dissipates.

Lennie zeros in on Guy, forces him to remove his gear from the locker room bench, rouses Guy's ire by smoking foul-smelling cigars, and goads Guy by demeaning "shicksas" and their limited sexual acitvity.

Lennie insists on betting on the matches, while Guy desires to play an "honorable" game, frowning on money changing hands and lauding the social aspects of the game.

As the weeks pass, tensions lessen, defenses drop, and a camaraderie grows between the four.

Three have crucial marital problems.

The brothers of Joyce, Lennie's wife, have the better stores. He spends six hours commuting to and from work daily. Now, he has accidently broken Joyce s nose.

The SEC is investigating George's firm, and he has spent "years of avoidance" with his insufferable wife Danielle, who makes excessive financial demands. Still, he maintains a sense of humor.

Arnie's actions are dictated by instincts while Guy, an atheist, places highest priority on values and counsels that "marriage is one friendship you can count on!"

One proves to be a closet adulterer. One suffers a heart attack. One faces financial ruin.

And the fourth falls to pieces when his wife consents "to renew their marriage for another 12-month option."

Doubles is a honey of a game . . . all the way!

Doug Henning Returns To Hub

Doug Henning, illusionist extrodinaire, makes his second Hub appearance in three months when he presents "The Return of Doug Henning And His World of Magic" at the Colonial Theatre Saturday, Dec. 28, through Jan. 5.

Curtain for all evening performances is 7:30 p.m. and there are 2 p.m. matinees daily, except for Jan. 3, at which children 12 and under are admitted for half price. No show is given on Jan. 1.

Henning is a master showman who dazzles his audiences with prestidigitation of mamouth proportions and his show, truly an extravaganza, has appeal for young and old alike.

The two-hour offering is slick and smooth and expertly paced, enhanced no little by a number of handsome props and splashy costumes.

Henning, who is most engaging with his pleasant, casual manner and youthful charm, has virtually transformed magic into a theatrical art.

This modern-day Merlin conjures up a grab-bag of surprises: troupe members disappear and reappear, oversized playing cards float around the stage, handkerchiefs bounce and fly hither and yon, cast members levitate in space, two women are sawed in half and, when rejoined, their lower halves are interchanged. Best of all Henning sits astride a motorcycle in an open wagon suspended above the floor.

When the bottom of the wagon drops down, Henning and the cycle disappear, only to reappear in a closed van on the opposite side of the stage!

Henning's world of wonders opens as he ignites a screen with fire and an exotic female surfaces in an acrylic cube.

Moments later she vanishes in a burning box and in her stead a second female emerges. The latter enters a cage, which is then draped, and when the covering is removed, a huge black panther is in her place.

He turns a rose petal into an egg, the egg into a live bird, and the bird into a piece of cloth. He exhibits three large brass rings which are later discovered strung together inside a large loaf of bread.

And, as a first act finale, utilizing a wild Rube Goldberg-like set, he manages to escape from a sealed-tight sack just before a huge boulder crashes down upon his head.

As the audience views on giant TV screens, he performs legendary sleight of hand.

In this potpourri, everything from a monkey to a 450-pound tiger amazingly emerge, characters inexplicably exchange places in sealed boxes, and crop up moments later with complete costume changes. Silver balls float in space and move at Henning's command and lovely ladies rise in suspended animation.

He makes believers out of the most apprehensive.

Tickets are available at the Colonial box office at 106 Boylston st open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 426-9366.

Opera Company Starts New Year

The Opera Company of Boston under the artistic direction of Sarah Caldwell, opens the 1986 season with its production of Puccini's

Stephen James House:
A Success Story Continues

The Stephen James House is proud to announce the opening of three new establishments — on the North Shore, the South Shore and in Florida.

On the North Shore, there's Stephen James Middleton, located at the junction of Routes 114 and 62 in Middleton. This new facility features a fine food restaurant, cocktail lounge, function halls, and parking for 400 cars.

On the South Shore, we've opened The Cove on Route 3A in Hingham. Solely a function facility, the hall holds 240 people and has parking for 200 cars.

In Florida, we will soon be opening The Quarterdeck Restaurant in Naples. This new restaurant will feature not only indoor dining, but dining on a beautiful outdoor patio as well.

We want to assure all of our local clientele that our tradition of fine dining and entertainment will continue at our Cambridge-Somerville site as it has for the past 2o years.

Wishing You and Yours Happy Holidays

What's On The Boards By Dann Kosow

From top: Charles Repole is playfully taunted by fellow tennis partners Cliff Gorman, Keir Dullea and Robert Reed in the new hit by David Wiltse, Doubles, now at The Ritz Theatre; Doug Henning's World of Magic comes to Boston's Colonial Theatre for a limited engagement from Saturday, Dec. 28 through Sunday, Jan. 5.

Turandot starring soprano Eva Marton in the title role and Hungarian tenor Janos Nagy as Calaf.

The cast includes soprano Sarah Reese as Liu and bass Spiro Malas as Timur.

To be sung in Italian Monday, Jan. 20 and Thursday, Jan. 23 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Jan. 26, at 3 p.m., Turandot is conducted and directed by Miss Caldwell, with sets by Ming Cho Lee.

The costumes are designed and constructed by members of the Central Opera Theatre of Beijing. Lighting for the opera, and the balance of the series, is created by Graham Walne.

Once again, special choreography for Turandot is performed by Yao Li's Kung Fu Academy of Boston.

Peter Maxwell Davies' Taverner has its United States premiere, conducted and directed by Miss Caldwell, Sunday, March 9, at 3 p.m., with additional performances on Wednesday, March 12 and Friday, March 14 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, March 16, at 3 p.m.

Tenor John Moulson sings the title role, with mezzo-soprano RoseMarie Freni as Rose Parrowe, counter tenor Jeffrey Gall as the Priest-Confessor, baritone Alan Oke as the Jester/Death, and baritone Raimund Herincx as the White Abbot.

David Sharir designed the sets and the costumes are executed by Carrie Robbins.

The opera, to be sung in English, concerns events in the life of Tudor composer John Taverner (c. 1490-1545), and has a libretto by Mr. Davies.

The Boston premiere of Leos Janacek's The Makropulos Case, sung in English, is presented Sunday, May 11, at 3 p.m., Friday, May 16, at 8 p.m., Sunday, May 18, at 3 p.m., and Tuesday, May 20, at 8 p.m.

Soprano Anja Silja stars as Emilia Marty.

The cast includes mezzo-soprano Cynthia Clarey as Krista, tenor William Cochrane as Gregor, baritone Jake Gardner as Kolenaty, and baritone Chester Ludgin as Prus.

Luigi Cherubini's Medea is presented in French on Wednesday, June 4, at 8 p.m., Sunday, June 8, at 3 p.m., and Wednesday, June 11, at 8 p.m. in a new production conducted and directed by Miss Caldwell and starring soprano Shirley Verrett in the title role.

Soprano Jeanne Ommerle appears as Glauce and mezzo-soprano Hilda Harris performs the role of Neris.

For information regarding the subscription series, call 426-5300 or write The Opera Company of Boston, 539 Washington st., Boston, Mass. 02111.

Dance Series Offered At Wang

The Boston Phoenix, the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, and the Wang Celebrity Series offer a dance subscription series featuring three world-renowned dance companies during the 1985-86 season.

All performances take place at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

The series opens with four performances of Sadler's Wells Royal Ballet, Jan. 30 through Feb. 2.

Peter Wright's spectacular new production of Tchaikovsky's romantic classic, "Sleeping Beauty," performs at all performances.

On its first American tour, the Central Ballet of China makes its Boston debut Feb. 27 through March 2. The national ballet of the People's Republic of China, the company draws upon its repertory which features traditional classics as well as Chinese ballets reflecting the country's heritage and folklore.

The universally popular Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater returns for its annual week-long engagement, giving seven performances April 8 through 13.

Subscribers to the series will save 25 percent off regular prices, and receive priority seating. For a detailed brochure, write the offices of the Wang Celebrity Series, 31 St. James ave., Boston, Mass 02116, or call 482-2595.

Trinity Adds Plays To Season

Artistic Director Adrian Hall announced that the Trinity Repertory Company has added Arthur Miller's The Crucible and Keith Reddin's Life and Limb to this season's schedule.

The Crucible begins in the Upstairs Theatre on Friday, Jan. 24 and continues through Feb. 23.

Life and Limb opens in the Downstairs Theatre on Friday, Feb. 7 and runs through March 30.

Both plays are fitting additions to Trinity Rep's 22nd season, Americana Revisited, a fresh look at American classics and new plays.

Miller's "The Crucible" was first performed in 1953 and is considered a classic of world theatre. It has been performed more often around the world than any other of Miller's plays.

Life and Limb is by the young American Playwright Keith Reddin. It was first performed in May, 1984, and is the author's first full-length play.

The Crucible, for which Miller received the Tony award, is a strikingly dramatic play set in Salem, Mass. during the witch hunt and trials of 1692.

It is a play of great strength and emotional power, and with its themes of suspicion, persecution, and personal sacrifice, The Crucible was taken as a parable against McCarthyism.

But "The Crucible" holds a larger relevance for all, and Trinity Rep's production promises to explore the play's drama and urgency.

Reddin's new play, of stunning imagination, is about a Korean War veteran who returns home to find that life is not the same for him.

The play is comic in spirit, though, and in many respects takes off on the genial atmosphere of Jimmy Stewart's It's A Wonderful Life.

Yet Reddin's sensibility slips back and forth between outright comedy and a darker, more subtle kind of humor. Reddin has been called a promising young actor — he is most definitely a playwright about whom American audiences will hear much more.

Performances at Trinity Rep, located at 201 Washington st., Providence, are at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 2 and 7 p.m. on Sunday, and at 2 p.m. on selected Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

For reservations, call the box office at (401) 351-4242. Discounts up to 50 percent are available for groups of twenty or more. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children offers a national clearinghouse of information about the problem of missing and exploited children. Through the Center, information is collected, compiled, exchanged, and disseminated. Anyone seeking information or wishing to contribute information about the problem should write to the following address:
National Center for Missing and Exploited Children
1835 K Street, N.W., Suite 700
Washington, D.C. 20006

The Center maintains a toll-free number for the use of individuals who believe they have information that could lead to the location and recovery of a missing child. Because these calls literally can be a matter of life or death, we ask that the Hotline number be used by those individuals who have this critical information. If you know the location of a missing child, please call this number: 1-800-843-5678.

SERVICE TO BUYERS

Pres. Charles Agrillo

YOU CAN AFFORD THE BEST!

Are you the kind of person who watches where the dollars go? Most of us are. We shop carefully. We demand value for what we spend. We may buy unbranded goods if there's a worthwhile saving.

A careful shopper knows value. And a smart one knows when it pays to get top quality. That applies to investing in home improvements, or choosing a real estate agent to market your property. The happy fact is that you can afford to get the best.

Real estate experience and statistics show that homeowners who sell through a broker get considerably more for their property than those who try to handle the job themselves. The higher sales price more than compensates for the commission paid, especially when you consider the out-of-pocket saving in advertising costs and signs. Many people who try to sell by themselves waste just as much time as they save.

If you think about it, you can easily afford to have the best list your property with the winners at West Real[illegible] Auburn St. Watertown 926-5280.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself.

You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to overpricing frequently becomes a White Elephant. It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal. rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines and an 1,800 lb. full size 4-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 12 clay pigeons on a 3x8 cardboard backer at 10 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over, from Maine to Rhode Island to New York, but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Borgerson at 1-835-1102 for further information. 11 4/TF 1

Good News for the Weekend Mechanic

Audi 5000S Sedan

If you do your own repair work, do the job right with genuine Audi replacement parts. First of all, they fit, so if you take your Audi apart Saturday morning, you know the parts you bought will get you back on the road without another trip. Second, every part has a 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty. At Audi, we care as much about your car as you do.
